This opportunity lies in the generic environmental impact statement (GEIS) study funded by the Legislature. If done correctly, this study wouldn't just deal with how to restrict the kind of agriculture we don't want. A true GEIS would address the problems with factory farm lagoon leaks and hazardous odors while examining why we have come to rely on a system that produces such threats to environmental and human health in the first place.

For instance, what government, business and agribusiness policies push us toward consolidation and factory farms? In addition, a good study would compare the implications of having a countryside dominated by a few factory operations with one made up of many small and medium-sized independent family farms. It would then make recommendations on how our state can move ahead in the direction that benefits its citizens and communities most.

Creating a GEIS report that simply blames "old, out-of-date" facilities for our problems won't cut it. It should be noted that to date the largest manure-related fish kill in the state was caused by a massive spill from a "state-of-the-art" hog facility that was granted a permit by the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency. The facility was less than two years old at the time of the spill.

There are some exciting changes taking place in the sustainable production of pork, beef and milk. It would be a shame to waste this opportunity for examining the viability of promoting these innovations. Or example, in recent years thousands of farmers in Minnesota and across the Midwest have chosen to erect "hoop houses" instead of large confinement facilities. No wonder: Iowa State University estimates that a hoop house can be constructed for $50 per pig space as opposed to $160 per pig space for a confinement facility. The added benefit of these structures is that because they rely on the use of dry bedding and don't require multi-million gallon liquid manure storage structures, they are very environmentally friendly.

What can we do to promote more of these types of facilities? A GEIS should consider such a question.

This study must also recognize that hogs aren't the only animals that produce millions of gallons of liquid manure. Thousand-cow plus factory dairies have arrived in Minnesota. These, too, rely on large liquid manure storage systems. In California's Central Valley, where factory dairies predominate, the number of public water wells with nitrate levels above drinking water standards jumped four-fold between 1984 and 1996. These mega-milk producers are the main culprits, say health officials there.

It doesn't have to be this way. Dairying that relies on controlled, rotational grazing of grass and inexpensive housing is offering farm families a profitable and environmentally sound way to produce milk. A study conducted by the University of Minnesota's North Central Experiment Station in 1991 and 1992 found that the lower production costs of grass-based dairying made it quite competitive financially.

In fact, the station's grazing herd netted on average $48 per cow more than its confined counterpart. Between 1992 and 1994, the number of dairy operations in Wisconsin using controlled rotational grazing techniques increased 78 percent to nearly 4,000 farms, making them roughly 14 percent of all dairies there.

"If we weren't grazing, I wouldn't be dairying," Wisconsin dairy farmer Dan Vosberg told a journalist recently. "A friend of mine recently said dairy farming is like standing in line waiting to step off a cliff. I feel like we're not even in that line."

Hoop houses and grass-based dairying are part of a true mini-revolution in agriculture. But Minnesota is at risk of missing out, choosing instead to hitch its wagon to the corporate-controlled factory farm star.

Unless we take a truly comprehensive look at the entire meat and milk production industry, studies like this are doomed to arrive at a very unpalatable conclusion: livestock production can only survive when accompanied by big money, stiff regulations and a bevy of Band-Aid technologies. Such a conclusion may be easy to reach, but it's definitely not inevitable.

Written comments on the livestock GEIS study must be submitted by July 24. Send those comments to: GEIS on Animal Agriculture, Environmental Quality Board, 300 Centennial Building, 658 Cedar Street, St. Paul, MN 55155. Comments can be faxed to 612-296-3698. For a schedule of public meetings, call 612-297-1257.

Editor's Note: Thanks to Mark Schultz for his above comments. We would be interested in other opinions and comments on the GEIS and on the future of animal agriculture in Minnesota. Send them to The Times at P.O. Box 100, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. We look forward to hearing from you.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively, letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Six northwestern counties declared as disaster areas

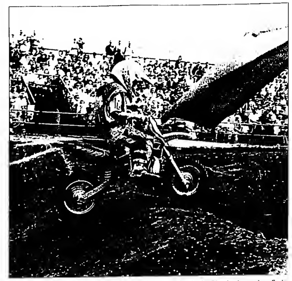
Six northwestern Minnesota counties have been declared disaster areas by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman as a result of heavy rains, flooding and crop disease which have combined to devastate crops. The declaration was requested by Gov. Arne Carlson.

Marshall county was named as a primary disaster area while Beltrami, Kittson, Pennington, Polk and Roseau counties qualified as contiguous disaster areas. The declaration makes farmers in the counties eligible for low-interest emergency farm loans from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

"Farmers in northwest Minnesota have suffered through several consecutive years of excessive rains which have flooded farm fields and drowned crops," noted Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture Gene Hugoson. "In addition, the wet conditions have encouraged the growth of the fungus responsible for wheat scab—a disease that attacks and ruins small grains commonly grown in northwest Minnesota."

Hugoson said the disaster declaration will bring much-needed financial help to farmers in northwestern Minnesota who are struggling with continuing wheat scab problems and another excessively wet growing season.

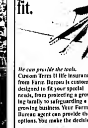
"This USDA assistance, combined with the $8.8 million in loans authorized during this past state legislative session, will take some of the immediate pressure off farmers in these counties," Hugoson added. "However, we recognize that real relief will come only when the weather conditions improve and we find new tools to fight wheat scab."



Farmers in all six counties have eight months to apply for the low-interest loans, which may be used to help cover part of their losses. To be eligible, producers must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of normal production in a single enterprise, be able to repay the loan and any other loans, be unable to obtain credit elsewhere and have adequate security.

For more information, farmers may contact their local Farm Service Agency office.

Nordby named East Marshall service officer



Roy Nordby of Grygla has been named by the Marshall county board of commissioners as Veterans Service Officer for Eastern Marshall county.

Nordby will succeed Edward Johnson who has retired. The new officer will be available at 218-294-6122 or at Post Office Box 13 in Grygla, according to Roy G. Swanson, county auditor-treasurer.

Young Luke Parreault of East Grand Forks, was one of the participants in the Motocross event held at the 1998 Pennington County Fair. Luke finished first in the 50cc beginner class finals, which was held for children ages 4-7. A very large crowd was on hand for the event.

Changes made in Highway 2 near Cass Lake

Eastbound lanes on Highway 2 from Midge Lake to Cass Lake are expected to be opened to traffic Monday afternoon, July 20, according to the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) office in Bemidji. The change-over is dependent on the weather.

Milling of the westbound lanes from Cass Lake to Hubbard County Road 101 will begin on Tuesday, July 21, and motorists are asked to be alert to flagging operations. This process is expected to last approximately two weeks.

The old westbound lanes from Cass Lake to Hubbard County Road 101 will be milled and overlay applied in August.

Mn/DOT reminds drivers that anyone caught speeding through a work zone will be subject to a double fine under Minnesota law.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Otters, Lakers fill posts

Fergus Falls and Detroit Lakes have filled their head high school football coaching positions created with the resignations this spring of Don Stueve and Rick Manke.

Succeeding Stueve at Fergus Falls will be Phil Link, who has been the head football coach at Underwood the past seven seasons, while also coaching boys swimming and baseball at Fergus Falls. A former Fergus Falls assistant football coach, Link will remain as the Otters' baseball coach, but will give up the swimming position.

Stueve coached the Otters for 31 years.

Flint Motschenbacher, who has been an assistant coach with the highly successful Detroit Lakes football program since 1985, will take over for Manke.

Motschenbacher also has 14 years of experience as an American Legion baseball coach at Audubon and, since 1993, at Detroit Lakes.

The Otters and Lakers are Thief River Falls football rivals in Section 8AAAA.

Erica McGeery

Kristin Halvorson

Three 1998 northern Minnesota high school graduates have signed letters of intent to play volleyball at Northland Community and Technical College this fall. The trio includes Erica McGeery of Thief River Falls, Kristin Halvorson of Goodridge and Jamie Schwartz of Silver Bay. They will play for recently-named Pioneers head coach Mike Zachow.

TRF summer swim club competes in two meets

Thief River Falls Tigersharks summer swim club members competed in the Crookston Firecracker Classic June 26 and the Roseau Invitational July 9.

Some 35 boys and girls ranging from six-year-olds to high school age participate in the program headed by coach John Vukmanich.

The Tigersharks host the Thief River Falls Invitational and will swim in the Island Park Invitational at Fargo to close out the regular season schedule. Thief River Falls swimmers will compete in the North Dakota U.S.S. state meet July 31-Aug. 2 at Jamestown.

Parks and Recreation Tennis Carnival to be held Tuesday, July 21

Thief River Falls Parks and Recreation Tennis Carnival will be held Tuesday, July 21, at Engelstad Park.

The free program includes sessions for ages 10-under from 12-noon to 2 p.m. and for ages 11-over from 2 to 4 p.m.

Participants should bring their own tennis racket, although rackets will be provided to those who don't have one.

Games, face painting, ball painting and prizes will be part of the program.

Tucker Hibbert of Goodridge was often in the front of the pack in the Motocross event held during the 1998 Pennington County Fair. Hibbert thrilled the crowd with his high-flying, dare devil performances, and won several awards including: first in the 80cc advanced finals, first in the 125cc advanced finals, third in the 250cc advanced finals, first in the open class finals, and second in the Dash for Cash 2 event. In the picture, Hibbert is being followed by Aaron Lendobeja of Thief River Falls.

There were some striking differences as well. Instead of, for example, only some of the riders getting lots of air as in sno-cross, it seemed motocross racers spent most of their time in the air, riding what seemed to be motorized pogo sticks. Compared to what residents have been exposed to during the last two weeks, there was a slight chill in the air, but not sub-zero temperatures.

This year, the Falls Moto Club lined up several sponsors including Black Cat Sports Bar and Grill, Petro Pumper, Genereux Realty, North Star Racing Series, North Woods Beverage, Yamaha of Grand Forks, Christian Motors, and ACE Hardware.

Hallstrom said race organizers are already beginning to plan for next year.

Jerry Erickson, race organizer, hinted that they might be planning to create a racing circuit that would result in races at several county fairs.

Erickson also said he was very pleased with the event. He said that initially he was concerned that not many racers would participate in the event because it was being held in the middle week. On race day, however, over 90 racers from all over the region, including Canada, participated in the event.

Elks to sponsor teen dances for area young folks

Responding to the complaint that area young people have nothing to do, the Elks Lodge in Thief River Falls is beginning a schedule of teen dances for persons ages 15-20 on July 21 and continuing each Tuesday through July and August.

The teen dances at the Elks club rooms will take place from 8 p.m. to midnight and will be smoke-free and alcohol and drug free, according to manager Steve Stone. The bar will close at 7 p.m., all liquor products locked away and ash trays removed.

Admission will be $5 per person and music for the first dance July 21 will be provided by the local band Fluorescent Black. Soft drinks and snacks will be sold. Elks volunteers will staff the dances and a uniformed police officer will be in attendance.

Young people purchasing admission will be stamped and permitted to leave and return during the evening. Attendants will be stationed at the door to check for compliance with the no drinking rule and curtail improper behavior.

"Our goal is to provide a safe and healthy atmosphere for young people to go in an evening and have fun," Stone said. "Admission is not restricted to Thief River Falls young people and those from throughout the area are invited to join in the activity."

MECC Joint Powers board meets July 22

to a select few. He also questioned why it should be opened to category I employees, who haven't gone through the interview process.

Vice Mayor Jean Heinrichs explained that it was a special and unique situation. The recommendation was not intended to set a precedent.

The council eventually approved the recommendation noting that it was a situation unique to the liquor store.

In other business, the council: approved a request to annex property in Bakken's First Addition, Gilbert Industrial Park, and a piece of property along Nelson Drive; approved a change order allowing for an airport fuel farm project to proceed; appointed Teresa Mattison to fill the patrol officer vacancy created by the resignation of Dave Schneider; approved advertising for a category II part-time patrol officer to replace Teresa Mattison; approved a salary progression raise for James Anderson, apprentice lineworker; approved a salary progression raise for Les Cota, power plant operation; advertised for bid for a jet A mobile aircraft refueler to be opened at 11 a.m. on July 30; approved a salary progression raise for Matthew Reberg, category II public works maintenance-airport employee, and an application to have been in Oakland Park July 26 from noon until dark for David Spray.

THE LYON'S SHARE

Tim Lyon

Us vs. Them

Hop aboard any serious fishing boat on Lake of the Woods and inventory the technology around you. It's almost staggering what's being applied to the process of bringing a couple of fish home for dinner.

If Andy Griffith had to carry that much stuff down to the pond each week, the opening for his show might have contained images of a 10-year-old administering CPR to his dad rather than a red-headed youth casually skipping stones across the water.

And while some of it may seem like overkill, each piece of equipment serves a very specific and very effective purpose in putting fish in the boat. Yet, in light of this spring's somewhat landmark decision by the Minnesota State Legislature to wrest underwater video cameras rom the hands of the fishing public, I have to wonder if we should go any further. Have we reached the point where innovation has tilted the odds unfairly to our advantage?

Realize first that you're not reading from an objective source here. Technology has served me well in my time on the water and I appreciate it. From the earliest flashers to today's high-resolution, multi-colored units betraying the obvious existence of flashing fishy forms below, I've worshipped every one.

The detail of heat-sensored mapping allows me to identify even the most secretly held mystery humps of the seventies. The gradual refinements from LORAN to GPS allow me to pinpoint those humps two days in a row or chronicle the movement of fish off of them.

Bigger, faster boats make distant hot-spots or marginal weather much less of a daily concern. Improvements in marine hand communication make your honey hole our honey hole.

And downriggers transformed the poles that used to be liabilities into rods as productive as any other aboard. I like the developments of the last two decades. You can drag me back into the dark ages of cane pole fishing, but there'll be two long sets of fingernail marks across the deck of my big white launch confirming my unhappiness.

Yes, the technology is moving quickly. Too quickly? No. Perhaps it is the fisherman's ability to understand and control that technology that is moving too slowly. Consider the dilemma of television. Upon its arrival in the forties, TV was touted as the educational tool of the future. Today we desperately seek to reduce the 19,000 addicted hours our children spend in front of the "boob tube" before their high school graduation.

Yet, ironically, it is in the midst of this cultural rebellion against TV that we are just realizing the value of its medium. The educational, interactive plans for the beginnings of the next century actually hold some real promise.

Just like a first grader needs to understand why 2+2=4 before he accidentally discovers it on a parent's calculator, today's fishermen need to understand how and why to use technology before it succeeds in using them. If we spend millions of dollars annually on these new fishing aids, we have to be willing to spend, publicly or privately, comparable sums learning how to best apply these tools.

Education, realistically, is the only answer. The most basic tenets of our sport need to be lived rather than just pondered. Trendy phrases like "catch and release" must become as much a part of our daily vocabulary as "tackle box" or "bait." Without a clear view of where we expect to go with such notions, they become merely rhetoric, lacking any real substance.

Did the Minnesota State Legislature act wisely in banning the underwater cameras? If the intent was to put a choke-hold on the inevitable progression of technology, the answer is "no." That would be a futile gesture at best.

If, however, the idea was to give the fishing world a chance to stand back and reflect before leaping in, the answer is "absolutely!"

Are the advancements of technology tilting the odds against the fish? Probably, although Darwin would argue that they'll find a way to tilt it back. In any case, as one guest so neatly put it, "We need an advantage, the fish are better at this than we are. They're fish all the time, and we're only fishermen for a couple of weekends a year."

FARM SERVICE AGENCY
Farm For Sale

270 Acre farm located near Goodridge in Sections 8, 29 & 30 of Espelie Township, Marshall County. This farm includes 196 tillable acres. This property is priced to sell at $58,000. The property includes 78.27 acres that are subject to a conservation easement.

This property is being offered for sale to those individuals who are considered to be qualified beginning farmers or ranchers by FSA. Qualified beginning farmers or ranchers must be in need of direct FSA financing, an FSA guaranteed loan or a participation loan. For other requirements and information on how to qualify as a beginning farmer or rancher, you may contact your local FSA office.

The purchaser may be required to comply with the conditions of a Natural Resources Conservation Service conservation plan. The property may also contain wetlands that are not protected with a conservation easement that will be subject to other environmental laws such as Section 404 of the Clean Water Act and highly erodible land and wetland provisions of the Federal Agricultural Improvement and Reform Act of 1996.

Financing may be available subject to the availability of funds. If financing is not available at the time of sale, the selected applicant will be given the opportunity to lease the property for up to 18 months or until such time the agency funds become available, whichever comes first.

Applications may be obtained at the FSA office in Thief River Falls and must be completed and received by August 14, 1998. The Government reserves the right to cancel the sale at anytime and the right to reject any or all applications.

For additional information, contact FSA at 201 Sherwood Avenue S., Thief River Falls, MN 56701, or at (218) 681-1612.

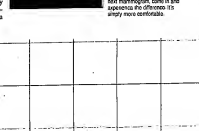
A Breakthrough in Mammography: "I Can't Believe How Comfortable It Was!"

Comfortable mammograms? To most women, that sounds like an oxymoron - a statement that contradicts itself. But with a brand new machine called the Alpha I.Q., an uncomfortable mammogram is a thing of the past. "When I had my last mammogram done on the Alpha IQ machine, I couldn't believe it. It was so much more comfortable, not to mention quicker," boasts one satisfied patient.

The Alpha I.Q. is the first mammogram machine designed by women, for women. And, Northwest Medical Center is the only facility in the area to have it. "This is the newest innovation in mammography," says Orvel Stocks, chief of the Radiology Department at NWMC.

"It features the Ecklund Compression system, which offers much more comfort for the patient. It minimizes the need to stretch the breast into awkward positions and increases the amount of tissue on the radiograph, which gives a better picture. This equipment has a different style of compression that is much more comfortable for the patients and gives us a much better view of more tissue. There also should be less radiation exposure for the patient because of fewer repeats."

Although the Alpha I.Q. was expensive, the hospital board approved the purchase, in keeping with their mission of providing the highest quality patient care. "The Alpha I.Q. not only does the highest quality radiographs, it's also patient-friendly and staff friendly," Stocks says. "That means a better experience for everyone."



The area's best equipment is only one reason to schedule your mammogram with NWMC, however. Stocks explains: "Our staff has many years of combined experience, and we have a nationally registered mammography technologist to head up the department, Cathy Loe."

Loe is similarly proud of NWMC's mammography staff. "We've been doing these exams for 30 years - it's not something new for us," she says. Their experience paid off when they started their search for new equipment. They rejected so called "state-of-the-art" machines that didn't use the Ecklund compression system and weren't as well designed. The Alpha I.Q. leaves the technologist's hands free, as it is operated by foot controls. That makes it easier for the technologist to position the patient correctly the first time. But the Northwest Medical techs didn't rely on hearsay or product literature. They went over to see the Alpha I.Q. in operation at the Altru hospital radiology department. "The Altru techs sold us on the machine," says Loe. "They said it was quicker and easier."

Any patient may have her mammogram on the Alpha I.Q. machine. To schedule a mammogram, patients must schedule an appointment through their doctor, since "there is more to breast care than just mammography," says Dr. Judith Campbell. "There's also breast self-examination and clinical examination and risk factors to consider."

All Altru Clinic doctors will be scheduling mammograms using NWMC's Alpha I.Q. machine. Dakota Clinic patients may access the new equipment by asking for a referral to the NWMC mammography department. "Ask for it by name - the Alpha I.Q." says Stocks. "Nothing else is as comfortable."

For more information, call the NWMC Radiology Department at: (218) 681-4240.

Emergency Room Coverage Expands, Improves

When you're in need of emergency room services, you want to know that you'll be seen quickly and expertly, regardless of the time of day or the day of the week. That's why Northwest Medical Center is expanding its emergency medical services now.

"As a service to the community and as a service to the medical staff, we are going to provide additional dedicated emergency room coverage," explains Dick Spyhalski, CEO of NWMC. "With the Dakota Clinic doctors moving off campus, the NWMC Board of Directors felt we had to have physicians on duty in the emergency room during peak times, which not only includes weekends, but week nights."

The new emergency room physicians will come from Lakes/NES (National Emergency Services), a contract service created by Dr Lowell Mickelson, who at one time worked at the Grand Forks Clinic and later moved to Detroit Lakes. Several of the Lakes/NES physicians have dedicated their practice to emergency room services. Others are medical residents or physicians who have a traditional practice in other communities but also have a special interest in emergency services.

According to Spyhalski, patients will realize two key benefits from the new emergency room arrangement. "The physicians who provide this new contract service are independent of both the Dakota Clinic and the new Altru Clinic," he explains. "They have no specific loyalty to either clinic, and will leave it to the patient to choose a physician with whom to follow up after an emergency room visit. If the patient needs further care that's not available in the community, then the patient will be able to decide where he or she wants to go, either to Grand Forks, Fargo, Rochester, or wherever.

"NWMC is committed to putting the patient's best interests and preferences first. With independent ER physicians, there should be no 'brand loyalty' to any clinic. The only loyalty should be to the patient," Spyhalski says.

The expanded service has another benefit for patients, too: "Expanding dedicated physician coverage for the ER will also reduce patient waiting time," Spyhalski says. "Right now, physicians generally take call from home. With the additional expanded coverage, an ER physician will be physically on the premises and ready for action most of the time."

NWMC's emergency room treats almost 5000 patients a year. Nearly 80% of these visits take place on weekends, week nights and holidays. That still leaves close to 1000 visits to be handled during the week, between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

"When the clinics are open, we encourage patients to go directly to their own clinic rather than come to the emergency room if their condition is not life-threatening," says Spyhalski. If there's a question about where to go, Spyhalski recommends that patients contact the emergency room first for guidance. "Patients are always welcome to call the hospital emergency room to talk with an experienced registered nurse who can help determine whether emergency room care is necessary," he says. "But if you feel strongly that you need to come to the emergency room, by all means, just come."

Spyhalski notes that although waiting times in the ER will decline, emergency room patients are always prioritized according to how urgently they require care. "Emergency rooms aren't like bakeries, where you take a number and when your number comes up, it's your turn," he says. "Obviously, if you're suffering from cardiac arrest or you're bleeding profusely, you'll be given a higher priority than someone who doesn't have a life-threatening problem."

"Our goal as an organization is to provide emergency patients with as much of the needed care as we can locally," Spyhalski says. "If the patient requires care that is beyond NWMC's capabilities, then we will help the patient get care at another appropriate facility of the patient's choice.

"The employees of NWMC work as a team to give the best possible care to our patients," he says. "Nowhere is this better displayed than during a medical crisis.

"I'm reminded of the time when the ambulance was called out for a motor vehicle accident," Spyhalski says. "It was a one-car rollover involving four children. The ambulance reported that we had six patients. The father was reported to be in critical condition, but the four children were alert, two with more serious injuries, including possible internal injuries, and twa with minor bruises and bumps. The sixth patient was a large cat in a pet carrier.

"Our staff went into action. Immediately, the doctor on call and the ER nurse were alerted. Because of the nature of the accident, the x-ray department was alerted to have the CT Scanner and the x-ray room ready. The Intensive Care Unit was alerted. Medical/Surgical Pediatrics was ready for admissions. And our mental health nursing staff was ready to take care of the family's emotional needs."

More and more NWMC personnel joined the emergency care team. "The Head Nurse of Medical/Surgical Pediatrics, Pat Troskey, RN, ACLS and PALS certified, was called down to ER to help assess the children. The ICU Head Nurse, Florence Nelson, RN and ACLS certified, helped assess the father. The orderlies helped with lifting and stabilizing of possible fractures. Other ACLS-certified RNs, such as Sharon Jorde, Infection Control Nurse and Linda Wennberg, NWMC's Quality Improvement Coordinator and a House Supervisor, were standing by to help, if needed.

"There were a lot of people with very specialized training involved," says Spyhalski. "Each had a specific job, but they all warked together rapidly and efficiently to provide the right care at the right time and place for this family."

And what about the cat? "The cat was important to the family, so it was important to us, too," he says. "Our staff helped them make arrangements."

Summer Safety Secrets from the Emergency Room

Want to keep your family safe this summer? Here are ten secrets from the Emergency Room nurses at NWMC, gleaned from their years of experience with summer accidents and injury:

1) Get the proper shoes and equipment for what you're doing. This goes for both sports and projects around the house. For example, if you're biking, make sure your bike is in good repair and has safety gear, like reflectors and/or a rear seat flag in place. Wear a helmet. Buy the right size bike for your child's age and ability. If you're playing a sport like golf or tennis, make sure you have footwear that's appropriate to the game and that fits correctly. Check your clubs or racket to be sure they are in good repair.

For household projects like painting and roofing, always use ladders long enough and sturdy enough for the job you're doing. Have a spotter, if possible. If you're chopping wood, wear safety goggles to protect your eyes from flying woodchips. Use common sense for things like removing hornets' nests and other hazards. If it feels dangerous, get help from a professional. Make sure your lawnmower works properly. If it jams or fails, turn it off before attempting to check what's wrong. Keep little children indoors when you are mowing the grass.

2) Use a sunscreen of SPF 15-30 whenever you're outdoors. Cover all exposed skin, and reapply after swimming or excessive sweating. Also protect yourself from the sun by wearing loose, light-colored clothing, and by wearing a hat. If you must sunbathe or be outdoors for any length of time, mist your skin with water to keep it cool, and reapply sunscreen more often than you normally would.

3) Be a Buddy. Try to do everything in twos. Hike, swim, bike or play together. Ask for someone to help you with work projects. Two heads-and four hands-really are best in the summer, making it twice as easy to watch out for situations that could cause trouble. Also, if an accident does occur, having a buddy ensures there's always someone along to run for help.

4) Set rules and enforce them for sporting equipment. Set speed and safety limits on items like 3-wheelers and personal watercraft. Never allow a child to drive a vehicle too large for him/her to control. Insist that roller-bladers and bikers wear helmets and stick to safe, well-paved paths. Supervise the use of equipment like trampolines, pogo sticks, and bows and arrows.

5) Create your own first-aid kit and take it with you when you go camping. Include items that can take the itch out of a bug bite or decrease the allergic reaction after a bee sting. Put in bandages, a container of clean water and gauze to handle cuts and scrapes. Get something to soothe sun or wind burn. A painkiller like Tylenol or Advil is a good ideas, as is a stomach soother like Mylanta. Refill your prescription medications and carry them in their original containers, including the instructions on how to take them and any warnings they carry. Include items like a flashlight, soap, clean rags, a knife, waterproof fire starter, personal shelter, whistle, warm clothing, high-energy food, a compass and map, and both sun and insect protection. Also, include your doctor's phone number and your medical insurance policy number in case you are injured far from home.

6) Stay away from fireworks. They're illegal in Minnesota, anyway. But if someone you know is handling a gunpowder product, remind them to keep it away from all sources of gasoline. Never smoke when you are handling gunpowder, and watch out for things like dried leaves and other fire hazards.

7) Take precautions in tick-infested areas. Wear long pants and tuck the legs into your socks or shoes. Cover your arms and head. Use Deep Woods Off or another form of DEET liberally. Check yourself for ticks as soon as you can after leaving the area, and remove them with care.

8) Avoid swimming alone, past your ability, or in rough water. Use common sense and the buddy system to stay safe. Remember that little children should never be left unattended in a baby pool, even for a minute. Their heads are heavy, and babies have been known to drown in less than 1/2 inch of water.

9) Drink lots of water. Dehydration is a major health threat in the summer. Stay away from alcohol and caffeine on hot days, which can increase your susceptibility to heat-related strokes, dizziness, fever and more.

10) Get to safety during a storm. Go indoors, if possible. Stay away from the telephone and other indoor electronic equipment during an electrical storm. If you can't get indoors, lie down flat in a ditch or the lowest possible area if you see lightning. Stay in your car, if driving, since the rubber tires act to repel lightning. Stay off cell phones.

If you are injured, follow these rules:

1) For any kind of a cut, clean it with soap and water if possible, and then follow the ICE formula: Put Ice on the spot; Compress it (use direct pressure); Elevate the injury above your heart. Remember when you are compressing the injury not to use so much force that you lose circulation in your fingers or toes. Pack the injury with a compress, secure it with an Ace bandage or tape, and seek medical help as soon as possible, if necessary.

2) Never, ever put petroleum jelly or butter on a burn. Contrary to myth, it does nothing to soothe the burn and actually makes it harder to treat. Also, don't break blisters or put ice directly on the burn. Run cool water over the spot and seek medical attention.

3) Get the facts. The more you know, the faster a medical problem can be treated when you arrive in the emergency room or at the clinic. The doctor or nurse needs to know what happened and how it happened. Be prepared to answer questions like: Was there glass? Sawdust? What did you eat or drink? How long was the food unrefrigerated? Are you allergic to anything? Are you on any medication now? Ask your traveling companions these questions before you set out, just in case you need to know the answers and he or she is unable to speak for himself.

4) Seek medical help if you receive more than five bug bites of any kind. Even if you are not allergic to the sting, more than five bites carries the possibility of toxicity.

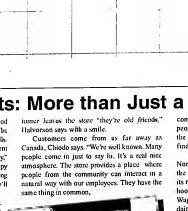
Northern Lights: More than Just a Bookstore

Where can you go when you want a good book and some pleasant conversation? The Northern Lights Bookstore in Thief River Falls. "The nicest thing about working at Northern Lights is that everybody we deal with is happy," says Judy Halverson, Assistant Work Therapy Coordinator. "I don't ever recall anybody being grumpy, and if they are, we'll fix them. They'll get happy."

Kathy Davis, one of the bookstore clerks, agrees: "It's fun working there. The people are nice and friendly, they compliment you, and Judy gives me a hug. It's so much fun!"

These comments suggest that Northern Lights is no ordinary bookstore, and indeed, it is a very special place. It was founded in 1987 by NWMC's Mental Health Division as a work therapy program for mentally ill residents of the Northern Lights Community Residence.



According to Patty Chiodo, Program Director, "Our goal is to provide people with mental illness with a work opportunity where they can feel that they are contributing to Thief River Falls. And they are! People love the store, and they value our residents do. They have a place where they belong, where they're treated with respect. This gives them more confidence and helps them feel better about themselves. Then they start to learn skills, like how to use the computer and the till. They also learn how to communicate effectively with people. It's a process, but everyone who starts there and puts in an effort does well."

The bookstore is a huge success, with up to 1000 customers a month in the summer and more than 20,000 books in their inventory, all donated by people in the region. There's something for everyone, covering dozens of reading categories. The store also accepts and sells toys, jewelry and what they like to call "little treasures." "If it wasn't for the people of Thief River Falls and the surrounding area, this would not work at all," says Chiodo. "We're so grateful."

The 18 employees, including 15 residents from the Northern Lights Residence, spend their days doing everything necessary to run the store, including cleaning, pricing, packaging, mending, and, of course, selling the inventory. The residents are paid for working at the store. Kathy Davis describes her day: "I like working with the computer, doing inventory. It gives me a fit sometimes, because it doesn't always do what I want it to do, but it's fun. I wait on customers. It's given me a lot of self-confidence."

Davis is known to have an eye for detail. When she's waiting on customers, she'll often strike up a conversation about acquaintances they may have in common. By the time the customer leaves the store "they're old friends," Halverson says with a smile.

Customers come from as far away as Canada, Chiodo says. "We're well known. Many people come to just to say hi. It's a real nice atmosphere. The store provides a place where people from the community can interact in a natural way with our employees. They have the same thing in common.

Thief River Falls resident and avid reader, Jim Solsten, is a regular customer at the bookstore.

which is used books and toys. It's the best way ever to fight the stigma of mental illness."

For those who can't get to the store, the store will come to them. "We have dial-a-book," says Jennifer Janoschke, a resident who is one of the store's clerks. "A person can call up and request for us to pick up any donations. We can also deliver books to peoples' homes."

Janoschke says the store also has a book service at the Thief River Falls Airport and another at the new Altru Clinic. The service consists of a bookcase filled with books and magazines that readers can use on the honor system. They are welcome to simply browse, or if they want to purchase one of the books or magazines, there is a box on the cabinet for customers to pay.

"We also have a book scratch service that has really brought in a lot of customers," Janoschke says. "Customers ask for specific books, and we keep track of their requests. We'll call them if it comes in. We'll even go to the trouble of calling people if we know they have books like the ones the customer is looking for, just to see if we can find the book they're looking for."

The bookstore is not the only popular Northern Lights project, however. Each May, the Thief River Falls Ice Cream Wagon begins its routes, much to the delight of both neighborhood and business customers. The Ice Cream Wagon serves Bridgeman novelties and low-fat dairy bars at prices ranging from 50 cents to $1.00. Often, the wagon will sell between 150 and 200 ice cream treats a day.

"People usually shy away from those with mental illness. Thanks to the ice cream wagon, people welcome our residents," says Chiodo. "What's great is that our employees run the whole business. Not only has it been a very popular addition to the community, it's probably one of the best therapeutic tools there is."

And, just like the bookstore, the employees who run the ice cream wagon know and care about their customers. On one route, Janoschke has a customer who's confined to her apartment because she's hooked up to an oxygen tank. But Janoschke makes a point of stopping by each time she's in the neighborhood, and delivers the ice cream treats personally.

The Northern Lights work treatment program has been recognized locally, regionally and statewide for its excellence. The goals of the program are to improve the quality of life for the residents and help them learn the skills they need to live independently in the community.

"The hospital is very innovative, and enthusiastically supports new ideas," says Chiodo. "For instance, we're now looking into having our residents use the Internet to market our books."

The results of the work programs speak for themselves. Jennifer Janoschke explains, "I like the independence, confidence and the self-esteem I get from working at the store and on the ice cream wagon."

"I like the fact that people care, and you can see growth," says Halverson. "People often don't realize what talents mentally ill people have."

The Northern Lights Book Store, located at 208 LaBree Ave. North in Thief River Falls, is open 10 A.M. - 5:30 P.M. Monday through Saturday. On Thursday nights, it's open until 8:30 P.M. For information on the routes and appearances for the ice cream cart, call: Northern Lights Book Store, (218) 681-8242 or (218) 681-8706

Scholarships Help Area Students, NWMC Employees Get Ahead

When employees are strapped for cash and need more training in order to move up in their jobs, they can apply for one of the Sue Stigen, Northwest Medical Center Foundation or Northwest Medical Center Auxiliary educational scholarships.

Ginny Stonecune, now an RN in the Mental Health unit at NWMC, has been helped by the NWMC Scholarship Fund twice in her career. first in 1983/84, when she went from being a nurse's aide to achieving her LPN and later in 1994/95, when she wanted to advance by completing the requirements for her RN. "Definitely, it (the scholarship) helped," she says.

Shari Holmes received two Sue Stigen scholarships at two different times in her career. "Basically, I don't think I would have been able to afford it (going back to school)," she says, "being newly married and with small children. Things were kind of up in the air for finances. It was a big help." Holmes used the scholarship first to receive her LPN, and then later to become an RN. She now works in NWMC's Convalescent and Nursing Care facility.

The Sue Stigen scholarships has its foundation in improving lives, one at a time. Explains Mike Parker, Director of Human Resources at NWMC, "Sue was an LPN at NWMC who had Delmar Hagen as a patient. They got along very well. Delmar recovered and was impressed by the quality of care that Sue gave, and he and his wife Eunice gave an initial donation of $2,500 to establish the scholarship fund. The Hagens eventually gave many more gifts to it, in excess of twenty thousand dollars. Although the fund was established for those who wanted to receive their LPN, the Hagens later gave us permission to extend the scholarship to RNs as well, as long as they were employees at NWMC."

According to Parker, initially, the Sue Stigen Scholarship is a loan in the amount of either seven hundred dollars for the LPN degree or one thousand dollars for the RN. Students must have a GPA of 2.0 or better. But unlike some educational loans, this one comes with something special: a forgiveness clause. If the recipient is employed at NWMC for three years or more after receiving his or her LPN or RN, the amount is forgiven. In other words, the loan becomes a gift that no longer has to be paid back.

Since the Sue Stigen Scholarship was created more than 15 years ago, close to 50 recipients have enjoyed its benefits. "The Hagens have made a substantial difference in the lives of many, many people," says Parker. "There are times in your life when there truly is no money for anything but the necessities. Then here comes this tuition money which makes somebody's better possible."

He notes that more than 90 percent of NWMC scholarship recipients stay in Thief River Falls to work at the medical center. "NWMC looks at this as a great improvement and retention tool, because if they stay here and work the loan is forgiven." Holmes and Stonecune are prime examples: Holmes has been employed by NWMC for eight years, and Stonecune for fourteen.

What happens if the scholarship recipients leave town? "If they leave before the loan is forgiven, we request periodic payments," says Parker. "But most of the recipients realize that the money goes right back into granting more scholarships, so the rate of repayment is very high among those who either choose not to work here or who have to move away because a spouse gets transferred. They are appreciative of the opportunity and the fact that the loans are interest free."

But the Sue Stigen scholarships are not the only way for NWMC employees or area residents to get ahead. The Northwest Medical Center Foundation also gives out three or four scholarships each year to any full-time student with a G.P.A. of 2.5 or better at an accredited school providing the course of study and/or training is in the field of hospital care and services, "that we determine we have a need for," says Parker. "Say, we find we have the need for a respiratory therapist or a lab MT. The Sue Stigen scholarship is either for an RN or an LPN, but the Northwest Medical Center scholarship leaves us a little more leeway - we can use it either for nursing or any other position we deem necessary."

The NWMC Foundation scholarships are for $1000, and like the Sue Stigen scholarships, they are forgiven if the individual comes to work for NWMC. The recipient for the foundation scholarships must have a grade point average of 2.5 or better.

"These scholarships are an opportunity the Medical Center provides to allow individuals to achieve as much as they can," Parker says proudly. "Currently, 31 of our RNs and LPNs have received scholarships."

"This program is indicative of the medical center's interest in and commitment to community development," says Stonecune. "It's not business first, it's community first. And I really believe they're sincere about that. These scholarships substantiate that."

For both the Sue Stigen and NWMC Foundation Scholarships, the selection committee is composed of NWMC Associate Administrator Dan Olson, Director of Human Resources Mike Parker, Chief Executive Officer Dick Syphaski, and the Director of Nursing Janell Hudson. The committee meets once each year, in July, and usually awards the scholarships in August.

The Northwest Medical Center Auxiliary also awards four or more $250 scholarships every year to area high school students. According to Bev Rapprecht, who oversees the Auxiliary Scholarships, any area high school senior or graduate with a good scholastic record who intends to go into the medical field is eligible. It is not necessary for them to be studying for a nurse's degree. Rapprecht solicits nominees each year by sending out letters to all the schools in the area, letting them know the scholarships are available. The schools then give the applications directly to the students, who submit them on their own. Then, a scholarship committee made up of auxiliary members decides who will receive the grants from among the high school seniors who send in their applications.

Ginny Stonecune, RN and Shari Holmes, RN have both been recipients of NWMC scholarships.

In 1998, the Auxiliary presented five area students with scholarships. "This is one way to reward the youth in our community for the great things they do," says Rapprecht. "The students receive the loan in the second quarter of their medical studies, and 95 to 97 percent of the recipients do go on to use the scholarships."

The Sue Stigen Scholarship will be available for only a few more years. Parker explains, "This fund was designed to be used until it is diminished. As more and more of the loans turn into grants and are forgiven as people work them off, the fund will shrink, so it is no longer being replenished." But, he notes, "The Northwest Medical Center Scholarship is funded by the board of NWMC, and that will continue."

The Stigen, Foundation and Auxiliary Scholarships all point to NWMC's dedication to the area and its people. Parker tells this story, "When Mr. Hagen died, the Northwest Medical Center nurses were his pallbearers, and they were all dressed in white. And when Mrs. Hagen died, a number of our nurses and other employees attended her funeral, on that cold, snowy Sunday afternoon." He notes that appreciation for the Hagens is still shown at NWMC today.

If these scholarships were a building, Rapprecht says, "They're a skyscraper, helping people move up and soaring tall within the community."

Parker sees them differently. "They're the foundation of the building, but we assist those who receive them in getting that building as tall as they possibly can."

NWMC Kids' Day

Kids on the Block puppeteers, Val Johnson and Brenda McCarty used their puppets to teach children about handicaps.

Director of Occupational Therapy at NWMC, Ann Heinze, shows the children how he is able to use his "hook hands."

Middle River second grader, Tessa McKeever, was able to try a wheelchair while participating in NWMC Kid's Day.

NWMC auxiliary members, Terry Cuppett and her mother, Annabelle Cuppett, demonstrate the many types of devices a blind person might use.

Each year during Hospital Week, Northwest Medical Center invites area second graders to "Kids' Day." This year the Kids' Day program was held on Wednesday, May 13th at Evangelical Free Church in Thief River Falls. Children from Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls, Middle River, Newfolden, Viking, Plummer, Strandquist, and Goodridge were invited to attend this program.

As in the past, there were three programs for the students to attend. First, the Kids On The Block puppeteers presented a short program on handicaps. From there, the children met Ari Heinze, our Director of Occupational Therapy, who talked about his own handicap. To finish up the program, the children were shown the "Activity Center" which showed them a variety of ways a handicapped child may have to overcome his/her condition.

Dr. Judith Campbell Joins Altru Clinic

Dr. Judith Campbell beams with happiness when she talks about her new family practice at the Altru Clinic, which opened on May 1. "I wanted to move to a place where my practice style was an asset, rather than a liability," she says. "I'm very impressed with Altru Clinic; the impression I get is that patient care is the first priority, not making money." Dr. Campbell likes to take her time with each patient. "I believe in counseling, patient education and preventive health, including emphasizing non-drug treatment such as diet and exercise."

She also likes the clinic itself. "It's a brand-new facility that's clean, spacious and bright," she says. "It has a beautiful view-the examining rooms have picture windows overlooking the river (although there are windowless rooms for what Dr. Campbell calls "the intimate examinations"). It's so holistic and healing for patients to be treated in an atmosphere that has such calm and natural beauty."

Dr. Campbell is speaking from experience. She has practiced in a wide variety of settings, including hospitals, clinics, nursing homes and a private office. She is skilled in Emergency Room and Intensive Care medicine, as well as women's, geriatric and multiply-handicapped care. Her 18-year career has included missionary work in Ethiopia, where she traveled as a doctor for a project sponsored by the Anglican church.

Her private life is no less colorful. She was born in England and emigrated to Canada with her parents and two siblings at age four. Raised and educated in Winnipeg, she received her medical degree from the University of Manitoba in 1979 and is certified in Family Medicine. Today, she is married with three children, ages 11, 9 and 6, and is taking advantage of every opportunity offered by her new life in Thief River Falls. She recently acted in a murder mystery put on by the local dinner theatre, and has taken courses at Northland Community and Technical College in computers and golf.

Dr. Houlihan is New Family Practice Physician at Altru

Dr. Greg Houlihan is a multi-faceted doctor who takes pride in his versatility. "I like being able to do everything for my patients," he says. "As a family practitioner, you have to know about 85 percent of everything. I did four years in my residency instead of three, just so I could learn more procedures and be more proficient in medicine. I am trained to do it all, from plantar warts and toenails to congestive heart failure and diabetes."

Dr. Houlihan has worked hard to get where he is today. He was already married and in college with a part-time coaching job when he decided to put himself through medical school. "I really applied myself," he says, and was accepted the first year he applied to the University of Health Sciences Osteopathic School of Medicine in Kansas City. He kept up the pressure on himself while he was in medical school by performing six years of service as a battalion surgeon for the Army National Guard.

But Dr. Houlihan points to a tragedy, not education or training, that made him a better doctor. "My wife Susan, my high school sweetheart, and I had been married nine years," he says, "And in the first year of my residency, she got colon cancer. I took a leave of absence from my residency to take care of her. She lived about six months. It changed my whole outlook on medicine. Before, I was always in the book, and I was a very aggressive resident. I pretty much thought I had the world by the tail. Her sickness was a real shock. It was just like the movie, "The Doctor"- it gave me a more compassionate, more caring, friendlier outlook with my patients. I was humbled as a human being, much less arrogant than I was. I learned to listen to the patients' needs and involve them as much as possible in their own medical care."

After his wife's death, Dr. Houlihan joined the Air Force for four years, and finished his residency there. When he finally settled in Kansas City, he brought his newfound warmth and worldly wisdom into his private practice. It wasn't long before he had a booming practice.

"After one year, I had a thriving practice," he says. "I did that by just being concerned for my patients' needs. A good doctor told me that if you just listen to your patient, they'll tell you what's wrong with them. And that's what I do."

Dr. Houlihan is especially proud of his competency in the area of women's issues. "I'm really big into women's health, contrary to what the literature says, that male physicians are not," he says.

He knows a great deal about one of the biggest annoyances women have: weight. "You're not taught nutrition in medical school; you have to pick it up through what you read. But I've gotten that shut. If someone came to me and said, 'I want to lose weight,' I would try to help them do that and keep it off correctly." His method? Keeping it simple. "I have my patients limit their food portions, watch what they eat and get moderate exercise," he says. "Just watching the amount you eat makes a huge difference."

His attitude of keeping things simple also applies to his philosophy of medicine. "Prevention is the best form of medical practice," he says. To that end, he promotes immunization for adults, children and the elderly, the regular use of seat belts, and limits or elimination of cigarettes and alcohol. He is especially concerned about sexually active teens. "The biggest HIV population is now in young women having unprotected sexual activity," he says. "The scary now is that adolescent exposure to HIV will never happen to them."

When Dr. Houlihan isn't in the office, he might be found indulging his other love: painting. "I have a background in art," he says, "I started out in college as a graphic designer and illustrator. My favorite thing is watercolors. I love figure drawing, too-my favorite artist is Michelangelo. I've read every book that's probably ever been written on him." He also loves running, fly fishing and downhill skiing.

Dr. Houlihan says he, his second wife, Mary Helen and two daughters Mollie (age 8) and Katie (age 5) love their life in Thief River Falls. They have more time together as a family, and enjoy the safe, friendly community.

But it was the chance to practice medicine his way that ultimately brought Houlihan to Thief River. "I can sum it up by saying "I love my work. I love what I do," he says. "You don't have to twist my arm to come to work. Medicine is so fascinating and so gratifying. If you make someone better, it's just like you get blessed every day."

develop my domestic and my maternal sides, which have been dormant for so long," she says. In Winnipeg, "I'd spend mornings practicing in the nursing homes, afternoons in my private practice, and evenings, doing the phone calls and the paperwork. That kind of working pace was too hard on the family, and even though I just loved my job and my patients, the family life was suffering too much. What's the point of having children if you can't enjoy them?"

Dr. Campbell has many other interests, too. "I've had more time to play the piano - poorly!" she says with a laugh. "I can also do things like cycling, canoeing, tennis and golf." The move to Thief River has been good for her personally and professionally. "I think I can provide much better care for my patients here, since I have faster access to diagnostics and other specialists."

She elaborates: "The community itself is just the right size-small enough to be friendly and safe, but big enough to attract enough doctors with a variety of specialties with whom to consult, and big enough to have a hospital with great diagnostic and in-patient facilities. I also like being able to provide for my patients' care all in one building - I won't be spending an hour and a half driving every day, which I did in Winnipeg."

"Thief River Falls has outstanding schools and great natural beauty, too," she adds. "I'm very, very happy here."

Volunteers Lend Hearts and Hands to NWMC

If you've ever enjoyed a visit to the NWMC Coffee Shop, you've probably met Olga Engevik. The 86-year-young server is a favorite with visitors and staff alike. "We've all learned so much from her," says Bev Rupprecht, Volunteer Coordinator for NWMC. "She can't see very well, but she knows how to feel around the edges of a coin or stack them so she knows if it's a quarter, nickel, dime or penny. She's completely dependable; she's here every week."

Rupprecht oversees the work of about 100 volunteers, including 75 adults and 25 junior volunteers who work primarily in the summer and during school breaks. Juniors are as young as 12, but most are over age 14. Rupprecht, who recently joined NWMC after a long tenure with the Little Brother/Little Sister program, loves to work with the teens. She shares this story:

"I have two 14-year-old girls who are just exciting," she beams. "They're so bubbly and they're so much fun! They work in the coffee shop, and they don't want to do the ordinary things. So the days they work, we do 'specials.' We have one day when we have root beer floats, and they put posters all over the hospital. Then they go out and encourage people to come in. They just bring a smile to the whole staff."

Volunteer, Olga Engevik, enjoys her work as a volunteer in the NWMC Coffee Shop.

Rupprecht explains that volunteers make all the services at NWMC run more smoothly.

"Volunteers are able to go above and beyond what we as staff are able to do. They take the time to do the little personal things that mean a lot to our patients and visitors."

One area in which volunteers are essential is in transporting patients to and from their rooms for tests and therapies. And among all those who help in this critical task, Mary Barry is a standout. "Her career total is 12,600 hours," Rupprecht says. "She works up on Occupational Therapy, transferring patients." But even though she gives abundantly of her time, Mary recently asked if she could give more. "Because she got to know so many of the residents, she asked if she could also do coffee over at the Convalescent & Nursing Care Center, so she could spend more time visiting with them," Rupprecht says.

"We get to be like a family," she continues. "We have a lot of regular volunteers, especially in the coffee shop and gift shop. It's cute how they've taken ownership. There's a lot of pride."

Volunteers help throughout the hospital. They operate the coffee and gift shops five days a week, and Rupprecht says one volunteer in particular comes in every single Saturday afternoon to open the gift shop. Volunteers transfer patients for occupational therapy, deliver patient mail to the rooms, and fill the hospital's eight pop machines regularly. They also keep the candy machine stocked and distribute donated magazines to the waiting rooms. The Convalescent & Nursing Care Center uses volunteers to help with activities for the residents, including serving coffee, conducting games like bingo, or wheeling residents around to places like the county fair. They do quiet activities, too, like reading or just sitting and visiting with the residents."

Volunteers also work outside the NWMC building. They go out to install Lifeline units, which are a personal response system for the people who live in their home alone. If the patient needs help for any medical emergency, they simply push a button and an operator tries to either answer their question or summons a neighbor to help them.

"We have about 60 of these units in the area," Rupprecht says. "The phone answerer calls first, second and third responders, who should be someone close by. If none of those people are available, they'll call law enforcement to go in and check on the patient." The cost for the Lifeline service is low: just $25/month.

Although April is Volunteer Appreciation Month, Rupprecht says NWMC tries to show its gratitude for their good work every day. "The staff here really appreciates the volunteers. They compliment them - it's neat to hear. The volunteers really do take some of the pressure off the staff. They're valuable. Very, very valuable."

Rupprecht says that some junior volunteers have gone on to school in the medical field, and notes that the hospital auxiliary gives out four, $250 scholarships to high school seniors from the area - anyone who uses NWMC - each year.

"Our mission statement says that volunteering should be a meaningful and rewarding experience," she says. "I think that's really important, that they feel good about what they're doing." She works diligently to make sure that each volunteer is matched with a job that suits his/her talents and interests. Every volunteer goes through an orientation program, so they know the policies and procedures to use while working in the hospital.

"We just have the greatest volunteers," Rupprecht says proudly. "My work is very rewarding. You can have a day that's really awful, but then they'll say or do something that really makes your day. I love working with them."

To volunteer, call Bev Rupprecht at (218) 681-4240.

Election filings for area listed

Pennington County and Red Lake County will hold primary elections on September 8 for the position of County Sheriff. In each county, three individuals have filed for the position.

In the wake of Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe's retirement announcement, Sheriff's Deputies Mike Hruby and Ray Kuznia, and Thief River Falls Police Officer Jim Hulteen filed for the office of County Sheriff.

In Red Lake County, Sheriff Allan Morken faces challenges from Randy Brekke and Steven Haugen.

Having three individuals file for the positions necessitates a primary run-off in those counties on September 8.

For the most part, many incumbents in northwestern Minnesota will not face any opposition in the November General Election.

In Kittson County, the following have filed for office: Joe Bauvette for County Commissioner District 3; Randy Nelsan and Betty Younggren are vying far the County Commissioner District 5 position; Marilyn Gustafson far County auditor; Bob Laude for County Treasurer; Janice Klein far County Recorder; Ray Hunt for County Sheriff, and Roger Malm and Bruce Neilsen are vying for the County Attorney position. Sail and Water Conservation District affices include Ron Baldwin far District 1; and Joe Wilebski for Oistrict 5.

In Marshall County, the fallowing have filed for office: Delray Larson for County Commissianer District 5, Terry Potucek and Calvin Melgard are vying for the County Commissioner District 1 position; Ben Kleinwachter for County Commissianer District 3; Marion Halvorson far County Recorder; Roy Swanson for County Auditor and Treasurer; Herbert Maurstad and Greg Winskowski are vying for the County Sheriff office; and Michael Williams far County Attorney.

Northern Pines chapter of Sweet Adelines disbands

Bemidji - Due to declining membership, the Northern Pines chapter of Sweet Adelines International is disbanding.

Since 1975, the chapter has sung at various community functions and campeted on a regional level. The group included members from Bemidji and surrounding communities.

The nan-profits group's assets and equipment have been donated to other organizations. The Pioneer

Twin foals at RLC Fair this weekend

Oklee - Twin foals, born on May 2 to a harse owned by Lowell Hamrum family, are a feature of the Red Lake County Fair in Oklee which started Thursday and will conclude today.

Lowell Hamrum read that twin foals occur in about two out of every 1,000 births. The chances of the foals surviving and being healthy are even less.

The Hamrums didn't know that the mare was going to deliver twins until they were born. Red Lake Falls

Cyclist took the long way home

Glenwood - Kent Peterson took the long way hame to visit his parents in Glenwood this summer — pedaling 1,745 miles from Oregon to Minnesota. The trip took him 15 days.

The trip wasn't any type of fund-raiser, special cause or publicity stunt. It was just something he wanted to do.

Peterson, 27, teaches music, band and guitar in Alaska. He also coaches crass-country skiing and cross-country running. Prior to pedaling home from Ashland, OR, the furthest he'd gone before was 150 miles in one day. Echo Press

Riots result in arrests

Naytahwaush - Two riots last weekend resulted in two damaged squad cars and 19 arrests, according to Mahnomen County Sheriff Richard Rooney.

The first riot on Friday evening led to arrest of 14 juveniles, and the second on Saturday night resulted in five arrests, three juveniles and two adults.

Alcohol and drugs were involved, and some of the offenders were as young as 12 and 13 years old. The Sheriff's office has requested that the County Attorney's office charge the parents of the juveniles with neglect. The Mahnomen Pioneer

Woman wins 1998 Polk County demo

Fertile - For the first time in the history of the Polk County Fair, a woman won the feature in the demolition derby.

Participating in her third demo derby, Becky Wilkenson drove a 1977 New Yorker. Her husband, who has been participating in demo derbies since his early teens, was also in the feature but got hung up on a bank. When it came down to Becky and one other car, the crowd went wild for the hometown girl. Fertile Journal

Citizen member Bruce Bomier (left) of the Minnesota Environmental Quality Board (EQB) answers questions from an area participant following the hearing on the feedlot GEIS Monday evening at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

Bev Hewitt, Kittson county commissioner, discusses the General Environmental Impact Statement on animal agriculture Monday with Peder Larson, commissioner of the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency. In the background, Marshall county commissioner Delray Larson makes a point to Rod Sando, commissioner of the DNR and EQB chairman.

Feedlot GEIS hearing draws much comment

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

Many comments were received when a pre-scoping hearing on the General Environmental Impact Statement on animal agriculture was conducted Monday evening, July 20, at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

One of six such meetings scheduled across the state, the hearing was intended to provide an opportunity for the public to provide input into what specific topics will be included in the statewide study and how these topics will be addressed. It was one of four phases of the study at which opportunity for public input will be provided.

Other public input will be invited when the draft scoping document has been prepared, probably in October of this year; when the draft GEIS has been prepared, possibly in January of 2000; and after the finalized GEIS has been prepared but before the EQB has officially determined it is "adequate," perhaps by June of 2000.

According to information distributed at the hearing, "the actual time schedule will depend on how long it takes to research the scoped topics, come to agreement on the results and develop recommendations, and on how long it takes to build substantial consensus among the citizens advisory committee and the public in general that the GEIS content is sufficient and accurate."

Authorized by the 1998 session of the Minnesota legislature and funded with a $1.2 million appropriation of state funds, the "feedlot GEIS" is being conducted to provide objective, scientific information on the environmental, economic and social consequences of changes that have and are taking place in the animal agriculture industry.

Conducting the hearing was the Minnesota Environmental Quality Board (EQB), created in 1973 and serving as an interdepartmental policy forum for the executive branch of state government. Chairing the board and present at Monday's meeting is Rod Sando, commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Also present at the meeting were Peder Larson, commissioner of the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency; Bruce Bomier, a citizen member of the board; Mike Sullivan, executive director of the EQB; and Susan Schmidt, project manager for the GEIS. Presiding as moderator for the public testimony was Sam Christianson, planner for the DNR.

Before the reception of testimony began, project director Schmidt and board chairman Sando were asked about representation on the 24-member GEIS citizens' advisory committee, specifically about farm representation and northern Minnesota representation. The committee member living furthest north in the state is from south of Detroit Lakes and represents the Minnesota Lakes Association.

Sando said that at least a third of the committee represented agricultural interests and organizations and that the committee had been selected from some 200 applicants without particular attention to geographical area. He said later in the meeting that it was not intentional to exclude northwest Minnesota representation on the committee, that he felt interests in this area were represented by groups having membership on the committee, but that an effort would be made to add one member to the committee from northwestern Minnesota.

Testimony Presented

Content of comments made at the hearing were often more of the nature that would be heard at a hearing on regulations rather than GEIS scoping. Few presented actual areas of study which they believed should be included in the process.

The most defined presentation came near the end of the hearing and was presented by Lyle E. Westrom, an associate professor of animal science at the University of Minnesota—Crookston. He stated that he didn't believe one policy could be developed to serve the state well due to regional differences in the state.

"Consider how the following social, environmental and economic conditions vary within the state," he said, listing the following:

- Population density;
- Income per capita;
- Alternative industry and employment;
- Soil permeability and structure;
- Surface and ground water;

Making quilt tops is just one of the things that keeps Iona Austad of rural Oklee busy. In the spring of 1997 she finished 50 quilts and sent them to flood victims. She also raises a large garden, giving much of her produce away. Iona was named one of Pennington County's Outstanding Senior Citizens for 1998 at last week's county fair. Also honored as an Outstanding Senior was Tress Noel of Thief River Falls.

Ione Austad just keeps on giving...and giving...and...

Northern Watch Reporter

"I'm going to be just like you someday, Grandma," sixteen-year-old Kari Austad once told her grandmother, Ione Austad. "I want to raise a garden, make jelly, do crossword puzzles and sew quilts."

Several years later, Kari, now Kari Wilde, still admires her grandmother. It was Kari who nominating Ione for the Pennington County Outstanding Senior Citizen award. Her letter obviously impressed the judges as Ione, who lives in rural Oklee, was one of the seniors recognized at the Pennington County Fair last week. Tress Noel of Thief River Falls was also named an Outstanding Senior for 1998.

Ione lives on the farm that she was brought to as a bride in 1943. Originally from Trail, Ione was a

Corn borer clinics at Warren, TRF

Farmers and others who would like to know more about scouting for and controlling corn borers are encouraged to attend scouting and control clinics Tuesday, July 28, at 2 p.m. on the Bob Schindler farm southeast of Thief River Falls and Wednesday, July 29, at 9:30 a.m. at the Paul Torgerson farm near Warren.

Carlyle Holen, integrated pest management specialist and Ken Ostlie, extension entomologist, will discuss scouting procedures and control measures for corn borer in the field. Participants will learn how to identify corn borers and the economic thresholds for control measures. The clinics are sponsored by the University of Minnesota extension service.

"With the increased corn acreage in the area this year, corn producers need to be aware of the potential damage to corn plants and yields," states Ray Thompson, Marshall county extension director who has arranged the clinic at Warren. The Thief River Falls clinic was set up by Howard Person, Pennington county extension educator.

The corn field on the Schindler farm where the clinic will be held is located two miles south of Hazel on County Road 20 and one mile east. Those coming from south on Highway 59 can turn left on County Road 58 and travel just under one mile west to the field. Signs will be posted off Highway 59 and County Road 20.

To reach the Torgerson farm, go one mile south of Warren on Highway 75, one mile east and a quarter of a mile south.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

The weather is hot and it's a good time for some quick and easy meal ideas. Appetites flag in the heat, but these will pep up the family and friends.

Here's something you can prepare ahead and freeze or fix right at the last minute, getting your family to help:

PIZZA PICNIC LOAVES
1 pound hamburger
1 (8 ounce) can pizza sauce
1/2 teaspoon oregano, crushed
1 cup (4 ounces) pimento-stuffed olives
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup (4 ounce) mozzarella cheese, shredded
1 loaf French bread, halved lengthwise
Mushrooms, black olives, green pepper, chopped (as desired)

Brown hamburger and onion. Drain. Add pizza sauce, salt and oregano.

Place each loaf, crust side down, on pieces of foil large enough to wrap loaves.

Spread half of meat mixture over each loaf, layer olives, peppers and mushrooms. Sprinkle with cheese. Wrap loaves in foil, folding edges to seal.

Heat on grill over low coals 15 minutes or until heated through. (Loaves can also be heated in 350 degree oven for 25-30 minutes.

This is a really quick meal that would be delicious with a crispy, cold salad or fresh tomatoes or cucumbers on a hot day:

TACO BURGERS
1 pound hamburger
1 (16 ounce) can tomatoes
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
2 cups shredded lettuce
1 cup shredded American cheese

Brown hamburger and drain. Add remaining ingredients except lettuce and cheese. Simmer 20 minutes.

Serve on toasted hamburger buns, topping with lettuce and cheese.

With a salad, these make a good hot weather meal, or they can be a great snack:

MINI PIZZA MUFFINS
1 can tomato soup
2 teaspoons oregano
1 small clove garlic, minced
4 English muffins, split and toasted
4 slices mozzarella cheese, cut into halves

In saucepan, combine soup, garlic and oregano. Heat to blend flavors. (Or I use microwave.)

Spread on muffins and top with cheese. Broil until cheese melts.

(Can add a piece of pepperoni to each muffin and other toppings, as you like.)

If you like tuna, here is a simple meal that is made the day before you want to serve it, and it's made from things we usually have on hand, too:

HOT TUNA SANDWICHES
12 slices white bread, crusts removed
Cheese slices of your choice
2 cans drained tuna
4 eggs
3 cups milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
Pepper

Butter 9x13 inch pan. Butter 6 slices of bread and place in pan. Cover each slice with a slice of cheese and then sprinkle tuna over cheese. Cover with remaining bread.

Beat eggs. Add milk, salt and pepper. Pour over bread and refrigerate overnight. Bake at 300 degrees for 1 hour.

This dish can be made over a campfire, on the grill or at the kitchen stove - serve with toast or crusty bread and a salad and it will make a very easy meal:

CAMP SUPPER
6 eggs, beaten slightly with fork
1 can cream style corn
6 slices bacon, cut into pieces
1 (4 ounce) can mushrooms
1 small onion
Green pepper, if desired
Salt and pepper to taste

Fry bacon in skillet. Add onion and mushrooms. Add corn.

When hot, add eggs. Cook until eggs are set.

Children's nature and fishing programs set

Five northwestern Minnesota cities—Lake Bronson, Roseau, Thief River Falls, Warroad and Baudette—will be the sites of children's nature and fishing programs during mid-August, according to Linda Bylander, education specialist with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Boys and girls ages eight to 14 who want to have fun while learning about fishing and the out-of-doors are encouraged to participate in the program entitled "A River Runs Through It." Each event will feature practice casting, fishing from shore, pond study, boat and water safety and other practical outdoor learning.

"Our goal is for the kids to have fun while learning about our environment," Bylander said. "In addition to fishing there will be a series of mini-stations where children can do activities with DNR conservation officers and forestry, wildlife and fisheries experts."

All of the events are free and fishing rods and tackle will be provided. Youngsters are to bring their own lunches except at Roseau where lunch will be provided. A consent form must be signed by parents for their children to participate.

Dates, places, times and contacts for each of the events include the following:

August 10—Lake Bronson State Park, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., contact Gladwin Lynne at 754-2200.

August 11—Roseau city park, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.; contact Mark Johnston at 463-4828.

August 12—Red Robe Park in Thief River Falls, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; contact Madelyn Vigen at 681-2519.

August 13—Warroad city park, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.; contact Becky Lein at 386-1304.

August 14—Willie Walleye Park in Baudette, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.; contact Jeff Tillma at 634-2522.

"The events in northwest Minnesota are unique because children get to learn from DNR staff with expertise in everything from what lives at the bottom of a lake to what birds fly high in the sky."

"The River Runs Through It" events are part of the DNR's MinnAqua program, which provides aquatic education on ecology, natural resource management and conservation.

Rolling Plains gallery coming to Newfolden

Rolling Plains Art Gallery will come to Newfolden on Tuesday, July 28, and stay in town until Monday, August 3. The art-filled semi-trailer truck will be parked by the Newfolden elementary school.

Artwork has been selected from the permanent collection of the Plains Art Museum in Fargo, ND. The exhibit will feature "Critters" of all shapes, sizes, colors and dispositions and the art will represent a large variety of styles, materials and techniques created by regional and national artists.

The gallery is open to the general public from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. or later by arrangement. A 30-minute tour for groups may be arranged by calling 681-2725, and student groups may sign up for an art lesson following the tour.

During the week there will also be displays or presentations by crafters, quilters, musicians, clown, puppeteer and others. Persons who would like to exhibit or perform may call 681-2725 to select a time and day.

Schedule to date includes the following.

Tuesday, July 28—Music by Reuben Hanson, Gary Hodny, Debbie Peterson and crew at 7 p.m.;

Wednesday, July 29—Vocal and guitary by Eunice Waterworth from 10 to 12 a.m.; Tina Beito art exhibit from 10 a.m. to closing; and music by Bruce Elseth from 4 to 6 p.m.;

Thursday, July 30—Quilters and crafters from 10 a.m. to closing; puppets and clowning by Tim Kiviaho from 4 to 6 p.m.;

Friday, July 31—Quilters Moen and Helm from 2 p.m. to closing; and junior high vocals and instrumentals at 6 p.m.;

Saturday, August 1—Kathy Rokke and Delores Mesick from 10 a.m. to noon and light Gospel by John Roseland from 4 to 6 p.m.

Sponsors include PKM Electric Cooperative, Newfolden Sports Boosters, Marshall County Central schools, Cargill Corporation, Land O'Lakes Cooperative, Lake Region Arts Council, Region 2 Arts Council, Five Wings Arts Council, Northwest Regional Development Commission, Minnesota State Arts Board, The McKnight Foundation, North Dakota Council on the Arts, Raymond Cossette Trucking, Inc. and Plains Art Museum Trust Funds.

Six guess correct weight of "Ole" at county fair

With more than 500 guesses being registered, six people correctly guessed the weight of "Ole" the ox at the livestock area of the Pennington County Fair. Correct weight was 1,712 pounds.

A drawing was made among the six winners with the names of Kristopher Kvick and Jeff Redden selected as winners of half a hog each. The grand champion hog was purchased from 4-H club member Ryan Lee at the market livestock sale.

Others guessing the correct weight were provided with $10 consolation prizes and included Hans Gregory, Dick Shaske, Arlene Erickson and Mike Stevens. All of the winners are from Thief River Falls. "Ole" is owned by LaVerne Hamre and has been trained to pull a cart.

KX4 hosts party at Heritage Center Monday, July 27

KX4 will host a "Welcome Home Party" at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls on Monday, July 27 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The public is encouraged to stop by and say hello to Michelle Turnberg, Bruce Adsbury and Nicole Haugen. Coffee and cookies will be served, and many prizes will be given away, including a 19-inch color television.

Erskine AAL to meet Sunday a.m.

Erskine's chapter of Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) will hold its July meeting after church services at Rodnes Lutheran Church on Sunday, July 26.

Rolls, juice and coffee will be served at approximately 10 a.m. A short business meeting will be held.

Former pastor and family to sing at Embassy Center

Reverend Randy Reimer and his family will be the featured guests at the monthly gospel sing-a-long at the Embassy Community Center on Friday, July 31 at 7:30 p.m.

A former pastor at the Fosston Baptist Church, Reverend Reimer is currently serving the Kabekona Community Church in rural LaPorte.

More Heat Than Light At GEIS Scoping Hearing

Monday night's hearing by the Minnesota Environmental Quality Board (EQB) to seek input on what specific topics will be included in the study for a statewide General Environmental Impact Statement (GEIS) on animal feedlots and how these topics will be addressed didn't provide a lot of information on those specifics.

The hearing at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls did provide a forum for a number of citizens to vent their deep-seated feelings about the feedlot issue in general and several operations in particular. Those presentations served to reinforce the already recognized fact that concentrations of large numbers of livestock as an increasing percentage of animal agriculture in the state is both controversial and emotional.

The GEIS was authorized and funded with a grant of $1.2 million by the 1998 session of the Minnesota legislature. A precedent for this study is a similar general collection of data on the state's forestry industry a few years ago. That GEIS did not remove controversy, but it did provide basic factual information which could be used in determining action to be taken.

Persons making comments Monday ranged from people with agricultural interests who are fearful of over-regulation and restrictions on their efforts to make a living to rural residents with unpleasant experiences from large operations locating in their neighborhoods.

When all of the sap is boiled down, the husks stripped off, the shells removed and the thoughts recycled, what remains are three basic points of contention:

- Odor
- Economics
- Control

On a state-wide basis, the intensity of interest in livestock operations is directly proportional to the distance therefrom. The St. Paul housewife selecting pork chops at Cub Foods has an entirely different perspective than the housewife downwind from Pristine Pork in Roseau county who finds her health threatened by obnoxious— if not noxious—fumes. The latter testified at the Monday meeting; the former probably never will.

Like many controversial issues, the animal livestock issue is a personal as well as public one. The public issue is providing the population with an adequate supply of food at an acceptable price. The private concerns are health, comfort, profit, freedom and the derivatives thereof. Both producers and objectors are concerned about who will control production rules and regulations.

One of the most reasoned presentations at the Monday meeting, in our opinion, came from Lyle Westrom, an associate professor of dairy science at the University of Minnesota—Crookston, who pointed out that "one policy will likely not serve the entire state well." He went on to list some of the variables requiring consideration (see the story on Monday's meeting in today's Northern Watch) and concluded:

"Limitation of any size livestock operation could have a serious impact on our state economy given that livestock makes up over 50% of farm income. (Impact of) that limitation could be even greater for certain regions within Minnesota that have had or are experiencing economic difficulty.

"Livestock operations should be monitored with regional differences. Limitations should be placed only when competing forces within a region (as determined by an impartial decision-maker) require it for the economic, social and environmental health of that region. Free enterprise should be allowed to function in all other situations," Westrom says, and that view has the "common sense" factor which a number of people talking Monday evening had as one of their concerns.

The impact study process now underway is probably an acceptable effort, although we expect it will primarily consolidate present knowledge rather than uncover anything new. Certainly it will do nothing to change the national and world economic conditions which have forced the evolution of large-scale, automated, factory type livestock operations.

Neither will the GEIS change the organic composition of animal feces and urine which cause them to smell—especially when released after being combined in confined liquid storage for long periods of time.

Arnold Stanley of Grygla had a point when he lamented the fact Monday that farmers get the blame for flawed and failed systems designed by professional engineers and built by professional contractors to specifications required and approved by experts in environmental agencies.

Regardless of what the GEIS churns out in its final form at a cost of $1.2 million (or probably more), the crux of the matter is this: Livestock production is necessary to provide meat, meat products and valuable animal byproducts; all livestock create wastes with an odor; the odor is unpleasant to most people and intolerable to some; and people will not be happy living where the odor is prevalent. Anything short of eliminating odor from the waste or physically separating the source of the odor from those who find it offensive will be unacceptable.

Concentrated research on odor elimination may be in order, probably at governmental expense. Subsidized voluntary relocation of people from the area of feedlots may have to be considered. A return to many small, scattered livestock operations is improbable, barring national economic collapse which would make subsistence farming again a necessary way of life.

We can understand the frustration, anger and suspicion which surfaced at the Monday night meeting, and we believe those in attendance were remarkably restrained. Most have experienced the heavy hand of government and its agencies in their lives and livelihoods and they don't like it very well. As far as accomplishing its purpose, however, the hearing generated more heat than light. We hope the GEIS itself has better luck.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Ever want to improve your property, only to be stopped by bureaucratic red tape? Ever wonder what happened to your property rights?

The Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR) recently published its June 25, 1998 meeting minutes. You will be shocked to find out how state agencies are re-writing state law to take away your rights as a property owner. Excerpts from the June 25, 1998 minutes:

1. "Lakeshore Easements: Ron Shelito (a staff person for BWSR) explained the preliminary work plan for pilot lakeshore easements. The proposal is for permanent easements in the northern counties to protect soil and water resources ...by retiring lakeshore areas that could be developed into more intensive uses. LCMR (lottery money committee) has approved the work plan, but not yet funding for $250,000."

Why northern counties? Is it easier to take on poorer and less densely populated counties? Are northern people more stupid and easier to take advantage of? Most development is occuring in southern counties. Developed lakeshore pays more taxes than farmland. Why stop the cash cow? Responsible development does not hurt the soil or water resources. Still, why northern counties? Are state agencies trying to break us financially or are they trying to build their wildlife corridors with no humans or both?

2. "Drainage Round Table: Jim Birkholz (BWSR staff person) explained the concept for a drainage round table. Suggested specifics for the drainage round table include: • Ongoing meeting process over next 12 months; • Meetings to be held statewide; • Possibly divide the state in two—northern and southern ...; • Identify participants; • Establish ground rules; • A citizen advisory group for each region; • BWSR wetlands committee to assist; • Ditch viewers should be invited; • This would be a biennial budget issue; • Coordinate efforts regionally and statewide; • Invite key legislators; • By year 2000 everyone would be poised to deal with drainage problems.

"It was the consensus of the BWSR board that this is a wonderful opportunity to cooperate with other agencies: MN Dept. of Agriculture, MN DNR, MN Extension Service committed to the drainage round table. BWSR will convene a drainage round table to address the statewide drainage problems. Motion passed on a voice vote.

What problems? None have been identified except that the DNR and BWSR do not like drainage law because it forces them to comply with the same laws as the rest of us. And we all know how they hate to comply with anything. State agencies are not above the law.

3. "Jon Voz, resource specialist with Mower SWCD. Jon explained the partnership proposal for SWCDs to provide technical assistance in administering federal wetland compliance provisions. This will promote a stronger and better coordinated wetland conservation delivery system to the landowners of Minnesota and encompass both state and federal wetland regulations. It was the consensus of the BWSR Board to support and endorse this proposal."

Wow! When will it all stop? If BWSR wants to have a better-coordinated wetland policy, then DO IT! Why have the State of Minnesota (on average) have a wetland law that is 50 times more restrictive than the federal government's? If both state and federal wetland laws were the same then we could eliminate a bunch of bureaucrats and red tape. But to be 50 times more restrictive for no reason is insane!!!

Sincerely,
Dave Zavoral

Minnesota Ag benefits from 1998 session

Governor Arne Carlson has signed into law several bills containing programs beneficial to agriculture, including funding for a Generic Environmental Impact Statement for animal agriculture, a new state meat inspection program, and disaster relief for farmers in southern and northwestern Minnesota.

Governor Carlson said he was pleased with the results of the 1998 Legislative Session, especially with regard to the passage of a number of agriculture-friendly initiatives contained in his supplemental budget.

"The work we've done in St. Paul this year should have lasting benefits for farmers and agri-businesses across the state for years to come," Governor Carlson said. "In particular, the GEIS for animal agriculture will help Minnesotans set a viable course for that important industry. At the same time, it will help ensure the continued protection of the state's natural resources."

The Government Operations Supplemental Budget Bill appropriated $1.2 million in fiscal year 1998 for the first year of the GEIS, which is a form of environmental review used to study certain types of projects not adequately reviewed on a case-by-case basis. The GEIS will serve as a statewide forum for a thoughtful discussion and examination of the environmental, economic and social issues associated with animal agriculture.

"We are pleased that the legislature approved funding for the GEIS and so many of our agricultural initiatives," said MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson. "The state is sending a positive message to farmers that we recognize the importance of this industry and we are committed to ensuring agriculture remains the foundation of our economy into the 21st century."

The Omnibus Environment, Natural Resources, Agricultural Appropriations bill contained $2.48 million for agricultural initiatives, including:

- State meat inspection program: The bill allocates $25,000 in FY 1998 and $325,000 in FY 1999 for a state meat inspection program proposed by the Governor. This program will enable Minnesota to enhance food safety efforts at plants not inspected by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The program will employ both scientific and on-site inspections USDA does not currently require.

The new program will also enable Minnesota processors to maintain their current market share or even increase marketing opportunities when USDA rescinds its regulations on interstate commerce of state-inspected meat.

- Animal agriculture: The $1.2 million in funding for the GEIS was a major development of this session. In addition, legislators rejected discussions of a moratorium on feedlots with more than 750 animal units, and instead placed a ban on open-air clay, earthen or flexible membrane lined swine lagoons. This provision does not apply to repair or modification of existing lagoons.

The bill also requires feedlots with 1,000 or more animal units to receive a National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System permit within a prescribed schedule.

Finally, the bill addresses concerns about manure application rates by requiring commercial manure applicators to be licensed by March 2000. The bill also directs MDA to report to the Legislature by January 1999 on the need for non-commercial manure applicator licensing in the state.

- Dairy diagnostic teams: The bill adds $500,000 to the existing appropriation for dairy diagnostic teams, which work with dairy farmers to enhance the profitability of their farms. These teams generally include a variety of experts, from veterinarians to bankers to extension educators, who help the farmer look at ways he or she can improve specific aspects of the farm. These suggestions can include improved bookkeeping, changes in feed rations, or upgrading milking facilities.

- Federal dairy reform: $100,000 will be added to $100,000 previously allocated for FY 1998 and FY 1999 to accomplish reform of the federal milk market order system and for actions opposing the Northeast Dairy Compact. This money will be used to fund continuing efforts to fight an appeal of U.S. District Court Judge David Doty's November 1997 ruling in which he found the current order system unlawful and ordered the U.S. Department of Agriculture to implement reform.

- Gypsy moth: The bill fills Governor Carlson's request by appropriating $110,000 in FY 1998 and $250,000 in FY 1999 for expanding efforts to prevent the establishment of gypsy moth in Minnesota.

Gypsy moths are the nation's top destroyer of trees and forests, and more than half of Minnesota's woody plants are vulnerable to this pest. MDA has snuffed out start-up populations since 1983, but in 1997 the number of moths detected in eastern Minnesota increased significantly.

In addition to expanding the present trapping effort, MDA plans to broadly introduce two of the moths natural enemies to attack its eggs and pupae. The Department believes this effort will significantly improve the state's ability to control the gypsy moth both in the Twin Cities and throughout the state.

- Farmers' Market Nutrition program: The bill allocates $75,000 in FY 1999 for additional matching funds for the Farmers' Market Nutrition program proposed by the Governor. This widely praised program allocates food certificates to participants in the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) Program, which helps disadvantaged Minnesotans purchase fresh, locally grown fruits and vegetables.

- Ethanol: The Omnibus bill increases funding for the state's ethanol producer payment program to meet current and projected state needs. The $2.4 million adjustment will be made in FY 2000, and is not included in the $2.48 million agricultural appropriation for FY 1998 and FY 1999.

- Livestock depredation: The bill allocates $25,000 in FY 1999 for additional livestock depredation payments due to livestock lost to timber wolves. Also, the bill contained $25,000 in FY 1998 for a study of the cause of depredation on farms suffering significant wolf depredation problems.

The Omnibus Tax Bill included a provision for a three-year phase out of the 2.5 percent sales tax on new farm equipment. Legislators approved the elimination of the sales tax on used farm equipment last year.

Finally, the Governor signed two disaster relief packages — one allocating $8.8 million for the nearly 3,000 farmers in northwestern Minnesota dealing with crop diseases, and one allocating $27.6 million for the southern Minnesota counties dealing with tornado damage. From that southern Minnesota package, $4 million is directed to farmers through low-interest loans managed by the MDA's Rural Finance Authority.

Advisors named for statewide feedlot study

Environmental Quality Board Chairman Rodney Sando has appointed a 24-member citizen advisory committee to help guide a statewide study of the economic, environmental and social impacts of the changing livestock industry in Minnesota.

To begin this summer, the three-year study, called the Generic Environmental Impact Statement on Animal Agriculture in Minnesota, will examine the increasing trend toward large concentrations of animals on industrial-sized farms across the state. The citizen advisory group will help identify the issues to be examined by the study, the extent to which each issue will be addressed, and the accuracy and adequacy of each phase of the study.

"Selecting 24 from more than 150 highly qualified applicants was difficult but critical," commented Sando. "I believe this group not only strikes the right balance of interests, but also brings the right combination of experience and expertise to the table."

Broad public participation in the study will be sought to help set a course for future animal agriculture in Minnesota. Public hearings will be held across the state and numerous other opportunities will be provided for public comment. A schedule of committee and public hearings will be posted in the Environmental Quality Board web site at Minnesota Planning — www.mnplan.state.mn.us

Committee members chosen include: Ken Albrecht of North Mankato, Gary Allen of Eyota, Brian Buhr of Chisago City, Tom Cochrane of Eagan, Robert Ferguson of Heron Lake, John Fraser Hart of Minneapolis, Amy Fredregill of St. Paul, Troy Gilchrist of St.Michael, Roger Gilland of Morgan, Ed Hegland of Appleton, Patricia Henderson of Minneapolis, Suzanne McIntosh of Minneapolis, Helen Palmer of Rochester, Donna Peterson of Richville, Dave Preisler of North Mankato, George Reab of Faribault, Chris Radatz of St. Paul, Tina Rosenstein of St. Peters, Mark Schultz of Minneapolis, Kristin Sigford of St. Paul, Andy Steensma of St. Paul, Tim Tracy of Mankato and two state designees, one from Minnesota Pollution Control Agency and one from Minnesota Department of Agriculture.

The Environmental Quality Board, staffed by Minnesota Planning, draws together five citizens and the heads of 10 state agencies that play a vital role in Minnesota's environment and development. The board develops policy, creates long-range plans and reviews proposed projects that could significantly influence Minnesota's environment.

MDA distributes insurance forms for reimbursement

Relief is one step closer for struggling northwestern Minnesota farmers, who will soon be able to apply for $8.8 million in disaster relief from the state to cover crop insurance premiums paid for federal crop insurance.

Several years of wet weather and disease problems have diminished average crop yields in the region, and as a result, the insurance coverage available to farmers has shrunk.

Farmers will be able to complete a one-page federal crop insurance reimbursement claim form with their local federal crop insurance agent. The forms are the first step for farmers applying for disaster assistance from the state. The Minnesota Department of Agriculture will process the applications through its Agricultural Finance Division. Eligible producers will then receive their reimbursement, up to a maximum of $4,000 per farmer.

"Between wet weather and disease problems, farmers in northwestern Minnesota have been dealt a pretty difficult hand in the last few years," MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson said. "This reimbursement program will address some of the insurance problems many producers have been facing as a result of several consecutive poor growing seasons."

The reimbursement forms were distributed to local insurance agents by Assistant Commissioner Perry Aasness and Ag Finance Director Jim Boerboom at a meeting in Crookston. Aasness and Boerboom also explained the procedures for filling out the forms, and answered many questions.

Governor Arne Carlson signed the state reimbursement program into law this spring in order to reimburse eligible farmers for premiums and administrative fees paid for federal crop insurance on wheat and barley grown in crisis counties for the 1997 growing season.

To be eligible, the applicant must have the following:

- A crop covered by insurance located in the crisis counties of Beltrami, Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Lincoln, Lyon, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Pipestone, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau or Wilkin; and
- Experienced a 50 percent or greater loss from the county yield on wheat or barley in one or more of the growing seasons between 1993 and 1997; or
- Collected a crop insurance indemnity payment of wheat or barley in one or more growing seasons between 1993 and 1997; and
- Have submitted a properly completed application for assistance to the Commissioner of Agriculture on forms provided by the MDA on or before August 1, 1998. (Note: properly completed applications for federal crop insurance assistance take priority in the order in which they are received by the Commissioner.)

The forms may be completed with the help of a federal crop insurance agent, and mailed to MDA. The Department will collect applications until August 1, 1998.

Crop insurance agents who are not able to attend the meeting in Crookston may order application forms by calling MDA at 612-215-3946.

Ione Austad just keeps on giving...and giving...and...

hairdresser in Crookston and Hibbing prior to her marriage. Her husband, Ole, was born and raised on the farm, and between 1907 and 1910 the Malone store and post office was located in the house Ione now occupies with her son, Russell.

Over the years, the two-room house with an open upstairs was added on to a number of times to become the modern farm house that it is today. "This kitchen once had five doors!" Ione says. Only the large wood-burning stove in the big kitchen is a reminder of days gone by. "I use the stove all the time in the winter," Ione says.

Ione and Ole raised five children, two daughters and three sons, on their farm. Jean and Judy live in the Twin Cities. Gary lives in Detroit Lakes. Lyle, who works as a carpenter with Russell, lives in Trail. Ole died three years ago.

Nine grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren have added new branches to the Austad family tree, their pictures covering the walls of the living room along with photographs of their parents, great aunts and uncles, cousins and ancestors that go way back. Books and interesting collections, old and new, also occupy the built-in shelves in the spacious room.

A stuffed cow that was made by Ione's daughter to cover her sewing machine instead sits in a child's chair that Ole's father made in the early 1900's for his daughters. Made from a hollow oak log the chair once had a hinged seat so that the little girls could store their china dolls inside. Russell replaced the worn seat with a piece of oak from an old table and banded the splitting log so that the old chair can be handed down to another generation someday.

Since 1982 Ione has been earning extra money by refunding — sending labels, UPC codes or proof of purchase symbols to manufacturers in exchange for cash. "I keep my loot up there," Ione said, referring to the upstairs of her home.

"Loot" is an accurate description of the thousands and thousands of neatly trimmed labels that are contained in reclosable plastic bags and sorted by product type and placed in storage containers and boxes. To help his mother organize her labels, Russell built shelves that extend from the floor to the ceiling along the walls of two rooms.

The labels are saved by children, grandchildren, friends and neighbors and, of course, Ione who neatly trims them and files them away awaiting a rebate offer. "You don't dare throw anything away," Ione says. "You never know what they (the company) will ask for."

Every month five or six ladies in the neighborhood get together for a refunding meeting where they share information and socialize. "It's our night out," Ione explains. "We have a gab fest and some coffee." They've kept up with the times, too. A couple of the women have computers and are able to get refunding information from the internet. Ione was particularly proud of a check for $18.10 she received this week from a chocolate candy bar manufacturer.

Labels are all Ione has stored in the upstairs of her home. She makes quilt tops, and although she says, "I don't make fancy quilts," her quilts are beautiful. Pieced from bright new prints and solids, Ione uses just about every imaginable pattern to make her quilt tops — from the traditional Dresden plate and log cabin to the more contemporary banner pattern. Nothing goes to waste as odds and ends are fashioned into crazy quilts. When asked how long it takes to make a quilt top, Ione responds, "Oh, not long. When I sew, I sew!"

Ione does most of her sewing on an old Singer treadle machine that has been modernized with an electric motor. "I love that machine," she says. She has another newer machine that has a zig-zag stitch. As another means of supplementing her income she sells her quilt tops for a very modest price.

However, when the big flood hit our neighbors to the west in the spring of 1997, the quilt tops Ione had on hand were finished and taken to the Evangelical Free Church where flood victims were sheltered. She sewed tags with her name and address into those first five quilts with requests that the recipients contact her. She received letters from two of them — a young woman who said she would use the quilt to cover her bed in her dorm room when she went to college in the fall and an older woman from Grand Forks.

As relatives, friends and neighbors provided her with materials, Ione continued to sew quilts for flood victims, and five quilts turned into fifty. After her initial donation at the church, she was told to take the other quilts to the Seventh Day Adventist Church where the Salvation Army was housed. Every time she appeared with more quilts, she would hear someone say, "Here comes the quilt lady!" Colored sheets from the Seventh Day Adventist Church provided the backing for many of her quilts. About her generosity, Ione simply says, "God gave me the ability. Somebody else gave me the materials. Why not do it?"

Stating that, "We're all doing the Lord's work," Ione has gotten more sheets from the Seventh Day Adventist Church to back the quilts that she and the other ladies at Ebenezer Lutheran Church make for Lutheran World Relief. Ione provides many of those quilt tops also, finding that others are either no longer interested in sewing or have jobs that don't allow them the time. However, she says, "Everyone likes to get together to tie the quilts."

Ione's generous spirit doesn't end with her quilts but extends out into her huge family gardens. Not one, but three gardens occupy only a portion of the enormous park-like farm yard. Along with the rows of vegetables of every variety are patches of strawberries and rows of raspberry bushes. And what her son Russell meticulously plants, Ione harvests and gives away.

Ione cans, freezes, pickles and makes jars and jars of jelly, and friends and neighbors reap the benefits of the Austad garden and kitchen. Even reporters leave the farm with a jar of raspberry jelly, a grocery bag full of beets and instructions on how to make jelly from the beet juice.

Looking at the beautiful flowers that surround the house and fill her flower gardens, one would think that she had spent hundreds of dollars at the nursery. Instead, her lush geraniums are kept over the winter from year to year. Other plants are grown from seeds or slips from others. Still others are gifts from her children. Russell built flower boxes around the outside of the deck. Other plants are contained in interesting old containers once used on the farm by an earlier generation.

A grove of green maple trees is the result of a box of seeds her daughter once sent her. Mature pine trees were once seedlings from the church yard. Ione started and planted a number of apple trees from seeds.

One would never guess that this perky little lady in her seventies hasn't always been the picture of health. In 1984 she had three angina attacks, and in 1994 she suffered congestive heart failure. "Two years ago, I had my pipes cleaned out," she says. The "pipe" was an artery that was 95-percent blocked, and the surgery prevented a stroke. Today, "I feel just great!" she says with the enthusiasm of a 16-year- old. However, though there wasn't a word of complaint, most of her monthly Social Security income is used to purchase medication.

Ione's simple, giving spirit is just part of her nature. When asked to pose for a photograph with one of her quilt tops, she had to be coaxed out from behind it. Surely, she didn't expect or even necessarily want any special recognition for doing only what comes so naturally to her.

However, when questioned about her award, Ione says, "I'm awed by it. I feel good about it." And with two daughters in the Twin Cities and sons offering to take her there, she would like to take in the Minnesota State Fair next month.

As for the granddaughter who nominated her for the Outstanding Senior award, Ione says, "She's such a dear."

It's easy to see why Kari Austad Wilde would want to be just like her grandma. If more of us were like Ione Austad, the world would be a much better place.

Westrom said that limitation of any size livestock operation could have a serious impact on the state economy because livestock makes up more than 50 percent of total farm income. Free enterprise should be allowed to function in all situations, he said, except when limitations may be determined impartially on a regional basis due to economic, social and environmental health of that region.

Arnold Stanley of Grygla opened the testimony with a plea for common sense in dealing with livestock issues, noting that 30 years ago he was among the early producers to have 1,000 head of cattle in a feedlot. He termed manure pits "a total failure in some cases."

During a second chance to comment at the end of the meeting, Stanley complained that the public is blaming the wrong people. "Why is everybody picking on the farmer?" he asked. "When engineering (on manure facilities) is wrong, the public blames the farmer. Americans have the cheapest food in the world, but people still blame the farmer."

Randy Nowacki, who lives five miles north of Thief River Falls in the area of the new Excel Dairy, and several other persons believe that owners of large livestock operations should live on the premises. Galen Lisell and Craig and Nola Brandt, who live in the area of the Pristine Pork hog operation in Roseau county, also mentioned that investors live hundreds of miles from their facilities.

Rod Skoie of Clearbrook again expressed concern for regional representation on the citizens' committee, stating that he knew of two well qualified Clearwater county persons who had applied for membership but neither had been selected. While acknowledging that the state has the authority to control, he questioned if it has the knowledge.

Marcella Gonsorowski of Newfolden cited feedlot rules adopted in 1995 and revised in 1996 and said she was concerned about "study after study" being conducted without reaching any final conclusions.

Don Barron, a member of the Thief River Falls city council, questioned the MPCA use of a standard of 30 parts per billion of hydrogen sulfide as being too restrictive. He noted that at certain times that standard would make the city's sewage lagoons out of compliance and that water released from Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge in the spring had measured 3.84 parts per million or 3,840 parts per billion.

Nola and Craig Brandt said that neighbors at first welcomed the location of Pristine Pork hog facility, but that the owners overbuilt beyond their permit and that the operation had leaks and spills nearly from the outset. They were concerned that violators of regulations governing feedlots are not dealt with more severely by MPCA.

Gail Steinhauer of Thief River Falls commented that years ago nearly every farm had dairy cattle and people drove past the smell every Sunday on their way to church "and nobody died from it." But Sandra Peterson, also of Thief River Falls, said there is a definite difference in odor between "plain cattle manure and liquid in storage."

Bev Hewitt of Lancaster, a Kittson county commissioner, said she was concerned about farmers' rights and that they shouldn't be required to make expensive changes that could put them out of business.

Joe Dse of Thief River Falls noted that early settlers of the area came here because they wanted the freedom to better themselves. He disputed the idea that feedlots should not be permitted in populated areas because rural residences were there first. "Baloney," he said, "farmers were there first....Are we going to be agricultural or something else?"

Glenn Rivard of Argyle said it was of the utmost importance to save the family farm and that the American people continue to want cheap food. He believes that "relocation of animals and people" may need to be considered.

Julie Gustafson said her family sold its cows because it couldn't afford to keep farming and that economies won't support a small family farm. She said rules on livestock farming will hit the small farmers the hardest and suggested that a right to farm bill may be necessary.

Curt Nyegaard, Kittson county extension educator, chastised the MPCA for a lack of two-way communication, citing instances where the agency had been unresponsive to efforts by the feedlot committee in his county. He also said he didn't believe cow/calf operators should be subject to the same regulations as commercial feedlots.

Howard Person, Pennington county extension educator, suggested to those in attendance to "be careful what you ask for because you might get it." He said the main issues in animal agriculture are odor and economics and that increased emphasis should be placed on research and engineering for odor reduction and pollution control. There should be an emphasis placed on locating spots where feedlot facilities can be located without infringing on others, he said, and perhaps zoning for animal agriculture should be considered.

Nancy Haglund, Red Lake county commissioner and Delray Larson, Marshall county commissioner, both advocated local control because local people have a greater interest in their environment and economies.

EQB board chairman Sando concluded the hearing by saying that there appeared to be a lot of commonality in the concerns expressed around the state. The Thief River Falls hearing was the fifth of six with the final one the next evening in Fergus Falls.

THE LYON'S SHARE

By Tim Lyon

Doug is a gravel-throated, often overly macho sort from northern Iowa. He enjoyed strutting the dock Gathering experience up here for several years, he actually went on to fish the Professional Walleye Trail circuit for a season. Despite the regular over-emphasis on his masculinity, I remember him fondly for his more tender moments.

Doug once circumnavigated Oak Island on a densely fogged August morning without ever catching sight of shore until throttling down a mere 50 feet off the dock. The accomplishment might have been more noteworthy had not his intention been to cross Deepwater Bay and run north up the Tug Channel nearly eight miles to the east. His blush was genuine.

He also hugged me once just north of Snake Island during a near-death experience. That tale is for another time, but the combination of Doug's normal daily machismo and my healthy Episcopalian upbringing (we don't like physical contact with other people—a handshake will suffice, thank you) has etched that embrace as a significantly sharing moment in my life. However, it is Doug at a particular shore lunch that will always frame my impressions of him.

As Doug remembers them, the young couple were newlyweds from Chicago, unaccustomed to the out-of-doors and eager for an adventure. With no real preconceived notion as to how the next 10 hours might play out, these two were a guide's dream trip. Whether taking in fishing advice or enduring some self-absorbed personal guide history, newcomers like this always seem to listen and nod. They'd be easily impressed by the scenery, by the remote quality of the terrain, by the magnitude of the lake, by whatever fish might come aboard, and most certainly by their guide's ability to master all of this.

Unfortunately, it's hard to prove mastery over anything when a morning of steady rain and three perch and a smallmouth bass are all that greet the noon lunch whistle.

It was wet enough, Doug recalls, that he was glad he'd remembered to bring along a Clorox bottle full of gasoline with which to start the fire—a small success in an otherwise humbling day. A few well-placed sprinkles and things started to smolder. Doug went off to clean what little the cooler had to offer, while his guests gathered wood and tended a somewhat stubborn fire.

Now, it doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out that two inexperienced woodspeople aren't going to stare at an obstinate fire and a half-gallon of flammable liquid for long without putting the two together. To be brief, they did—but in adding gas to the flame they also managed to add flame to the gas. The Clorox bottle popped to life like a Fourth of July Roman candle.

Ever mindful of his responsibilities to the guests' safety and to the preservation of the woods, Doug raced over and kicked the plastic gallon inferno into the lake where it harmlessly hissed out. He turned to firmly reprimand his charges about the dangers of casual, inexperienced use of gasoline. Never, he lectured, attempt such hazardous acts without professional guidance.

The looks on their faces spoke volumes. They were obviously terrified of both the potential danger to which they'd been exposed and of the admonishment they were receiving. It took a few stuttering seconds for their lips to craft the appropriate response:

"Y-Y-You're on f-f-f-fire!"

A confused Doug looked over his shoulder to see whom they were addressing and noticed the flames licking up his backside. His well-directed place-kick of the Clorox container had splashed gas across the legs of his jeans and the blaze now threatened to cook him crisper than a shore lunch fillet.

Doug's panic propelled him toward the lake. He was about 10 feet from the waterline when it occurred to him that he could not swim. Great. Stop. Think. You're on fire. Third grade. Stop, drop and roll. Stop, drop and roll.

His body obliged and bounced roughly to the ground where 15 seconds of frantic writhing across rocks and roots successfully extinguished the human torch. Eyeglasses ended up in the low brush and fillets were lost, having been kicked into the lake during the confusion.

Doug's hair and clothing were filled with pine needles, rock cactus and ash that are so indigenous to shore lunch points. His jeans, though no longer ablaze, still carried the oily stench of burned plastic. Shore lunch dinner theater.

It was while looking for his glasses, a defeated Doug recollects, that out of the corner of his blurred vision he saw their 16-foot Lund drifting aimlessly away from shore on the strengthening south wind. He never was very good with knots.

It was maybe an hour and a half before the game warden's boat appeared, towing the truant vessel. No, there were no tickets written, just a lot of crow eaten, which was probably more satisfying than the previous meal. And the time spent waiting for rescue had given Doug a lot of time to listen to anything his guests wanted to discuss.

Volleyball, basketball coach arrives in TRF

New Northland Community and Technical College volleyball and women's basketball coach Mike Zachow (left) was introduced to the local media after Tuesday by athletic director Rick Nelson (right) during a press conference at the school. Zachow was named coach of the two programs July 8 and arrived in town Monday.

Mike Zachow was named earlier this month as the new volleyball and women's basketball coach at Northland Community and Technical College Tuesday he was introduced to members of the local media by athletic director Rick Nelson, a day after arriving in Thief River Falls to set up residence and begin a hurried catch-up effort in recruiting.

"I'm ready to go at it," said Zachow. "I'm looking for a place to live, looking for volleyball players, and I'm looking for an office."

It's a late date to begin recruiting, especially for a volleyball program that begins in less than a month, admitted Zachow. "I'll take what I can get," he said. "I've done that in the past as a high school coach where you can't recruit; you work with what you have."

There are players expected to return from last year's team, and incoming student-athletes who have expressed interest in playing volleyball to other Northland officials while awaiting the appointment of a new coach. Zachow might also try to convince a few others who have signed letters of intent to play basketball and softball at the school to continue their multiple-sport high school efforts at Northland and give college volleyball a try.

A stronger nucleus returns in basketball, along with a handful of recruits landed earlier, that should make the winter season a little easier on the new coach.

"I'm a person who likes to stay busy, and the way things look, I'll be busy until March," said Zachow, who comes to Northland from the University of Wisconsin-Platteville, where for the past two seasons, he was an assistant women's basketball coach. He has also been a head girls basketball coach and volleyball coach at the high school level in the Milwaukee area.

"I'm happy to be at Northland," said Zachow. "I know I have a lot of things to learn, but I want to win, and I'm going to do all I can to win."

Grygla volleyball camp is set to open Monday

Summer volleyball camp at the Grygla School will be held Monday through Thursday, July 27-30.

Designed for girls from throughout the area who are entering grades 5-12 this fall, the camp will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. each day. Cost is $45.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke head volleyball coach Jean Schulz is organizing the camp.

Post 117 out-scores EGF 16-13

A day after Thief River Falls lost a head-shaking 19-15 game to Roseau in the second half of an American Legion baseball doubleheader at Irv Wilson Field, Post 117 was right back in the middle of another football-like 16-13 final Wednesday – this time coming out a winner over East Grand Forks in a make-up of a July 7 postponement at Stauss Park.

"It's getting wild lately," confessed Thief River Falls coach Mike Wienen, whose team climbed to within one game of .500 (16-17) with the extra-inning victory.

The two teams finished the regulation seven innings tied at 12-12. Both scored a run in the eighth before Thief River Falls came up with a three-run ninth that squared the season-long series between the two Ninth District rivals at 3-3. East Grand Forks won the first half of the scheduled doubleheader earlier this month 7-2 before rains washed out the nightcap, producing Wednesday's single-game matchup.

A lead-off double by Dayton Elseth started the game-winning frame. Andrew Solem drew an intentional walk and Joey Pribula drove the ball down the line to score two runs. Jeremy Swanson later added a two-out RBI double to ice it.

"I'm very satisfied with the win," said Wienen, whose team lost out on a chance to improve its post-season seeding position with the Tuesday doubleheader loss to Roseau, but came back to deny East Grand Forks the opportunity to wrap up the No. 1 spot in the Ninth District North Division. Instead, that honor will go to Roseau.

The eight-team, double-elimination state tournament-qualifying Ninth District playoffs will be held July 30-31 and Aug. 1-2 at Matson Field in Moorhead. First round match-ups will pair teams from the North Division (Roseau, East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls, Crookston) against teams from the South Division (Moorhead, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls, Perham).

Thief River Falls will finish its regular season schedule Monday with a 5 p.m. doubleheader at Perham. A Thursday twinbill at Red Lake Falls was called off upon request of Red Lake Falls officials.

Sports meeting sleted for Goodridge, Grygla

A fall sports meeting with coaches will be held Thursday, Aug. 13 for Goodridge and Grygla students involved in volleyball, football and cheerleading.

The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Goodridge school. Participation fees are due that night.

Roseau sweeps TRF Legion

Thief River Falls lost a pair of American Legion baseball games to Roseau Tuesday, but it was a 7-5 eight-inning first-game setback that bothered Post 117 coach Mike Wienen more than the high-scoring 19-15 defeat in the doubleheader nightcap.

Down 3-0 early and trailing 4-2 heading into the bottom of the sixth, Thief River Falls rallied for a 5-4 first-game lead on a two-run home run by Ryan Loeslie that just cleared the right-field fence and a two-out RBI single to center by Dayton Elseth.

With runners at first and third, there was an opportunity to do more damage that inning when Andy Harbott drove a hard-hit grounder up the middle. But the long infield grass slowed the ball enough for shortstop Justin Oster to make the final-out play.

Roseau then tied it in the top of the seventh on a one-out walk issued to Jesse Hendrickson, a sacrifice bunt by Ryan Fevold and an RBI single to left by Pete Erickson.

Joey Pribula looked like he ended the game in the bottom of the seventh with a long, one-out drive to left-center that first drew a home run wave from the umpire, but was quickly changed to a ground-rule double when the Roseau outfielders argued, convincingly, that the ball went under, not over the fence.

Moments later Pribula was caught coming off second on a ball hit to the left side and was promptly tagged out in a run-down, pushing the game into extra innings.

The eighth wasn't a good one for Post 117. A hit-batsman (Oster) and a double off the fence down the left field line by Aaron Degerness quickly put two Roseau runners in scoring position in the top of the inning. They both crossed the plate on a well-placed suicide squeeze bunt by Josh Olson. Oster scored easily, and the opportunistic Degerness raced home from second on the play when Thief River Falls had a momentary lapse defensively.

Misfortune followed Thief River Falls into the bottom of the eighth. After walking the first two batters he faced, Roseau relief pitcher Tony Erickson found himself facing the No. 2-3-4 hitters in Post 117 line-up. But two fly balls resulted in three outs to end the threat – a pop foul outside first base and a high drive that gave right fielder Dustin Mertens trouble. Wienen was convinced the ball was going to fall behind Mertens and waved the runner home from second. But it was caught and tossed back into the infield for an easy, game-ending double play.

"We could have easily won the first game," admitted Wienen. "We just couldn't finish it. We made a couple of mistakes and had a couple of bad breaks."

Thief River Falls tried to get a split out of it by taking a 13-6 lead in the third inning of Game 2, but simply ran out of pitching. Loeslie was the starter, but his work load was limited because he was scheduled to pitch in the VFW district tournament for 16-year-olds this weekend, and Wienen had to hold on to an available arm for a next-day Legion make-up game against East Grand Forks.

And with regular shortstop Paul Frank out of town, changes in the Thief River Falls' defensive line-up led to a half-dozen second-game errors.

"Because of job situations and other things, we really haven't had much of a chance to work as a full squad in practice, and that's really hurt our defense," explained Wienen, who hopes to change that situation in the work-outs that will precede Friday's start of the Ninth District tournament in Moorhead.

Thief River Falls runner Joey Pribula doubled with one out in the bottom of the seventh inning in the first game of an American Legion baseball doubleheader against Roseau Tuesday, but moments later was caught in a rundown when he broke for third on a ground ball hit to shortstop Justin Oster. Roseau won the game 7-5 in eight innings, then completed the sweep with a high-scoring 19-15 second game victory.

Fall sports participants issued yearly reminder

All Lincoln High School and Franklin Middle School athletes planning to participate in a Thief River Falls fall sports program are reminded to have their required forms completed and user fees paid before the start of practice, it was pointed out this week by Jim Sims, Director of Student Activities for School District 564.

Participants will not be allowed to practice until all forms are completed and fees paid, and are on file in the Lincoln activities office.

Forms will be available at the activities office, which will be open Tuesday and Wednesday, July 28 and 29, and then on a Monday-through-Friday basis beginning Aug. 3 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Athletes are required to have a physical exam every three years. If you need a physical, appointments should be made in advance of the start of practice, pointed out Sims.

Activities fees are $60 at Lincoln High School and $45 at Franklin Middle School. Participants should bring a check or the correct amount of cash, along with all the necessary forms, to the activities office. They will then be issued a white permit card to give to their coach.

The Natural Product Of The Decade!
Cell Forte IP-6

Nutritional Formula That Increases Natural Killer T-Cell Activity!
IP-6 is a natural compound found primarily in grains and soybeans. The IP-6 in Cell Forte comes from the bran portion of brown rice. It's nearly impossible to consume enough grain to equal the powerful benefits of Cell Forte with IP-6. Cell Forte boosts your natural cellular defenses by increasing the levels of inositol phosphates in your cells, thus it boosts your entire immune system and makes you able to kill abnormal molecules that could damage your cells.
CELL FORTE WITH IP-6 IS AVAILABLE AT YOUR FAVORITE HEALTH FOOD STORE.

Excel Dairy will hold open house August 12

Public open house at Excel Dairy north of Thief River Falls will be conducted on Wednesday, August 12, from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. Owners Larry and Rhonda Amundson invite all interested persons to visit the dairy during the open house hours.

Originally planned for early June to coincide with Northwest Dairy Day, the open house was postponed when Dairy Day was canceled by the Northwest Dairy Improvement Association. Dairy Day was later authorized to be conducted by a group of interested dairy people and rescheduled as part on An American Festival.

August 12 was selected as the replacement date for the Excel Dairy open house to accommodate a visit to the farm by the Minnesota Agri-Growth Council. About 130 representatives of the Council are expected to participate in a private visit to the dairy from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

"After the Agri Growth Council visit in the morning, we will be able to give our attention to the public during the afternoon open house from 12:30 to 3:30," Rhonda Amundson said.

"There will be no special tours planned, but visitors are encouraged to move about the dairy at their leisure. Representatives of equipment manufacturers and suppliers and some of our employees will be on hand in various areas of the operation to provide information and answer questions."

A registration table will be located outside the office area of the dairy where visitors can sign a guest book and be issued disposable plastic boots to wear while moving about the grounds, barns and milking parlor. The boots will be required attire and serve a dual purpose of protecting footwear and preventing introduction of unwanted organisms into the confinement operation.

The Amundsons began using their new dairy operation in August of 1997 and as of early this week were milking 1,045 cows three times a day. The double-20 milking parlor permits milking of 40 cows at a time with computer recording of production for each cow in the herd.

At present the Amundsons employ 22 people in addition to themselves in the dairy operation. They also purchase hay and corn from several area farmers and have area contractural arrangements for selling their calves and purchasing springing heifers.

"We have had so many people ask about visiting the dairy that we are excited about the open house and showing everyone how the system works," the Amundsons added. "It will be greatly appreciated if everyone will register, wear the plastic boots we will provide and observe the public open house hours from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m."

Strathcona woman finalist for honor

Strathcona - Claiming to be just a plain, ordinary farm woman, Rhonda Gust of Strathcona is one of six finalists for Farm and Ranch Guide magazine's "Country Woman of the Year."

In addition to being responsible for a number of chores on the Gust farm, Rhonda is very active in her church and the 4-H program.

Out of 60 nominees, she was selected as one of six finalists to be honored at the North Dakota State Fair. The final phase of the competition took place this week. The Tribune

Grafton company helps American Crystal cool off

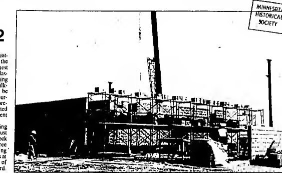
Grafton, ND - Sand Iron and Steel of Grafton is the manufacturer of some of the materials being used for a $20 million storage-upgrade project.

The project will give American Crystal the ability to freeze beets faster, keeping then in good condition longer while in storage. The system uses fans to circulate cold air underneath beet piles. Tarps sealed over the piles keep the beets frozen as temperatures warm up. The Walsh County Record

Bagley plant has hand in 'Victory'

Bagley - Employees at Product Research and Development (PRD) of Bagley will share a bit of the "made in the USA" pride as Polaris' Victory motorcycles begin to rumble through the streets of America.

The Bagley manufacturer assembles the split gear assembly. PRD is a member of TEAM Industries. Two other TEAM plants are involved in assembling parts for the motorcycle engine. The Victory engine assembly plant is in Osceola, WI, and the final assembly plant is in Spirit Lake, IA.



Already named "Best Cruiser of 1998" by Cycle World, the 1999 Victory V92C is the first significant motorcycle widely distributed by a new American manufacturer in 60 years. Polaris plans to manufacture 2,000 to 3,000 Victorys by the end of 1998, nearly all of which are pre-sold at retail. Plans are to significantly increase production in 1999. Farmers Independent

Party nearly spins out of control

Kensington - A weekend party nearly showed up out of control as 1,000 to 2,000 young people showed up, prompting noise complaints from several neighbors upset by all the commotion.

While only one arrest was made, an adult for driving under the influence of alcohol, other charges may be in the works. The conditional use permits from the county Land and Resources, food permits from public health and permission from law enforcement was not obtained. Because of that the sheriff is looking into filing charges against the property owners who signed a contract with "Kids Against Violence" to allow the party to take place on their land in exchange for money. Echo Press

Meeting set on $2 million wetland mitigation project

Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) encourages the public to attend a public information meeting on the proposed Vesledahl wetland project in Winger and Garden townships of Polk county on Wednesday, August 12, from 4 to 7 p.m. at the Winger city hall.

The Vesledahl project involves 1,886 acres of land which is planned to be purchased and developed into a wetland mitigation site for the purpose of mitigating state, county, township and city highway construction projects in this region of Minnesota. Estimated cost for purchase and development of the entire project is approximately $2 million.

The public is invited to stop at the Winger city hall any time between 4 and 7 p.m. to ask questions and discuss the project with staff members of Mn/DOT and the Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR).

The informal meeting format means that no panel or speaker presentation will be given. Persons attending will meet directly with the half dozen or so representatives of Mn/DOT and BWSR. This process will permit greater time flexibility and individual attention, according to MnDOT officials.

Area for the project is 1,886 acres owned by Steve and Bob Vesledahl and located in non-contiguous sites primarily two miles west of Winger. Land acquisition cost would be about $1.2 million and be paid by the Department of Transportation. At present 1,704 acres of the site are under cultivation. Excluded from the land sale are the active building sites.

The project is a cooperative effort between Mn/DOT and BWSR, with the latter obligated for the design and construction of the mitigation site. Present studies indicate that at least 586 acres can be returned to wetland status, with the possibility of up to 700 acres being used for that purpose.

The project plan calls for placing 117 ditch plugs to back up water into potholes on the property, according to Mn/DOT technician Mark Hovdestad, who has been working on the project in the Bemidji office building. He said studies are being done to determine if additional acreage beyond the 586 can be converted to wetland without backing water upstream from the

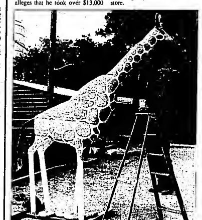
TRF man charged with intent to sell cocaine

Nathan Lee Jennewein, 24, Thief River Falls, was notified Monday, July 27, that he was being charged with intending to sell cocaine, a controlled substance crime in the fourth degree.

A Pennington County Law Enforcement spokesperson said the charge against Jennewein stems from a search warrant executed at Jennewein's residence at Lot 18B Country Estates, on May 4, 1998. During that search they found 9.9 grams of cocaine. Officers also found an electric scale, some of the cocaine in bindles, and scissors with a white powder on it.

According to court records, Jennewein was sentenced in Pennington County July 6, 1998, on a controlled substance crime in the fifth degree as a result of a Paul Bunyan Task Force investigation. Specifically, the charge stemmed from the sale of 1.4 ounces of marijuana to a confidential informant at Jennewein's residence on January 13, 1998. Jennewein entered a guilty plea to the charge on June 9, 1998. As a result, Jennewein was ordered to pay a fine and fees totaling $590, granted Huber privileges, placed on five years supervised probation and ordered not to depart the state or use or take alcohol or drugs.



Jennewein is expected to appear in a Ninth District Court room to face the charge on August 3, 1998.

TRF SuperValu manager arrested

Mike Howard, manager of the SuperValu Foods store in Thief River Falls, was arrested on Wednesday, July 29.

Howard, 46, Thief River Falls, is being held in the Pennington County Law Enforcement jail. He appeared in a Pennington County courtroom Thursday afternoon and was charged with theft over $2,500. The complaint specifically alleges that he took over $13,000 from the SuperValu store in Thief River Falls. A public defender was appointed to represent Howard and bond was set at $20,000. His next appearance in court has been scheduled for 10 a.m. on August 3.

A Thief River Falls Police department spokesperson said that police are continuing to conduct its investigation into allegations that he wrongfully took funds from the store.

Dene Klos puts the finishing touches on a giraffe which will be used as a target during the 47th Annual Outdoor Broadhead Tournament in Thief River Falls. The tournament will be hold at the outdoor field course from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on August 1 and 2.

City receives a clean bill of health in audit

"Fly Local" promotion changes are announced

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Except for a few minor issues, the City of Thief River Falls received a clean bill of health from its auditors — Anderson, Poissant and Kays & Co. Michelle Benton presented the audit to the City Council Tuesday night saying there were "no major problems, and everything looked good."

Benton noted a few areas where the city could improve procedures, specifically, documentation of bid compliance, keeping clippings of public notices on file, keeping and stamping a date on all envelopes, and maintaining a separate file for bid projects.

Benton went through the audit with the council. The report concluded that, "We found that the accounts and records are in good order and conscientiously maintained."

The council accepted the audit, and then received additional city financial information from Lisa Johnson, accountant for the city.

Johnson provided an estimate of quick assets (fund reserves). The city has a total of $7,399,712 in quick assets. Of the total $3,875,630 are from dedicated funds, restricted by statute or city policy. According to information presented, total quick assets have remained fairly consistent since 1993. There are additional funds held in city accounts in trust or for special revenue capacity. Those funds include the Deferred Compensation plan fund for city employees ($1,876,507), the Swimming Pool fund ($170,902), the Thief River Falls Library Fund ($6,100), the River Dredging fund ($105,132), the Zehlian's River Walk ($21,027), the Greenwood Cemetery fund ($204,857), the Golf Course fund ($15,616), and the Depot Restoration fund ($418,124).

Of major concern for the council over the last few years has been the city's bonded indebtedness. Currently, the city carries a bonded indebtedness of $12,212,000, which amounts to $1,487.92 per person. (Thief River Falls' population has been estimated at 8,285.) The city's water treatment plant debt represents $598.93 per person.

The bonded indebtedness is important because it affects the interest rates the city receives for its bonds, which is a cost to taxpayers, and they demand a high debt service. Moody's Investors Services, has assigned a Baa3 to the City of Thief River Falls due to a "very high debt burden, stable financial position supported by enterprise fund transfers, and limited agricultural economy."

According to the same report from Moody's, "Moody's believes the city's high debt burden of 12.1 percent will continue to slowly decline given minimal future borrowing plans and above average principal retirement. The high debt burden is partly attributable to a large borrowing by the overlapping school district. However, approximately 66 percent of the debt service requirement for that issue is expected to be paid by the state. Taking that adjustment into account, the city's debt burden would decline to 8.1 percent, still twice the median for similarly sized cities. Self-support from user charges for the city's general obligation water treatment plant bonds is only marginal and represents a future claim on city taxable resources should self-support not be maintained. Officials indicate that the city council is committed to self-support of the bonds by the enterprise revenues."

In addition, Moody's cited two other important factors — consecutive operating surpluses that have resulted in a General Fund balance equivalent to 17 percent of 1996 General Fund revenues, a level officials plan to maintain; and the fact that key agri-business firms and a large industrial employer contribute to the regional economic importance of the city despite a consistently high unemployment rate.

The base levy for the City of Thief River Falls has remained very stable since 1990, but the amount needed to cover debt and special levies has increased dramatically.

Johnson presented a summary of area cities debt per person (1996 data). Thief River Falls has the highest debt per capita ($1,487.92) among the Cities of Crookston ($1,263), East Grand Forks ($586.96), Detroit Lakes ($394.59), Bemidji ($645.58) and Fergus Falls ($894.18).

The city council has pursued a policy of attempting to reduce that debt burden by continuing to pay off principal and not issuing significant bond amounts. If the city continues this policy, the debt burden should begin to drop significantly after the year 2000.

"Fly Local" Change

Northwest Airlines has announced that it plans to extend the "Fly Local" program to Thief River Falls turbo-prop markets. As it was first implemented, the program included reduced one-way advanced purchase walk-up fares to Minneapolis-St. Paul, as well as a consistent add-on to destinations beyond the Twin Cities. However, as this program was only offered in Northwest Airlines turbo-prop markets, several jet flights en route to Minneapolis/St. Paul via Grand Forks were not eligible for the "Fly Local" program.

As of September 9, all flights will be route over Bemidji with

Fort Win-E-Mac to be built in a day

Erskine - Using materials obtained in the community and a design by Learning Structures, Inc., volunteers will build a 14,000 square foot playground in one day.

September 12 has been selected as the date and volunteers of all skill levels are needed.

The playground will feature a 40-foot space trolley, ten tire bouncer, monster truck, patriot theater, Tarzan vines, swings and slides. The main attraction, the Win-E-Mac fort, will include three community towers featuring tire bridges, tunnels and fire poles. Erskine Echo

Memorial stone dedicated to fallen EGF police officer

East Grand Forks - A ceremony commemorating the 20th anniversary of the death of police officer Kenneth Olson was held on July 19 at the police station in East Grand Forks.

The Police Department felt it was proper to dedicate a stone memorial to Olson who was killed while on duty in 1978. He is believed to be the only police officer to die while on duty in the history of East Grand Forks. The Tribune

Will Driver's License Be National I.D. Card?

Is it just paranoia, or is that tightness we feel around our necks really the federal noose being drawn a little tighter? There are many activities afoot in the Washington bureaucracy and we don't like the direction of many of them.

Recently we commented about the computer compilation of medical records and how they could be used to the individual's detriment by a less-than-charitable government. Now we hear about another effort to circumvent adverse national public opinion and utilize regulations to add another digit to the government's I.D. tattoo.

"The Department of Transportation has just issued new regulations to which all states receiving federal assistance must conform," reports Lisa Dean of the Free Congress Foundation. "Beginning in October in the year 2000, states must have driver's licenses which feature a person's Social Security number for identification. Without that license, citizens will no longer be eligible for health care or employment, or to conduct bank transactions, board an airplane, purchase insurance, obtain a passport, and so forth."

Dean describes how the driver's license was drafted for extra duty.

"When Congress had an up-and-down vote on a national I.D. card during the immigration debate a couple of sessions ago," she says, "it emphatically rejected such a process. Congress understands that opposition to any sort of internal passport runs deep. Americans have always prided ourselves in the fact that we have no such internal controls. A citizen could be born and live here without ever being on the government's radar screen."

So instead of acting openly to create a federal identification card, Congress passed— and the Department of Transportation is implementing—a backdoor national I.D. card.

"If you just want to grow up minding your own business, without any government assistance whatsoever, which is a venerable American tradition, forget it," Dean says.

"Now every baby as of the age of two months has to get a Social Security card. And now every driver's license will contain that number. And with the new databases Congress has just approved, from the time a kid gets a summer job to the time the statisticians determine he has exceeded the healthcare rationing quota and the plug is pulled, that citizen is going to be tracked in a way that Josef Stalin would have admired."

Of course, acceding to this self-strangulation is purely voluntary. Conformation is required only if states elect to receive federal assistance. (How many states do you know that would turn their backs on the return flow of federal tax money from Washington?)

"The tradeoff has become so routine that hardly anyone notices: 'new regulations to which all states receiving federal assistance must conform.' There it is, right in the second paragraph, and how many of you stopped to consider the far-reaching implications?" asks F. R. Duplantier of America's Future.

Social Security I.D. on your driver's license; free government access to your medical records; smart chips controlling your automobile ignition; electronic income tax filing; sophisticated computers capable of storing and instantly retrieving information about every person in the nation, and the list goes on....

Feeling uncomfortable yet?

We are.

Candidate Would Get Tough On Registration By Sex Offenders

David Lillehaug, a former U.S. Attorney who is a candidate for Minnesota Attorney General, is making a campaign issue of lax enforcement of state law requiring that convicted predatory sex offenders register with probation officers and law enforcement. He contends that offenders who violate this law usually get only a slap on the wrist.

Lillehaug would rather slap on the cuffs. "Sex offenders who do not register should receive significant executed sentences of incarceration," he says.

The candidate cited a study done by WATCH, a court monitoring group, which indicates a number of sex offenders are violating the registration law. "Moreover," he said, "it appears that their disregard of the law is not being taken seriously enough by the criminal justice system."

According to the WATCH study, 118 cases charging failure to register have been filed since 1991—most of them (95) in 1996 or thereafter. Of the 81 cases resolved before April of 1998, most were dismissed, continued for dismissal or sentences were stayed. Only nine defendants were required to serve any additional time in jail after sentencing, and the median additional jail term was only 29 days.

While a few judges consider failure to register a serious offense, Lillehaug said, others treat it as a "technical violation" on the same level with failing to update an address on a driver's license.

He proposes that failure to register cases should be treated by the prosecutors, probation officers and judges as serious offenses, not as technical violations, and that they should be prosecuted by the county attorneys' offices that secured the original convictions. Victim advocates should be assigned to the cases and victims should be involved (if they wish) at all stages of the proceedings. Probation officers and law enforcement should be given the funds to make regular home visits to ascertain the locations of sex offenders, Lillehaug says.

"Continuances for dismissal and stays of sentences should be rarities, not the rule," he added. We agree with that opinion.

Kittson Co. Commissioner comments on feedlot GEIS

(Editor's Note: Bev Hewitt of Lancaster, a member of the Kittson county board of commissioners, was among those to testify recently at the hearing in Thief River Falls on the General Environmental Impact Statement (GEIS) on animal agriculture, commonly referred to as the "feedlot GEIS."

In response to an invitation by the Northern Watch for the public to provide comment on the GEIS just getting underway, Mrs. Hewitt has provided this office with a copy of the comments she has sent to the Minnesota Environmental Quality Board, which is conducting the study. Those comments follow:

(1) The question of cost to small farmers and ranchers should be addressed and a big consideration. If there are no pollution problems, people shouldn't have to change their whole operation. The family farms are having a tough time and with very few exceptions have not been responsible for pollution. Local governments should be responsible for helping solve these isolated problems.

(2) Connecting actions should not include farmers who just happen to sell to big outfits. Farmers' responsibility should end when they sell their animals, and should not be written up in an EAW (environmental assessment worksheet) which includes the buyer. The MPCA has the responsibility to write the environmental assessment and has written the "connecting actions" definition, which seems a conflict of interest. This could be an area of A BIG MISUSE OF POWER. I think the definition goes beyond what the statutes had intended. Don't mirror the "Wetlands Rules!"

(3) There should be representation on the Advisory Committee from northern Minnesota. We seem to be left out of most committees and we have a lot of interest in what is going on throughout the state.

(4) One size doesn't fit all, and the study should reflect that. The different regions have different soils and different problems. Population and lifestyle should be considered. Don't make statewide policies that are not based on scientific facts! Don't use pseudoscience as scientific facts!

(5) The local government units should have control of feedlots and decide along with the local residents if, when or where a feedlot should be located.

(6) Some of the money used for this EIS should be used for research to help contain odors. In agricultural communities you should expect a fair amount of odor from time to time, however, every effort should be made to contain it.

Note: I have a real problem with Impact Studies at their best! They generally are written or done by the agencies that ultimately are going to administer and enforce them. They should be done completely by outside sources which have no real interest. I know that would be next to impossible (you exclude government agencies, environmental groups and farmers and who else is interested enough to be unbiased?) Most of them are very costly and accomplish very little that isn't already known.

Agriculture is the backbone of our country and through the years government has made many unnecessary and costly rule and regulations. If they had stayed out of farming from the beginning, a lot of our present day problems would have never existed in the first place. They change direction in midstream and more often than not create more problems than they solve. When in doubt, do nothing. No legislation at all is better than bad legislation. Too much of our legislation is being controlled by special interest groups and hurts more people than it helps.

Members of Red Lake Electric Cooperative of Red Lake Falls and PKM Electric Cooperative of Warren are being offered a trip and tour of the Garrison Dam hydro facilities at Riverdale, ND, on Wednesday and of the Milton R. Young generation station at Center, ND, on Thursday, September 16 and 17.

Cost of the tour is $45 per person and includes transportation, meals and lodging.

Included will be a banquet at the Seven Seas Motel in Mandan, ND, Wednesday evening at which a slide presentation will describe the correlation between local electric cooperatives and Minnkota Power Cooperative. Thursday's tour will also include a drive through the open pit lignite mines to see the mining operation first hand.

Deadline to register and pay the $45 fee is September 1. Refunds will be made to those who cancel 24 hours or more before departure. Contact the Red Lake or PKM Electric Cooperative offices for further details.

NCTC continuing education offers child care class Aug. 4

Project Exceptional class for child care providers, early childhood educators, social service providers and family members of young children with disabilities will be presented August 4 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

Nuts and Bolts: Administrative Issues in Serving Children with Exceptional Needs and Their Families is the topic of the class. Cost is $10.

The workshop focuses on some of the administrative needs to be addressed when deciding to care for a child with disabilities or exceptional care needs. It is intended for child care center directors and staff as well as family child care providers. Content includes issues in licensing, insurance, liability rates, contracts, discrimination and confidentiality.

For information and to pre-register contact Custom Training and Continuing Education at NCTC, phone 681-0793 or 1-800-959-6282.

Picking the Blues

I took quite a beating last week. No, not really in a fishing sense; times are good as we seem to have the mid-summer walleyes corralled for at least another week or two. And no, not in terms of the weather either, although a strong series of fast-moving cold fronts have done a good job of stirring the Big Traverse pot.

Nor am I talking about an actual face to fist confrontation, although there are days when my family and friends will tell you I'm a prime candidate for the local fair's "Punch the Clown" fund-raiser booth. The beating I took was more of a personal assault on some of my misconceptions about life on the northern plains.

I may never pick blueberries again.

As you may know by now, I have East Coast roots. Minnesota traditions, therefore, are new and intriguing. Hunting, snowmobiling, lutefisk and naked men in a sauna hitting each other with cedar branches are not standards in Rhode Island. Rumor had it the blueberries were ripe, so this berry picking thing needed to be explored. I'd heard it was a lot of fun, plus you got free food!

Last week three somewhat older couples and a stiff northerly wind provided the perfect excuse to duck into Zippel Bay State Park and give it a try. In deference to their age and experience, I let the six lead the way through the woods and within minutes we were surrounded by ripe berries. Whether they enjoyed the plucking that much or were just overjoyed to be off the unsettled lake basin, I couldn't tell, but they seemed to be having fun.

Two hours and a mere three styrofoam cups of blueberries later, we headed back to the fishing. Once again, they had apparently enjoyed themselves, but you can do the math as well as I. That translates into 14 man/hours of effort for a fairly minimal return. Even a bad day of fishing is more cost effective than that. We passed around the harvest and I think the fruit of our labors was gone before we reached the Park lighthouse just a quarter mile away.

Back on the lake, the marine band radio crackled with a few concerned questions as to my lengthy absence from the water.

"We were picking blueberries," I bragged. My stomach may not have been full but I was going to get some ego out of this anyway. I was proud of having thrown a little diversity into a sometimes predictable scheme and was sure I would be the envy of the fishing fleet.

A brief period of silence preceded the barrage of radio chatter:

"Oh, I would've come with you but I forgot my skirt today."

"Were you getting them on leeches or crawlers?"

"Isn't berry picking the last step before birdwatching?"

Undaunted by the assaults on my machismo, I took the next free morning to pursue the berry question further. Operating under the assumption that the minimal amounts of blueberries gathered by my recent picking partners was a reflection of the limits of age, I enlisted the help of my two non-stop children.

Back to Zippel Bay. For an hour and a half I picked and picked. My 10-year-old picked and whined abut the bugs and poison ivy. My five-year-old whined about the hard work and ate the berries I had picked.

The upside was that the incessant buzzing of mosquitoes in my ears drowned out most of the plaintive pulings from my children. The downside was that all that picking may have produced enough blueberries for one muffin and half a pancake. I was becoming daunted. The cornucopia of berries remained teasingly beyond my outstretched fingers.

It was time to ask. I pursued Steve Ballard on the subject. He not only signs a lot of my paychecks, but as a lifelong local he's a good source of information on the out-of-doors stuff.

"What's the best way to approach the blueberries, Steve?" I asked him.

He thought for a moment before answering. He's not one to rush into any rash statements.

"Well," he began, "it's really pretty simple. First, I keep an eye on the weather during June and early July, because a lot of rain means better berries and the timing of that rain is a really important factor in determining when they're ripe. Then I wait for a good dry couple of days to knock the mosquito numbers down a bit. Mosquitoes really slow down the picking process.

"Finally, I look for a little wind; it's not so hot then and the last of the bugs are kept away. When all of these conditions come together, I make it a point to wait about five more days. Because then someone will come knocking at my door selling beer-flats full of picked, cleaned blueberries for about twelve bucks apiece. That's enough for a couple of pies and a meal or two of pancakes."

The Minnesota tradition, you just can't beat it.

Today's recipes will make a canner out of you all yet because they sound so good. If you aren't a canner, maybe you can persuade a friend to try the ones you like and taste hers. We also have a recipe for the marshmallow fruit dip that Carol requested. (Thanks, Joan!)

Here's a recipe for marshmallow creme fruit dip thanks to Joan L. Powell of Warroad. It sounds great and you can use it for all the wonderful fruits that are in season now:

MARSHMALLOW CREME FRUIT DIP

1 (7 ounce) jar marshmallow creme
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Just mix together and enjoy.

Catch those little zucchinis while they are still small and make them into some delicious pickles to be enjoyed all winter long:

ZUCCHINI PICKLES

1 quart distilled white vinegar
2 cups granulated sugar
1/4 cup salt
2 teaspoons celery seed
2 teaspoons ground turmeric
1 teaspoon dry mustard
5 pounds (5-6 inch) zucchini, unpeeled, cut into 1/4 inch slices
1 quart thinly sliced onions (4-5 medium)

Combine first 6 ingredients in saucepan. Bring to boil. Pour over zucchini and onions and let stand 1 hour, stirring occasionally.

In saucepan, bring mixture to a boil and then simmer 3 minutes. Continue simmering while quickly packing one clean, hot jar at a time. Fill to 1/2 inch from top, making sure vinegar solution covers vegetables. Cap at once and process 5 minutes in boiling water bath. Makes 6-7 pints.

Here's something really good to make with your extra cucumbers - great with burgers or dogs:

DILL AND SWEET/SOUR PICKLES

4 pounds cucumbers (4-5 inches long)
8 tablespoons dill seed
4 teaspoons caraway seed
1 teaspoon crushed red pepper
2 quarts water
2 cups cider vinegar
1/2 cup pickling, coarse or kosher salt
1/4 teaspoon alum

Thoroughly wash and dry cucumbers. Pack 4 into each of four 1-quart sterilized jars. Divide spices equally into jars.

Bring water, vinegar, salt and alum to boiling point. Pour over cucumbers to cover, leaving a 1/4 inch head space. Seal with lids and screw on bands.

Place jars in rack in boiling water to cover 1/2 inch above jars. Return water to boiling and then reduce heat and simmer, covered, for about 15 minutes.

Remove jars from kettle and let cool, adjusting bands if necessary. Store in dark place for at least two months before serving.

Make this tasty relish this fall to pep up your meals with something pretty and good too, all through the winter and into next summer:

BEET RELISH

4 cups chopped raw beets
6 cups chopped cabbage
2 cups chopped onions
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons horseradish
1 tablespoon salt
2 cups vinegar

Combine all ingredients in large kettle. Bring to boil and cook until thick, about 20 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Pack into hot sterilized jars and process 20 minutes in boiling water bath. Makes 4-5 pints.

Too many green beans? Here's what to do with that bounty:

DILLY BEANS

2 pounds green beans, trimmed
1 teaspoon cayenne pepper
4 cloves garlic
4 heads dill
2 1/2 cups water
2 1/2 cups vinegar
1/4 teaspoon salt

Pack beans into hot jars, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Add to each pint: 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 clove garlic and 1 head dill.

Combine remaining ingredients and bring to a boil. Pour boiling hot water over beans, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Adjust caps.

Process 10 minutes in boiling water bath. Let beans stand 2-4 weeks to allow flavors to develop. Makes 4 pints.

What a tasty thing to do with peaches - wouldn't they be good for the holidays to dress up the turkey platter:

SWEET PICKLED PEACHES

2 pounds brown sugar
2 cups vinegar
1 (3 inch) piece stick cinnamon
1 tablespoon whole cloves
3 pieces whole ginger, broken into small pieces
1/4 teaspoon mace
8 pounds cling peaches

Tie whole spices in cheesecloth bag.

Bring sugar, vinegar and spices to a boil and cook gently for 20 minutes.

Scald peaches to peel and then drop a few at a time into boiling syrup. Cook gently just until tender but not broken. Remove with slotted spoon and pack in hot sterilized jars.

When all peaches are cooked, drain syrup from jars back into kettle and boil syrup until thick. Pour over fruit, leaving 1/2 inch head space. Seal. Makes 4 quarts.

Winnipeg Street Class cars race at Greenbush tonight

Approximately 10 to 14 Winnipeg Street cars are expected to take part in the Winnipeg Street Class Invitational tonight (Saturday, August 1) at the Greenbush Race Park located one half mile north of Greenbush on County Road 7. The regular five classes of cars will also compete.

Last Saturday the park hosted its first Late Model Special when 14 Wissota Late Model cars provided two heats and a 20-lap feature which was won by Tom Corcoran of Grand Forks, ND, going flag to flag.

A caution flag came out when Kevin Thompson of Grand Forks was shoved into the front retaining wall, but only nose-cone damage resulted and he was able to finish the race. Troy Schill of Grand Forks worked his way from fifth at the start to finish second with Randy Christiansin of St. Thomas, ND, finishing third.

Although the fans were enthusiastic about the 80-plus miles per hour Late Model cars, it was the Wissota Modifieds that stole the show. Greg Ferris of Emo, Ont., Canada worked his way through traffic to gain the win and continue to lead in the points race. Nolan Olmstead of Badger led for the first eight laps before being passed by Brian Strand of Bemidji. Ferris passed Strand on the 12th lap and was left alone for the win when Strand's transmission failed with two laps to go. Olmstead finished second and Les Pritchard of Roland, Man., Canada was third.

In the Wissota Super Stock Feature, Dean Forst of Thief River Falls started on the pole and led all the way for the victory. Points leader John Seitz of Bemidji started 10th and raced to Forst's back bumper with five laps to go but was unable to pass. Ed LeMunyon of Cavalier, ND, finished third.

A caution flag also came out in the Greenbush Outlaw Streets feature when leader Richard Jacobson of Wannaska was spun out on lap five when Ben Reese of Greenbush tried to pass on the inside. Back in the lead after the caution, Jacobson led for the next six laps before being passed by Bryon Berger of Badger, who dominated for the win. Jacobson finished second and points leader Rich Johnson of Badger was third.

Rick Betes of Badger had his best outing of the season in the Mini-Sprints, going flag to flag for the feature win. Robbi Peterson of Middle River had a great start from eighth position in the field but Peterson's car broke down in the first lap. Cory Wimpfheimer of Roseau finished a distant second and points leader LeMar Rantanen of Thief River Falls was third.

Amber Holtan of Newfolden appeared poised to win her first feature in the Sportsman's Class when she led for the first seven laps and seemed in control of the race. Then she pulled her car off the track in a puff of blue smoke and Rod Peterson of Thief River Falls took over first and raced to the win. Clay Jerome of Warroad finished second with Dave Meyer of Thief River Falls a close third. Points leader Stan Olson of Thief River Falls was fourth.

Kelly Knutson of Middle River ran the second half of the race with the hood on his car up in the air. Despite the reduced visibility, he finished seventh.

Speed limits are reduced on Hwy. 2 near Cass Lake

Eastbound lanes of Highway 2 between Midge Lake and Cass Lake have speed limits reduced to 55 miles per hour and westbound lanes have limits reduced to 45 miles per hour from the junction of Highway 371 in Cass Lake to Hubbard County Road 101, according to the Minnesota Department of Transportation.

Motorists are reminded that fines are doubled for anyone convicted of speeding through a construction work zone. The lowering of speed limits will remain in effect until the work is completed.

The three flights arriving in Thief River Falls include a flight from Minneapolis at 9:05 a.m., arriving at Bemidji at 10:10 a.m., department Bemidji at 10:25 a.m., and arriving in Thief River Falls at 10:55 a.m. The next flight to Thief River Falls leaves Minneapolis at 1:15 p.m., arriving in Bemidji at 2:20 p.m., leaving Bemidji at 2:35 p.m., and arriving in Thief River Falls, at 3:05 p.m. The third flight to Thief River Falls leaves Minneapolis at 8:50 p.m., arriving in Bemidji at 10 p.m., leaving Bemidji at 10:15 p.m., and arriving in Thief River Falls at 10:45 p.m.

There are two other flights, which are routed through Grand Forks. One flight on Saturday, which has a 6:20 p.m. departure time from Minneapolis, stops in Grand Forks. Another flight, which has an 8:30 a.m. departure time from Minneapolis on Sunday stops in Grand Forks.

The "Fly Local" program includes a $138 round trip fare for flights reserved 21 days in advance and a stay over on Saturday, a limited number of walk up rates of $99 one way, and low add on rates on select destinations. (Please check with travel agents to get all of the details of the program.)

The Thief River Falls Airport Marketing Committee plans to hold a meeting on August 4 to discuss ideas on how to assist the City of Thief River Falls in developing an overall Marketing plan. On an ongoing basis, Northwest Airlines will track the revenue generation changes vs. prior years and based on the success of the program, the "Fly Local" fares will either remain, be adjusted or canceled outright. Therefore it is important to the City that area residents support the airlines by flying from the regional airport in Thief River Falls.

Variance Approved

The City Council approved a five-foot variance for Robert Nelson, 1105 Dewey Avenue North, to construct a room on the south side of his house.

Suggestion to EQB

The Council approved a letter to be sent to the Environmental Quality Board strongly suggesting that they appoint one of three representatives from Northwest Minnesota to the Environmental Quality Board. These suggested representatives include Howard Person, Curt Nygaard, and Julie Gustafson.

Construction Begins

Reclaiming of bituminous from First Street was expected to begin on Thursday. Motorists will be asked to use alternate routes for a short period of time. Once the top levels of bituminous are removed in this new process, the street will be opened to traffic for a short time. Shortly after that, construction is expected to begin again and last for two to three weeks.

Safe and Sober

Police Chief Ken Froschheiser was authorized to execute a grant contract with the State of Minnesota. The grant will seek reimbursement for participation in the "Safe and Sober" program.

National Night Out

Funds are being raised to pay for the cost of a City-wide party and participation in the National Night Out program. The program encourages citizens to participate in the fight against crime. The event will be held August 4 in Floyd B. Olson Park from 5 to 8:30 p.m.

River Dredging

Bids on the River Dredging project are expected to be opened at 10 a.m. on August 27.

The following items were approved from the Consent Agenda: an extension on the six-month limitation for Category I liquor store employees Ryan Walseth and Kent Wojahn, a performance evaluation review committees recommendation for 1999, renewal of the membership in the International Coalition for the Red River Basin, a lease with Northern Municipal Power Agency for former office space of the Utilities billing department, a request for beer in the park for Arctic Cat in the Hartz Park on August 22 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; transfer of Kent LeMaine, park maintenance/arena to wastewater operator position, a progression raise for John Kinsman, apprentice lineworker, a quote from Hedeen Construction for rip rap installation and repair along the north riverbank from the Power Plant at a cost of $13,750.

He also said the project has water retention potential, meaning that the area's potholes and ditches could decrease the time of flow of runoff water to the Sandhill River.

Primary interest of Mn/DOT in the project is to have an available source of property which it can use to mitigate wetland losses due to road construction when the mitigation can not take place on-site. On-site mitigation is required by law when possible.

Under state wetland law, the state, counties, townships and cities must replace lost wetlands from road projects on a one-for-one basis in counties having 80 per cent or more of their pre-settlement wetlands remaining and on a two-for-one basis in counties having less than that percentage.

In this region, the one-for-one mitigation applies to Clearwater, Lake of the Woods, Koochiching, Hubbard, Cass, Itasca and Beltrami counties. The two-for-one mitigation applies to Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk, Norman and Mahnomen counties.

Although no agreement has been formally signed at this time, it is anticipated that Mn/DOT will have about half of the Vesledahl wetland credits available for its use and half will be available for BWSR to sell to cities, counties and townships in the region for their mitigation needs. Price for the wetland credits is anticipated to be about $2,000 per acre, Hovdestad said, in comparison with a normal cost of nearly $4,500.

In addition to the wetland credits which would be available on the property, "public value" credits would also be available. These would accrue from the planting of non-wetland areas of the property to native grasses. Each acre of this seeded upland could be applied at a rate of 75 percent against the second acre of two-for one wetland mitigation. Mitigation of a four-acre wetland loss in Pennington county on a two-for-one basis, for example, could be satisfied with five acres of wetland and four "public value" acres (.75x4=3).

Hovdestad said there has been no opposition expressed about the project. Instead, he said, several other area landowners have contacted Mn/DOT to offer their property for sale.

Long-term plans are to turn the property over to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources for use as a Wildlife Management Area, Hovdestad added.

Grand Forks Air Force Base to hold surplus sale

Surplus government items will be sold by a sealed bid sale, with bids opening at 9 a.m. on August 12.

People interested in purchasing the surplus items can inspect the property from 7:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on August 7, 10 and 11. Property is located at the Defense Reutilization and Marketing Office in Building 432, at 548 3rd Ave. Grand Forks AFB.

Some of the articles available are furniture, office machines, clothing, computer components, electrical parts, automative parts, appliances, plumbing and heating parts, medical equipment, lighting, tires, lockers, shelving, copy machines, quonset building and much more.

Awards will be made to the highest bidder. Payment can be made in cash, debit card, Visa, Discover or Mastercard. Property must be removed no later than August 19.

For more information call 701-747-4595 or 747-3780.

Police seek help finding stolen TRF tractor

Police in Thief River Falls are asking for assistance in locating a tractor that was stolen from Evergreen Implement Dealership in Thief River Falls over the weekend.

At 11:06 a.m. on Tuesday, July 28, police received a report that a 1997 John Deere 770 model tractor with four-wheel drive assist and a roll bar, was taken along with a 60-inch mid mount mower, a Land Pride grooming mower, and a 1996 Tandem trailer had been taken. The total theft loss has been estimated at $21,715. Police believe the tractor was taken sometime over the weekend and not noticed missing until Tuesday because of some confusion.

Police are asking that anyone with information about the stolen items to please contact the police department at 681-6161.

St. Hilaire woman wins $5,000 Gopher 5 Prize

Cheryl Simanovski of St. Hilaire won $5,000 playing the Minnesota State Lottery game Gopher 5. Simanovski claimed her prize Tuesday, according to the State Lottery. She purchased the winning ticket at Kruse In in St. Hilaire.

Gopher 5, Minnesota's own cash lotto, offers players six ways to win. Players can pick five of their own numbers from 1 to 42 or take a quick-pick. Matching four of five number plus the bonus ball pays out $5,000. To win the jackpot, which starts at $100,000 and grows until someone wins it, players must match the first five numbers drawn.

Matching four of five numbers pays out $250. The bonus ball plus three numbers is worth $100. Players can win $10 by either matching three of five numbers or matching two of five numbers plus the Bonus Ball. Overall odds of winning a prize in Gopher 5 are 1 in 64.7.

Two Gopher 5 jackpot prizes remain unclaimed from the July 28 drawings. Players have one year from the date of the drawing to claim their prize.

Winning numbers and player information are available on the Lottery's Player Hotline (297-7371 in the Twin Cities or 1-800-657-3946 in Greater Minnesota.

CORRECTION:

A Northern Watch story on area election filings incorrectly listed candidates for Roseau County District 1 and 3 Commissioner races. Candidates who have filed for the District 1 seat are Ooran E. Horner and Alan Johnston. Candidates who have filed for the District 1 seat are Orris A. Rasmussen and Daryl Mickelson. The Northern Watch regrets the error and any embarrassment it may have caused.

State fair 4-H orientation set for August 21

Orientation for Pennington county 4-H club members who will be attending the Minnesota State Fair will take place on Friday, August 21, in the courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls.

Those attending the encampment for non-livestock project members August 26-29 will meet at 2 p.m. Those taking part in the livestock encampment September 3-7 will meet at 2:30 p.m. State 4-H horse show participants are registered and have their schedules.

All 4-H exhibitors at the state fair must have their records completed for the projects they will exhibit before they attend the fair. These records are to be checked on or before orientation day, according to Van Swanson, Pennington county extension educator.

Health cards and payments must also be turned in on August 21, Swanson said. Exhibitors pay their own lodging of $8 per night and will also pay for their own meals.

Swanson said he strongly suggests that one or both parents accompany their child to the orientation session. Some forms to be distributed will require a parent's signature. His message to those earning trips was also definite:

"If you don't have your paperwork and funds in the office by orientation day," he said, "you will not be going."

Teen dances that are drug and alcohol free events are being held on Tuesday evenings at the Elk's Club in Thief River Falls. Above, the band Krome, entertained youth ages 14-20, on July 28. All events are cheperoned by adults, held from 8:30 to midnight, are for youth ages 14-20, and cost $5. Free food is served at each event. Four more dances are planned. The next dance, with Fluorescent Black performing, will be held on August 4. On August 11, XL 93 will entertain youth. On August 18, the band Fuse Box will perform. On August 25 is a Battle of the Bands. Each dance begins at 8:30 p.m.

Clinics to offer more information on bears

To provide the public with current information on the black bear in Minnesota, a series of clinics is scheduled for 22 locations around the state, including one from 7 to 10 p.m. Wednesday, August 5, in the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls.

"Black bears are Minnesota's most maligned and misunderstood resource," says Roger Grosslein of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Enforcement Division, which is sponsoring the clinics.

He said the clinics will "provide a wealth of information for anyone interested in this popular, but often mysterious and sometimes scary, animal."

Registration cost will be $2, payable at the door. All participants will receive a black bear handbook.

The clinic will be divided into two sessions, each 90 minutes in length. The first will deal with the natural history of bears and how to live with them, the second covers topics of special interest to hunters. Those who do not wish to learn about bear hunting will be excused after the first session.

"Perhaps no other animal has excited the imagination as has the black bear," says Dick Anderson, senior training specialist with the DNR. "Literature, legends, mythology, fairy tales and cartoons are full of references to it.

"Unfortunately," he added, "many of the references are misleading and fail to answer such basic questions as if bears are dangerous. The goal of the clinic is to reduce the fear of bears by developing a better understanding of the animal and its needs."

Prior to 1971, black bears were on the unprotected list in Minnesota with no closed hunting season or other protection. Their population was estimated at about 3,000 in the state. Since 1971, the population has grown to an estimated 22,000 due to conservation practices and public education. Anderson said the larger population has "created some unique challenges and opportunities."

Black bears are widely distributed in the state and have developed a taste for the same food humans eat. As a result, it's not uncommon to find them foraging in urban areas.

"The clinic will provide a few simple suggestions to help prevent problems that may occur when people and bears try to co-exist," Anderson said.

The clinic will also provide tips on how to keep camp sites free of bears, how to store food so that bears are less likely to smell or reach it and how to properly store and dispose of garbage.

During the second session, hunters will learn where to hunt for bear in Minnesota, scouting techniques, what to use as attracting scents and how to set bait stations. Topics such as how to eliminate protective surveillance, old bait burn-out and how to reduce nocturnal bear activity will also be covered. These techniques will increase hunting success and enjoyment, Anderson said.

He also suggested that those planning to attend arrive early to avoid registration lines.

Petal Pushers annual Horticultural show Aug. 8

It's time to "petal" your way to the annual horticultural show. The show will be held on Saturday, August 8, at the Curling building on the Pennington County Fairgrounds in Thief River Falls.

The theme for this year's show is "Petal Pushers". Registration opens at 9 a.m. and closes at 11:30 a.m. with judging beginning at 12:30 p.m. Entries will be taken from all members of garden clubs in the 13th District Horticultural Society.

Entries will include floral arrangements made according to categories of the day's theme "Petal Pushers", as well as specimens of annuals, perennials, roses, dahlias, gladiolas, potted plants, vegetables, fruits and herbs and corsages.

The public is invited to come and view the exhibits anytime after 1 p.m.

A lunch will be served by the host clubs, Warren Dirt Digger, Deer Park and Moccasin garden clubs at the close of the day. Awards will be presented for the champion exhibit in each category and exhibitor earning the most points in each category and the day time totals.

Farmers Union day camp at city park in Grygla

Farmers Union day camp for Marshall, Pennington and Roseau counties will take place Monday, August 3, at the city park in Grygla from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Youngsters from five through 10 years of age may attend and are advised to bring a sack lunch and running shoes. Age-appropriate games and activities will be used to build cooperation and teamwork skills among the young people.

Campers this year will learn the Dr. Seuss story Oh, the Places You Will Go, a story about personal dreams and fulfillment, and "will build a papier-mache "dream ship." Each child will have an opportunity to enter an MFU postcard design contest with the winning design to be used throughout the year by the MFU education department to promote Farmers Union events. The winning child will have his or her name on the card and receive 40 postcards.

To enroll a child in the camp, call Helen Chervestad at 796-2461 or Norma Hanson at 378-4380.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Red Lake Falls features displays of art work

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

To enjoy art one must usually travel to a large city. That's not the case in Red Lake Falls, however, where an impressive pottery display can be enjoyed at the local library and, until late Monday afternoon, a gallery of contemporary art can be seen in a semi-trailer.

The pottery at the Red Lake Falls library was made by students and participants in the Clayworks program, part of Red Lake Falls' Comprehensive Art Planning Program (CAPP).

The 48-foot semi-trailer houses the Rolling Plains Art Gallery (RPAG), part of an educational outreach program of the Plains Art Museum in Fargo, ND. The traveling gallery opened to the public in Red Lake Falls on Wednesday and will remain there until Monday, August 10 at 5:30 p.m. During the week CAPP co-chair Bath Seeger and art educator Steve Beckermann of the Plains Art Museum have coordinated tours and workshops for interested groups and individuals from throughout the area.

Sponsored by Cargill, Rolling Plains Art Gallery does not charge admission fees and is accessible through the use of a hydraulic lift and ramp. Renovated by Plains Art Museum, the semi-trailer includes environmental controls, a security system and hydraulic shock absorbers to ensure the safety of the art during transport and at the site. The traveling art educator monitors the systems daily with back-up power available through a gas generator.

The 1998-99 RPAG exhibit features "Critters: Animal Imagery from the Permanent Collection." The display includes the work of 16 contemporary artists, many of whom have ties to the Midwest, who have used animals as the subject of their work. A wide variety of media, artistic styles and individualized responses to animals are represented in the collection.

"Critters" was chosen as the theme of the exhibit because of man's longstanding relationship with animals. For thousands of years animals have provided humans with food, clothing, tools, companionship and inspiration. Animals were painted on the walls of caves by prehistoric people, and every civilized culture has depicted animals in art.

While schools are generally used as the operational base for RPAG, in Red Lake Falls the exhibit is located on International Drive at Park Place Mall. The site was chosen because of its proximity to the Clayworks Studio. Located inside the mall, the studio has provided space for the various workshops held in conjunction with the exhibit.

On Tuesday Clayworks hosted an in-service session and reception for teachers and educators. Workshops on printmaking, chalk pastels and clay tile making took place on Wednesday. Thursday and Friday Wire, paper and tempera sculptures will be created at Monday's workshop.

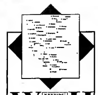
The only requirement for participation is that you tour the art gallery before attending the workshop. Limited to 50 participants each day, the workshops have involved groups that have been invited to attend and other children from throughout the area. Ages have varied from preschoolers to senior high students.

The gallery has been open to the public every day with scheduled tours for various groups, young and old. Hours today (Saturday, August 8) are from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tomorrow the exhibit will be open from noon until 5:30 p.m., and on Monday it will again be open at 10:30 until it closes at 5:30 p.m. and moves to its new site in Baudette.

The Rolling Plains Art Gallery's visit to Red Lake Falls was made possible by a number of local sponsors and a grant from the Northwest Regional Development Commission through funding from the Minnesota State Arts Board and Minnesota Legislature.

The traveling gallery has enhanced the already rich Red Lake Falls art tradition that was born with the organization of Clayworks in 1995.

With few school district funds available for art supplies, the group wondered if the natural clay soil that makes up much of Red Lake County was a useable art supply.



While searching for funding, the Clayworks group discovered the Comprehensive Art Planning Program, supported by the Minnesota State Legislature. Grants were applied for and received.

With the CAPP funding the

Douglas County posse certified

Alexandria - Believed to be the first certified horse patrol unit in Minnesota, four members of the Douglas County Sheriff's Posse and their horses were certified recently as a Mounted Patrol Unit.

The unit was certified after testing exposed the horses and riders to gunfire, aggressive dogs, lights and sirens, crowds and an obstacle course.

The posse is a volunteer organization which assists the Douglas County Sheriff's Department with search and rescues, crowd control, and events such as parades and the county fair. Echo Press

Dog agility new event at fair

Bagley - Up the ramp, through the tunnel, over the hurdles and onto a platform for a pause are a few of the stunts dogs must perform in the Dog Agility event at the Clearwater County Fair on August 19.

The aim of Dog Agility entrants is to complete a course within 60 seconds. The shorter the time, the better the score. If a dog errs penalty points are added to the score. The lowest score wins.

Dog Agility is new in much of the state and is being authorized as a 4-H event at regional and state shows this year. Farmers Independent

Counterfeit bills turn up in Grafton

Grafton, ND - Two fake $20 bills have been found in Grafton recently, one discovered in a bank-to-bank transaction and the other in a local merchants deposit.

Police Chief LeRoy McGann warned businesses about what to look for to help detect counterfeit cash. Counterfeit bills feel smooth. There are no red and blue fibers in the bill, and there is no strip in the bill which is otherwise visible by holding it up to the light. McCann said that while the printing is usually pretty good, it is difficult to match the paper. Walsh County Record

Home improvement winners named

Middle River - In the recent city beautification contest three homes were selected as winners by residents of Middle River Royal Manor. The home of Wally and Jovinea Walton was chosen the first prize winner. Second place went to An and Linda Riggs, and Kelly and Brenda Knutson were the third place prize winners.

The contest was funded by the Middle River Initiative Fund and sponsored by the Middle River Community Club. New River Record

Maple Grove School marks anniversary

Erskine - In the northeast corner of Woodside township in Polk county farmers built the Maple Grove School in 1885.

A reunion was held recently at Rydell National Wildlife Refuge where the site of the school is located. A large crowd gathered for a program at the refuge following lunch and church services at Rodnes Lutheran Church. Horse drawn wagon rides provided transportation as old memories were shared and new memories were made. Erskine Echo

New Solum Church building has its 100-year anniversary

Bethlehem Lutheran Church of New Solum will be celebrating the 100th anniversary of the church building today and Sunday, August 8 and 9, beginning with a potluck supper and fellowship at 5 p.m. today at the Newfolden community center.

Sunday services will be held at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the church located six miles south of Newfolden. Speaker for the morning service will be Rev. Keith Knauf of California.

Rev. Knauf is the grandson of Martin and Ella Nelson, who were members of the church for many years. Retsius Nelson, his great-grandfather, was a charter member of the church. Special music will be provided by Deland Elseth.

Dinner will be served following the morning service and a freewill offering will be received.

Mistress of ceremonies for the afternoon service will be Carol Tierney, daughter of long-time members Clarence and Myrtle Larson. Carol and her sister, Twile Ellingson, will sing a Norwegian song written by their mother. History of the church will be presented by Phil Dyrud and a special time will be provided for sharing memories.

While the anniversary will note the 100th anniversary of the church building, the congregation actually had its beginning 114 years ago when, on May 19, 1884, a group of men met to organize a congregation and plan the building of a church. The name selected was Bethlehem Evangelisk Luthersk Menighed.

A constitution was adopted and the first officers were Hans S. Hanson, president; Reinhart C. Nelson, secretary; Ole Hanson, Christian Hanson and Gunder J. Vigen, trustees.

Ole L. Velle donated a two-acre tract of land for a cemetery and building site in the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of Section 8 in New Solum township of Marshall county. The deed is dated Jan. 1, 1885. A log church was built in 1885 and was replaced by the present frame structure in 1898. The steeple was completed in 1912.

Charter members of the congregation were Hans S. Hanson, Christian Hanson, Gunder J. Vigen, Ole L. Velle, Erick Tvedt, Halvor H. Hellem, Ole Hanson, Ole Silverness, Retsius M. Nelson, Napoleon A. Nelson, Paul T. Olson, Reinhart C. Nelson, Nels Melve, Alexander Sveaas and Rasmus Nelson.

Other early members were Lars L. Ihle, John M. Kulseth, Andrew Paulson, Peter A. Dyrud, Carl Hanson, Iver Krogstad, Erick O. Hagen, Halvor Halvorsen, Guri Olsdatter Mebust, Ole Engebretson, Ansten Olson, Susanne Gulseth, Lars Roseland, Andrew Halverson, Hans Olson, Hannah Hanson, Trina Hanson, Andrew Dyrud, T. T. Loge, Hilda Samuelson and August Peterson.

Before the log church was built, services were held in homes of the members and always in the Norwegian language.

On Feb. 28, 1898, the church incorporated as The Bethlehem Congregation of the Hauge Norwegian Lutheran Synod. In 1917 it became affiliated with the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America. The congregation had divided in 1905 when the Zion church at Viking was founded.

In 1959, when the church observed the 75th anniversary of its founding, it was part of a four-church parish which included Zion of Viking, Bethesda of Marsh Grove and Oak Ridge of Numedal township in Pennington county. The same pastor served all four congregations and lived at a parsonage in Viking which was purchased by the congregations in 1936.

In 1905 Regina Nelson donated an organ to the congregation and it was still in use in 1959, according to the early church history written by Mrs. Minnie (Louis) Roseland for the 75th anniversary. It is included in the history book compiled by Robin Roseland Langevin for the 100th anniversary of the church this weekend.

Also in use in 1959, according to the history, were two pews made by Reinhart Nelson in 1884 and the altar ring and lectern made by Jens Johnson in 1906 at a cost of $23.

The congregation adopted the proposed constitution for congregations of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in the English language in 1942. The church basement was built in 1947 and wired for electricity with light fixtures installed in 1948. The basement was remodeled, along with the church, in 1948.

In 1952 the altar and pulpit were received as a gift from Redeemer congregation of Badger. In 1954 the tile floor in the chancel was donated as a gift from Mrs. Annie Nelson

Many agencies, people join search for Julie Holmquist, missing Hallock teenager

Authorities in Hallock are continuing their search for 16-year-old Julie Holmquist who disappeared while Rollerblading near Hallock on July 29.

Thursday afternoon, Kittson County Sheriff Ray Hunt said they will be reviewing information gathered about the Kelso rest stop incident, which involved reports of three men struggling with a blonde woman age 16-18. He said they will be assigning people to specifically investigate that report.

Hunt is very pleased with the overwhelming support he has received in this investigation. As of Thursday evening, Hunt and all five of his officers are assigned to this case. In addition, his department is receiving assistance from 13 to 15 FBI agents, six to eight Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension agents, officers from the Minnesota State Patrol, and several neighboring counties including Roseau, Clearwater and Pennington. "There has been a tremendous response to our department's needs," said Hunt.

The public has also been outstanding in terms of its support. Hunt said volunteers came out of the woodwork and provided information and were the source of many leads. The volunteers and representatives of the Salvation Army and American Red Cross have also been very good to officers in terms of providing food for the many officers working on the case.

The massive searches that involved hundreds of volunteers early in the investigation have been scaled back somewhat. Hunt said volunteers have been utilized for and continue to be used for task specific searches. They are continuing to conduct searches of the river daily, and from time to time, searching the area by plane. And, he said, as they receive leads they have been conducting small scale searches.

Hunt noted that the reward leading to the location of Holmquist, and the arrest and conviction of those responsible for her disappearance has increased from $10,000 to $24,000.

Posted county prices below loan rate for most crops

In Pennington county as of Friday morning, August 7, posted county prices are below the 1998 commodity loan rates or all commodities except canola, according to the Pennington county office of the Farm Service Agency.

A number of producers have taken advantage of the differential to repay 1997 commodity loans with the posted county price, which is called a market loan repayment. Paying the loan at the posted county price would also provide forgiveness of interest, according to information received from the state office of the Farm Service Agency.

The loan must be paid at the county FSA office by close of business on the day desired. An exception is that producers may obtain a form CCC-681-1, lock in a posted county price and pay off the loan at a later date, as long as all bushels are delivered prior to maturity of the loan. This option would also be available on 1998 commodity loans.

Posted county prices change daily and are generally different for each county. Following are loan rates, posted county price and loan deficiency payment rate for Friday, August 7, in Pennington county:

Crop	County Loan Rate	Posted County Price (PCP)	Loan Deficiency Payment Rate
Canola	9.51	10.13	--
Spring Wheat	2.73	2.63	.10 a bushel
Winter Wheat	2.73	2.27	.46 a bushel
Barley	1.38	1.27	.11 a bushel
Soybeans	4.90	4.88	.02 a bushel
Corn	1.71	1.65	.06 a bushel
Oats	1.04	.89	.15 a bushel

Ace/double eagle at RLF course

Red Lake Falls - A double eagle is rarer than a hole-in-one say golf experts.

Chris Fontaine of Red Lake Falls accomplished both recently as he aced the par four #4 hole at Oak Knolls Golf Course giving him a double eagle and hole in one.

The ace is the first ever on the 280-yard fourth hole at the Red Lake Falls course. Fontaine's drive carried about 265 yards. Landing about 15 yards in front of the green, the ball rolled onto the green and into the hole.

According to the National Hole in One Association, the chances of acing a par three hole are about one in 12,600. Gazette

Johne's testing now available at no charge

Minnesota Board of Animal Health has received additional funds from the 1998 legislative session for a testing program to control Johne's disease in dairy and beef cattle. This is a widespread disease that can be very costly, according to Dave Kjome, southeast Minnesota dairy educator with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

Kjome says the funding will assist herd owners with the laboratory cost of testing for Johne's disease, and will also be used to continue an educational campaign on the disease.

Kjome outlines the protocol the Board of Animal Health is offering. "Each herd owner can test 30 adult animal samples per year," he says. "The blood must be drawn from second-lactation and older cows by a Minnesota-licensed and accredited veterinarian. The board will pay the $6 laboratory cost per sample with no prior authorization necessary. Testing of additional samples requires prior authorization by a district veterinarian, and must be accompanied by an approved herd clean-up plan. The board will pay one-half the laboratory cost for the additional samples, or $3 per sample."

The program began June 1 of this year and will last as long as funds are available, says Kjome. Herd owners with a goal of attaining a negative status for Johne's for their herd can follow a protocol that will allow them to reach that goal over a three-year period. At that point they can be virtually assured of no infection in the herd.

"Dairy producers need to understand Johne's and be willing to deal with management and testing procedures that provide a clean herd," says Kjome. "The disease can be very destructive if it is present in a herd and no action is taken."

For more information on the testing program to control Johne's disease, contact your local veterinarian.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Most of today's sweet treats are taken from my stash of very old Workbasket magazines, which are well-used and worn. The recipes may be old, but they're still good stuff.

Oh, my - this dessert is made for chocoholics who like it rich, rich, rich:

CHOCOLATE PIE CAKE

1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup cocoa
3/8 cup hot water
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup butter
3/4 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup milk
1 1/4 cups cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
Unbaked pastry shell

Blend sugar and cocoa. Add boiling water and cook to smooth, thin syrup, remove from heat and add vanilla. Cool.

Cream butter and sugar until smooth. Add egg and vanilla and beat thoroughly. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Alternately add milk and flour mixture to creamed mixture.

Place batter in pastry-lined pie pan. Pour chocolate syrup over batter and do not stir.

Have oven preheated to 425 degrees and place pie in oven. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for 40 minutes. Serve with whipped cream.

This would be a great dish to have ready for that summer picnic, and you can use those fresh summer fruits when they're at their best:

ALFRESCO PEACHES IN MELON BOWL

1 watermelon
2 cups cantaloupe balls
1 cup honeydew melon balls
4 fresh peaches, peeled and sliced
Lime Marinade (below)
Cream Fruit Dressing (below)

Cut thin horizontal slice off watermelon to form base. On other side, cut thick horizontal slice and set aside. Scoop out balls of watermelon and place in large bowl with other fruit, mixing gently.

Fill shell with fruits and then pour Lime Marinade over. Replace watermelon lid and chill 2 hours. Serve with Cream Fruit Dressing.

Lime Marinade
2/3 cup sugar
1/3 cup water
1/3 cup fresh lime juice
1 teaspoon rum flavoring

In saucepan, combine sugar and water and bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat and add lime juice and rum. Cool before using as marinade.

Cream Fruit Dressing
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup light corn syrup
1 tablespoon orange zest
1 tablespoon orange juice
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup whipping cream, whipped

Blend mayonnaise and syrup until smooth. Add zest, juice and nutmeg, mixing well. Fold in whipped cream.

Use some of those fresh garden carrots to make this nourishing treat:

CARROT CORNBREAD

1 cup self-rising yellow cornmeal
1 cup grated carrots
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons oil
3/4 cup boiling water
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons water
2 egg whites, beaten stiff

Combine cornmeal, carrots, sugar, salt and oil. Mix well. Add boiling water and mix well.

Beat egg yolks and add 2 tablespoons water. Add to cornmeal mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Bake at 450 degrees for 20-25 minutes until tests done.

I made this dessert last weekend and everyone seemed to like it. Unlike the Chocolate Pie Cake, it isn't so rich, but it is cool and tasty. Use chocolate pudding if you wish, but I like vanilla with a little chocolate-powdered sugar frosting drizzled over, like eclairs:

MOON CAKE (Kay)

Crust:
1 cup water
1 stick (1/4 c.) butter
1 cup flour
4 eggs, one at a time

Bring water and butter to a boil in saucepan. Remove from heat and add flour, mixing like play dough. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well.

Spread in 9x13 inch lightly greased pan. Bake at 400 degrees 22 minutes (I baked 28 min.), no longer than 35 minutes. Crust will have peaks and valleys like the moon's surface. Cool.

Filling:
2 regular sized boxes instant pudding, whatever flavor
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, softened and mushed
3 to 4 cups milk (I used 3)

Mix pudding as on box. Add very soft cream cheese and mix thoroughly. Spread over cooled crust.

Top with Cool Whip and sprinkle with powdered sugar (or use a thin chocolate powdered sugar frosting to drizzle over the top.

Senior Federation delegate assembly in TRF Thursday

Northwest Region delegate assembly of the Minnesota Senior Federation will take place Thursday, August 13, at 10 a.m. at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. with coffee being served.

Business includes discussion of the state convention October 16 and replacement of the state federation's executive director. Also on the agenda will be the fund-raiser letter, raffle and Northwest Area on Aging.

Everyone is welcome to attend and invited to bring a friend.

Wolf presentation to cap Agassiz Refuge open house

Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge east of Holt will conduct its monthly open house Sunday, August 16, with the office open and personnel available from 1 to 6:30 p.m.

Lost Bay Habitat Drive is open to vehicle travel and visitors are asked to please inquire at refuge headquarters for access to refuge roads. The 100-foot observation tower will be open and the refuge will provide food and refreshments.

At 6:30 p.m. Andreas Chavez, Fish & Wildlife Co-op student from Utah State University, will give a presentation on the Agassiz wolf research project. The project involves tracking radio-collared wolves that inhabit Agassiz refuge to understand the movement patterns of wolves that travel on and off the refuge.

Chavez will discuss wolf ecology, status of the wolf in Minnesota, the wolf's legal status in the United States, other wolf research projects and the ongoing wolf research at Agassiz. This will be followed by showing an Audubon Society video that addresses wolf issues in Minnesota and will last about an hour.

Following this presentation there will be a trip on the refuge to listen for wolf howling.

Agassiz refuge offices are open Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., excluding holidays. Everyone is invited to visit the refuge. For further information about the refuge, stop in or call 449-4115.

Strathcona to fall festival Sunday

Annual fall festival and music variety show will be presented Sunday, August 9, at Strathcona under sponsorship of the Women's Club and Community Club organizations of Strathcona.

Activities will begin with a church service at 9 a.m. at the Strathcona park, followed by a parade at 10:30 a.m. and a dinner to be served at 11:30 a.m. at the park shelter. Prices will be posted at the park. Other food concessions will also be available.

A flea market will open following the dinner and the music program will begin at 12:30 p.m. and continue until dusk, weather permitting, according to the event sponsors. Each year the event attracts two to three thousand people.

Master Chorale to audition Sunday in Grand Forks

Auditions for the Grand Forks Master Chorale will take place Sunday, August 9, from 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 8 p.m. in the Hughes Fine Arts Center at the University of North Dakota. Call the Master Chorale office at 701-777-3376 to make an appointment.

Interested singers who are not free to audition August 9 are invited to call director Jim Rodde directly at 701-777-2814 to arrange an audition for a different day.

The Master Chorale is composed of 40 to 45 singers from northeast North Dakota and northwest Minnesota who rehearse Sunday evenings from late August through April for a four-concert season.

In the fall, the Chorale will join several U.S. and Canadian choirs for the Winnipeg Symphony's biennial CanAm concert, performing Benjamin Britten's Spring Symphony and excerpts from George Gershwin's Porgy and Bess. The Bach Mass in B Minor is under consideration for the Chorale's spring Masterworks Concert.

Guilty verdict returned by jury in Isaak case

A jury returned a verdict of guilty in a case of terroristic threats against Ralph Alvin Isaak, 48, rural Goodridge.

It was alleged in the complaint against Isaak that he threatened the life of a Thief River Falls man on June 26, 1998. In a Pennington County District court Wednesday, August 5, Isaak argued that while the two men did talk over the telephone that day, he never threatened the other individual. Isaak blamed the man for the break-up of his marriage.

The jury returned with a verdict at about 4:50 p.m. that same day finding Isaak guilty of terroristic threats.

Ninth District Judge Dennis Murphy ordered a pre-sentence investigation and set a sentencing date of September 4 at 10 a.m.

Terroristic threats is a felony punishable by a maximum sentence of five years, $10,000 or both.

Isaak was represented by Public Defender Don Aandal. The case was prosecuted by Assistant Pennington County Attorney Allan Rogalla.

THE LYON'S SHARE

Tim Lyon

The "dog days" of summer have arrived and so have the general public's thoughts about muskie fishing. Perhaps it's our fickle nature that causes us to abandon the walleyes so quickly, especially when they're willing to treat us so kindly.

Maybe it's just the attention we give the media and their advertisers, as they push us into new purchasing lanes. We've got enough jigs and spinners stockpiled, now we can be coaxed into buying some big bucktails.

Or it could be some deep-rooted memory about our grandfather's "big fish" tale and how the only thing hitting better than the cursed sand flies at his ankles were the 40-pound muskies. Whatever the reason, it seems that mid to late summer produces the bulk of the muskie fishing assignments. My professional advice is to take two eight-pound walleyes and call me in the fall.

By the time August rolls around, we're "runnin' the circuit." More specifically, the "circuit" is a day's run around Falcon Island, on the Canadian side, hitting a lot of familiar territory. Northern fishing in May, shallow water walleyes in June, and shoreline casting for smallmouth in July have alerted us as to the whereabouts of many muskies.

Sometimes they're actually hooked and boated on a jig and a minnow, other times they'll curiously follow a Shad Rap back to boatside before disappearing into the murky depths. Most of the time, however, a well-placed tap beer promise in the fish cleaning shack will get the necessary information. And by the first of August most Lake of the Woods guides are armed with 15 to 20 spots that we know are a pretty good muskie bet.

The problem is that the "circuit" does indeed get run. Whether a beginner who is looking for a casual hour or two in hopes of lighting a muskie flame, or a die-hard who needs the drug-like adrenaline rush of the "follow" or "fish on," we try to put these people in contact with fish.

With just a day or two on the lake pursuing a sport that even considers getting skunked a moderate success, there is little desire to experiment. Show me the muskie! Unfortunately, the spot with the 40 pounder in it is the same spot that I took yesterday's group to and the same hole that Curly, Larry and Moe probably over the weekend, prompted by some other guide's well-intentioned advice.

And even if no one has caught and kept that fish, they may have caught and released that fish or, at the very least, gone in and profoundly educated that fish with a month-long barrage of terminal tackle that would have even the most impulsive of Jenny Craig's clients on a tooth-clenched fast.

Last summer, in fact, we got so familiar with a particular fish and its inquisitive but non-striking nature that we named it "Ol' Scarback" and would rarely go a full day of casting without dragging him out for a show. With near clockwork regularity, 30 bluish-yellow pounds of fish would drift out of the weeds and condescendingly inspect what new frivolity was being heaved his way. To bite would surely have been beneath him; you could read the bored disdain in his eyes. In short, just when most people start thinking "muskie" is when they're the hardest to catch.

Go muskie fishing in the fall. The benefits are many. The fish seem to forget much of what they've learned since the cluttered days of summer. The interest in traditional baits like Suicks and bucktails returns. The need to feed and fatten up for a winter hibernaculum (I found that word scribbled on the walls of the local DNR's bathroom) sets aside some of their natural caution and "follows" turn more frequently into "strikes."

Hooked fish in October don't jump and twist like they did in warmer water, but instead seek the safety of depth, making a fish on the line more likely to be a fish in the boat. Trolling with deeper diving baits, like Believers, becomes an effective late season option, too, as fish spend more of their time away from the shallows.

And while trolling might be as exciting as watching Full House reruns, the boys at In-Fisherman have painstakingly documented its success at more than double the catch rate of a casting effort.

Weeds become less of an inconvenience in the fall as they wither and die, allowing lures to spend more time productively in the lake that impotently in the boat being plucked clean. The algae bloom has ended, enabling more fish to actually see what you're throwing.

The air is cool and dry. The bugs have disappeared. Wildlife becomes active and visible along the shorelines. The leaves are changing. It's a great time to go muskie fishing.

So the next time one of your ancient relatives suggests that the sweltering heat and oppressive humidity are just about right to go hunt for the "big ones," suggest to them a place to put that notion along with the paltry inheritance they've been hanging over your head for the last 20 years and then set aside a fall date for a muskie trip.

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 23 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two man crew saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Why Do Legislators Allow Unnecessary Highway Expenses?

As of now we're planning to buzz on down to Winger Wednesday afternoon for the informal informational meeting on the Vesledahl wetland mitigation site—a state purchase of some 1,886 acres owned by Steve and Bob Vesledahl west of Winger. Projected is a total expenditure of $2 million by the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) and the Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR) to acquire and develop the property.

More power to the Vesledahl boys for finding a buyer for their farm, but the purchase really shouldn't be necessary. The Department of Transportation doesn't need the land as a source of road building materials or for right-of-way or for equipment storage or any such legitimate purpose. It is planning the acquisition to comply with state law that our legislators approved and our governor signed to accomplish what has been referred to as "no net loss" of wetlands.

The law says that when a wetland is destroyed by a project such as road construction, it must be mitigated. "Mitigation" technically means to be made less harsh or painful. As it applies to the wetland law, "replaced" would be a clearer word, in our opinion, but clarity has never been a concern of government.

Anyway, when road construction requires passing through a wetland, or draining an area, the area of the wetland affected is determined and the road-building entity—state, county, township, city—must mitigate (replace) that lost wetland area. Effort must first be made to mitigate on site, but if that isn't possible the wetland can be replaced by creating one somewhere else. At least that will satisfy the law.

Mn/DOT covets the Vesledahl site because, although it is nearly all being farmed, some of it was once wetland and it can be readily converted back to wetland. So when a highway project intrudes on an existing wetland for half an acre or a couple of acres, Mn/DOT will have a ready reserve "bank" where it can withdraw credits against the wetland loss.

Of course, it isn't just that simple. Why would anyone expect wetland law to deal only with loss of wetlands? If the upland part of the property is planted to native prairie grasses, it can provide credit against wetland loss at the rate of three-fourths of an acre per acre lost. In the case of the Vesledahl property, plans are to plant non-wetland area to native grasses. Mn/DOT would purchase the property for $1.2 million and BWSR would restore wetlands and plant grasses for another $800,000. It would also have a share of the wetland credits on the property which it could sell to cities, counties and townships which need mitigation acres. And the cost would likely be less than going through other processes to accomplish the mitigation.

All of which ignores the facts that:

(1) Loss of minor acreage of marginal wetlands to road projects would probably have no detrimental impact on the state and could just as well be ignored.

(2) If replacement of lost wetlands really is necessary, a one-for-one acreage replacement should suffice for no net loss. Yet the law requires that lost wetlands be mitigated two-for-one if the loss occurs in counties which do not have 80 percent or more of their pre-settlement wetlands remaining.

(3) The State of Minnesota owns hundreds of thousands of acres which are not wetlands, and which could be readily converted to wetlands, with no acquisition of private land. Some state lands would benefit from this conversion. Why should it be necessary to expend state funds to acquire private land for mitigation?

Why legislators and the governor allow the taxpayers to take this shin-kicking is beyond comprehension. We find it hard to believe that Mn/DOT couldn't use $1.2 million to better advantage for the people of Minnesota in building roads than creating wetlands.

And to add insult to injury (to use another cliche), the private land acquired for this useless purpose comes off the tax rolls and increases the tax burden for the remaining taxpayers of the area. Frankly, we don't value another mosquito and blackbird breeding area that much.

When Folks Are Hurting, You Can Help

A recent publication of Hospice of the Red River Valley reprinted an item from Countryside Hospice of Pierre, SD, which contains a number of helpful suggestions which people can take to heart—and to their neighbors.

"When someone is facing an illness, especially a serious illness, friends co-workers and neighbors often feel helpless," the article notes. "They stammer the weak phrase, 'Just call if you need something.'"

While it is likely the people inviting the call really would like to respond to a need if they knew what they could do, it is also likely that the people with the need will never call to express it. Here are some of the practical ways to really help as recounted by people who have been there:

• Don't avoid me. Be the friend or the loved one you've always been.

• Touch me. A simple squeeze of the hand can tell me you still care.

• Call me to say you're bringing our favorite dish and what time you are coming. Bring food in disposable containers so I don't worry about returns.

• Take care of my children for me. I need a little time to be alone or with my loved one.

• Weep with me when I weep; laugh with me when I laugh. Don't be afraid to share feelings with me.

• Call for my shopping list and make a "special delivery" to my home.

• Call before you visit, but don't be afraid to visit. Sometimes we are lonely.

• Help my family celebrate holidays (and life!) by decorating the hospital room, my home, or bringing tiny gifts of flowers or other natural treasures.

• Only one in my family is sick, but everyone may be suffering. Invite others in my family out. Take them places.

• Maybe I need to talk about the illness. Find out by saying, "do you feel like talking about it?"

• Don't always feel we have to talk. We can sit silently together.

• Talk to me about the future.....tomorrow, next week, next year. Hope is so important to me.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Reptile, Amphibian program at Rydell Refuge Aug. 9

Turtles and lizards, a variety of snakes, and "miscellaneous" amphibians and reptiles — an invasion from the swamp? No, it's a hands-on program featuring the many interesting and little known lifestyles of these creatures and it's all happening at the Rydell National Wildlife Refuge at 2 p.m. on Sunday, August 9. Ted Hoberg, seventh grade life sciences teacher from Grand Forks will be the featured presenter.

In a fun and informative way Ted helps bring a better understanding to the cool world of these cold blooded creatures. Ted received recognition as North Dakota 1996 Outstanding Aquatics Educator and has been involved with many interesting projects including developing a reptile and amphibian identification guide for the North Dakota Game and Fish Department and setting up an interactive internet site for surveys of reptiles and amphibians in North Dakota. Touching and handling some of the special guests that Ted will bring to the program will be encouraged as you warm up to these cold blooded critters. It's a great photo opportunity for the kids.

This program is free and open to the public. It is being co-sponsored by the Maple Lake Improvement District, the Union Lake Sarah Improvement District, and Friends of the Rydell Refuge Association. To get to the Rydell Refuge go three miles east of Mentor or three miles west of Erskine on U.S. Highway 2 and turn south on Polk County 210. Follow 210 about 2.5 miles south to the large entrance sign and main gate of the refuge. If arriving from the south, turn north off of Polk County 41 onto Polk County 210 and go about 3.5 miles north and turn left at th Refuge entrance sign. If you have any questions contact the Rydell Refuge at 218-687-2229 or Wayne Gocken at 218-574-2622.

"I Can Cope" classes planned for cancer patients, families

The "I Can Cope" program, a free, six session educational series designed to help cancer patients deal with their disease, begins at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls on August 11. The classes are co-sponsored by the Pennington County Unit of the American Cancer Society and by Northwest Medical Center.

"I Can Cope" includes presentations and videos on the disease process, daily health problems, nutrition, expressing feelings, living with limitations, and locating resources that can help. Speakers will include nurses, physicians, a dietitian, social worker, occupational therapist, and an attorney. The program is open to cancer patients, their families, friends and anyone interested in learning more about the disease.

The six two-hour sessions will begin Tuesday, August 11, and continue every Tuesday and Thursday evening for three weeks through August 27, from 4 to 6 p.m. in the board room at Northwest Medical Center. You may join the class at any time.

Evadell Tangquist, RN, patient education coordinator, and June Poole, RN chemotherapy nurse, at Northwest Medical Center will co-facilitate the sessions. According to Tangquist, "I Can Cope" is a proven educational program developed by the American Cancer Society and has been widely endorsed by health professionals. Graduates of the hospital "I Can Cope" program have felt that they emerged with an improved life outlook, less anxiety and better knowledge of their disease.

Persons wishing to register or learn more about the program should contact Tangquist at 681-4240, extension 416 or Poole, at 681-4240, extension 208.

Fish, Wildlife Service would like to expand use of non-toxic shot

Upland game hunters who are hunting on federal Waterfowl Production Areas will be required to use non-toxic shot if a rule proposed recently by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is made final.

The rule published in the July 27 Federal Register would require those hunting on WPAs to possess only non-toxic shot such as steel, bismuth or tungsten-iron. While the use of non-toxic shot has been a requirement for waterfowl hunting on WPAs since 1992, this restriction would now apply to all hunters on WPAs except those hunting turkey and deer. By federal law, all WPAs are open to public hunting, fishing and trapping.

"We know when birds ingest lead shot, it's deadly to them," said Regional Service Director Bill Hartwig. "Lead can also be deadly to other animals like eagles and hawks if they feed on birds or bird carcasses which contain lead shot. This proposed rule would help reduce the lead poisoning hazard for all animals on these important Waterfowl Production Areas."

Upland areas associated with wetlands provide important nesting cover for both waterfowl and upland birds like ring-necked pheasants, marsh hawks and meadowlarks. Traditionally, these upland areas have also been favored by small game hunters – especially pheasant hunters – because of their ability to hold game. Because many of these areas are subject to seasonal flooding, shot pellets deposited during fall hunting seasons can later be ingested by waterfowl feeding in these areas during high water periods in the spring. The non-toxic shot rule would end the accumulation of lead in these areas.

Most WPAs are located in the duck-producing prairie pothole states of Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska and Michigan also contain these important production areas. True to their name, WPAs – which range in size from just under an acre to several thousand acres – do produce waterfowl. Although WPAs and refuge lands in the prairie pothole region account for less than two percent of the habitat, they produce nearly 23 percent of the area's waterfowl. Over 650,000 acres are designated as WPAs.

Non-toxic shot currently approved for use by the Fish and Wildlife Service includes shot made of steel or bismuth. Tungsten-iron and tungsten-polymer shot, presently under review, are likely to be approved for the 1998-99 hunting season. If approved, notice of approval would be published in the Federal Register in September. Non-toxic shot shells are available commercially in popular shotgun gauges and loads. Non-toxic shot is also available for those hunters who load their own shells and for those who use primitive muzzleloading firearms. Both modern (breechloading) and muzzleloading firearms used on WPAs are restricted to non-toxic shot use.

WPAs are part of the nation's National Wildlife Refuge System, managed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the primary federal agency responsible for the conservation and protection of fish, wildlife and their habitat. The National Refuge System includes more than 93 million acres of land, including over 3,000 WPA and 514 National Wildlife Refuges.

Those interested in commenting on the proposed non-toxic shot rules are invited to write to the Assistant Director, Refuges and Wildlife, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 1849 C Street NW, MS 670 ARLSQ, Washington, DC 20240. All comments must be received within a 30-day public comment period which ends Aug. 26.

A final rule will be issued and published in the Federal Register following the public comment period. It is anticipated the final regulations will be in effect during the 1998-99 hunting seasons.

DNR NEWS

Sixty-seven grants totaling $3.5 million for local parks and natural and scenic areas throughout the state have been approved by the Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources. Funding was provided by the 1998 Minnesota Legislature from general revenue funds. This represents the largest appropriation for the Outdoor Recreation Grant Program in many years and is the largest ever for local natural and scenic area grants.

A total of $2,162,360 was awarded for 56 outdoor recreation grant projects throughout the state. This represents about three-quarters of all applications received. Eleven natural and scenic area grants were approved, totaling $1,337,640.

Largest grant of $318,000 went to Eden Prairie for acquisition of 30 acres of environmentally sensitive Minnesota River bluffland. The smallest grant was $5,000 to Cherry Township in Mower County for development of a baseball field.

Four from TRF at state meet

Four members of the Thief River Falls Tigersharks crossed the border to enter the 1998 North Dakota United States Swimming state meet July 31-Aug. 2 in Mandan.

Swimmers from 20 teams, representing North Dakota and portions of Minnesota, were on hand for the event.

Members of the Tigersharks U.S.S. summer program who competed at the state meet included Zach Olson, Andrea Olin, Kristin Naplin and Sam Kezar. They all swam in the 15-16-year-old age group.

The pool was measured in meters instead of yards that are standard in most area facilities.

Olson's efforts included second place finishes in the 50 freestyle, 27.27, and 100 freestyle, 1:00.77; thirds in the 200 freestyle, 2:15.11, 200 individual medley, 2:38.84; and 400 freestyle, 4:50.26, and a fourth in the 800 freestyle, 10:10.34.

Olin was fifth in the 1500 freestyle, 22:15.07, eighth in the 800 freestyle, 11:49.08, tenth in the 400 freestyle, 5:37.68, and 12th in the 200 freestyle, 2:46.51.

Naplin placed sixth in the 100 backstroke, 1:22.29, and ninth in the 200 backstroke, 3:01.25.

Kezar finished eighth in the 100 backstroke, 1:18.82, and ninth in the 50 freestyle, 28.75.

Olson's summer season extended into the USS zone meet Aug. 7-9 in Minneapolis.

Offensive leaders listed for Legion

Seven Thief River Falls players hit .300 or better during the recently-completed 1998 American Legion baseball season, according to final year-end statistics compiled by first-year Post 117 head coach Mike Wienen.

Thief River Falls hit .321 as a team during a 17-21 campaign that ended in the Ninth District Division I tournament at Moorhead.

Although he didn't have as many at bats due to a season-ending injury suffered in a July 10-11 tournament at Park Rapids, Jerrod Reierson nevertheless led the team with a .509 batting average (28-for-55).

Andrew Solem was next on the chart with a .373 average (38/102) and a team-leading 10 home runs.

Andy Harbott had the most hits (44) and most at-bats (121) on the squad this summer while hitting .364.

Others cracking the .300 barrier were Paul Frank at .357 (35/98), Jeremy Swanson .345 (20/58), Dayton Elseth .325 (37/114), and Joey Pribula .300 (30/100), with a team-high 12 doubles.

Thief River Falls failed to break even in the won-loss column, but still made a major improvement over a 4-32 mark of a year ago. And the 17 wins were the most victories for the program since a 17-27 finish in 1994.

Harbott, Frank, Elseth, Jeremy Swanson, and Nick Swanson, who hit .290 this summer (22/76) all completed their American Legion baseball eligibility in 1998.

Fund-raising activity scheduled Sept. 10th...

Ruffed Grouse Society banquet is set

Thief River Falls Chapter of the Ruffed Grouse Society will host its fourth annual sportsmen's banquet Thursday, Sept. 10. Activity will take place at the Elks Club, with a cocktail reception and raffle sales beginning at 5:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30.

To be eligible for a chance on an early bird door prize – a royal flush raffle package containing $210 worth of raffle tickets to be used at the banquet – tickets must be purchased by Sept. 4.

Regular membership tickets are picked at $40, or $55 for a member and spouse.

Special Habitat Sponsor Packages are also available. For a $240 contribution, you will receive the Ruffed Grouse Society 1998 Habitat Sponsor print, a chance in a special Browning BPR 20-gauge shotgun drawing and two dinner tickets. Sponsor members also receive a one-year regular Ruffed Grouse Society membership, subscription to the Ruffed Grouse Society magazine, a lapel pin, special decal, and embroidered jacket patch.

Also available is a $200 non-attending sponsor package that includes all the above-mentioned items, except dinner tickets.

For tickets, or for more information, contact Joe Ranum, Route 2, Box 38, Thief River Falls, MN 56701; telephone 681-6636 or 681-6699.

Fall sports teams will soon make '98 debut

Opening dates are approaching for high school and college fall sports programs.

Two new head coaches will greet football and volleyball players when they report Friday, Aug. 14, for the start of preseason work at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. Dan Willoughby takes over the Pioneers' football program and and Mike Zachow was recently named volleyball coach.

Northland's football schedule will begin with a 5 p.m. kickoff Saturday, Aug. 29, at home against Central Lakes. The Pioneers' volleyball team will make its debut Wednesday, Sept. 2, against the Concordia College and Moorhead State University junior varsity teams in a 6:30 p.m. triangular hosted by the Cobbers.

Monday, Aug. 17, will be the first day of practice state-wide for high school football, girls swimming, girls tennis, cross country, and volleyball teams.

With preseason work fast approaching, the search continues for a new Thief River Falls girls swimming coach. Rest of the varsity head coaches for the Prowlers' fall sports programs return for 1998, including Jeff Mumm, football, Sylvia Sjoberg, girls tennis, Terri Ueland, cross country, and the co-head coaching duo of Amy Roche and Bruce Jean, volleyball.

The tennis team will begin the Thief River Falls fall sports schedule with a Wednesday, Aug. 26, dual vs. Grand Rapids starting at 4 p.m.

Three Thief River Falls teams will make their debut Tuesday, Sept. 1. Cross country boys and girls will run in the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Invitational at Old Mill State Park starting at 4 p.m. Swimmers will face Fosston/Bagley in a 5 p.m. dual at Fosston. Volleyball team will be at Crookston that night for a match starting at approximately 7:30 p.m.

The Prowlers head to Wisconsin to open the football season with 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 5, game at Washburn.

School District 564 student-athletes are reminded to have all their paperwork completed and fees paid prior to the start of practice. Forms can be obtained at the Lincoln High School Activities Office.

group explored the possibilities of using the area's clay as an art material. "We've been lucky," says Barb Seeger, co-chair of CAPP in Red Lake Falls. "We have people with skills in many areas — biology, business and engineering."

Those skills were put to good use as the group spent about a year learning to use the clay. Student trials were valuable in research and development.

CAPP/Claywoks is a co-curricular program of Lafayette High School, and says Seeger, "It has been wonderful for the Red Lake Falls schools." The program has been made possible through the work of dedicated volunteers and a lot of community support. Seeger and her husband, Richard, are pharmacists who own Center Drug in Red Lake Falls, and the cooperation of her husband and four children has made it possible for Barb to devote so much time to Clayworks.

While the program is centered at the high school, special art events are held at Hughes and St. Joseph's Elementary Schools. Numerous adults throughout the area have become involved in Clayworks through adult education courses and special workshops.

In addition to developing the area clay as an art material, funding has been used to bring in artists and art educators from all over the world who have shared their expertise with and learned from the Clayworks students. Students have participated in field trips, and scholarships have been made available "to keep kids and adults learning," Seeger says. The result is students who are very knowledgeable in art.

This was demonstrated on Thursday at the Clayworks studio in the Park Place Mall as high school student Max LaCoursiere expertly explained how the Red Lake Falls clay is prepared for use as an art material, and a much younger child enthusiastically interpreted the art pieces in the traveling gallery.

The clay in Red Lake County is a mixture of earthenware clay, made beautiful by the colorful glazes applied to it, and baked at a low temperature. Pieces made of area clay are identified with an "RLF" stamp. The clay currently being used is mined on the property of Russ Coenen, a local science and physics teacher.

Examples of the pottery can be seen at the Red Lake Falls public library, many pieces sporting the ribbons earned at the recent Red Lake County Fair. The library display also features the clay sculptures of retired Red Lake Falls farmer Ted Schindler whose enormous talent was discovered only a few months ago in a community education class.

Clayworks will offer pottery kick wheel demonstrations at AFRAN's Chautauqua and French Festival at Old Crossing Treaty Park on August 21, 22 and 23. Also, Red Lake Falls artist Marjorie Schafer will offer a collection of period salt fire pottery for sale.

If you're interested in seeing a quality art display, there is still time to visit and enjoy the Rolling Plains Art Gallery in Red Lake Falls — a town where art is an everyday experience.

Group to ask for hay cutting on CRP acres

A group of state legislators and several local Farm Service Agency officials will request U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman to permit farmers in selected northwest Minnesota counties to take a cutting of hay from their CRP acreage, but Marshall county will not be among them.

"We received quite a bit of rain in June and early July and conditions were just too wet to get the first cutting of alfalfa and other hay in a timely manner," stated Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls, who is among the group to make the request.

"Many operators are just now getting to the first cutting of hay and the quality and production are poor," Stumpf added.

A group of eight legislators from northwest Minnesota and the chairs of the Minnesota House and Senate Agriculture committees are joining in the request for an exemption to Secretary Glickman. A Minnesota Farm Services Agency request for a statewide exemption earlier this year was rejected.

"We hope that by focusing the application on a few counties that have really been hit hard by bad weather, the Secretary will be more receptive," Sen. Stumpf said. "We caution farmers that permission has not yet been received and they should not take a cutting from their CRP land until approval is received from the USDA in Washington."

Stumpf said he has also received a commitment of support for the application from Wally Sparby, executive director of the Minnesota FSA and former District 1B State Representative.

Marshall county has not been approved for haying or grazing of CRP acres and will not be among the counties requesting permission for haying or grazing, according to Jodell Poolman, executive director of the Marshall county FSA office in Warren.

"If the Secretary of Agriculture had authorized emergency haying of CRP, each county would have to show a 40 percent or greater loss in normal production and a 140 percent or greater increase in normal precipitation during the four most recent consecutive months (April, May, June and July), plus the days in the current month (August) before the date of the request," Poolman explained. "Marshall county does not meet this criteria."

Glenn Schefer, executive director of the Pennington county FSA office, said that Pennington county also appears not to meet the criteria.

New Solum Church building has its 100-year anniversary

Brainard of Mayville, ND, a daughter of charter member Retsius Nelson. In 1958 the Ladies Aid installed a new oil-burning automatic furnace and purchased a gas stove for the kitchen.

The church closed in 1966 and remained inactive until 1986 when a new board was formed to conduct affairs of the church and cemetery. Alvin Olson, who had been appointed secretary and trustee in 1965 for a three-year term, has taken care of the books and the cemetery since that time.

The new board formed in 1986 included Alvin Olson, Les Kulseth, Noral Langlie, John Roseland and Alvin Halvorson. Present board members are Cindy Ellingsen, Arvid Halvorson, Lance Moen, Alvin Olson, Dorothy Olson and John Roseland.

The church is used for a Sunday service each summer and has also been used for weddings, funerals, reunions and other special occasions.

Pastors who served the church until it closed in 1966 were Bersvend Anderson, 1883-1890; M. J. Westphal, 1891-1894; Gustav Westerlund, 1895-1896; K. L. Kleveland, 1897-1900; T. T. Boe, 1900-1903; A. Repay marketing loans early to save money

Wheat and barley producers may be able to save money now by repaying marketing loans at the posted county price (PCP) before the nine-month loan maturity date, according to the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers.

Based on the current terminal market price adjusted for location, the PCP can change each day for small grains. Farm Service Agency (FSA) offices in each county adjust PCP rates before business each morning, based on the closing markets from the day before. Although there is one loan rate for wheat in each county, there is a PCP for spring wheat and a PCP for winter wheat.

Market loan repayments using the PCP allow a producer to repay a crop marketing loan before it matures at less than the original principal, offering an alternative to forfeiture of the grain pledged as collateral. Many producers are doing just that with their 1997 loans, saving money by taking advantage of PCPs that in many areas have fallen below the original loan amount.

It's important to note that repayment at the PCP is not allowed after a loan has matured. Other settlement options for maturing 1997 crop loans are to repay the loan—principal plus accrued interest; or deliver the commodity that was under loan to CCC (most elevators are approved CCC delivery points) for forfeiture.

Grain delivered to meet FSA loan repayment obligations is subject to discounts for low quality. In some respects, FSA loan settlement values can be more forgiving than grain standards in the open market.

Memorials

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of our beloved husband, dad, and grandpa, Wayne Holmgren.

It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you did not go alone
A part of us went with you,
The day God took you home
A million times we've needed you,
A million times we've cried,
If love could've saved you
You never would have died
To the grave we travel,
The flowers are placed with care,
But no one knows the heartache
As we turn and leave you there
No farewells were spoken,
No time to say goodbye,
You were gone before we knew it,
And only God knows why
If tears could build a staircase
And heartaches make a lane,
We would walk the path to heaven,
And bring you back again
I love you and miss you, Dad.

Sadly missed by your family,
Bev Holmgren
Doyle, Michelle and Ryan Qualley
Jeff, Kristy and Michael Holmgren

Stephen man digs for fossils

Stephen - Darrin Pagnac is spending the summer digging for dinosaur fossils with paleontologists from the South Dakota School of Mines & Technology (SDSM&T) in Rapid City, SD.

The field dig at an important paleontological site is focused on the excavation of adult and juvenile Allosaurus fossils located at the site. Allosaurus, which means strange lizard, was a flesh-eating dinosaur from the Jurassic age, 150 million years ago. Allosaurus were approximately 36 feet long and walked semi-upright on their hind legs.

Pagnac is a 1990 graduate of Stephen High School and is pursuing a Master of Science in Paleontology degree at SDSM&T, the only university to offer a masters degree in Paleontology in the county. The Messenger

Plans unveiled for civic center

Bemidji - If architects of the proposed civic center have their way, about nine square blocks of downtown residences and businesses will be demolished to make way for the structure.

Even though residents of the area disagree, architects say having the civic center downtown would be a "tremendous asset" to the community. The Pioneer

Motocross racing set for Fall Fest

Grygla - Plans are being laid out for a motocross race track in Grygla. The track is being designed and constructed by experts in the motorcycle racing circuit with plans being made to include the Grygla track on their points-circuit for future years. The races are a new event for the Grygla Falls Festival and will be held on Saturday, August 29 at 4:30 p.m. The Grygla Eagle

Snowmobile trail through downtown

Alexandria - According to a downtown bar owner, a snowmobile trail through the city has the full support of the Downtowners organization and that the Douglas County Trails Association would lay out the trail. The trail would amount to a bypass through the city, connecting trails to the south and north of the city. While council members expressed concerns about noise and traffic, they referred the request to the city highway department for further study. Echo Press

Erskine landmark receives a lift

Erskine - Erskine's landmark, "The World's Largest Northern," was lifted from its setting recently. The area has always been low and will be diked and tiled allowing for better drainage by sloping the land towards the lake. S.J. Lewis Company workers who are completing work on the new sewer and water project donated their time to reset the fish.

The fish was orignally designed and built by Ernie Konickson and has been a landmark for many years. The Erskine Echo

Marijuana operation quite sophisticated

Plant food vitamins, boxes of fertilizer, irrigation equipment, grow lights, starter pots, tents, camouflage paint, electrical cords, various garden hoses, transformers, and motion detector security devices, were all part of the two truck-loads of equipment and supplies officials seized during the execution of a search warrant in Thief River Falls Wednesday. The equipment is all connected to the marijuana growing operation at a rural Red Lake county farm raided by federal, state and local officials Tuesday morning.

Officials are saying the operation was fairly sophisticated. They now believe the plants were started in the spring at a location in Roseau county and then transferred to the rural Red Lake county farm.

Officials are also saying that the marijuana grown here was not being sold here and that the two men arrested Tuesday had little if any contact with local residents. They believe that in the fall of the year, the people involved in the operation would process the marijuana plants and return to Oregon. One of the men arrested Monday was also a guide at a game farm in Texas. Originally, officials were saying that the two men had been in the area for about two years, but recently uncovered evidence to indicate that they were here at least three years.

It was a fairly sophisticated operation in that the men had a considerable amount of equipment specifically used for growing marijuana, and without going into great detail publicly about how to grow it, obviously knew how, and how to grow high quality marijuana.

During the search in Red Lake County, officials arrested Steven Surcliff, 52, Banks, OR, and William George Daggatt, 52, Seaside, OR, and seized over 1,500 marijuana plants with an estimated street value in excess of $1 million.

In addition to the two truck loads of evidence seized Wednesday in Thief River Falls, the officials seized several truck loads of evidence which included pictures, tapes, records, trucks, and much more. The Internal Revenue Service has also begun an investigation.

The investigation spread to Roseau County as well. Federal, state and local officials conducted a search warrant in Roseau County on Tuesday at about the same time the search warrant was executed in Red Lake county.

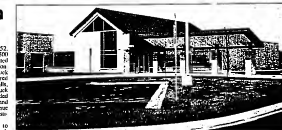
The investigation had revealed that Surcliff and Daggatt had started growing marijuana plants on their property in Roseau county and then transported the plants to their property in Red Lake County.

Steven Surcliff, 52, Banks, OR, and William George Daggatt, 52, Seaside, OR, appeared before Federal Magistrate Randall Berg in Bemidji on Wednesday, August 12. Surcliff and Daggatt were charged with manufacturing (growing) a controlled substance (specifically over 1,500 marijuana plants).

During their initial hearing their rights were explained, their next hearing date set, and monetary and non-monetary conditions established. Berg established a $25,000 appearance bond and required $2,500 in cash for security. As of Thursday morning, both men were being held in the Beltrami County Jail. Their next appearance, their formal arraignment, has been scheduled for August 20 before Judge Jay Earl Cudd in Minneapolis.

City may re-finance bonds on water plant

Thief River Falls City Council agreed to take the next step in the process of re-funding the 1993 water plant improvement bonds. Given the right market conditions, the city could see a present value savings of about $241,000.



Representatives of Juran and Moody presented the re-funding proposal to the city council Tuesday, August 11. Upon discussion the options the council agreed to take the next step.

Roger DeLap, city administrator explained, that the proposal is based on insuring the bonds. If the bonds are insured it will give them a triple-A rating and thus a better interest rate. What the council agreed to, he said, was when and if the city obtains insurance, and when market conditions are right (if they see a four percent savings), they will give the authority to Juran and Moody to make the sale.

The council agreed to grant the low bid for a Jet A Mobile Refueler to Bosserman Aviation Equipment. Bids for the refueler which will be used at the regional airport, were opened on July 30. There were three bids. The low bid was $56,500 with a $385 add-on. The city needs to have the refueler before it converts from a below ground operation to an above ground operation. The change was necessitated by changes in regulations. The cost of the refueler is split 50/50 between the city and Federal Aviation Administration.

A number of personnel items were approved by the council Tuesday night. They approved a recommendation to advertise for an

Dakota Clinic in Thief River Falls will begin use of its new Regional Health and Surgery Center on Highway 59 Southeast beginning Monday, August 17, at 8 a.m. Opening for business will follow a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 7:30 a.m. Construction on the 50,000-square-foot, $7 million facility began in the spring of 1997. It will also house Northwest Eye Center which has been located on North LaBree Avenue. A public open house is planned later this fall.

Dakota Clinic to begin using new facilities here Monday

Following a ribbon-cutting ceremony and remarks by some of the region's political and business leaders at 7:30 a.m., Dakota Clinic's new Regional Health and Surgery Center and Northwest Eye Center will open for business at 8 a.m. at 1720 Highway 59 Southeast in Thief River Falls.

Speaking at the ribbon-cutting program will be Dr. Jim Langland, local representative to the Board of Dakota Clinic Ltd. in Fargo, ND; Dr. Hal Freeman, representing Northwest Eye Center; Mayor Mark Borsheim; Chris Twomey, president of Arctic Cat, Inc., representing the local business community; and Dr. Russ Kuzel, president of the board of Dakota Clinic Ltd. in Fargo.

Construction Started in 1997

Construction of the $7 million, 50,000-square-foot medical facility began in the spring of 1997. R. L. Engebretson Company of Fargo, ND, provided architecture, interior design and construction management services on the project with Hammel, Green and Abrahamson of Minneapolis acting as associate architects.

"This new building will become the home for all the Dakota Clinic physicians and staff who have previously been serving patients at our old location," stated Jan Nyflot, clinic manager. She said Northwest Eye Center, which has been located on LaBree Avenue in downtown Thief River Falls, will also begin operations in the new facility on August 17.

Open House Later This Fall

Nyflot said a public open house will be held later this fall when the move is completed and the clinic personnel are settled into the new facility.

"We are delighted with the outcome of the investment made by the physicians who own Dakota Clinic," the manager added. "We've been taking steps to make certain the transition to the new location goes as smoothly as possible.

"Many features have been designed into this facility to meet the needs of our patients with the most sophisticated, convenient and cost-effective healthcare in northwestern Minnesota."

Innovative Features

She cited design and construction of the building to incorporate many innovative features to minimize the need for patients to walk great distances between examination rooms and the services required. Line-of-sight directions to additional services such as diagnostics also make it easier for patients to find their way around the building, she said, and the covered exterior driveway allows patients to exit and enter vehicles with protection from the elements and the one-story construction also eliminates the need for patients to use elevators or stairs.

"With 17 physicians practicing medicine in 10 areas of specialization, the new facility will enable us to grow with the region and retain more patient services in Thief River Falls," Nyflot said.

"We are currently providing services in family practice, geriatrics, internal medicine, sports medicine, obstetrics/gynecology, orthopaedics, podiatry, radiology, surgery and urology. The expanded available space and new, extended hours will enable us to provide more convenience to area patients while also making our region more attractive for the recruitment of additional healthcare providers."

Additional Services

She said additional services available at the clinic include an urgent care center, same-day outpatient surgery, physical therapy, Dakota Sports Medicine and consultive care in dermatology, cardiology, oncology, ENT, gastroenterology and orthopaedics. The diagnostic center will provide general radiology, fluoroscopy, echocardiography, pulmonary function studies, mammography, ultrasound, CT, MRI, nuclear medicine and laboratory services.

10-year-old Gatzke girl killed in ATV accident

Ten-year-old Kaitlin M. Simmons, daughter of Gary and Jackie Simmons of Gatzke, was killed Tuesday evening when the ATV she was riding in a hayfield went out of control and rolled over.

Marshall County Sheriff's department received a report of the accident at 8:53 p.m. Wednesday, August 12. When deputies responded to the scene they discovered that Kaitlin had died at the scene from her injuries.

The sheriff's department reports that her parents found her in a hayfield in Linsell township near Gatzke. Kaitlin was not wearing a helmet at the time of the accident.

First Responders from Wannaska and Grygla along with the Roseau ambulance and Marshall County Sheriff's department responded to the call.

40 attend mitigation meeting at Winger Wed.

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

Proposed Vesledahl Wetland Project west of Winger in Polk county brought about 40 area citizens to the Winger community hall Wednesday afternoon and early evening. Grain combines were humming throughout the area as the meeting was held from 4 to 7 p.m.

Under discussion was a proposal by the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) and the Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resource (BWSR) to purchase 1,886 acres of land in Winger and Garden townships from Steve and Bob Vesledahl and use it as a wetland mitigation site for road projects in the area.

Mn/DOT would purchase the property for about $1.2 million and BWSR would pay for reclamation costs of approximately $800,000 to restore roughly 600 to 700 acres of wetlands on the site. Reclamation of these wetlands would provide mitigation credits for wetlands lost to road construction by Mn/DOT and by local governmental entities in the area, such as counties and cities.

According to most recent discussions, it is anticipated that Mn/DOT would have access to credits on about 70 percent of the reclaimed wetland in the Vesledahl project and BWSR would have the remainder for its obligations to provide wetland mitigation for the local entities. The credit share has not been made final, however. In attendance at the meeting from the Bemidji office of Mn/DOT were Ken Donaghue, right-of-way engineer; Duane Hill, pre-design engineer; Mike Kamnikar, soils engineer with wetlands responsibilities; Mark Hovdestad, pre-design technician, and Karen Bedeau, public affairs coordinator. Also attending was Bill Best from the BWSR office in Bemidji.

In the complicated and complex world of wetland mitigation, Mike Kamnikar explained in conversation with this writer, reaching consensus among all entities is often difficult and frequently subject to interpretation by agencies and their representatives.

In the Vesledahl Project proposal, he said, there are the unusual positives of a willing seller, a willing buyer and agencies which approve of the proposal. The site offers a large area for consolidated restoration of wetlands which should have the positive impacts which wetlands are purported to provide. In addition, it has upland buffer area which could be seeded with native prairie grasses to bring back some of that lost landscape to the area.

Asked why it would not be possible to mitigate wetland on publicly owned land rather than acquiring private land for that purpose, Kamnikar said there is nothing in wetland law that prevents it. He said he had sent a Request for Proposals (RFP) several times to both the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (which

At left is Ken Donaghue, right-of-way engineer for the Minnesota Department of Transportation in Bemidji. Mn/DOT sponsored the meeting to answer questions on the proposed wetland mitigation project site.

Drugs stolen from Bagley pharmacy

Bagley - About $20,000 worth of drugs, many of them narcotics, were taken by the thief or thieves who broke into Pratts Pharmacy in Bagley recently.

According to the store owner, the burglars threw a rock through the front door and walked into the store. Walking past both cash registers, they headed for the drug shelves. The Bagley Police Chief referred to the crime as a "load and go" burglary, where the thieves carried one or more containers and merely swept the drugs off the shelves. Farmers Independent

Warroad man faces felony drug charge

Roseau County sheriff's department with assistance from the Paul Bunyan Drug Task Force, Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, and Warroad Police department executed a search warrant at a residence in the Lakewood Trailer Park near Warroad on Tuesday, August 11.

During that search, officers seized approximately one-quarter pound of marijuana. They also arrested Thomas Stephen Libby, 35, for felony possession of a controlled substance. Libby is in custody at the Roseau County jail pending formal charges.

Suspect in Safranski disappearance arrested

Kevin Skjerven, 41, formerly of Warren and a suspect in the October 27, 1996 disappearance of Voni Safranski was arrested in the Twin Cities recently by agents of the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF).

Skjerven is being held in jail on a federal charge of felon in possession of a firearm. According to an ATF spokesperson, the charge stems from a search warrant executed by Marshall County authorities some time ago. The spokesperson said ATF is continuing its investigation, but Skjerven is expected to appear on the charge in a Federal court on September 2.

The maximum penalty for a Federal conviction on felon in possession of a firearm is 10 years, and/or $250,000.

Lusignan graduates from military training

Air National Guard Airman Kyle L. Lusignan has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization, and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Lusignan is the son of Loren E. and Glenyce F. Lusignan of rural Grygla. He is a 1997 graduate of Grygla High School.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Today's recipes are snacks and desserts that aren't too rich or heavy, but just right to pep up these loggie doggie days of summer.

This recipe might be a good one to save for Christmas - after you try it this summer, of course. It's a wonderful snacking treat to have on hand for unexpected company:

SCOTCH SHORTBREAD

2 cups butter only, no substitutes
1 cup brown sugar
4 cups flour, sifted twice

Place butter in mixing bowl and let stand until soft enough to work.

Cream brown sugar into it, then work in flour.

Pat out on lightly floured board to about 1/4 inch thickness (thicker is ok). Cut into diamonds, squares or any other shape. Prick cookies with fork.

Place on ungreased cookie sheet about 1 inch apart and bake at 325 degrees for about 10 minutes, until lightly browned. Cool slightly before removing from pan to rack. Store in airtight container - tastes better with age.

How about using some of those fresh, sweet blueberries that are abundant in the stores right now? This is one of those good, old-fashioned recipes and it is written in an old-fashioned way. Oil can be substituted for the butter, and I would use muffin cups instead of going to all the bother of unlined muffin tins, but maybe you'd rather be traditional:

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

1/3 cup butter
2 teaspoons sugar
Pinch of cinnamon or nutmeg, if desired
2 cups flour
1/4 cup sugar
2 1/4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg
3/4 cup milk
1/3 cup fresh or frozen blueberries

Grease muffin pans thoroughly and set in oven to heat to 375 degrees.

Melt butter and set aside.

Mix 2 teaspoons sugar with cinnamon or nutmeg and set aside for topping.

Sift flour, 1/4 cup sugar, baking powder and salt into a bowl. Mix egg, milk and butter together and add all at once to dry ingredients, stirring briefly, just until all flour has been moistened.

Place about 1/3 of the batter into the muffin tins. Stir berries into remaining batter and finish filling pans. Sprinkle muffins with spiced sugar.

Bake 20-25 minutes or until browned and done. Remove from pan immediately.

Here's a cake that doesn't need any frosting. If you wish, you can sprinkle it with a little powdered sugar through a sieve after it is completely cooled - if you can wait:

BUTTERMILK POPPY SEED CAKE

1/2 cup poppy seeds
1 cup buttermilk
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar
4 eggs, separated
2 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly butter a non-stick 12 cup bundt pan and set aside.

Soak poppy seeds in buttermilk for 5-8 minutes.

In large bowl, cream butter, shortening and vanilla. Beat in sugars until mixture is light and fluffy. Add egg yolks.

Sift flour, baking powder, soda and salt and then add alternately with the buttermilk mixture, beating after each addition.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and then stir a scant half of them into the batter to lighten it. Gently fold in the remainder.

Place batter in pan and bake 35-40 minutes, or until toothpick comes out clean. Cool right side up on wire rack for 20 minutes, then turn out on a pan to finish cooling.

And here's a delicious fresh way to top that poppy seed cake, your dish of ice cream or a plain vanilla pudding:

BLUEBERRY SAUCE

3/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup cold water
6 tablespoons (half of a 6 ounce can) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
1 cup blueberries

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan. Stir in water and orange concentrate. Add blueberries.

Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Serve warm over ice cream, pudding or cake.

Karlstad Center has report with no deficiencies

Karlstad Healthcare Center had its annual healthcare survey July 27-29 by the Minnesota Department of Health and for the first time cleared the evaluation with a zero deficiency rating.

"The surveyors carefully observe the nursing department and review our medical charts," administrator Arlen Solheim said. "They do an environmental tour looking at sanitation, cleanliness and maintenance of physical plant, and considerable time is spent observing meal preparation and food content.

"The entire team effort put forth 365 days a year by the outstanding employees at Karlstad Healthcare has been evaluated and rated as deficiency free by the state health department and we are very proud of this achievement," Solheim added.

Why Should Taxpayers Pay Bureaucrats For Union Activities?

Probably not many taxpayers in the nation are aware of a practice called "official time" which applies to specially designated unionized federal employees. According to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, "offical time" allows these employees to take paid time off to work on union activities, such as lobbying Congress on union issues.

So how many government employees does this involve? Half a dozen? A couple of dozen? A few hours a month when special legislation is being considered? Don't we wish!

The government's own General Accounting Office (GAO) in 1996 found that almost $12 million in taxpayer dollars subsidized union official time activities at the Social Security Administration alone! In typical governmental fashion, neither federal agencies nor federal unions are required to keep records on how much official time is used or how it is used, so records are sketchy at best. At the Internal Revenue Service and the Veteran's Affairs Administration, GAO found the records so poor it was impossible to even estimate costs.

This year the GAO study found that federal employees spent at least 2.5 million hours on union official time in 1996 at 32 federal agencies with hundreds of government employees doing union work full-time. Cost to the taxpayers was estimated by the GAO to be at least $50 million. This is considered by some to be just the tip of the iceberg, since the GAO indicates data provided by the agencies was "spotty at best."

Taxpayers should feel doubly offended by this practice, since the lobbying efforts of the federal employees are often contrary to the best interests of the nation's public as well as being done at public expense.

Government employees certainly have the right to form unions and to work for their personal and organizational benefits, but common sense dictates that they should do those things on their own time at their own expense— not while being paid to do government work with taxpayers' dollars.

We enjoyed reading the following not-so-tongue-in-cheek commentary on society which was sent to us by one of our readers. Perhaps others will also get a little mental stimulation (as well as a good laugh) out of the message therein:

NEW MATH

Teaching Math In 1950: A logger sells a truckload of lumber for $100. His cost of production is 4/5 of the price. What is his profit?

Teaching Math In 1960: A logger sells a truckload of lumber for $100. His cost of production is 4/5 of the price, or $80. What is his profit?

Teaching Math In 1970: A logger exchanges a set "L" of lumber for a set "M" of money. The cardinality of set "M" is 100. Each element is worth one dollar. Make 100 dots representing the elements of the set "M." The set "C," the cost of production, contains 20 fewer points than set "M." Represent the set "C" as a subset of set "M" and answer the following question: What is the cardinality of the set "P" for profits?

Teaching Math In 1980: A logger sells a truckload of lumber for $100. Her cost of production is $80 and her profit is $20. Your assignment: Underline the number 20.

Teaching Math In 1990: By cutting down beautiful forest trees, the logger makes $20. What do you think of this way of making a living? Topic for class participation after answering the question: How did the forest birds and squirrels feel as the logger cut down the trees? There are no wrong answers.

Teaching Math In 1996: By laying off 40% of its loggers, a company improves its stock price from $80 to $100. How much capital gain per share does the CEO make by exercising his stock options at $80? Assume capital gains are no longer taxed, because this encourages investment.

Teaching Math In 1997: A company outsources all of its loggers. The firm saves on benefits, and when demand for its product is down, the logging work force can easily be cut back. The average logger employed by the company earned $50,000, had three weeks vacation, a nice retirement plan and medical insurance. The contracted logger charges $50 an hour. Was out-sourcing a good move?

Teaching Math In 1998: A laid-off logger with four kids at home and a ridiculous alimony from his first failed marriage comes into the logging company corporate offices and goes postal, mowing down 16 executives and a couple of secretaries, and gets lucky when he nails a politician on the premises collecting his kickback. Was outsourcing the loggers a good move for the company?

Teaching Math In 1999: A laid-off logger serving time in Folsom Prison for blowing away several people is being trained as a COBOL programmer in order to work on Y2K projects. What is the probability that the automatic cell doors will open on their own as of 00:01, 01/01/00?

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

The Thief River Falls Community Arts Council recently completed the first successful season of summer theater at Northland community and Technical College with a fine production of The Music Man. We are sincerely hoping that this will be the start of a long-standing tradition of community theater in the City of Thief River Falls.

We'd like to publicly thank all those who contributed to this project. Heidi Hoks did an outstanding job as general director. She worked hard and used her multi-faceted talents to bring together the very best of local talent. Scott Bomholdt did an excellent job as technical director, with all the lighting, sound and set work adding so much to the show. Catherine Hagen, as usual, did a dynamic job as music director and accompanist.

The actors, musicians and all the volunteers behind the scenes need to be thanked also. Their hard work shone and made the show a rousing success. These people put in long hours to bring The Music Man on stage. It's not always easy to give up that much free time, especially in the summer; for that, we applaud and thank them.

A hearty thanks also goes to Dr Orley Gunderson and Northland Community and Technical College which allowed us to use the theater and supported our group from the very start. Without Dr. Gunderson's enthusiasm and dedication to local arts, this project would not have been possible.

Finally, a great big round of applause to all the audience members who came out to watch the show and support our endeavors. The theater was filled to capacity for almost all of the six performances. Without this type of response, we would not be preparing for a series next summer. Thanks to those of you who became members of the Arts Council and who continue to support theater at the local level with your financial contributions.

As for next summer? the TRF Community Arts Council met last Monday evening and selected three shows for the summer of 1999: Arsenic and Old Lace, The Glass Menagerie and The King and I. It will be an exciting summer series and we hope to see all of you— directors, actors, musicians, volunteers, audience members— ready and willing to be a part of it!

Sincerely,
Jane Anderson, President
TRF Community Arts Council

To The Editor:

To my fellow members of the Warren Horseshoe Club and any visiting players who were present when I suffered a near-fatal attack of heat stroke last Sunday at the horseshoe grounds in Warren:

When I hit the ground I was as helpless as a newborn baby. But I laid there in perfect peace, totally trusting my friends to save my life if that was to be God's will. If I live to be 100 years old, I will not be able to fully repay them.

I hate to single out someone in case I will hurt other members' feelings, but I feel Chris Harren of Badger should have special thanks, along with Gene Ljunggren, who appeared to me to be calling the shots.

Again, I give thanks to the Warren Horseshoe Club. They are some super good people. There is a saying that "volunteers are unpaid, not because they are worthless, but because they are priceless." The Warren Horseshoe Club is priceless.

Sincerely,
Duane Bjorgaard

Tim Lyon

A Modest Proposal

My brother-in-law from International Falls actively seeks out and keeps 12-inch walleyes. He's done this for years, explaining to me that the best heads of lettuce always remain in the hands of the locals in southern California, so why should we settle for anything less than the best of our indigenous treasures?

And for years I've condemned him, poking a self-righteous finger in his chest and denouncing him loudly for the "baby-killer" he is.

Actually, by brother-in-law is a gun-toting game warden who is 6' 4" and 230 pounds and was once recruited by the Dallas Cowboys to play linebacker, so anything I might want to say contrary to or about him is usually done in a hushed tone behind his back at a great distance. Besides, he's right, at least on this one.

A 12-inch walleye is exacting what I should be looking for, contends the DNR. In theory 1998 Lake of the Woods fishing synopsis they actually put into print a management philosophy that would have the diehard meat hunters of the world cringing with catch-n-release remorse.

"We encourage you to take home the smallest fish you feel comfortable with..."

Read it twice, if you will: it's pretty heavy stuff. That's a dramatic departure from the standards of my parents' generation when it was virtually unethical to keep anything but the big ones.

And it's quite a significant turn away from the general tenets of my upbringing, too, with the '70's new found stress on "minimum size restrictions." Heck, we used to ridicule fishermen who kept small fish. Now it's not only being condoned, but actually encouraged. The next thing you know they'll be giving women the right to vote.

The logic, however, is fairly persuasive. The mortality rate among young fish is great, to say the least. Only three percent of one-year-old walleyes, for example, will make it to their seventh birthday. Older fish, on the other hand, are far more likely to survive another year and actually contribute to your fishery. By demanding that the empty space on your dinner plate be filled by a fillet from a two-pound fish when two fillets from one-pound fish would have sufficed, is actually a detraction from your future fishing.

And even if that small fish makes it to the ripe old age of seven or eight or 14, there's no guarantee he'll turn out like you expected. Fish, like people, are genetically predisposed. Shaquille O'Neal's kids will probably be tall; Mickey Rooney's won't. That one-pound walleye may have parenting that will allow for growth to a trophy size, or he may be destined to peak at shore lunch proportions. In this instance, throwing back the small fish in favor of keeping the larger ones actually increases the odds that you'll catch only small fish in the future as you dilute an obviously successful gene pool.

And sex is important here. (Yes, I know, Dr. Freud, sex is important everywhere.) If that precious one-pound walleye is a male, you're not putting any serious dent in the reproductive potential of the fishery by keeping it. In the same logic that has been applied to pheasants for decades, a single male will service multiple females, reducing the need for an evenly-balanced population.

Or, if the fish in question is a female, she's contributing little or nothing in the way of viable eggs at her small stature, anyway. Whichever, boy or girl (I think even Jacques Cousteau would need a coin flip to determine sex from an external vantage point in fish this size), just keep it and eat it.

And finally—and boy do I feel like a cliche-tossing old guide when I say this—the smaller ones taste better anyway. Yes, of course, there's no accounting for taste; some people actually eat cod soaked in lye.

But given a choice between the delicate flakiness of a young walleye fillet in its prime and a greasy slab of fryborne-riddled over-age lunker, there can't be too many who'd opt for the latter. With no preachiness intended, I'd even go so far as to say that the days I was fishing for food and had to eventually put a three-pounder in the pan, were days that I had failed. My intent was not to brag about them; my intent was to eat them.

So after years of long-distance confrontation, I'm ready to give in and agree with my brother-in-law. No, not because he can smush me with his left hand while eating Cheerios with his right, but because his position makes too much sense. It is in my best interests professionally and gastronomically to eat children.

Tunheim takes farm crisis message to Washington

State Rep. Jim Tunheim of Kennedy brought the plight of Minnesota farmers to lawmakers and regulators in Washington, DC, last week, testifying before the Senate Farm Forum and attending a hearing of the House Agriculture committee.

"Although the crisis deepens each day, I was encouraged by the growing recognition among federal officials of the problems that farmers in our area are having due to low commodity prices and adverse weather," he said. "It's clear to me that farm state congressmen seemed to understand that the Minnesota farm situation is among the worst in the nation. Unfortunately, other weather-related problems in high population states like Texas and Florida are capturing more federal lawmakers' attention."

The Senate Farm Forum Wednesday brought farmers from around the country to tell their stories.

"What these senators heard was that the fallout from passage of the 1996 Freedom to Farm Act has been the devastation of the farm economy," Tunheim said. "There is not safety net any more for rural communities, and the farm economy has fallen into an historic depression. The message these senators heard was that the 1996 bill needs to be revisited now."

Among ideas being considered by Congress to address the farm crisis include removing the caps on marketing loan rates and extending the maturity date on loans, thereby giving farmers another six months to hold grain for a higher price. Tunheim said he applauded the proposals but that they do not go far enough.

"Fifteen months is not nearly long enough for these loans, and the proposed price of $3.40 for wheat is still not enough for farmers to pay their bills," the Minnesota legislator said. "Prices need to reach at least $5 per bushel."

Tunheim said he was encouraged by a bill put forward by Senators Kent Conrad and Byron Dorgan of North Dakota which is modeled after a similar bill authored by Tunheim and passed by the Minnesota House last year. It would create a $500 million indemnity payment reimbursement program. The state law under which farmers will begin to receive payments in August, used $8.8 million of the state budget reserves to reimburse a maximum of $4,000 in premiums per farmer.

Undersecretary of Agriculture Gus Schumacher has been encouraging other states to use the Minnesota model, Tunheim said. Texas, Oklahoma and Florida have all seen state surpluses in recent years, and Schumacher has been urging those states to channel some of the surplus funds into agricultural relief.

Another proposal that appeared to have support among lawmakers Tunheim talked to was extending the Conservation Reserve Program to portions of northwest Minnesota that are currently ineligible for CRP.

"Congressman Collin Peterson has been strongly advocating for getting our farmers back into the CRP, and that is an important piece of this puzzle," Tunheim said.

Tunheim said he will continue to work with state lawmakers and Congress to see that farmers are provided with relief as soon as possible.

"Our rural way of life has not been under this kind of pressure since the farm crisis of the mid-1980s," he said, "and we are demanding quick action and assistance in order to shore up the farm economy."

NWRDC seeks members for advisory group

Northwest Regional Development Commission is seeking persons interested in serving on an advisory committee for development of a Red River Basin Water Quality Plan.

The plan is being prepared by the Minnesota Pollution control Agency (MPCA) as part of an effort to set a direction for its state and federal responsibility in water quality management.

The committee will operate for approximately one year starting in September and will have four to six meetings. Committee membership will include two representatives each from environmental/citizen advocacy, watershed district, soil and water conservation district and agriculture, five from local government and one each from point source pollution, education and business/industry.

Persons interested in serving on the committee or who would like to submit the name of someone for consideration are asked to provide a written note or letter with the person's name, address, telephone number and group to be represented to: Leon Heath, NWRDC, 115 South Main, Warren, MN 56762.

Stumpf announces state aid payments to local government

Grants totaling more than $17.2 million in the counties, cities, townships and other local governments in Senate District 1 have been announced by Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls.

Among the larger payments in Pennington county are $910,000 to the City of Thief River Falls, $393,000 to Pennington County, $128,000 to the Red Lake Watershed District and $12,000 to the City of Goodridge.

The aid payments include homestead and agricultural credit aid, local government aid to cities and townships, criminal justice aid and family preservation aid to counties.

"These aid payments are very important," Sen. Stumpf said, "since they keep people's property taxes down. State aid reduces the amount that local governments have to tax their citizens. Local governments will receive the same or greater aid payments in December."

Before and after views show some of the property in the northwest corner of the City of Middle River which was acquired and cleared in a community beautification project sponsored by the Middle River Community Club. Through the use of funds raised in its annual Extravaganza event and a $1,500 donation from First National Bank of Middle River, the club purchased six lots and paid for the clearing operation. Total cost of the project was $7,000. The club has created an initiative fund which it uses for various community projects.

Census 2000 will try to find everyone

To make sure each household in the nation receives a Census 2000 questionnaire, the U.S. Census Bureau needs to know the address and location of every housing unit —anywhere a person lives or could live. In the next few weeks, census workers will fan out throughout Minnesota to help create that nationwide list.

Address listers will record the locations and addresses of all living quarters in rural and suburban areas that often do not have a city-style address with a house number and street name. They will ask occupants their names and mailing addresses in a brief contact that should only take a minute or two for each household. They will also note on a map where the housing unit is located so it can be found in the year 2000 census.

"The address list and related maps are the foundation of a complete and accurate census," states Henry Palacios, regional director for the Census Bureau in Kansas City, MO. "Some of the people who were missed in the 1990 census were missed because the Census Bureau didn't know their housing unit existed."

In addition, the address list being developed for the census will be maintained during the years between censuses and serve as the basis for samples drawn for various surveys conducted by the federal government. Since in some surveys respondents are contacted by phone, census workers also will collect the telephone number for households where available.

Census listers may be identified by their red, white and blue badge which say "Census Enumerator." If there is any question about the identity of census listers, call 816-801-2060.

By law all information given to a census worker by residents is confidential and cannot be revealed to anyone who is not covered by the same strict confidentiality statute. Violations of the law can result in fines and imprisonment, Palacios said.

The Census Bureau encourages Minnesota residents to cooperate with the census worker who visits them, noting that—without a complete address list—Census 2000 will be less accurate than it could be. It is important for Minnesota that all of its residents are counted. Census results are used to determine political representation and for distribution of billions of dollars through federal programs each year.

Census address lister jobs may still be available. For information, call 1-888-325-7733.

Century farms in area are cited by State Fair

A number of farms in northwestern Minnesota will be recognized as Century Farms by the Minnesota State Fair this year. Statewide some 253 farms have been accepted for recognition.

Qualifying families own farms that have been in continuous family ownership for at least 100 years and are at least 50 acres in size. Since the program began in 1976, a total of 6,880 farms in Minnesota have been recognized as Century Farms.

Century Farm families receive an aluminum building sign and a commemorative certificate signed by the President of the State Fair and the Governor of Minnesota.

Listed by county—with the date the farm was established placed in parentheses—the Century Farms in this area include the following:

Clearwater—Carole and Duane Beckstrand, Clearbrook, (1896, two farms), and Claude Pearson, Gonvick (1896).

Kittson—Richard and Wanda Clow, Orleans (1890) and Daniel Sjostrand, Lancaster (1898).

Marshall—Gary B and Jean Anderson, Viking (1898); Russell and Clarice Floberg, Viking (1898); Nan Hamberg, Strandquist (1888); Alfred Hebert, Argyle (1898); Leonard S Jacobson, Stephen (1898); Rita J. Nelson, Stephen, (1892); Patricia Peterson and children Alice, Mike and Randy, Argyle (1893); Clara Reierson, Newfolden (1892); and Donovan and Loretta Wikstrom, Strandquist (1898).

Polk—Florence J. Aaseng and Sons, McIntosh (1897); Paul Bergman, Oslo (1895); Terrance and Shirley Vonasek, East Grand Forks (1895); and Lloyd E. and Carol Wald, Fosston (1898).

Red Lake—Vern and Cecile Surprenant, Red Lake Falls (1894), and Rodney and Darlene Zutz, Red Lake Falls (1898).

Roseau—Joseph G. Anderson, Greenbush (1898).

Disaster loans for business available

Businesses affected by weather-related disasters may apply to the Northwest Regional Enterprise Fund, Inc., for a disaster relief loan.

Businesses in Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties can apply for loans ranging from $5,000 to $150,000 at an interest rate four points below the prime lending rate, to a minimum of four percent.

Interested persons should contact Linda Nelson, loan fund manager at the Northwest Regional Development Commission at 218-745-6733 for more information.

The disaster relief loan fund was established by the Enterprise Fund of the NWRDC to provide financing to businesses affected by weather-related and other disasters. The fund can assist businesses in locations declared disaster areas by the state and/or federal government.

Examples of assistance include working capital for loss of income while the business was closed during the disaster, replacement of inventory and fixed assets lost as a result of the disaster, re-financing of loans from private lenders which were incurred as a result of the disaster, and other assistance.

To be eligible for the disaster loan fund, applicants must show that the business was viable/profitable prior to the disaster and that a loss in sales or financial damage was suffered as a result of severe weather conditions.

Applicants must also show that no other financing is available or feasible for the business at affordable terms. A loan from the disaster revolving loan fund must be matched on a one to-one basis by a bank or other private financing source.

Funding for the loans originated from the U.S. Economic Development Administration and local matching funds.

Low interest loans available for equipment

Marshall County has funding available to provide low interest loans to county residents that implement best management practices. These best management practices include conservation tillage equipment, animal waste control system improvements, individual sewage treatment system improvements, or other practices that prevent water quality degradation.

The maximum loans will be $25,000 with an interest rate of three percent and a one-half percent origination fee.

To request an application contact Danni Halvorson, Marshall County Water Plan Coordinator at 745-4217.

Old Mill State Park's Grinding Day Aug. 30

"Grinding Day" at the historic old mill at Old Mill State Park west of Newfolden will take place on Sunday, August 30, when the mill will be grinding wheat into flour from 1 to 4 p.m.

Friends of Old Mill State park and the Marshall County Historical Society will join the park in sponsorship of the annual event. The mill is powered by Case steam engine No. 359 which will be fired up especially for the afternoon program.

Fresh ground flour and bran may be purchased from the Marshall County Historical Society volunteers at the site. A taste of wheat bread will also be provided at the miller's log cabin on the site.

Gladwin Lynne will present naturalist programs and a special "visitor from the past" will be on the park grounds. Wool spinning will take place in the miller's cabin, horse-drawn wagon rides will be provided through the prairie in the park and the Marshall County Council on Aging will be holding its summer potluck picnic at the picnic shelter.

Viking Volcanoes 4-H club members will be selling homemade bars, popcorn, lemonade, soft drinks, ice cream treats and fry bread to raise money for their community pride club project. Started last spring, the project involves restoring the Nyed Cemetery in Foldahl township of Marshall county, including the purchase and erecting of markers for several unmarked graves.

The club earlier installed a sign at the rural cemetery which contains the gravesites of several members of the Larson family which operated the flour mill and homesteaded the land which is now Old Mill State Park.

A vehicle permit is required for vehicles to enter state parks. The permits may be purchased at the park office and cost $4 for a daily permit or $20 for an annual permit which can be used at many state parks.

For answers to questions about "Grinding Day" or Old Mill State Park, contact park manager Mary Broten at 218-437-8174 or write to Old Mill State Park, Route 1, Box 43, Argyle, MN 56713.

New house energy codes suggested

New state rules requiring increased energy efficiency and installation of mechanical ventilation in new home construction were adopted earlier this year by Kris Sanda, commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Public Service.

Although the new standards, called the Energy Code, do not go into effect until July of 1999, DPS urges those building a new home to ask their builder to incorporate the new standards now.

"Our department worked closely with the building industry to develop the new rules," Sanda said. "They are based on sound principles of building science and will help reduce problems with indoor air quality and moisture in new homes. Although they will add some costs, the investment will pay in increased comfort, safety, durability and resale value."

Under the new standards, insulation levels remain approximately the same, but more complete coverage is required, for example, at the top and at corners of exterior walls. Measures are also required to reduce air leaks from the interior to the exterior of the home and vice versa.

For example, a sealed wind wash barrier must be installed to restrict air leakage from attached garages into the home, and a continuous air barrier must be installed at the floor rim joists. The new code also requires higher insulating values for windows.

A major change in the new code is the requirement of a mechanical ventilation system to supply outdoor air for the people inside the home. No longer does the home rely on air leaks or open windows to supply the necessary air. The ventilation system must have the capacity to provide a one-third air change per hour to all habitable rooms.

A variety of home ventilation systems can be installed that meet this requirement, including a heat recovery ventilator which takes heat from the exhausted air to use within the building.

The new code also prescribes options to assure safe operation of exhaust fans and the furnace, boiler, water heater and other fuel-burning appliances, including fireplaces. A new home that has a combustion appliance that is not direct or power vented is required to have a carbon monoxide detector.

A brochure describing the new requirements and including questions to discuss with the builder is available by calling the DPS energy information center at 651-296-5175 in the metropolitan area or 1-800-657-3710 from elsewhere in Minnesota.

The Overtones Quartet from the Roseau area will be featured during an outdoor concert and ice cream social sponsored by the Evangelical Covenant Church south of its parking lot at 1425 East Third Street in Thief River Falls. The Overtones will sing at 7 p.m. Wednesday, August 19, and the community is invited to participate. Proceeds from the evening will be used for the church's youth group and confirmation class fall missions trip to the inner city of Chicago. Members of the Overtones are Dola Billberg, bass; Carson Hedlund, baritone; Randy Holwell, lead; and Neil Vagle, tenor. Accompanist is Joyce Hulst. They sing old time and Southern style Gospel music as well as songs made popular by the Oak Ridge Boys and Statler Brothers quartets.

Expand crop insurance to more area counties

United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Risk Management Agency (RMA) has expanded federal crop insurance catastrophic risk protection to forage production and forage seeding for more counties in Minnesota in 1999, including counties in this area of the state. Producers must apply at their local crop insurance agency.

Counties which have not had any forage insurance in the past but will be added for 1999 include Norman, Mahnomen and Red Lake in this area of the state.

Counties with only one level of catastrophic risk protection this year under the Group Risk Plan will have another level of protection for the first time in 1999. Actual Production History (APH) policies will also be offered in Beltrami, Clearwater, Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Polk and Roseau counties in this area. There are no longer any GRP-only counties.

The USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) and RMA both have programs of crop protection. FSA offers crop protection under the Non-insured Crop Disaster Assistance program (NAP). NAP is designed to help reduce production risks faced by producers of crops for which federal crop insurance is not available.

The law stipulates that NAP cannot be extended to crops for which catastrophic risk protection under federal crop insurance is available. This is true regardless of whether the producer elects to obtain insurance coverage. Questions on NAP eligibility should be directed to the local Farm Service Agency. Federal crop insurance coverage on forage replaces coverage formerly provided by NAP.

RMA subsidizes all federal crop insurance policies, establishes policy terms and conditions, sets rates and premiums and guarantees funds for the payment of approved claims. Crop insurance is available exclusively through crop insurance agents, and producers have the right to choose their own agent prior to the sales closing dates.

There are two types of insurance policies available through federal crop insurance for forage production and seeding. The Actual Production History policy traditionally covers losses based on individual yields, and the Group Risk Protection plan covers losses determined on a county average yield. Under the APH policy, coverage includes both the forage production and forage seeding.

Under the APH policy, winter protection (winter coverage endorsement) is available. Producers are required to apply through a crop insurance agent no later than Sept. 30, 1998. Deadline for APH applications where coverage begins in the spring is March 15, 1999. Application deadline for GRP coverage for the 1999 crop year is November 30, 1998. For further information on forage production insurance, the winter coverage option, deadlines and changes, producers should contact their crop insurance agent before the September 30, 1998 closing date.

Early payments authorized for farm participants

United States Congress recently voted to provide assistance to farmers by allowing the 1999 Agricultural Market Transition Act payment to be issued throughout the year, but as early as Oct. 1, 1998.

Wally Sparhy, state executive director of the Farm Service Agency, said county office personnel in many parts of Minnesota are overwhelmed with loan deficiency payments, marketing loan repayments and preparation for an expected October sign-up for the Conservation Reserve Program.

"In spite of the current work," Sparhy said, "our personnel will make every attempt to provide prompt payments." Farmers who want their Agricultural Marketing Transition Act payments early, have made farm changes, and who will be involved in a new or expiring Conservation Reserve Program contract, should make plans to visit their county FSA office.

Sparhy said that making Agricultural Marketing Transition Act payments may be slowed due to:

- Owner or operator changes effective for the 1999 crop year: Production flexibility contracts will have to be corrected on those farms prior to the issuance of payments.
- Farms rented with a cash or a share lease. There are about 35,000 Minnesota farms enrolled in the Production Flexibility program with year-to-year lease agreements. All signatures are required again on each of those farms prior to issuance of payments.
- Expiring or new Conservation reserve Program contracts. Each farm affected will require the producer to work with county Farm Service Agency office still to re-enroll the farm into the Production Flexibility Program. On Sept. 30, 1998, an estimated 2,950 Conservation Reserve Program contracts with 176,515 acres expire, while on Oct. 1, 1998, 9,306 contracts with 455,178 acres will begin earning Conservation Reserve Program payments.

23rd Annual Pioneer Farmers Show Aug. 21-23

The 23rd Annual Pioneer Farmers Show and Ripples Reunion will be held August 21-23 at Itasca State Park.

The show will include a hot-air engine collector's reunion, log handling with horses, lumber sawing and planing, lath and shingle making, threshing, corn shredding, grain grinding, and steam and diesel engines — all with machines nearly a century old.

Daily parades will be held as will the Minnesota State Championship Old-Time Tractor Pull on Sunday evening.

Women's activities will include a craft show and lefse and fry bread demonstrations. Music will be provided on the grounds throughout the show and a community worship service will be held on Sunday morning. Playground facilities are available for children.

Lunches, refreshments, Saturday and Sunday breakfasts and a Saturday evening meal will be served by the Ripples.

Cost is $4 per day for those 12 and older or $6 for a three-day pass. For more information, contact Bob Bilden at (218) 657-2233. Information about the tractor pull can be obtained by calling Bob Larson at (218) 759-4732. Anyone interested in demonstrating a pioneer era craft is asked to call Fran at (218) 681-8227 for a time schedule and to reserve a space.

The events will be held on the north side of Itasca State Park on Minnesota Hwy 200. Signs will mark the road.

Roseau resident named to State Feedlot study group

Environmental Quality Board Chairman Rodney Sando appointed Galen Lisell as a representative from northwestern Minnesota to serve on the citizen advisory committee for the Generic Environmental Impact Statement on Animal Agriculture.

Galen Lisell owns a small beef farm in Roseau and also works as a self-employed carpenter. "Mr. Lisell's perspective as a small livestock producer is an important contribution to the citizen advisory committee," said Rod Sando.

The citizen committee will advise the board on the statewide study of the economic, environmental and social impacts of the changing livestock industry in Minnesota, which is being conducted over the next two years. The committee will hold its next meeting on August 17 and 18 in St. Paul.

The Environmental Quality Board, staffed by Minnesota Planning, draws together five citizens and the heads of 10 state agencies that play a vital role in Minnesota's environment and development. The board develops policy, creates long-range plans and reviews proposed projects that could significantly influence Minnesota's environment.

Thief River Falls girl competes in Junior Olympic meet

Kopari wins national medals

Nicole Kopari returned Tuesday from the 1998 AAU National Championship Junior Olympic track and field meet in Virginia with three medals, a lifetime of memories and an ever-growing list of correspondence from college coaches who have expressed their interest in the Thief River Falls high school senior-to-be.

Competing in the girls 17-18-year-old age group at the national meet held at Norfolk, Kopari opened eyes when she won the discus with a throw of 160-feet, 3-inches. That was a major jump in distance from the 147-3 she recorded while winning the Class AA title in the Minnesota state high school meet this spring.

At 147-3, Kopari ranked among the top three college prospects in the nation in the discus. At 160-3 she vaults to the top of the recruiting chart.

Kopari also placed second at the national meet in the shot put with a toss of 44-feet, 6-inches and wound up fifth in the javelin at 123-feet, 4-inches. She was the Class AA state high school champion this spring in the shot at 46-2 1/2. The javelin is not a part of the Minnesota high school track scene, but looking for a way to impress college coaches, Kopari gave it a shot and wound up with a medal.

"I had no form in the javelin," she admitted. "I just gave it a throw."

"Ecstatic," was the way Kopari described her feelings following her performance in the discus.

After hitting the mind-boggling 160-foot mark in the discus and coming up with what she thought might be a first place toss early in the shot put competition, Kopari admitted the concentration level might have wavered a bit, keeping her from a gold medal sweep in the two events.

It was the second straight AAU National Championship Junior Olympic track meet appearance for Kopari, who was fifth in the discus and seventh or eighth in the shot a year ago at Charlotte, NC. She was on the younger side of the 17-18 age group the time when she went 139-1 in the discus (seven feet past her high school record at the time) and 38-8 in the shot.

She qualified for the national meet through AAU state and regional competition, winning all three throwing events at both meets.

Kopari attributes the big increase in the discus and shot put distances over the past year to a summer-long routine of practice – both throwing and weight room work. She stayed with friends in Grand Forks this summer to train as a member of the Quicksilver Track Club, where she worked under highlight-regarded throwing coach Pat Peake. Daily routine included practice from 6 to 9 a.m. and 6-10 p.m., plus an afternoon session with the weights.

Forty-one members of the team, who were all required to have 40 hours of practice time in the books to be eligible to make the trip, competed at the national meet. Nicole was one of five Quicksilver members to earn a gold medal at the meet.

The team left by bus July 31 and returned Aug. 11. En route they stopped in Wisconsin Dells. After arriving, the group made visits to Washington, D.C., Virginia Beach, Busch Gardens and shopping malls. A stop at Gettysburg National Military Park preceded the trip home.

Kopari was back in Thief River Falls Wednesday afternoon. And quickly found herself answering telephone calls from college recruiters. University of Alabama has already made a home appearance, and Ole Miss will be in Thief River Falls shortly. But that's just the tip of the iceberg that has already included contacts stretching across the nation from Harvard to Minnesota to Stanford.

With its recognized top-notch scholastic and athletic programs, Stanford would be her No. 1 choice, said Kopari, if the California school elects to offer a scholarship.

Many of the schools would like Kopari to commit with a letter of intent during the Nov. 9-11 early signing period. But, unless Stanford is at the door with a full scholarship in hand, she is in no hurry to sign. In addition to track, She is a volleyball player in the fall and a basketball player in the winter for the Prowlers. Track could land her a Division I scholarship, but she is also keeping open the option of participating in both basketball and track at the Division II level, with the University of North Dakota, North Dakota State University and St. Cloud State University in the picture if she goes in that direction.

Kopari won't do full track workouts during the volleyball and basketball seasons, but will continue work in the weight room and has a variety of skill-enhancing drills to work on throughout the year.

Having spent the spring high school season and summer AAU campaign setting and breaking personal goals, Kopari will start the 1999 track season with lofty targets: a 175-foot throw in the discus and a 50-foot toss in the shot put, along with a college scholarship in her back pocket.

Nicole Koperi of Thief River Falls returned from the 1998 AAU National Championship Junior Olympic track meet in Norfolk, VA with three medals. Competing in the girls 17-18-year-old age group, Koperi won the discus competition, placed second in the shot put and finished fifth in the javelin. She will be a senior at Lincoln High School this fall.

Minnesota's elk hunt lottery selections are listed for '98 season

Three pairs of hunters were selected during a drawing held in late July for three permits available in Minnesota's 1998 elk season this fall near Grygla.

Two permits for bull elk were available for the first season, Sept. 12-20, and one bull permit will be issued for the second season, Oct. 10-18. No permits for cows or yearlings will be issued this year.

Selected for the first season were Charles Wertemeier and Sandra Hedlund of Center City, along with Dale Hilling and Chuck Becker of Sebeka. Steven Sparby and James Sparby of Grygla were drawn in the separate lottery reserved for agricultural landowners and tenants in the elk management area. The Sparbys chose to hunt the October season.

A total of 422 permit applications were received this year, compared to 631 submitted last year when six permits were issued for three separate seasons.

Minnesota's elk management plan calls for maintaining a herd of 20 to 30 adult animals. The pre-calving population this spring was estimated at 35. Exact counts are difficult to get, even with aerial surveys, because the entire herd is rarely seen together in close proximity. Usually, the elk are sighted in smaller groups spread out over a large area – sometimes several miles apart.

If any of the hunting parties are unsuccessful, pre-selected alternates will be contacted and offered a late-season hunt. All selected hunters will be required to attend a pre-hunt orientation session at the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area headquarters near Middle River.

Basketball coaches clinic is scheduled at Cass Lake-Bena

Annual MinnAqua Fishing Clinic returned to Thief River Falls Wednesday when boys and girls ages 8-14 were instructed in the recreation, ecology, conservation and ethics of angling. Trained instructors included local residents, Department of Natural Resources personnel, representatives from the Pennington County Sheriff's Department, Thief River Falls Police Department, and Thief River Falls Parks and Recreation Department. The day-long event took place at the Red Robe Park fishing Pier. After a day of learning and fishing, lures, tackle boxes and fishing rods were given away as prizes to the 100 or so youngsters who participated in the event.

TRF Sports Boosters start year Sept. 3

Weekly 12-noon Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club luncheon meetings will begin Sept. 3 at the Elks. Guest speakers from Lincoln High School and Northland Community and Technical College, along with representatives from other groups in the community, will be on hand to address the organization through the fall, winter and spring seasons.

Sports Boosters President Dave Olin said the group, designed to help promote and better community activities and athletic programs for people of all ages, is open to the public. "We hope that we can get a number of business leaders, community leaders, parents, and those interested in activities in our community to attend our weekly meetings," said Olson.

Membership is available for a one-time fee of $5, with proceeds used to promote and enhance the activity opportunities in the community. "We need participation in order for our club to survive and to assist those who need help," pointed out Olin.

Featured speakers at the season-opening meeting Sept. 3 will be Northland Community and Technical College Athletic Director Rick Nelson and School District 564 Director of Student Activities Jim Sims. They will introduce the Pioneers' and Prowlers' head coaches for the 1998 fall sports season.

For additional information contact Olin, 681-7441; Diane Beste, 681-3512; or Steve Stone, 681-3045.

Extra week is tacked on to 1998-99 fishing season in Minnesota

It's summer, but the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources wants to be sure anglers know they have an extra week of ice-fishing next winter. The 1998 Minnesota Fishing Regulations Booklet lists Feb. 14, 1999, as the season end-date for inland waters, but the season will actually extend an additional week through Feb. 21. The season change applies to walleye, northern pike, largemouth bass, smallmouth bass and muskellunge.

Since changes were made in 1992, the intent of the inland fishing season regulations has been to provide three full weekends of fishing in February before the close of the season. However, when the 1998 Fishing Regulations Booklet was written last December, it was discovered that there was a glitch in rule language that inadvertently caused the 1998-99 fishing season to close after only two weekends in February. As a result, the fishing regulations booklet went to print with a season end-date of Feb. 14, 1999. However, since that time, the DNR has changed the rule language to provide the additional week of winter fishing in 1999.

"The DNR is announcing this change now to help anglers and fishing-related businesses plan their winter seasons," said Steve Hirsch, DNR Fisheries Program manager. "We wanted to correct the error in the rules so that anglers and businesses wouldn't have to give up a week of winter fishing.

owns lands in the area) and the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources but had never received a response from either one.

Persons attending the meeting appeared to have two primary concerns regarding the proposal—taxes and drainage. A number were concerned with the loss of tax revenue if the land transfers from private to public ownership.

According to the office of Jerry Amiot, Polk county auditor-treasurer in Crookston, net real estate taxes on the 1,886 acre project site for 1998 total $14,972. Assuming a payment by the state in lieu of taxes of $3 per acre or $5,658, the net loss in tax revenue after transfer would be $9,314. This reduction in revenue was projected as $4,521.78 to School District 2609, $3,591.14 to Polk County, $838.72 to the townships, $349.77 to the watershed district and $12.59 to the Northwest Regional Development Commission.

Phil Mork of rural Winger brought with him a petition he was circulating, calling on state agencies to terminate the proposed project "unless the State of Minnesota be required to pay the same rate of real estate tax as the neighboring and adjoining farmland."

He said the sale of the property would adversely affect the area in more ways than simple loss of tax revenue—which he felt was bad enough in itself. He felt the price proposed to be paid for the land was inflated, and such sale would cause increased market value assessment and therefore higher taxes on neighboring land.

Mork also said he had rented and farmed a quarter section of land north of Winger for 20 years which was purchased by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service a few years ago. He said plugging a narrow ditch on that property with five yards of dirt would be all it would take to reclaim 20 acres of wetland. "It wouldn't cost anybody anything," he said, "and there are a lot more places like it."

According to Mork's information, there are presently 1,482 acres of USFWS land in Winger township. Removal of the Vesledahl Project land from private ownership would result in more than 13 percent of the total land area of the township being in public ownership.

At least one person attending the informal meeting—at which there was no presentation of information other than direct discussion and the availability of information sheets—was concerned that ditch plugs placed in the Vesledahl Project to restore wetlands might interfere with water flow through the area.

Kamnikar said that blocking of drainage courses that would cause damage to upstream property owners is illegal. He said that detailed contour mapping of the area had been done to show every one-foot variance in elevation to be sure any such flow restriction would not occur.

At the same time, however, it was pointed out that restoration of small wetland impoundments on the property should spread the downstream flow volume over a longer period of time, thereby helping to reduce downstream flooding.

One handout at the meeting contained a series of questions and answers on wetland banking. In answer to the question "What is wetland banking?" the answer given was:

"Wetland banking is the consolidation of fragmented wetland mitigation projects into one or more large contiguous sites. Units of restored or created wetlands are expressed as 'credits' which may be subsequently withdrawn to offset 'debits' incurred at a project development site. When all credits have been withdrawn, the bank is closed and protected in perpetuity."

(In the case of the Vesledahl Project, the property would pass to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources when all wetland credits would be withdrawn.)

Answer to the next question—on how wetland banking works—explained that the Wetland Conservation Act passed in 1991 has a no net loss policy for wetlands. "This means wetlands, which are drained or filled by an activity which is not exempt, must be replaced by restoring or creating wetland areas of at least equal public value," the answer said.

"...The wetland bank holds wetland acreage under an account holder (Mn/DOT) who has restored or created new wetlands for use in mitigating future wetland impacts.

"Each wetland area has a value placed on it based on its quality (wildlife habitat, plant habitat, groundwater recharge, etc.) This value is used as a common denominator for the purposes of comparing one wetland to another. Formulas, restrictions and limitations are used with these values in monitoring the use of wetland impacts and mitigations per the Wetland Conservation Act."

Some of the information provided at the meeting created more questions than it provided answers. For instance, on Fact Sheet #2 on the Vesledahl Wetland Proposal, the question posed is "How was the Vesledahl property chosen?" The answer given states:

"BWSR sent a RFP to a host of public entities to solicit possible site proposals for replacement of wetland impacts. The RFP provided a listing of preferred criteria. Upwards of 20 sites statewide were submitted to BWSR and proposals were ranked by an interagency wetland group consisting of MnDNR, MnDOT, Pollution Control Agency, Department of Agriculture, Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources, U.S. Fish and Wildlife and the Corps of Engineers."

The basic question seems to remain unanswered.

"Why so much land?" was the next question. The answer:

"The acreage is the amount that was offered by the Vesledahls for consideration. Additionally, development of a large tract with significant amounts of drained wetlands is both economically prudent and environmentally preferable."

Again, the answer seems to beg the question.

Persons registering their attendance at the meeting will receive copies of the Environmental Assessment Worksheet on the project—a 12-page document prepared by Mn/DOT. Those unable to attend the meeting but who would like to receive a copy should send their request along with their name and address to Mark Hardestad at the Mn/DOT office, P.O. Box 490, Bemidji, MN 56619.

Explaining details of the proposed Vesledahl Mitigation Project in Winger and Garden townships of Polk county at a public information meeting Wednesday in Winger is Bill Best of the Board of Water and Soil Resources office in Bemidji.

Highway work to cause detour near Goodridge

Due to culvert replacement on Highway 219 north of Goodridge, a detour will be in effect for approximately two weeks beginning Monday, August 17.

J. T. Anderson, project engineer for the Minnesota Department of Transportation in Thief River Falls, asked for the public's patience and cooperation while the work is underway.

Detour of northbound traffic for the project will go east from the intersection with Highway 219 south of Goodridge for nine miles to Pennington County CSAH 28 (Grygla road); north on Pennington County CSAH 28 and continuing north on Marshall County CSAH 54 for a total of 12.1 miles to the intersection with Highway 89 at Grygla; than west on Highway 89 for six miles to the intersection with Highway 219.

Southbound traffic on Highway 219 will follow the detour in reverse from the intersection of Highways 219 and 89 west of Grygla.

Red Lake County Sheriff Allen Morken stands in front of burning marijuana plants. The plants were confiscated Tuesday morning, August 11, at a rural Gervais township area. The plants had an estimated street value of over $1 million. The marijuana growing operation was raided by agents working for U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency, Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, Minnesota State Patrol, Paul Bunyan Task Force, Red Lake County Sheriff's department, Pennington County Sheriff's department and Thief River Falls Police department. It is the largest growing operation busted in Minnesota so far this year. Sheriff Morken was proud that the agencies involved in the operation worked so well together and that no one was injured. Steven Hugh Surcliff, 52, Banks, OR, and William George Daggett, 52, Seaside, OR, were arrested. They face charges in federal court.

off-sale supervisor/clerk position at the Falls Liquor Store. The council approved a salary progression raise for Corey Pausch, category II patrol officer. The council approved the hiring of John Mezeski, category II park maintenance/arena employee to fill the full-time position vacated by Kent LeMoine. The council approved a salary progression raise for Steve Swanson, wastewater superintendent. The council also approved a list of primary election judges for the September 15 primary election.

In other business, the council approved a surplus property listing for the city/school county auction on August 14; approved a programmatic agreement for Thief River Falls hydroelectric project with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission; approved surplus property for sale at the city/school/county auction; approved the donation of a 10-foot wood conference table and chairs from the Community Development office to the Pennington County Historical Society; approved the use of excess funds set aside for city entrance signs for the purchase of a 40-foot flagpole and accessories for the new city hall; and approved a beer in the park request by the Elk's club for the annual Elk's picnic on August 16.

The council also took note that the Hartz Foundation had donated $25,000 for bleachers at the Multi-Events Cultural Center; and Lowell and Marge Swenson had donated a stock donation with an estimated value of $100,000 to the Multi-Events Cultural Complex.

The council has received notice that there is an operating deficit at the student housing project ($145,750) and the Summerfield housing projects ($143,265) on Northrop property and at Westview on the west side of town. The council received a similar notice last year. The council approved a motion to include the notice in the 1999 budget process.

During a discussion period at the end of the meeting, it was noted that the police department has been receiving a number of complaints about barking dogs. The police department does enforce ordinances regarding barking dogs.

Although, children are believed to have caused a fire that caused considerable damage to this garage at 110 South Kendall, it remains under investigation. Thief River Falls Fire department responded to the fire at 10:58 a.m. They were back at the fire station by 12:50 p.m. There was no damage estimate. A number of miscellaneous items in the garage, owned by Erling Lien, were destroyed. The residence is being rented by Lois Barclay.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I apologize if I offend anyone by writing this, but this is still America and I have the right to my freedom of speech.

I've heard that with age comes wisdom, but in my observations in life I see the opposite happening more often these days. Growing up in Thief River Falls and moving not far away 14 years ago, I am always observing.

Unfortunately, it appears people have chosen to "bury their heads in the sand" on some of the problems occurring in the area. I can remember in my mid-teens and beyond seeing groups of people claiming to be "religious organizations" trying to move into the community. These groups were promptly investigated and asked to move on, or escorted to the city limits. Back then they were viewed as "cults" or "flower people" who usually went around selling or giving away flowers and inviting residents to their "services."

That was in the '60s and '70s. They wised up during the '80s and restructured to be viewed as mainstream religious groups, and have filtered into many communities, bringing money for the means to establish. They are still cults and walk among us all. Thief River has such organizations that are flourishing, and many citizens don't have a clue, or don't want to have a clue.

I know this to be true from experiences I have been told from younger relatives I have that were "drawn in" for one reason or another. The younger ones got out; however, unfortunately, the older, more vulnerable one is no longer with us.

He was a senior citizen who didn't know what hit him—a likely "candidate," widowed, alone, lonely, and a man of means whose will stated provisions for several real churches in the area in memory of his late wife and mother.

Once the cult-church got wind of this they moved in on him. They visited him on a regular basis, did chores he could no longer do for himself, kept the lawn up, removed the snow in winter and, of course, went with him to his favorite places. His personality changed, as did his association with relatives and past friends. It became impossible to see him, unless your were affiliated with his new "group." He even changed his will, leaving all he had to his new "church."

Some of us will forever wonder why he was found dead that day, since he appeared healthy just days before in a downtown bank. But—he is gone forever, and the "church" people are driving his car and living in his house. The leaders of the "church" even came to the funeral and lurked around listening to various groups of relatives and friends as they visited and tried to figure it all out.

The final straw, however, was when they approached my 72-year-old mother and tried to find out information about her! Needless to say, that didn't go over too well with the rest of us.

Money! The root of all evil! I say the evil walks among us—and it's so unfortunate that people in the 1990s choose to keep their blinders on!

Sincerely,
De Johnson
Viking, Minnesota

612 area code is split in two with east zone now 651

On July 12 the Minnesota region served by telephone area code 612 was divided with the west half to remain 612 and the east half to carry the area code of 651.

During a six-month transition period, callers can use either the old or new number to complete a call. Mandatary use of the new 651 area code will begin Jan. 10, 1999. The 218, 320 and 507 area codes will not change.

The new 651 area code will serve St. Paul and the communities of Arden Hills, Eagan, Forest Lake, Farmington, Hastings, Roseville, Lindstrom, Lino Lakes, Mendota Heights, New Brighton, North Branch, Rosemount, Shoreview and other communities to the east, including Red Wing and Wabasha.

The 612 area code will be retained by Minneapolis and the communities of Apple Valley, Blaine, Bloomington, Burnsville, Columbia Heights, Fridley, Lakeville, Mounds View, Richfield and other communities to the west now served by the 612 area code.

The need for a new area code is being driven by dramatic growth in the demand for new telephone numbers for services such as fax machines, pagers, wireless telephones, second telephone lines, voice mail and other competitive services.

This is the third time the 612 area code has been split. In 1954 the 612 area code which served the entire southern part of the state was split with the 507 area code added to serve southern Minnesota. That split gave the region enough new telephone numbers to last 40 years. In 1996 it was again necessary to split the 612 region and the 320 area code was added.

Money is available to improve water quality

Availability of nearly $15 has been announced by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) for two low-interest loan programs that support the efforts of farmers and other landowners to prevent or reduce water pollution.

The money will be distributed to counties, soil and water conservation districts and joint powers boards through MDA's Agricultural Best Management Practices Loan Program (AgBMP) and countrywide Individual Sewage Treatment Systems and Wells Loan Program (Countywide ISTS).

The counties, conservation districts and joint powers boards will in turn make loans available to farmers, agricultural supply businesses and rural landowners for qualifying projects that reduce pollution or repair failing septic systems. The loans will be processed through local banks and other lenders.

This is the fourth year of the AgBMP program and the first year of the Countrywide ISTS program. With this year's allocation, these programs have distributed a total of $40 million. This money is available to local government bodies for up to 20 years, providing a revolving fund to implement conservation practices and repair septic systems.

MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson said the board, statewide participation in these environmentally friendly loan programs proves that farmers and others in rural Minnesota are committed to doing their part to protect the state's natural resources.

"These loan programs are an important part of our commitment to ensuring a bright future for both agriculture and our environment," he said. "Farmers value our natural resources as much as anyone, so it's no surprise these types of environmentally friendly loans are popular."

Practices eligible for loans include upgrading or repairing animal waste management equipment and structures, adopting erosion control practices, sealing abandoned wells, upgrading septic systems and other best management practices that prevent or mitigate agriculture related non-point source pollution. Anyone interested in finding out more about the loan programs may contact their local county Soil and Water Conservation District or county environmental office.

Host families needed for foreign students

Foreign high school students will be arriving in the local area for home-stay programs for the 1998-99 school year. Pacific Intercultural Exchange (PIE) needs local volunteer host families.

PIE is a non-profit educational organization. The students are between the ages of 15 and 18 years of age. They bring their own spending money, have full medical insurance and are anxious to share their cultural experiences with their new American families. PIE's academic home-stays range in length from one semester to a full academic year, while the students attend local high schools.

PIE representatives match students with host families by finding common interests and lifestyles through an informal in-home meeting. Prospective host families are able to review student applications and select the "perfect match."

As there are no "typical" host families, PIE can fit a student into just about any type of family situation, whether it be a single parent, a childless couple, a retired couple, or a large family.

For 1998-99, PIE has students from Spain, Germany, Belgium, Mexico, Ghana, Yugoslavia, Armenia, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Poland, China, Japan, Brazil, Argentina, as well as many other countries.

PIE has sponsored more than 17,000 students from 32 countries since its founding in 1975. PIE also sends American students to other countries on its outbound program.

Families interested in learning more about hosting should call Pat at 1-800-382-7439, or the international headquarters at 1-888-PIE-USA1.

UMM—Morris spring dean's list includes several from area

Several students from this area at the University of Minnesota—Morris gained placement on the spring quarter dean's list by earning a 3.5 or higher grade point average on a 4.0 scale while registered for 12 or more credits, completing all of the credits for which he or she is registered and carry at least two-thirds of these credits on the A-B-C-D-N grading system.

Named to the list were Amy Sallberg and Nathan Anderson of Roseau, Sarah Huschle of Thief River Falls, Daniel Roley of Warren and Katrina Reeves of Warroad.

David Voecks

Voecks receives $500 scholarship from CP railroad

David Voecks, a 1998 graduate of Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, has received an honorary $500 scholarship from the Canadian Pacific Railway.

David is the son of Loren and Mary Voecks. Loren is a locomotive engineer for CP Rail.

"Upon recommendation of members of the scholarship committee," the scholarship certificate states, "Canadian Pacific Railway is pleased to present to David Voecks an honorary scholarship grant in the amount of five hundred dollars to be used for continuing education.

"This award is made in recognition of the distinguished community and personal achievements and the scholastic abilities exhibited by this student. It is the expectation of Canadian Pacific Railway in making this grant that the individual receiving recognition will make every effort to aspire to be an involved and knowledgeable member of society."

The award was signed by E. V. Dodge, executive vice president.

Gibbs honored for volunteer efforts with nursing home

Frank Gibbs of St. Hilaire has been recognized by the Office of Ombudsman for Older Minnesotans for outstanding service to nursing home residents at the annual statewide training event in Brainerd recently.

In 1997, volunteer advocates helped over 14,000 individuals in long-term care facilities through education, empowerment and advocacy.

Keynote presenters at the training session were associates from the Eden Alternative, a program committed to bringing plants, animals and children into nursing homes.

Thorndale Avenue home to four Miss Crookstons

Crookston - Thorndale Avenue has produced a bumper crop of Miss Crookstons. Three consecutive Miss Crookstons live on Thorndale: Miss Crookston 1998 Sara Brorson, Miss Crookston 1997 Ann Gregg and Miss Crookston 1996 Alyson Gilbert. Carmen Kreibich, Miss Crookston 1992, also called Thorndale home.

Sara Brorson was crowned Miss Crookston 1998 recently at a scholarship pageant held at the Civic Arena. Crookston Daily Times

Sheriff uses squad car to stop another out-of-control car

Red Lake Falls - After receiving a call about a car that was all over the road, Red Lake County Sheriff Al Morken attempted to stop the car. When the driver, traveling at a low rate of speed, didn't respond, Sheriff Morken pulled in front of the car and slowed up until the car hit the rear of his squad car. The Sheriff then braked, forcing the other car to stop.

The squad car suffered no damage, and minor damage was done to the other car. The driver of the out-of-control car was not charged because the incident was caused by a medical problem. Gazette

Bike path not high on Roseau county priority list

Warroad - Warroad City Administrator Kathy Unertl didn't receive the positive response she was looking for when requesting financial assistance from the Roseau County Board of Commissioners for a bike path planned in the City of Warroad.

Anticipating that 1,000 local residents and 5,000 to 7,000 tourists would use the path annually, Unertl requested $50,000 from the county toward the $210,000 project. County commissioners felt that the project was extravagant and could be trimmed to make it less expensive. Warroad Pioneer

Bridge replicates one built in 1896

Bagley - In 1896 homesteader Richard Felt built the first bridge over the Mississippi River north of the headwaters at Lake Itasca.

While that bridge has long since been destroyed by the elements, another bridge has been built in its place. Modeled after the original, the bridge was made using squared tamarack timbers to build abutments, tamarack timbers for the bridge framework and tamarack planks for the bridge deck.

To give the bridge the strength it needs to drive heavier loads across it, a thick steel semi trailer bed was built into the bridge, under the deck and out of sight. Its ability to support traffic was proven when a loaded backhoe–weighing at least 18 tons—moved across it.

The work was completed for Ralph Kjorlien, who purchased the Felt homestead 50 years ago, by Ken Felt, Amos Fultz and Ernest Bode. Ken Felt is the grandson of Richard Felt and lives on property adjacent to the original Felt homestead. Farmers Independent

Northland classes will start Monday morning

Classes for students at Northland Community and Technical College will begin Monday, August 24, with the earlier than usual start due to the change to a semester schedule throughout the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) system.

Preliminary enrollment appears to be down from a year ago for the fall semester, according to Dr. Orley Gunderson, president. The decline is in spite of an increase in the aviation program which is beginning to rebound from several years of hard times in the aviation industry.

Students who were caught by surprise at the early start of the college year are being given an added opportunity to enter college during the fall semester.

"We realize that students are used to classes beginning right after Labor Day," states Dennis Bendickson, dean of student services. "With the change to semesters instead of quarters in the MnSCU system, we were instructed to begin classes on August 24, about two weeks earlier than usual."

Students who are interested in beginning liberal arts courses and most technical programs, or previously enrolled students, will be assisted in preparing to start classes as soon as possible.

Further information is available from the Northland admissions office by calling 681-0854 or 1-800-959-6282.

A number of new personnel, including an administrator and several instructors, will be on hand for the start of the 1998-99 school year. Among them are the following:

Tom Quinn, dean of academic affairs, will fill the position held previously by Jim Strandlie. Quinn holds a bachelor of science degree from the University of Minnesota in St. Paul, master of science degree from the University of Northern Iowa, superintendent's certification from Winona State University and a PhD in education from the University of South Dakota. He comes to Northland from Mitchell Technical Institute in Mitchell, SD, where he was assistant director.

Kristel Kizer, chemistry instructor, will succeed Sonja Siewert who has resigned that position. An Alaska native, Kizer has a bachelor of science degree from the University of Alaska in Fairbanks and master of science and PhD degrees from the University of California at Irvine. She has served as adjunct professor at Irvine Valley College.

Sue Field has been hired as an instructor in the nursing program to succeed Kathy Burlingame, who has been given a leave from teaching to work on North Central accreditation. Field has a bachelor of nursing degree from St. Scholastica College and has served as school nurse in Thief River Falls for School District 564.

John Leopold, who taught at Northland during the 1995-96 school year when art instructor Mike Trudeau was on sabbatical leave, returns this year as art instructor following Trudeau's retirement at the end of last school year. Leopold has a bachelor of arts degree from Moorhead State University and a master's degree from Northern Illinois University.

About eight feet tall, the ostrich is the world's largest bird.

Tydlacka family raises ostriches near Viking

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

As the medical community talked more and more about how good dietary practices can prevent some diseases, the Tydlackas of rural Viking didn't bury their heads in the sand. Instead, they founded Ridge Runner Ostrich Ranch, providing area red meat lovers a healthy alternative to beef — ostrich.

It was a year-and-a-half ago that Chuck and Julie Tydlacka, in partnership with their son Todd, purchased 14 adult ostriches from another ostrich farmer near Clearbrook. Since, their herd has increased to include 20 adults — 15 females and five males used for breeding, 20 yearlings — ready for butcher, and 20 chicks between one and 12 weeks of age.

Ostrich farming, like raising most other types of livestock, is a seven-day-a-week commitment, and Chuck and Julie are happy to have Todd sharing the responsibilities. He and his 10-year-old daughter, Andrea, live in a mobile home on the Tydlacka farm.

In addition to the ostrich venture, Chuck owns and operates Westside TV & Appliance in Warren, and Julie works at Marshall County Co-op, also in Warren, and helps out occasionally at the store. The rest of the Tydlacka family includes daughter Tammy, a funeral director who lives with her husband, Tim Torgerson, and four children in East Grand Forks, and Kari, a student at Northland Community and Technical College.

Although ostriches are native to the plains and deserts of Africa, they are an adaptable animal with the ability to live and thrive in northern Minnesota. While they require shelter from wind, a quick warm-up under a radiant heater is all they need when its cold.

The Tydlackas' initial investment included the cost of the birds, fencing and an incubator. The ostriches are fed once a day, and their diets consist of alfalfa, corn and oats.

Body found near Lancaster thought to be missing teen

A body found by an individual scouting some hunting property near Lancaster Thursday, August 20, is believed to be that of 16-year-old Julie Holmquist who has been missing since July 29.

Kittson County authorities are continuing their investigation, but report they have shifted the direction and focus of their investigation. Members of the crime lab team from the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension were on their way to Kittson county Friday to process the crime scene. Once they are done with their analysis, the body will be sent to the Minnesota Coroner's office for positive identification.

In a news conference Friday morning, Kittson County Sheriff Ray Hunt announced the discovery of the body. He said it was found in St. Joseph township of Kittson County. Hunt also established a "no fly zone" around the area. The no fly zone included a five mile radius and up to an altitude of 4,000 feet.

Few other details were released about the investigation at that time.

Julie Holmquist family benefit set in Baudette

Thief River Falls and many other area communities are becoming involved in a benefit for the family of teenager Julie Holmquist, whose body was found Thursday evening after she had been missing from the Hallock area since July 29.

The benefit will take place Sunday, September 6, from 12 noon to 7 p.m. at Border View Resort near Baudette. James Holmquist, Julie's father, is a carpenter and lives in the Baudette area where he has built many projects for a number of resorts. Julie spent much of her summers at her father's home by Cyrus Resort.

Julie disappeared July 29 while inline skating on a county road near Hallock and had been the subject of extensive area searches and investigation by many law enforcement agencies and officers. (See story in this issue of the Northern Watch.)

Fund collection canisters have been placed in a number of Thief River Falls business places, including all three banks; various organizations have been solicited for donations; many individuals and business places have offered to donate items for the benefit; and all persons in the area are invited to share their concern by making a contribution to the fund.

Julie Holmquist has two sisters, Vicki Holmquist and Tracey Holmquist, who are living and working in Thief River Falls. Local arrangements for the benefit are being made by Marilyn Nelson Brink, who may be contacted at Melby Realty, phone 681-1433.

Mrs. Brink said that the benefit event itself will be a barbecue cook-out with grilled turkey, rolled pork roast and "all of the fixin's." Minimum donation of $5 per adult and $2.50 per child has been established and all proceeds from food, keg beer, pop and a percentage of bar sales will go to the Holmquist family fund.

"We want to emphasize that this benefit is for the family and not the reward or search," Mrs. Brink said. "The parents have lost substantial income while taking time away from work to search for their daughter and attend to other matters connected with her disappearance. We wanted to show widespread area support to the family, and that support is certainly needed now. The response to this benefit has been unbelievable."

Fund collection canisters have been placed in Thief River Falls at Erl's Market, Rusty Nail, American Legion, Pennington Main and Pennington Square, Evergreen Eating Emporium, Best Western, Black Cat, VFW Club, SuperValu, Family Bowl, Hugo's, Swede's Bar, Holiday, Amoco 24, The Lantern, Hayloft, Pizza Hut, Petro Pumper, Eagles hall and Elk's club rooms.

In addition, Northern State, First National and Norwest banks have agreed to accept donations and to handle receipts turned in by the business places with collection canisters. At the benefit on September 6, Border State Bank of Baudette will have personnel on hand throughout the event to handle the proceeds.

A number of local businesses have donated baked goods, soft drinks and other items for the barbecue and cook-out, Mrs. Brink said.

Persons who would like to donate but will not be at one of the business places listed in this article may send donations directly to Border State Bank, 105 Fifth Avenue NW, Baudette, MN 56623. Make checks payable to the Julie Holmquist Family Benefit.

For further information on how assistance can be provided for the benefit itself, contact any of the following Baudette area residents: Michelle at 634-1631, Joanne at 634-1849, Peggy at 634-1987 or Luanne at 634-1342.

School Dist. 564 Board approves agreements

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Board of Education for School District 564 in Thief River Falls approved two agreements Monday night. The agreements included an exclusive sales agreement with Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. of Thief River Falls, and an agreement with Dakota Clinic to provide athletic trainer services to the district for the next three years.

The exclusive sales agreement with Pepsi was detailed in a story in the August 12 edition of The Times. The agreement, however, specifies that it is for a period of 10 years with an option to renew after five years. The agreement is part of a much broader agreement involving the Multi-Events Cultural Center in Thief River Falls, which is still under construction. As it concerns School District 564, it creates a partnership with Pepsi which will donate funding to the district's computer program, the purchase of playground equipment, funds for scholarships, and for the Afternoon with the Arts Program.

Specifically, Pepsi will provide $25,000 for the computer lab, $20,000 for playground equipment, and $2,000 per year for 10 years for scholarships. It also specifies that Pepsi will provide all of the equipment and maintenance of the equipment. Again, as it applies to the school district, Pepsi can advertise at the following locations, but is not limited to athletic venues, food service locations, administration buildings, and school buildings.

Steve Young was one of the board members who expressed concerns during the discussion of the contract. Young noted that he was disappointed that they could not reach an agreement on the length of the contract. He also noted that he had spent a considerable amount of time examining the issue and had concluded that as far as his concerns about commercialism overextending boundaries and into the classrooms, it was not a precedent setting decision. If people look at what children are wearing and other activities in the schools, such as Campbell Soup label collections, they have to conclude that there are many examples of commercialism in the district.

Lyle Olson wondered whether the exclusive contract would prohibit other vendors from donating products to an event. An example cited by board members included McDonald's donating its juice and juice container for special events.

Following further discussion which involved some adjustments to the contract language, the board unanimously approved of the contract.

Athletic Trainer

By a four to two vote, the school board approved an agreement with Dakota Clinic to provide athletic trainer and services to the district for the next three years. One of the board members, Steve Young, excluded himself from the discussion and vote because of a conflict of interest. Young works at Northwest Medical Center.

During the school board's July 13 meeting representatives of Special program of Gospel music and massage will be presented by the Gloryland Gospel Team of Gully on Sunday, August 23, at 7 p.m. at Faith Lutheran Brethren church, 601 North Dewey Avenue in Thief River Falls. Team members include Rev. Gary and Lois Johnson and family and Rev. David and Brenda Johnson and family. The team has been involved in evangelism and revival ministries since 1969. Their music includes many original compositions, familiar Gospel songs and hymns of the church. The public is invited to attend and a freewill offering will be received.

Lundberg Family at Assembly of God in Roseau

Presenting a concert at the Assembly of God church in Roseau on Sunday, August 30, beginning at 7 p.m. will be the Lundberg Family, formerly of the Roseau area and now living in the Twin Cities.

The family uses piano, mandolin, guitar, bass and marimba and sings solos, duets, trios and quartets in presenting a variety of gospel music. A free-will offering will be received and everyone is invited to attend.

Public Employees Insurance Program adds Altru option

Public Employees Insurance Program (PEIP) has announced the addition of Altru Health Plan as a new insurance option to public workers in a large area of the state's northwest region.

The addition means that public employee members in Pennington, Polk, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Kittson, Red Lake and Roseau counties can select either Altru or the Blue Plus plan for their health coverage.

It also means that an additional 11 hospitals and 18 clinics in the region are now available to PEIP members in northwest Minnesota.

Information will be presented at sessions scheduled for September 22 at 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Tri-County Community Corrections Center in Crookston and September 23 at 10 a.m. in Room 110 of the Roseau county courthouse in Roseau. Public employers and representatives of public employee unions are invited to attend any of the meetings, which will be conducted by PEIP officials.

Karlstad Healthcare Center Alzheimer Memory Walk set

On Saturday, September 19, Karlstad Healthcare Center will be holding its first annual Alzheimer's Memory Walk. Thousands of other Minnesotans throughout the entire state will be walking through their local neighborhoods to raise funds for the Minnesota Alzheimer's Association.

Everyone is welcome to participate. Registration will be held at the Healthcare Center at 9 a.m. A three mile route will be clearly marked and young and old, babies in strollers, pets on leashes, and certainly all caregivers are welcome to participate.

This is a fund-raiser for the Minnesota Alzheimer's Association. Pledge cards are available, but you may make a donation or simply come and walk to show your support for families affected by Alzheimer's Disease.

For more information call the Karlstad Healthcare Center at 218-436-2161.

Incumbents reelected to farm commodity boards

Results of Minnesota's farm commodity research and promotion council elections held in March and July indicate that incumbents were reelected to all positions, according to information released by Gene Hugoson, Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture.

Producers in five commodity areas reelected 11 members to serve on the councils.

"Voting is the way producers can have a say in how their check-off dollars are spent," Commissioner Hugoson said. "I want to thank all the candidates and producers who participated in these elections."

Minnesota Department of Agriculture organizes the elections held annually. Board members serve three-year terms in nearly all cases. Elected were the following incumbents:

Canola Research and Promotion Council—David Severson, Roseau county, District 1 and Jim Rinde, Roseau county, at-large;

Cultivated Wild Rice Research and Promotion Council—Ross Rennemo, Beltrami county, at-large; John Sandland, Clearwater county, independent; and Paul Imle, Clearwater county, NMWRP position;

Dry Edible Bean Research and Promotion Council—Mike Beelner, Hubbard county, District 2;

Area I Potato Research and Promotion Council—Justin Dagen, Kittson county and Gorman Johnson, Polk county, both at-large; Area II Potato Research and Promotion Council—Robert Anderson, Morrison county, District 2, Jim DeChene, Sherburne county, District 3; and Matt Brand, Freeborn county, District 4.

Sessions on how to start, expand business slated

Classes in 11 different locations are being offered by the Northwest Minnesota Foundation (NMF) to give entrepreneurs an opportunity to explore ideas and start or expand a business.

Independent two-hour classes in new product development, marketing, market research and pricing, customer service and bookkeeping are offered for $10. A full 12-hour course highlighting the above topics while adding idea development, strategic planning and financing your business will be offered for $125 with $60 scholarships available.

The 12-hour courses on Managing Your Business will be offered from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. September 17, 24, October 1 and 8 at Baudette and October 6, 13, 20 and 27 in Thief River Falls.

Two-hour courses from 6 to 8 p.m. will be held as follows: Market research and pricing, September 29 in Warren, October 29 in Warroad and November 24 in Park Rapids; developing a new product or invention, September 22 in Crookston and December 8 in Bemidji; marketing, October 15 in East Grand Forks and December 3 in Karlstad, customer service, October 22 in East Grand Forks and December 10 in Fertile; and bookkeeping, November 17 in Stephen.

Squaw Lake to Northome work starts August 24

Bituminous seal coat will be applied to Highway 46 from Squaw Lake to Northome beginning Monday, August 24, according to the Minnesota Department of Transportation.

Motorists can expect periodic delays and alternating use of lanes will be in place. This is a slow-moving operation with loose rock and thick dust. Drivers should reduce speeds and drive with extreme caution through the work zone.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Is everybody tired of summer food now? I'm thinking of more substantial meals and falling leaves, so here are some rather hearty hot dishes. If you aren't hungry for this type of food yet, save the recipes for a few weeks and you will be.

Now doesn't this sound like a tasty one-dish meal:

DAKOTA DINNER

1 pound hamburger
1 medium onion, chopped
1 can cream style corn
1/2 cup milk
6 potatoes, sliced thinly
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Saute hamburger with onions. Mix corn and milk together.

Place potatoes and meat in alternate layers, seasoning with salt and pepper as you go. Pour corn and milk mixture over all.

Bake at 350 degrees for about an hour, until potatoes are done when forked.

Don't bother cooking the spaghetti for this dish - It is used uncooked:

SPAGHETTI HOT DISH

1 pound hamburger
Onion or onion salt
1 1/2 cups water
Salt and pepper
1 cup uncooked spaghetti
1 can vegetable beef soup with barley

Brown hamburger and onion. Combine with remaining ingredients and place in greased casserole.

Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

This one-dish meal is pretty enough for company, and tastes delicious:

CHEESEBURGER PIE

1 pound hamburger
1/4 cup onion, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup green pepper, chopped (optional)
1/2 (8 ounce) can tomato soup
One pie crust, unbaked

Make pastry for 9 inch one-crust pie. Heat oven to 425 degrees.

Brown hamburger and onion. Drain. Add remaining ingredients and spread in pastry-lined pie pan.

Cheese Topping
1 egg
1/4 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
8 ounce wedge mellow Cheddar cheese, grated
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Mix cheese and egg and then remaining ingredients. Spread over filling.

Bake 30 minutes at 425 degrees.

Cut into wedges and serve with topping mixture of chili sauce and remaining tomato sauce, if desire.

A simple casserole that is quick and easy and tastes like pizza:

ROMAN HOLIDAY BAKE

1 1/2 pounds hamburger or 1 pound hamburger and 1/2 pound Italian sausage
1 cup onion, chopped
1 teaspoon oregano
1 can tomato soup
1 can Cheddar cheese soup
1 can water
1/2 package noodles (8 ounces)
Mozzarella or American cheese

Brown hamburger with onions and oregano. Cook noodles according to directions on box.

Mix soups and water. Add noodles and meat mixture to soup mixture.

Place in greased 9x13 inch pan and cover with foil. Bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes. Add cheese slices to top and replace in oven to melt cheese.

One more hot dish - this time a nice rice casserole:

ORIENTAL HOT DISH

1 pound hamburger
1 cup rice (raw)
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 can bean sprouts
1 cup celery, diced
2 cups water
1/2 cup onion
1/4 cup soy sauce

Brown hamburger and drain. Mix remaining ingredients. Place in greased casserole and top with crushed potato chips or chopped cashews.

Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

Local woman challenges comment in news report of trial

A story about a jury verdict returned against Ralph Isaak, stated that Isaak blamed the man who testified against him as causing the break-up of his marriage.

Mrs. Julie Isaak said in an interview recently that she thought the statement indicated she was having an affair with the man, when that was not the case at all. Isaak said she left her home with Ralph Isaak because he was abusive to her and her children and that the people she lived with after leaving Ralph had witnessed the abuse and had heard him threaten the life of her son. The couple Julie moved in with after leaving Ralph also claimed they had been threatened by Ralph Isaak.

During the trial the jury did hear the testimony of threats against Julie, her children, and the couple she moved in with. Ralph denied the threats took place. Also included in the testimony was a previous conviction against Ralph for harassment. Ralph did say he blamed the man for the break-up of his marriage, but there was never any testimony indicating that there had been an affair.

The jury in this case found Ralph Isaak guilty of terroristic threats.

Seamless Aluminum Guttering
Heating, Air Conditioning
378-4641 378-4585

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the made. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.

Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two man crew saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. We're almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

The Natural Product Of The Decade!
Cell Forte IP-6
Nutritional Formula That Increases Natural Killer (Cell) Activity!!

IP-6 is a natural compound found primarily in grains and soybeans. The IP-6 in Cell Forte comes from the bran portion of brown rice. It's nearly impossible to consume enough grain to equal the powerful benefits of Cell Forte with IP-6. Cell Forte boosts your natural cellular defenses by increasing the levels of inositol phosphates in your cells, thus it boosts your entire immune system and makes you able to kill abnormal molecules that could damage your cells.

CELL FORTE WITH IP-6 IS AVAILABLE AT YOUR FAVORITE HEALTH FOOD STORE.

Regulators Should Obey Laws, Too

Dennis Kleckner, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is fed up with federal bureaucrats who selectively choose what parts of law they want to obey and who develop and implement regulations contrary to the intent of elected lawmakers who pass the laws. The object of his ire in a recent column in The Farmer's Voice was the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

"The Environmental Protection Agency's handling of the Food Quality Protection Act (FQPA) is a vivid example of regulators, unsupervised by Congress, making new rules to change the game, no matter the cost or the damage," he writes. "The law directs the agency to approve substances that assure a 'reasonable certainty' of no harm. This concept was supposed to replace an earlier law's Delaney Clause, which banned the use of materials that caused cancer in specially bred laboratory rodents. Instead, EPA equates the reasonable certainty phrase with Delaney's striving for zero risk. This occurs despite written assurances to the contrary by EPA officials."

According to Kleckner, in order to get agriculture's support for FQPA, EPA promised that risk assessments for food exposure would be based on the best available information and, if such data was absent or incomplete, it would get it before making new regulatory decisions.

"The agency assured us that risk assessments would be based on actual, not theoretical, health risks," he said. "EPA promised to accelerate registration of new crop-protection products. Also, the agency pledged that the implementation process would be open, transparent and follow established administrative procedures for federal rules and regulations.

"It's not happening, folks. EPA is moving quickly and not-so-secretly to eliminate many of our most important crop-production tools. Organophosphates are in the Agency's sights now. If the agency continues on the course it has set, farmers will see their control costs skyrocket, product quality deteriorate and crop volumes decline. We will lose out in international and domestic markets to foreign growers who are not subject to EPA's dictates. Or, as a number of U.S. farmers are already doing, we will move our production out of the country."

Kleckner says that reports from farmers who have the stomach to sit through meetings of the Tolerance Reassessment Advisory Committee are alarming. Supposedly set up to help provide EPA with sound advice, in reality the committee has been created by the Administration as only a pretense of fairness. One environmentalist seated on the committee was quoted as saying, "We plan to keep talking about these poisons and the foods they contaminate until EPA has done its job."

"It is apparent," Kleckner said, "that many in the EPA, in academia and in environmental groups work hand in glove." He said it is "easily observed at the above-mentioned committee meetings that whenever liberal think-tank types talk, EPA bigwigs nod like proud parents."

Farm Bureau has formally petitioned the EPA regarding the administrative procedures and an emergency listing process. An EPA official immediately pooh-poohed both petitions in the media, Kleckner said. The next step is filing of lawsuits, which Farm Bureau is ready to do.

What is unfortunate is that too many governmental agencies ignore the intent of law; flagrantly dismiss or disobey mandates by Congress and the Legislature; make and enforce regulations at will, and Congress and the Legislature let them get away with it. If these legislative bodies want to put teeth in their laws, the laws should bite agencies as hard as they do citizens.

Of Mice And Men....

GUEST EDITORIAL
by Jack Faris, President
National Federation of Independent Business

The fifth Amendment to the Constitution provides that private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation. Tell that to a tiny meadow mouse that has land planning in snarls all across the front range of the western Rockies.

For the better part of two decades now, landowners and regulators have been in a cross-country showdown over the private and public domain. Ambitious government policies intended to protect the environment increasingly, and often ridiculously, are threatening people's right to own and control private property. These federal regulations are tying up the land, reducing its value, forcing drawn-out litigation and creating economic hardship for many involved parties.

If the government needs an individual's property to address an overriding public need, such as building a road or a military base, the owner must be fairly reimbursed for the loss. However, in some cases, the government does not desire "ownership" of property, just regulation of its use—for which it doesn't pay a single cent.

So it goes for the Preble's meadow jumping mouse. On the mere presumption that the reclusive rodent soon will be listed as endangered, federal and local regulators are requiring Rocky Mountain developers to make elaborate accommodations in their land use planning. The two-inch mouse has already taken a big bite out of construction schedules and is continuing to furiously nibble away at development in one of the nation's fastest-growing corridors.

If today's headlines are the Preble's mouse, yesterday's were the Stephens' kangaroo rat, which was listed as an endangered species in 1988. According to a Jan. 14, 1994 column in the San Diego Union Tribune, the 77,000 acres in Riverside county which were declared "K-rat study areas" made the rat the county's largest landowner!

If the actions of our federal agencies weren't so increasingly sad, obnoxious and damaging to the country, many of these stories would be comical. Instead, they have become terrifying threats to one of our most basic rights as Americans—as people living in a free society.

It's clear that we are at a turning point in environmental policy. Regulators must not be allowed to turn sensitive stewardship into a liability by encroaching on landowners' constitutional rights.

Ten years ago, President George Bush signed an executive order which required agencies to consider the impact their regulations would have on takings of private property and to minimize that impact where they could. Many Americans want to see this order codified into public law.

The small business community recognizes private property rights as a priority and has come up with several recommendations that would protect those rights: allow property owners to seek compensation for federal actions affecting property values; reform the Endangered Species Act to more effectively protect species and property rights; and allow appeal of local zoning disputes directly to federal courts to circumvent lengthy litigation.

These changes would reaffirm our obligation to protect the integrity of the Fifth Amendment, guaranteeing the freedoms that landowners across the United states hold most dear. More simply put, such reforms would provide for a more peaceful coexistence of mice and men.

Sheriff's Dept. investigates two area fires

Pennington County Sheriff's department is investigating two separate field fires in rural areas of the county that have occurred in the last week.

The first report was received at 7:51 a.m. Sunday, August 9, when authorities and the St. Hilaire fire department responded to a field fire in Section 21 of Wyandotte township. About 720 square bales, weighing about 800 pounds each were destroyed by fire.

The second fire was reported at 4:22 a.m. Monday, August 10, in Section 32 of Rocksbury township. Approximately 87 alfalfa bales burned up in the fire causing about $3,045 in damage. The St. Hilaire fire department also responded to this fire.

Both incidents remain under investigation by the Pennington County Sheriff's department.

THE LYON'S SHARE

Tim Lyon

I'm not big into canoeing. I always feel like I'm somehow at the bottom of the food chain when the only thing that stands between me and a hungry, bankside carnivore is the time it takes my brain to send adrenaline to my arms. Give me the power of an outboard and the anonymous security of the big water any day.

I gave in, however, to the recent proddings of my children as to an excursion down the Rapid River. After renewing my life and health insurance policies, I invited my neighbor Mike and his two boys. Damned if I was going to accept sole responsibility for any impending disasters.

After long hours of careful map study and a diligent interview with any even tangentially-related source of abstract information, we decided on the route that I had suggested initially—the shortest. Distance, you see, was the challenge here.

Late summer offers low water and little current, turning what may be a "river" in the spring into more of a "long, thin lake" in late August. Any forward progress we might make would reflect a direct amount of expended energy. The shortest stretch available was the 25-mile trek from just east of Highway 72 to the Clementson Bridge.

"Once you get on, there's no getting off 'til the end," were the encouraging words from a far too cheery DNR employee. "It's pretty remote." As if that was what I was looking for.

We were dropped off early in the morning, allowing for as many daylight "search and rescue" hours as possible. Despite the group's overwhelming enthusiasm, I maintained my personal reservations and told my wife that if we weren't in Clementson by dark, they should round up every toothless banjo player in the county.

As expected, the river was low. Any thoughts about keeping our feet dry were swept away early on. We were out of the canoes often, dragging them through shallow water over sandbars and around ancient log jams.

The kids seemed to enjoy it, though. Unlike the lake, the slow water was warm and clear and the bottom was sandy and firm, offering unlimited swimming opportunities. They chased schools of suckers around the edges of the worst deep holes and cast lures to non-existent northerns.

Oh, and they didn't have to manhandle the canoes through each tortuous obstacle, either. No wonder they were laughing so much.

The further north we got, the deeper the water became, benefiting from the occasional trickling tributary. We were out of the canoes much less, both as a result of the added water and a new-found ability to look ahead and paddle toward depths that could actually float us. Who says you can't teach an old dog?

Unfortunately, the river became a little wider at every turn as well, so the increase in water volume was not accompanied by any quickening in current. In short, we had to paddle more just to maintain our pace.

It soon became evident that our sore shoulders were going to get sorer. Scratching crude sundials on the riverbanks (we were watchless) and estimating the speed of our over-ground travel, the kids figured we'd be in Clementson by 3 p.m.

Being somewhat of an accomplished outdoorsman, I felt the need to point out their error in locating due north for sundial purposes. Our arrival in Clementson, I corrected, would be closer to 3:30. My neighbor Mike observed that at his house when the sun went behind the trees it was generally after six, and that if we expected to be out of here before dark we better start doing some serious paddling.

Our renewed motivation and purpose allowed less time for leisure. Lengthy stops for recreation and food now became short, quiet glances at scenery and wildlife while chewing on pieces of soggy jerky. Dawdling became paddling.

It was not a totally unpleasant change as our canoe trip reached a more "mature" level. Even the younger kids began to contribute positive strokes as they acknowledged the potential for panic in their parents' eyes.

Bridges and pastureland, spiced with the occasional frothing dog or mad cow, made it obvious we were approaching civilization and the end of our journey. The eerie tones of Dueling Banjos I'd been hearing for the last hour turned into the droning buzz of a guy on a lawnmower. The sight of our truck ahead confirmed survival.

"Race!" yelled Mike, and I stroked furiously for about 15 seconds before realizing he was just looking for a way of pushing the rest of the paddling effort onto his children. What a lowlife! I laid my paddle down and kicked back, too.

Eleven hours into a seven-hour excursion, we loaded our canoes to head home. As we packed, Mike and I discussed our back pains, our scraped shins, our bug bites, our indolent kids and our rapidly approaching old age. We also smiled as we discussed the prospects for doing this again next year.

Discover the Alfalfa Advantage
Minnesota Valley Alfalfa Producers
Minnesota Valley Alfalfa Producers has some powerful news! They recently signed a 12-year power purchase agreement to provide NSP with 75 megawatts of alfalfa fiber generated electricity. That's enough electricity to power a city of 50,000. Alfalfa, the king of forages, will be used because of its renewable and environmentally sound characteristics.
That's not all! MnVAP has developed and installed new technology at its alfalfa processing plant near Willmar, MN to separate alfalfa leaf from the stem. MnVAP is now marketing high protein leaf meal into new feed markets. MnVAP farmers want to expand their shareholder base in Minnesota and South Dakota to reach 700,000 tons of annual production to be processed in additional pelleting plants.
If you want to discover the alfalfa advantage, attend the meeting most convenient for you.

Back to Church Special

Maybe you've tried church before and didn't like it. Well, why not try going back to church? We offer a Bible-believing Christian church with a difference:

1) An interesting service guaranteed to be less than 1 hour.

2) A friendly, informal atmosphere where you can relax and be yourself.

3) A place where you can dress comfortably and not worry about what people think.

4) A church that will accept you as you are and not pressure you to give money.

Facilitator compliments TRF schools

(Editor's Note: The following letter was addressed to the superintendent and school board of the Thief River Falls public schools and has been forwarded to us for sharing with the entire School District 564.)

Dear Members of the Board of Education:

About two weeks ago I finished facilitation of summer training for your school district. I must take a moment to thank you for the hospitality I received during my visits, to commend you on the quality of staff development your district supported, and to comment on the professionalism of your staff.

First, no one can enjoy spending time away from home, employed day after day in work that is intellectually exhausting, unless one receives a solid sense of "welcome" by the host community. It has been my experience in Thief River to feel welcomed and appreciated both in the school and by employees of local businesses.

Second, in a brief interview today with the St. Paul Pioneer Press, I was asked if any teachers embrace standards, and if so, why... what makes some teachers feel competent and others alienated. I cited the Thief River Falls training plan specifically as I tried to explain how a district can develop support for standards implementation.

It is my estimation that your district has employed and supported an exemplary staff development program under the direction of Glenn Chiodo. Mr Chiodo's sense of purpose and professional guidance throughout the summer made TRF training a quality experience for teachers.

As the Board of Education, you not only demanded quality work, you supported a plan to teach to teachers the skills necessary for success in a standards based classroom. (It is no coincidence that such is exactly what teachers need to do for students so that they experience success, too.)

Finally, your staff projected not only an "I can handle standards" attitude, but also a strong knowledge base of content and understanding of the child as a learner. Moreover, I sensed they found joy in teaching.

Quite often, as I leave a district in which I have done consultant work, I give the school a simple test —the "is the place good enough for the kids I tuck in each night" test. Without a doubt, I can say I would sleep easily if my children lived in your district and attended Thief River Falls Public Schools.

Once again, thank you
Sincerely yours,
Tamara Uselman, educator

Deb Jacobson takes golf tournament title

Deb Jacobson wound up with a title Tuesday when the Thief River Golf Club Women's Championship was played for the first time since 1984.

Jacobson, Janelle Schafer and Ann Joppru finished 1-2-3 in the stroke-play format.

Thirteen golfers participated in the event. They decided as a group, after playing the front nine, to cut the scheduled 18-hole tournament in half because of rain and strong winds.

Jacobson also won the tournament in 1979 and 1984, but because of declining interest the event was discontinued after Sylvia Sjoberg won the title in 1984.

Thief River Falls Ladies Invitational, featuring golfers from throughout the area, has been the major tournament of the summer for the women. Postponed earlier this year because of weather, the Thief River Falls Ladies Invitational was rescheduled to be held in conjunction with the Thief River Golf Club Women's Championship Tuesday, but those plans failed to materialize.

Annual Thief River Golf Club Championship, which has been open to men and women since the women's tournament was dropped, will feature its 1998 championship matches Sunday.

Morning play includes head-to-head matches in the Championship, President's, First, Second, Third, and Fourth flights. Championship Flight semifinal winners Sunday morning will be back on the course for another 18 holes of golf in the title match at 2 p.m. The public is welcome and encouraged to form a gallery to follow the finalists around the course.

Deb Jacobson watched the path of her putt during Tuesday's Thief River Golf Club Women's Championship. Jacobson won the tournament, which was played for the first time since 1984.

Northland volleyball is short on numbers

It was July before Mike Zachow was named the head volleyball coach at Northland Community and Technical College. There was little opportunity to launch a recruiting effort that would normally start at the close of the fall season. That was a painful fact when players reported for the start of preseason work Aug. 14. Just six of them – enough for a starting line-up – were on hand.

"We're just hoping maybe a couple of others might decide to play volleyball when school starts," said Zachow, who comes to Northland from the University of Wisconsin-Platteville, where he was the assistant women's basketball coach the past two years. He's had extensive coaching experience in both volleyball and basketball at both the high school and college level.

Like Zachow, the six players who showed up for the first drills are all newcomers to Northland. "It's really kind of fun with all of us being new to the program," he said. "We're all learning together."

The first-week roster included Chilon Cooke, Duluth, Kristin Halvorson and Amie Kotuba, who played for Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke, Erica McGeary and Sarah Hagen from Thief River Falls, and Jaime Schwarz of Silver Bay.

It's a great opportunity for someone to be part of an intercollegiate athletic program, but the small turnout has obvious drawbacks – you certainly can't afford to run into injuries and illness, there's little flexibility in your game plan, and fatigue can become a major factor.

"It's going to be kind of lonely on the bench," acknowledged Zachow, who will also coach the Northland women's basketball team this winter.

The Pioneers are scheduled to open their 1998 season Wednesday, Sept. 2, with a triangular meet at Concordia College in Moorhead, where they will play the Concordia and Moorhead State University junior varsity teams.

Champions named in Thief River Golf Club Junior event

John Sjoberg, Robert Lawrence and Paul Sjoberg were age-group winners Thursday in the second annual Thief River Golf Club Junior Championship.

The tournament drew 21 entries.

John Sjoberg turned in the best score of the day with an 80 to win the 15-17-year-old age group. Shane Peterson was second with a 90.

Lawrence had an 84 to win the 12-14-year-old age group, finishing one shot ahead of Cole Holthusen.

Paul Sjoberg recorded an 81 to lead the 11-under age group. Matt Nordhagen was second with a 102.

John Sjoberg watched his tee shot from No. 1 at the start of Thursday's Thief River Golf Club Junior Championship.

Change made in FMS volleyball

A change in the practice schedule for the Franklin Middle School seventh grade volleyball program will find the team beginning drills Monday, Aug. 24, from 1 to 3 p.m.

1998 Northland football...

Pioneers have new coach, young team

First-year head coach Dan Willoughby greeted a freshman-laden squad when Northland Community and Technical College football players reported for the start of 1998 preseason work-outs. The 58-man roster features just 13 sophomores, and only 11 of them played for the Pioneers last fall – three of them on offense and eight on defense.

"We've got a lot of youth," admitted Willoughby, who moves up from the assistant ranks to take over for Gene Klinke.

The large freshman class is a result of a busy and productive recruiting effort. "We've got good numbers," noted Willoughby. "We did really well locally (recruiting), and the rest of it fell in place."

Sophomores on hand include defensive backs Dan Niebuhr (Babbitt), Roy Smitey (Ft. Lauderdale, FL), Ricky Weatherford (Ann Arbor, MI), and Ryan Helvorson (Roseau); runningbacks Arthur Hamilton (Ft. Lauderdale), Shaun Bruggeman (McIntosh), and Eric Reinbold (Oklee), linebackers Greg Mavencamp (Maple Lake), Andrell Williams (Cocoa, FL), Jeff Carlson (Hawley), and Cory Waling (Grygla); along with defensive linemen Josh Blomquist (Lake George) and Stanley Lamarre (Miami, FL).

Freshmen listed on the Northland offensive charts include quarterbacks Mike Svojanovski (Minitonas, MB) and Jason Pinkney (Pompano Beach, FL); wide receivers Luke Hagness (Fordville, ND), Kelly Fossum (TRF), and Dan Bagaas (Karlstad); runningbacks Roge Webb (Crystal), Alex Anderson (Grygla), Paul Middendorf (Melrose), Matt Hitchen (Fertile), John Emerson (Pembina, ND), Jesse Lunsetter (Grygla), Paul Teevenes (Grafton, ND), Andy Harhott (TRF), and Jeremy Johnson (Walhalla, ND), tight ends Jesse Storlie (Bigfork), Cody Huschle (TRF), and Justin Kjos (Roseau); plus linemen Kelly Braleng (Warroad), Keven Baugher (Roseau), Ben Hanson (Goodridge), Dale Fish (Warroad), Jason Cummings (Frazee), Aaron Nelson (Thompson, ND), Chad Skeim (TRF), Robert Anderson (Warroad), and Rolando Rivera (East Grand Forks).

First-year players on the defense include linebackers Jeff Kuehn (Twin Valley), Alver Leighton (Grafton, ND), Daryl Wockenfuss (Middle River), Michael Moore (Minneapolis), Dave Thompson (Mahnomen), and Nathan Schue (Red Lake Falls); defensive backs Mark Besemann (Iron), Brandon Tougas (Oklee), and Mike Peppard (Grand Forks, ND), and linemen Michael Taus (Angus), Pete Mooney (Hillsboro, ND), Eric Moose (Newfolden), Patrick Pickarski (Lowry), Greg Melin (Hallock), Jeremy Hostrup (Lancaster), Matt Benkowski (New Hope), Matt Kasprowicz (Roseau), Ryan Broden (Fertile), and Mike Reinhart (Warroad).

"We've got a lot of enthusiasm," noted Willoughby. "We got some speed and some quickness, and we've got pretty good size in the offensive and defensive lines. We're excited about things. I think we're going to surprise a few people."

NCTC Football

Saturday, Aug. 29 - Central Lakes, 5 p.m.; Saturday, Sept. 5 - at Fergus Falls, 1:30 p.m.; Saturday, Sept. 12 - Ridgewater, 1:30 p.m.; Saturday, Sept. 19 - at Minnesota West, 12-noon; Saturday, Sept. 26 - at Hibbing, 1:30 p.m.; Thursday, Oct. 1 - Vermilion, 5 p.m.; Thursday, Oct. 8 - at Itasca, 7 p.m.; Wednesday, Oct. 14 - Mesabi Range, 3 p.m.

A little body English was required as Janelle Schafer watched her putt roll toward the cup during Tuesday's Thief River Golf Club Women's Championship. Schafer finished second to Deb Jacobson in the nine-hole event.

Julie Tydlacka, who with husband Chuck and son Todd, owns and operates Ridge Runner Ostrich Ranch, holds an ostrich egg. The typical egg is almost round, nearly six inches in diameter, and weighs three pounds. Once retrieved from the nest, the egg is placed in an incubator for about 45 days before it hatches. The Tydlackas sell ostrich meat as a healthy red meat alternative. Unfertilized eggs are drained and sold to artists who paint them.

Tydlacka family raises ostriches

Each bird consumes about three pounds of feed each day, and because their bodies utilize most of the food, there is very little waste by-product.

The ostrich is the world's largest living bird, standing nearly 8-feet tall and weighing as much as 345 pounds. Only extinct moas of New Zealand were taller at heights of 10 feet, and the extinct elephant birds of Madagascar, which weighed about 1,000 pounds, were heavier. The ostrich is also the only bird that has two toes on each foot.

While the ostrich cannot fly, it is know for its speed, its long legs capable of carrying it in 15-foot steps at speeds up to 45 miles per hour. Its speed and unusually good eyesight help the ostrich escape from its enemies, which, in its native Africa, are usually lions and men. However, when too exhausted to run any further or faced with protecting its nest, the ostrich will kick with its powerful legs. Its long toes, the longest about seven inches, have thick nails which become weapons.

It's the male that needs to be distracted when the Tydlackas attempt to retrieve an egg from the nest. Generally, Julie says, the females don't care.

The ostrich is a polygamous bird, meaning that the male has more than one mate. Each male builds a large shallow nest, usually outdoors, and two or three females lay their eggs in his nest.

Over the course of the mating season each hen lays about two dozen eggs. The egg is almost round, nearly six inches in diameter, and weighs about three pounds. A light dull yellow in color, the eggs have large pores and thick shells.

Once the egg is retrieved from the nest, it is placed in an incubator where the fertilized eggs take about 42 days to hatch. The unfertilized eggs are drained and sold, often used as a canvas by decorative painters.

In the wild, the male sits on the eggs at night while the females share the responsibility during the day.

The ostrich chick is brown with spotted down that blends with the ground, protecting it from its enemies, and when only a month old, the young ostrich can run as fast as an adult bird. The life span of the ostrich is up to 70 years making it one of the longest living birds.

Hundreds of years ago, great flocks of ostriches roamed over Africa and western Asia. While the Arabs hunted them for sport, the Africans took their eggs for food or killed them for their feathers. In the late 1800's and early 1900's, ostrich plumes came into great demand, used to decorate clothing and hats. With huge numbers of the birds killed, they disappeared from western Asia and much of Africa.

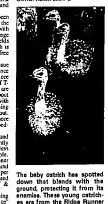
Many ostriches were raised in captivity until fashion changed between 1914 and 1918, and the plumes were no longer in demand. After that, only a few were raised in captivity principally for their skins, which are made into fine quality leather.

Only in recent years has ostrich been recognized as a valuable meat source. With 66 percent less fat than beef and 50 percent less fat than chicken, ostrich has less cholesterol than beef, chicken or pork and more iron than all other meats compared. Called the "Cadillac" of red meat, it rivals other meats in ease of use, taste, texture and tenderness.

The Tydlackas' claim that ostrich tastes "just like beef" is backed by a 1995 Purdue University study which rated ostrich and beef nearly identical in taste, texture and tenderness. Similar results have been found in blind sampling studies at Texas A&M University and others around the country. Even those who enjoyed the ostrich burgers the Tydlackas sold during Crazy Days in Warren last week said that they wouldn't have been able to tell the difference had they not known first that they were eating ground ostrich.

The Newfolden Locker has been doing the butchering for the Tydlackas after being provided with an instructional video. The average bird weighs 300 pounds and yields 80 to 100 pounds of meat which is ground or cut into boneless, fat-free steaks and roast.

According to the May 1996 issue of The Ostrich News, a five ounce ostrich steak can actually be more satisfying than an 11 ounce beef T-bone. Once the bone and fat are removed from the beef steak, about seven ounces of meat remains with that seven ounces still containing imbedded fat that can't be cut out. The five ounce ostrich steak is more digestible because it has no imbedded fat.



On a straight pound for pound measure, ostrich meat costs slightly more. Yet, per pound of fatless meat, the price is comparable. Ground ostrich at Ridge Runner Ostrich Ranch costs $3 per pound and steaks and roasts cost $5 per pound. The meat can be purchased at the farm or at Westside TV & Appliance in Warren.

So far, Julie says ostrich farming has been "a learning experience" with "ups and downs like any other type of farming." While the veterinarians in the area don't know a lot about ostriches, the Tydlackas have found the medications used on other livestock to be effective on the birds also. To prevent injury, they've found that good fencing is important. Also, grass must be kept short to prevent "impaction," a deadly situation when the bird fills its gizzard and stomach with grass and is unable to digest it.

They have found the birds to be very curious, frightened only by things they hear but can't see. The family dog's entrance into the building caused them to take off to the other end, and while a skunk who paid a recent visit to the yard sent the females running, the male was prepared to take care of it and protect his turf.

The Tydlackas have learned that a good diet produces the best meat, and they are proud of the high-quality, healthy product they are providing. To date, they have sold a few whole birds with most of their customers sampling the ground ostrich, steaks and roasts. For more information about ostrich, call Chuck, Julie or Todd at (218) 523-3941 or (218) 745-4001.

The age-old belief that ostriches hide their heads in the sand when frightened, thinking that no one will see them, is just a myth. The idea that ostriches provide a tasty, healthy red meat choice is a fact, and the Tydlackas of Ridge Runner Ostrich Ranch know it.

The baby ostrich has spotted down that blends with the ground, protecting it from its enemies. These young ostriches are from the Ridge Runner Ostrich Ranch near Viking.

School board 564 approves agreements

Dakota Clinic and Altru Health Systems-Northwest Medical Center, presented proposals to act as the district's service provider. The proposals were such that the board asked them to return with three year proposals before the August 10 meeting.

At the August 10 meeting, Board Chair Carl Clark noted that the fact that both Dakota Clinic and Altru Health Systems would present proposals for athletic trainer says something wonderful about the medical community in Thief River Falls.

Superintendent Jarry Robicheau said he had met with representatives of both providers. Both proposals had merit, both were flexible and willing to accommodate the district's needs, and both would provide highly qualified personnel. He said he was not initially interested in the cost issue. The contract itself would not generate a lot of income, if any. Robicheau said he then met with coaches and noted that they felt more comfortable with Dakota Clinic. They have been providing the service for years and they were more comfortable with them. At the conclusion of his discussions, he decided to recommend Dakota because they had an athletic trainer on staff already. Altru said they were planning to hire someone. The coaches know the staff and families of Dakota, and said that they have provided a good service in the past. Secondly, Robicheau recommended Dakota because he did not believe a change was merited at this time.

Lyle Olson said he was very impressed with Altru, and thought cost should be a factor.

According to the offers, Dakota Clinic would provide services for a base fee of $1,000 for each of the three years of the contract. Altru would provide the service free.

While Jean Larson said she felt uncomfortable with "free". Larson also noted that Dakota's offer was a decrease from $1,500 charged last year.

Randy Twistol said he thought "free" was great. Twistol said, however, Dakota has been with the district for many years and has invested millions of dollars into the community, which guarantees they will be here in the future.

Darla Twomey said she was impressed with Altru's staff but was concerned that one of the doctors who appeared in July is no longer with the hospital and they have no athletic trainer. Because the district needs the trainer for games almost immediately she supported Dakota.

But Carl Clark was not in support of the recommendation. He asked whether having a trainer on staff now was really the concern of the board. He asked, if the board chooses one or the other aren't they obligated to provide the trainer? Clark concluded that in the past if a service provider was not able to provide the required services, the contract was terminated.

Answers to a number of direct questions from Lyle Olson indicated that services offered were essentially the same, and the staff equally qualified.

Clark noted that while Altru does not have the same presence as Dakota does in Thief River Falls, it is a successful operation. It's not a start-up business, he said.

When the vote was called, Clark and Olson opposed the recommendation to go with Dakota Clinic. Four votes from the other board members (Larson, Lee, Twistol, and Twomey) resulted in the recommendation being passed.

Contract Language

Altru Proposal:

The cost proposal to the district under the Altru and Northwest Medical Center was as follows:

1) 1998/99 school year (a note on the contract states the proposal had been extended for an additional two years, making it a three-year proposal, although no one clarified whether that statement applied to this element of the contract proposal) at no cost to the School District which Includes one event per week.

2) Additional Events $25 each.

3) Camps $1 per athlete ($25 minimum)

4) Pre-season physicals will be offered one specified day at no charge and will be provided by M.D., orthopedist, PT, ATC/R. Physicals outside this day will be charged $20 per athlete.

Dakota Clinic Proposal:

In exchange for its athletic trainer services and coverage, Dakota Clinic offered the following proposal:

1) All supplies and equipment needed to manage/rehabilitate injuries will be the responsibility of the school/athlete.

2) The school will provide a suitable room/location for evaluation and treatment.

3) School shall pay the annual base fee of $1,000 due on or before September 30 of each contract year.

4) When available the athletic trainer will cover additional varsity games at a charge of $25 per game. The school will notify Dakota Clinic of the events they want covered. Fees for additional games will be due within 30 days of billing.

5) Tournament coverage will be negotiated on an as needed basis.

6) Passes to games will be provided to physicians and physical therapists providing onsite coverage.

7) Programs, posters and schedules will acknowledge services provided by Dakota Clinic Sports Medicine when space is available.

Difference in Services:

There were some differences in the services proposed by Altru and Dakota. The Dakota proposal, for example, was generally more specific — "the athletic trainer will be available at the training room for consultation from 3:15 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday on school days." Altru refers to "on call availability", and "day-to-day training room operations."

The Dakota Clinic proposal also states that "the athletic training will supervise the student trainer program", and "Dakota will provide the trainer with a pager for emergency contact." The Dakota Clinic proposal also offers a 15 percent discount to coaching and educational staff to attend the National Strength and Speed Camp held annually at North Dakota State University. And it states: "Physician coverage will be provided for varsity football and hockey games."

Neither contract proposal specifically identifies who the certified athletic trainer will be.

She has a bachelor's degree in marketing from the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks and a master's degree in education counseling from North Dakota State University in Fargo.

Chad Coauette began his duties as manufacturing specialist in the customized training department of NCTC in May. A 1992 graduate of Crookston Central high school, he has bachelor of science and master of science degrees from the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks. He is presently working under a grant with Polaris Industries at Roseau on plastics injection molding.

Mike Zachow will be head coach of volleyball and women's basketball at Northland as well as teach first aid and CPR and work with student life and student senate assignments. He has a bachelor's degree and master's degree in broadcast technology management from the University of Wisconsin at Platteville.

John Ott has been hired as head baseball coach and assistant football coach and will direct the intra-mural program, fitness and conditioning program and have other classroom duties. He has a bachelor of education degree in physical education from Bemidji State University.

Clow graduates from St. Cloud State University

Sara Clow of Hallock was one of 1,600 graduates of St. Cloud State University following the spring quarter, according to information received from the university this week.

Clow received a bachelor of arts degree with a major in physical education and sports management.

Memorials

MEMORIAM
In memory of husband, dad and grandpa Ray Ness
One year ago today you left our home, never to return. Little did we know that God had another path for you to go. There was no time to say goodbye, but our love went with you. We shed our tears and asked God why. If you could only come back for a day, we all would say wanna hug?
Sadly missed by all who loved you.

Rules to change on exhibiting and importing horses

Effective Sept 1, 1998, rules for exhibition and importation of horses will be changed in Minnesota, according to the state Board of Animal Health.

The following provisions take place as of September 1:

All horses (including mules, asses, ponies, donkeys, burros and zebras) attending public exhibitions in Minnesota must be negative to an official test for Equine Infectious Anemia (EIA) within 12 months prior to the opening date of the exhibition. Proof of a negative test for EIA will be required for all horses admitted to exhibitions. A test is not required for suckling foals accompanying a negative dam.

Public exhibition of livestock and poultry in Minnesota means "bringing livestock or poultry owned by two or more persons to one location for judging or for display to the public except when there is only one animal of each species exhibited. Under this definition, trail rides would only be classified as an exhibition if there is judging of the horses or if they are displayed to the public.

All horses (as described above) brought into Minnesota from other states or countries, including horses for trail rides, rodeos, circuses and performing animal acts, must be negative to an official test for EIA within 12 months prior to the date of importation. A test is not required for horses consigned to slaughter and for suckling foals accompanying a negative dam.

Hay network to match the haves with the have-nots

A new effort to match farmers suffering from hay shortages with producers having hay surpluses has been announced by Glenn Schafer, Pennington county executive director of the Farm Service Agency.

"Some areas have surpluses and some have severe shortages," Schafer said. "This Hay Net program is a new and exciting way to get producers in both situations in touch with each other."

Hay Net is a national clearinghouse for producers with shortages or surpluses of hay. Farmers are encouraged to sign up and register their hay situation at their local Farm Service Agency (FSA) office.

FSA will use its nationwide computer network to share the information. Producers in need of hay will be provided with lists of the closest producers with hay to spare, and vice versa, allowing them to contact each other and make arrangements.

"I'm very pleased to be a part of this effort," Schafer said. "It's a great tool for getting badly-needed hay to people who need it as quickly and efficiently as possible. I encourage everybody to participate who can, and to come in as soon as possible. The more people who sign up, the better the system will work."

Hay Net will remain in operation for six months. Further information on the program is available at the Pennington county FSA office at 201 Sherwood Avenue in Thief River Falls or by calling 681-1612.

Mesaba plans to shut down if NW pilots go on strike

Mesaba Airlines announced Tuesday, August 18, that it would temporarily cease operations if Northwest Airlines pilots go on strike August 29.

"With almost 80 percent of our traffic connecting with Northwest Airlines it is not economically viable, in the short term, to continue operating," stated Bryan Bedford, president and chief executive officer of Mesaba.

He said he remains hopeful the negotiators on both sides can come together to reach a final settlement before the strike deadline.

Thief River Falls is one of the 17 cities served exclusively by Mesaba Airlines among the 91 cities in 19 states and three Canadian provinces where the airline provides service. Other Minnesota cities with Mesaba service exclusively are Bemidji, Brainerd, Grand Rapids, Hibbing, International Falls and St. Cloud.

DNR pays $1.7 million in lieu of taxes in area

Twenty-two counties in northwest and west central Minnesota recently received a total of $1,702,468 from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources under the state's in-lieu-of-tax payment program.

The $1.7 million was part of more than $7.9 million distributed this year to Minnesota counties in lieu of real estate taxes for land owned or administered by the DNR.

Included in the program are state forest lands, wildlife management areas/public hunting lands, Consolidated Conservation lands, state trails, DNR-owned public water access sites, county-managed tax forfeit lands, School Trust Fund lands and state parks.

Payments also include a portion of funds derived from the sale of state timber, plus agricultural, mineral ad miscellaneous leases. This is the 19th year that counties have received in-lieu-of-tax payments from the state.

Total 1998 DNR payments to northwest Minnesota counties amounted to $2,712,028, including payments for public hunting grounds distributed earlier this year.

"Each year the department makes a significant contribution to the budgets of counties throughout the state through the in-lieu-of-tax payments," states Rod Sando, DNR commissioner. "Our partnership with the counties and local governments is important to the DNR."

By law, counties are required to deposit 40 percent of the funds received into the county general revenue fund. Another portion must be deposited into a county resource-development fund for use in forest management, fish and wildlife habitat improvement, recreational development and maintenance of county-administered natural resource lands.

However, counties receiving less than $5,000 annually for resource development may elect to deposit those funds into their general revenue accounts. Organized townships also receive a portion of the payment for road and bridge projects.

The local dollar distribution is based on the total acreage of state and county-administered land in each county.

Following are total receipts by area counties from DNR distribution with payment in lieu of taxes, other payments during the year and total payments listed respectively:

Beltrami—$328,669, $261,355 and $590,024;

Clearwater—$136,618, $4,420 and $141,038;

Kittson—$88,838, $30,295 and $119,133;

Lake of the Woods—$186,110, $361,305 and $547,415;

Marshall—$71,648, $20,594 and $92,242;

Pennington—$7,276, $4,406 and $11,682;

Polk—$27,863, $31,844 and $59,707;

Red Lake—$2,128, $5,367 and $7,495;

Roseau—$138,142, $142,942 and $281,084.

Mn/DOT to hold an open house at new headquarters

Minnesota Department of Transportation invites the public to attend an open house at its new headquarters building Thursday, September 3, from 3 to 7 p.m. The $9 million, 110,000 square foot building was completed in mid-July.

The public will also have the opportunity to view a collection of artwork purchased by Mn/DOT through the Minnesota State Arts Board. The artwork consists of various art forms which emphasize the land, people, waterways and history of transportation in his area.

The new building is located at 3919 Highway 2 West, across from the Northern Inn. MnDOT employees will host tours during the open house and snacks will be provided.

Seal coating on Park Rapids to Menahga route

Bituminous chip seal coat will be applied on Highway 71 from Menahga to Park Rapids beginning Wednesday, August 26, according to the Minnesota Department of Transportation office in Bemidji.

Motorists are advised that alternating use of lanes will be in place and drivers are to reduce speeds and drive with extreme caution through this work zone. The project is a slow moving operation with loose rock and thick dust.

The project is expected to be completed within a week, depending on the weather.

Chautauqua speaker reveals meaning of names of places

Red Lake Falls - At the Chautauqua Sunday, August 23, at Old Crossing Treaty Park, Reuben Fasthorse of the Lakota reservation near Bismarck, ND, discussed the meaning of many familiar names.

Minnesota, he explained, means smoky water in the Sioux language. Minneapolis means water city, Wisconsin means land of dark waters, Iowa means to yawn (sleepy), Nebraska means flood plain, Colorado means red rock, Wyoming means long prairies and Montana means mountains. He also said that six out of 10 Americans have some Indian blood in their veins. Sixteen-year-old Kelsey Christianson of Crookston won the fiddler's contest at the Chautauqua. Red Lake Falls Gazette

New superintendents at Red Lake Falls schools for this fall

Red Lake Falls - Two schools in Red Lake Falls have new superintendents for the start of the 1998-99 school year. Walt Aanenson, who was superintendent at Climax for the past 18 years, will head the public school system. Father Tim Bushy is the new priest at St. Joseph, St. Anthony and St. Dorothy churches and superintendent at St. Joseph school. Red Lake Falls Gazette

Larson and Hoie are named outstanding Clearwater citizens

Bagley - Lois Hoie and Harry Larson were named Clearwater county's outstanding senior citizens at the Clearwater County Fair in Bagley. Harry donates about 30 hours a week or more to various volunteer activities. Lois qualified for her driver's license at age 69 following her husband's death in 1994 so she could continue to be independent and live on her farm south of Bagley. She spends much of her time away from home visiting shut-ins and others living alone. The Leader-Record

Win-E-Mac school has open house; plans dedication

Erskine — Open house at the new Win-E-Mac school northeast of Erskine was conducted Thursday, August 27, from 2 to 8 p.m. with tours of the school provided. Classes in the new building will begin on Tuesday, September 8, and a dedication ceremony is planned for Saturday, October 3. Erskine Echo

Davidson Const. receives contract for Norman co. project

Ada - Davidson Construction of Newfolden was awarded a contract by the Norman county board for a grading and paving project on County Road 104 near Halstad with a low bid among three bidders of $133,489. The project is being funded as a flood relief project by the State of Minnesota and is contingent on approval of the final funding package. Norman County Index

A sign on the door of the Rex Cafe in downtown Thief River Falls is announcing that the business will be going out of business as of August 28. Owner Ed Turenne was unavailable for comment. The business was established in the early 1930s according to "Where Two Rivers Meet". The first Rex Cafe was located at the corner of Second Street and LaBree Avenue, and was established by Lars R. Larson and Carl Christopherson. In 1940 Phillip Larson became a co-partner and shortly after, the cafe was moved to its present location. Due to illness, Phillip Larson sold the business to James Roche, who owned and operated the cafe until 1947. At that time the business was sold to Jack Edminston. In June of 1966 Roche sold the business to Edward Turenne.

Grygla Fall Festival underway this week

Annual Fall Festival at Grygla is underway this week with most events today and tonight, Saturday, August 29. Included is the parade at 12:30 p.m., sponsored by the Four-town Grygla Sportsman Club.

The festival officially got underway Friday night with a talent contest in the community center, sponsored by the Grygla Lioness club and a dance to disc jockey music at the Grygla arena.

Today's events began at 9 a.m. with a mixed softball tournament sponsored by the Grygla-Gatzke Jaycees, exhibits at the Grygla school lobby, food serving by Grace Lutheran Church in the community center and a bake sale by the United Lutheran Church Women of Gatzke on Elizabeth Holte's lawn.

Exhibits at the school will include any items of interest from flower arrangements and garden produce to art work, 4-H club projects, collections, etc. Persons who have craft or other items to sell or display will have their tables along the main streets and sidewalks. In case of rain, they can be set up in the school lobby.

Other food stands open at 10 a.m. including M & W Verhout turkey sandwiches, Jaycees, Legion, Orfda Tacos, Sjulestad Sugar Shack and Diamond's butter-dipper corn on the cob. Kiddie games sponsored by the Lioness club also start at 10 a.m. near the football field.

Parade line-up will begin at 11:30 a.m. near St. Clement's church, north of Highway 89 on the east end of town. Registration is $5, with the money used to purchase candy to be distributed by individuals walking alongside the parade entries. Cash prizes will be awarded for the best antique vehicle, funniest, best theme and best all-around parade entry. No separate kiddie parade will be held this year but youngsters are welcome in the main parade.

As soon as the parade is concluded, at about 1:30 p.m., two events for youngsters will get underway. The frog jumping contest sponsored by the Grygla-Gatzke Jaycees will take place on Valley Street and a kiddie tractor pull, sponsored by the Grygla Lions, will be held on Fladland Avenue in front of the school. Youngsters will be able to participate in both events by moving from one to the other in groups.

NCTC enrollment down

Enrollment at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls for the fall semester of the 1998-99 school year is down about eight percent from the end of the fall quarter in the 1997-98 school term, according to Dennis Bendickson, dean of student services at the college.

As of Thursday, August 27, there were 1,631 students enrolled at NCTC, including 813 full-time students, Bendickson said. Enrollment decline is fairly evenly spread across the 16 occupational programs and the liberal arts grouping offered by the college, he added.

An exception is the aviation program where enrollment increased by 50 percent from a year ago to a total of 134 this fall.

Bendickson said a lot of complaint has been heard about the early start of school on August 24 this year. In previous years classes would start after the Labor Day holiday. The change this year was mandated by Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) so that all schools under its program would be operating on a semester system rather than a quarter system.

"We have a number of people who had indicated in advance that they would be attending this fall but are reluctant to leave their jobs this early to start classes," Bendickson said. "Many of them expect to wait until the next semester to come to school."

Bendickson noted that fall semester registration remains open through Friday, September 4, and there will likely be some additional enrollment prior to the deadline.

Voice of Democracy essay contest offered

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2793 in Thief River Falls is contacting six area high schools to offer prizes in the annual Voice of Democracy essay contest. Cash prizes are offered to winners in each school.

Roy Jorgenson, chairman of the contest for Post 2793, and Kathy Aune, chairperson for the Auxiliary unit, have sent packets of materials to Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls, Plummer, Middle River, Goodridge and Newfolden schools.

Cash prizes of $50 for first place, $35 for second place and $25 for third place are offered in each of the schools. Local winners advance to district competition and a banquet for contestants and their parents will be offered following the district contest.

Voice of Democracy is a national audio/essay competition designed to give students in grades 10, 11 and 12 the opportunity to voice their opinion on their responsibility to our country. Each year the program focuses on a patriotic theme. This year the theme is "My Service to America."

The contest has been offered since 1946. An early winner was student Charles Kuralt, and other winners have been Mariette Hartley, Anita Bryant and Sen. John Ashcroft. The VFW assumed operation of the contest from the National Association of Broadcasters in 1961.

National Guard joins in search for evidence

Units from Thief River Falls and Crookston of Bravo Company 2nd Battalion, 136th Infantry are once again assisting officials investigating the disappearance and death of 16-year-old Julie Holmquist.

On Thursday, August 27, Kittson County Sheriff Ray Hunt said 78 members of the National Guard were searching the area where Julie Holmquist's body was found. He expected the National Guard soldiers to be there Thursday and maybe Friday. Sheriff Hunt said they would be searching a quarter-section of land and adjacent areas.

New administrators at Challenger elementary school in Thief River Falls will be on hand when classes start for the 1998-99 school term on Wednesday, September 2. David Strand (left) will serve as interim principal at Challenger, succeeding Glenn Espe, who retired at the end of the 1997-98 school year. Strand has a bachelor's degree in elementary education from Moorhead State University, master of education degree from the State College of Iowa and education specialist in administration degree from the Tri-College University in Fargo-Moorhead. He taught in Sheboygan, WI and Alexandria and retired in January of 1997 after serving as elementary principal in the Alexandria public schools for 14 years. He will work two to three days per week. Jeff Murrell will be vice-principal. He has a bachelor's degree in early childhood education/ elementary education and a master's degree in education administration from Central Washington University in Ellensburg, WA. He taught and served as principal intern at Southgate elementary school in Lakewood, WA, prior to coming to Thief River Falls. School District 564 has many new faculty and other staff members this year. They will be pictured in the September 2 issue of the Thief River Falls Times.

Hydra-Mac International, Inc. has unveiled the largest model in its line of seven skid steer loaders manufactured in Thief River Falls. The Model 3250 has a number of new features, some of which may be adapted to the smaller models in the future. This model is intended for heavy construction use and a number of orders have been received sight unseen.

Hydra-Mac introduces new drive system in Model 3250

Hydra-Mac International, Inc. has just introduced the largest model in its line of skid steer loaders—the Model 3250 intended for heavy duty industrial use. All of the new model machines will be produced in the Thief River Falls plant.

The new loader features the all new Hydra-Mac TL drive system—a full floating axle arrangement and ring gear and pinion drive system. The system was designed and built by Ernie Brookins, inventor and entrepreneur from West Fargo, ND, who is recognized as a leader in new developments involving transmission and drive train components in the automotive racing and monster truck industry.

According to Hydra-Mac officials, the full floating hubs allow the axles to drive rather than carry the machine weight. The full floating axle system carries the full weight of the machine between two heavy duty tapered roller bearings.

Six nine-inch ring gears and pinions are considered the strongest and most economical drive system. Designed for easy maintenance and repair, the ring and pinion drive system is used in autos, trucks, buses and farm and construction equipment. A two-speed hydrostatic motor powers the "T" drive, which in turn powers both "L" drives, 90 degrees to the wheels.

In order to complete his design, Brookins went to Richmond Gear in Liberty, SC, one of the nation's leaders in ring gear and pinion development, and Dewey, Inc., in Richmond, IN, a company that builds heavy duty dropout sections and axles.

Although Hydra-Mac has not yet taken its new Model 3250 to trade shows, several orders have been received sight unseen. Production on the new model is expected to begin in late September or October with delivery of the first units early in November.

It is expected the Model 3250 will open up new markets in the construction, recycling and nursery industries. Information on features of the new model cites the following:

• The only pieces turning outside the chassis are the wheel and the hub.

• The axle housing does not turn, therefore not attracting foreign bodies which cause seal failure;

• All repair work on hub and wheel bearings is done from outside the machine;

• The floating hub design allows for easy removal of the wheel hub, axle housing and double-splined axle from outside the machine;

• Due to the design of the machine, the fluid level is visually checked by using sight gauges located in each hub. Fluids are added through these sight gauges to lubricate the entire gear system.

With the addition of the Model 3250, Hydra-Mac International now manufactures seven models of skid steer loaders in the Thief River Falls plant.

Highway 59 truck route may be ready in 1999

Eight companies bid on the proposed Highway 59 truck route around the west edge of Thief River Falls. The low bid was submitted by Northern Paving of Crookston.

Delton Schulz, Pennington County Engineer, said the Pennington County Board of Commissioners have recommended to the Minnesota Department of Transportation that the bid be awarded to Northern Paving.

The low bid came in at $1,027,907.11, which according to Schulz was below the project estimate. The right of way for the 2.38 mile project has been acquired. When completed it will be known as State Aid 16.

Schulz expects awarding and processing of the paperwork surrounding the bid to take about 30 to 45 days. Under the right conditions, the contractor could begin the project in six weeks. He said he expects the contractor to complete the project during the 1999 construction season.

Oklee schools to share superintendent from Fosston district

Oklee - Under an arrangement completed between Fosston and Oklee school districts, Dale Salberg will serve as a two-fifths time superintendent for Oklee as well as the superintendent at Fosston. Salberg was previously superintendent at Oklee from 1992 to 1995, then served Norman County East schools at Twin Valley before taking the Fosston post for the 1998-99 school year. He will be at Oklee schools one day a week with the second day to attend meetings or conduct other business on behalf of the district. Oklee school's commitment will be for $3,000 a month with a maximum of $30,000 per year plus $75 per month for travel. Oklee will continue to accept applications for a full-time, in-house superintendent. Oklee Herald

Outflow from Rainy Lake into Rainy River ordered cut back

Baudette - The International Joint Commission (IJC) has ordered the outflow from Rainy Lake into the Rainy River cut by more than 38 percent. Rainy Lake is far below normal levels. Outflow at the Boise Cascade dam at International Falls was reduced Friday, August 21, from 3,650 cubic feet per second to 2,250 cubic feet per second. It will remain at this rate until Rainy Lake returns to its normal seasonal level under a rule curve established by the IJC. The move will compound low water level problems downstream for both the Rainy River and Lake of the Woods. The Baudette Region

School is starting soon and it's time to look for some after-school treat recipes. Better to have something homemade on hand for the kids than all that other fast food junk. I have also included a couple of pickling recipes again. Someone asked for recipes for hamburger dills and pickled peppers. Does anyone have any others? Send them to me or e-mail me.

This is a good time to make a yummy chocolate cake with some of those zucchini you can't get rid of:

CHOCOLATE ZUCCHINI CAKE
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup white sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup oil
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup buttermilk
2 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons soda
4 tablespoons cocoa
2 cups grated zucchini
1/2 to 1 cup chocolate chips

Cream sugars, butter and oil in large bowl. Add eggs, vanilla and buttermilk, mixing well.

Measure dry ingredients into sifter and sift into first mixture in bowl. Mix well.

Add zucchini and stir until well blended.

Pour mixture into greased and floured 9x13 inch pan. Sprinkle with chocolate chips and bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes. Cake can also be frosted, leaving out the chocolate chips.

This would be a great after-school treat, and nourishing, too:

BOILED RAISIN CAKE
1 pound raisins
1/2 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs
2 cups flour
1 cup juice from cooked raisins
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon ginger
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt

Rinse raisins and cover with water. Cook for 20 minutes. Drain, reserving 1 cup of liquid.

Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy. Add eggs, spices and soda, mixing well. Add flour and raisin liquid, alternating half and half.

Fold in raisins and 1 cup chopped nuts, if you desire.

Place in greased and sugared 9x13 inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for about 1 hour.

Raisin Cake Frosting
Powdered sugar
Vanilla
Butter
Butter flavored maple syrup (or regular)

Mix ingredients together and beat until light and fluffy.

There's nothing better than a homemade carrot cake - use 3 small jars of baby food carrots or the equivalent if you don't want to fuss with real carrots (but real carrots are great):

CARROT CAKE
2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups oil
4 eggs
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup nuts
2 1/2 cups grated carrots
1 tablespoon vanilla

Mix ingredients and bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes.

Carrot Cake Frosting
8 ounce package cream cheese
1 stick butter
1 pound powdered sugar (2 1/2 cups)
1 teaspoon vanilla

Have cheese and butter at room temperature. Beat all together and then beat on high until light and fluffy.

Speaking of school and fall time, we have to include apples in at least one of these delicious fall snacks:

FRESH APPLE CAKE
2 cups white sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup nuts
3 cups apples, cut fine
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups oil
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
2 cups flour

Topping
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 cup white sugar

Mix together and sprinkle over cake before baking.

To make cake, beat eggs. Add sugar, oil and vanilla and stir well.

Add remaining ingredients and then add apples and nuts. Mix lightly.

Pour into greased and floured 9x13 inch pan and put on topping. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour and 5 minutes.

I had a request for hamburger dill pickles and canning peppers. I had to search high and low, but I found these two. If anyone has any better ones they can send them to me.

Here is the pepper recipe. It was my mother's recipe and I remember eating them. It is for banana peppers, but I don't see why it wouldn't work with jalapenos. They were very hot peppers, if I remember right:

BANANA PEPPERS
Brine
1 gallon water
2 cups canning salt
Pickling Solution
1 cup salt
1 cup vinegar
1 clove garlic
1 grape leaf
1 bunch dill

Thoroughly wash peppers. Make a small slit in each pepper in two places.

Place peppers in brine and weigh with something to keep peppers under the solution.

The following day, drain peppers well and pack peppers into sterilized jars.

Mix picking solution and bring to a boil. Pour over peppers in jar to within 1/2 inch of top. Place on cap, screw band firmly and process in boiling water bath for 5 minutes.

This recipe is from a cookbook. I haven't made it, so I don't know how it works, but it might be worth a try:

DILL PICKLES
Cucumbers
13 cups water
1 cup canning salt
1 1/2 cups vinegar
Dill
Onion

Wash cucumbers and soak in cold water overnight.

Make mixture of water, salt and vinegar and bring to a boil.

Place cucumbers in jars, cutting as desired. Add 2 pieces of dill to each jar. Place 2 onion slices on top in jar. Pour boiling solution over cucumbers to 1/2 inch of top and seal.

Pennington Co. approves site preparation bid

Pennington County Commissioners Tuesday approved a contract bid on the site preparation for a new County and State Highway departments building.

The low bid of $249,416 was for site preparation and was awarded to Anderson Contractors of Solway. Site preparation construction should begin this fall.

The new building, when completed, will be located behind Westside Motors and will have access to the new truck by-pass called State Aid 16.

Minnesotans Healthier, Wealthier, Perhaps Wiser

Compared with the start of the present decade, Minnesota residents as a whole are now healthier, wealthier and better educated, according to Minnesota Milestones 1998, a state assessment just released by the Minnesota Planning Office.

The report uses 70 indicators to determine whether the state has moved closer to 19 wide-ranging goals for its people, economy, community life, government and environment. Progress toward the health goal, for example, is gauged by such indicators as smoking, premature death and infant mortality.

Minnesota Milestones shows that Minnesota has outpaced the nation in economic growth and standard of living, has improved academic achievement, multiplied outdoor recreational opportunities, improved the health of its people and expanded support for those in need.

From 1990 to 1996, for example, Minnesota's economy grew by 22.5 percent (adjusted for inflation), compared to 14.5 percent for the United States. Minnesota median income has risen nine percent above the U.S. median.

Eighty-four percent of adult Minnesotans are employed—the highest rate in the nation. An estimated 28 percent of Minnesota adults had a four-year college degree in 1997—up from 22 percent in 1990.

More households (75 percent) own their own homes than in any other state. Teen pregnancy has fallen 17 percent since 1990. Infant mortality, adult smoking and urban air pollution are down and nearly two-thirds of Minnesotans report doing volunteer work. Nine out of 10 Minnesota residents report feeling safe all or most of the time and the rate of serious crime has declined slightly since 1992.

These are all considered positives in evaluating quality of life in our great state, but Minnesota Milestones would have us know that utopia has not yet been achieved. Things considered to be negative in the 19-point evaluation include:

• Rising stress on the state's lakes, rivers, forests and air quality due to strong economic growth, population growth and land development;

• Minnesotans are using more water and energy, driving more miles and generating more solid waste per person than they were in 1990;

• There is a sharp increase in the reports of runaway youths and child abuse is up slightly;

• Juvenile apprehensions for serious crimes are above the national rate;

• Fewer than half of the state's African American, Hispanic and American Indian students graduate from high school on time;

• Twice as many Minnesotans are using homeless shelters as there were in 1990;

• Unemployment rates in northern Minnesota persist at nearly five percentage points above the Twin Cities area.

This assessment gives Minnesota residents an idea of some of the problems which persist and that recognition hopefully will lead to finding solutions. Increasing quality of life will also depend on maintaining or increasing efforts in the areas where progress has been made.

It also seems that some of the goals may be in conflict—such as indicated in the suggestion that strong economic and population growth and land development creates stress on the state's lakes, rivers, forests and air quality. These are areas where we must be careful not to let a desire to resist change impede economic progress and development.

In general, the report is a positive one and Minnesotans can be proud of their state and its people.

Students: How Do You Want Your Information?

Every now and then we read a statement quoted in the news that leaves us totally bewildered by its content. Such was the case in the August 25 issue of the Grand Forks Herald, which reported on the student rally for University of North Dakota president Kendall Baker.

The article reported on resolutions passed by the university's student senate which were critical of action by the State Board of Higher Education. True, the reported 135 "students, faculty and staff" involved in a march in support of Baker involved just a small fraction of the UND students, but the action by the student senate must be viewed as an action on behalf of the student body.

The statement which left us agape was from a senior electrical engineering student who was quoted as saying: "The board should keep us informed of why he's resigning. We're the students, we think we should be informed."

Most people whose breath would still steam a mirror must have heard or seen at least something about Baker's multiple misdeeds over the past year or so. Anyone uninformed as to why he is resigning must confine his or her TV watching to sitcoms, radio listening to amplified bass and newspaper reading to the comics page or have spent the past year in Afghanistan.

So how would students like the board to have kept them informed? Come personally to their doors and invite themselves in for a couple of hours of chit-chat? Sending a letter probably wouldn't have sufficed, given the students' seeming inability to read or comprehend. If that seems like an unduly harsh criticism, so be it. Their statements don't suggest otherwise.

Kendall Baker probably has a terrific personality and relates well to the students. He may be a faculty member's president and devoted to young people. That all would be in his favor. But the Board of Higher Education could hardly overlook the president's major financial shuffling to cover extensive deficits in several departments over a lengthy period of time. Trust of the board in its president has eroded to the point where the credibility gap is wider than the English Coulee in the 1997 flood. That is not a healthy—even tolerable—situation.

The board treated Baker more than fairly in allowing his resignation as of next June and agreeing to pay him an additional $170,000-plus in the following year's salary and benefits despite his absence. In a way, this seems to be rewarding incompetence or at least insubordination, but it is probably warranted.

As for student wails about not being informed, get a clue, folks. Open your eyes and ears. Look around. Pay attention. Show some maturity.

"....we think we should be informed."

Geez!

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I am addressing this letter to the editor and asking that it be published only because I do not know the name of the person or persons who should receive it. I am writing in the hope that the responsible individuals might happen to read this.

We lost our son one year ago today. During this last year we have gone through many different emotions. We have dealt with all of the "firsts" without him, like the first birthday, the first Christmas, the first Easter, etc. These things are hard to do but we did so with the love and support of wonderful family members and great friends, and for those people we can not be grateful enough.

Some people, however, are not so kind and caring. During this last year of mourning the loss of our son, we have also had to put up with small-minded people whose whispers were not quite soft enough when we would enter a public place, as well as with rumors from people who didn't know the facts. As most of us know, fiction makes for much juicier gossip. Even these things could be overlooked because, sad to say, it is just human nature.

When I stated before that not everyone is so kind, there are also those who can be very cruel. Shortly after our son's death we started receiving phone calls, sometimes many times a day. The person calling would say things like "he's not really dead" or sometimes would say nothing at all. A few times he even went so far as to pretend that he was our son.

These calls had to come from someone who knew we did not view our son's body and that these phone calls would torment us. Some time after the first of the year whoever was responsible for these calls finally tired of this sick joke and the calls stopped.

Today, on the first anniversary of our son's death, we went to visit his grave only to find that it had been trampled, with beer cans and cigarette butts left behind.

I was brought up to believe that when you went to visit a grave you went to pay your respects, not to party. Instead of being there with the memories of our son, we were left to clean while our minds were filled with anger and bitter thoughts that such sick, disrespectful people exist.

To have others wanting to visit your loved one's grave is an honor, but we should keep in mind to respect the dead as well as the living. For these things I am not seeking sympathy, nor am I seeking revenge. I am a firm believer in "what goes around, comes around" and that we all eventually get recognized for our good deeds as well as our bad ones.

I hope the person or persons responsible read this and think how they would feel if the tables were turned and their families were left behind to pick up the pieces with obstacles that cruel people such as themselves put in the way.

My thanks to the editor for publishing this letter.

Sincerely,
Pam Halvorson

Classes for child care providers offered by NCTC

Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls is offering Project Exceptional classes for child care providers, early childhood educators, social service providers, and family members of young children with disabilities in Minnesota.

Living with Disability: The Family Perspective is being offered September 15 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Roseau High School, room D7. The cost is $10 per session.

Highlighting in this workshop are unique issues that families of young children with disabilities face when looking for child care. The similarity of needs of families with or without children who have disabilities is a primary theme. Emphasis is placed on the uniqueness of individual family members and diversity of families in general. Normal emotional reactions a parent may experience upon learning of their child's disabilities are reviewed. The caregiver role in providing services to families is examined.

Care-Giving Strategies: Building Resilience In Children at Risk is being offered September 22 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Mahnomen High school. The session costs $10.

A framework from which to view child behavior and the role of the caregiver is the primary theme of this workshop. Included are practical suggestions for providers which support positive and nurturing care to young children who are demonstrating "at risk" behaviors. Tips to assist providers in better understanding stresses young children must cope with and how behaviors are influence.

Family/Caregiver Partnership is being offered September 29, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Ada Elementary (art room). The session costs $10.

Essential to all successful child care placements, this workshop stresses the importance of quality relationship building. Tips for keeping communication open and ongoing is a primary emphasis. Suggestions are presented for how providers can assist families of children with exceptional care needs.

For more information and to pre-register please call Custom Training and Continuing Education at Northland Community and Technical College at 218-681-0793 or 1-800-959-6282.

Plummer Mayor to not run for re-election

Plummer Mayor John A. Helley Sr., has notified the Plummer City Council that he does not intend to run for re-election in 1998. In a letter that was also addressed to the Red Lake Falls Gazette and the Thief River Falls Times, Helley explains that his decision was based on family medical problems.

The following letter written by Helley explains the circumstances:

"1. It is with Personal disappointment that I have decided not to file for re-election at the subject elections. My decision is based on family medical problems which distract from my not being able to make the commitment which I feel is necessary to effectively be productive as mayor the next two years.

"2. I would like to thank the city council for their support and especially the city clerk for her tutor and mentorship while I served as mayor. I sincerely feel a great deal of progress has taken place as a result of the city council work, other community leaders and our citizens working together. I also have enjoyed working with other elected Red Lake County officials and volunteers which has made my last four years a learning experience and most rewarding.

"3. Hopefully, I can return to community and county service in the future. For now I just cannot make the commitment.

"4. I would like to thank all the citizens that voted for me and I hope I have not disappointed you.

"5. My immediate plans are medical support to my family and fulfill the request of my children and grandchildren to write two books. The first is a total family genealogy of seven generations and the second a history of Circa 1850 family pioneers and early first settlers to: 1) Henderson, MN, Faddens, 2) Twin Valley, Helle/Helley; 3) Warren, Holmgren's and 4) Grand Forks, Faddens.

"Yours in academics, athletics, Americanism and community service,

John A. Helley, Sr."

Northland band begins rehearsals on September 14

Northland Community Band is scheduled to begin rehearsals on Monday, September 14, and each following Monday as they prepare for the Autumn Musicale scheduled to be held on November 10, 1998. According to Band Director Les Torgerson, Dr. Mark Whitlock from the University of Minnesota Duluth, has been secured as the guest conductor for the concert.

"The band will share the evening program with the Northland Area High School Honor Band which will be selected in the near future," said Torgerson who is entering his 27th season of directing the band.

The band, jointly sponsored by the City of Thief River Falls and Northland Community and Technical College recently returned from a successful South Pacific tour where they were awarded the highest honor, a Gold Award, for their performance in the Sydney Opera House during the Ninth Annual International Music Festival.

According to Torgerson, "This is an excellent time for new members to join. There is no generation gap in the band as players range in age from teens to the seventies."

Members are selected by audition and come from throughout northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota. Repertoire from all band literature is selected with Sousa marches, Hollywood film scores and concert overtures represented. For those who would like additional information, contact Les Torgerson at 218-681-0733 or 218-681-6057.

Congressman Peterson holds meeting in RLF

Congressman Collin C. Peterson will hold an Agriculture Town Hall meeting next week in Red Lake Falls to discuss the status of Federal disaster aid.

The meeting will be held 1 p.m. Wednesday, September 2, at Red Lake Falls City Hall.

Peterson plans to discuss the agriculture disaster and plans currently being considered by Congress.

THE LYON'S SHARE

What's On Your Mind?

I fished shallow last week. No, not shallow in a relative sense, like 14-18 feet, but shallow like 4-8 feet of water. And not on top of the shallow rock reefs in 4-8 feet; that would be "fishing the tops" and shouldn't be confused with fishing shallow. I'm talking about shallow sand and shallow weeds, the kind of stuff that would drive a Mille Lacs fisherman crazy in August. Good action, good size. Fishing that gets even reluctant customers to book in again for next year.

Will those fish still be there by the time you read this? Probably not, although this has been an unprecedented summer throughout and anything is possible.

The question I'm pursuing, however, has to do with how I knew those fish would be there in the first place. What would lead me to even try such structure during a calm, muggy, 90-degree, late summer stretch? There are certainly guys out there with enough fishing savvy to go in that shallow direction with no prodding from any source other than themselves. I'm good, but not that good. I asked.

I guided out of Borderview last week. Mike, the owner, is not an "old timer;" in fact, he's not much older than I am. But I defer to his seniority each day I work there as I politely ask him some innocuous, advice seeking question as I pass him in the lodge on my way to the dock:

What should I buy my wife for her birthday? To which religion should I introduce my children? Would I look good with purple hair?

I generally slip his answers quietly between the dock slats before even boarding my launch and let them drift away northward on the current. I don't actually take his advice. I said I was polite, not indulgent.

"Where would you drop a line today, Mike?" I inquired the other morning as I lugged my lunch cooler through the lodge. Mike guided quite a bit on the lake before reson responsibilities demanded he stay ashore more frequently, and a question directed at the fishery seemed appropriate.

"Fish in front of Pine in about six feet of water," he directed without hesitation, not even glancing up from his desk. I nodded respectfully and hurried outside, anxious to share such a frivolous notion with the other guides. It was a good thing I'd already formulated a game plan for the day—the same plan that had been reasonably successful for three consecutive weeks—fishing over mud in 35 feet of water. Mike was probably just daydreaming about the "good ol' days." Somebody better tell him it's August.

It was a surprisingly tough day, filled mostly with small saugers. The weather system hadn't changed markedly, offering little evidence for our limited success, but by 3 p.m., having run a diverse path across the usual haunts, something different was necessary.

"Well, let's make at least one person happy," I suggested sarcastically to my disgruntled group of fishermen. I expected vindication, not fish. Mike had, however innocently, opened himself up to taking some responsibility for my present struggle. I'd be a fool to turn him down. "We're going to fish the owner's spot," I added, with a roll of my eyes, and we headed south to Pine Island.

An hour and a half and 30 walleyes later I was scrambling for any crumb of credit I could muster. Too late. I was now just a boat driver. The fishing braintrust was still ashore.

Now don't miss the point here. Mike is not necessarily a fishing genius. There are many people around this lake who would have told me (or you) to fish shallow in late August under those conditions. The point is that somewhere in his head was a subtly shaded mathematical equation that processed weather, time of year, fish patterns, even the redundant nature of the guest list, to arrive at fishing off Pine in a sandy six-foot depth.

I didn't call Mike up the night prior and ask him to mull over the options, and his response when queried that morning was nothing short of spontaneous. Like a dog who habitually turns his head at the same bush a rabbit ran under two years ago, it was an instinctive reaction. And in that "shoot from the hip" approach was our fishing success that day.

Maybe Mike's a heck of a lot better fisherman than I give him credit for. Maybe he's just plain lucky. Either way, I'm more inclined to ask his fishing advice these days and give less credence to my ego-inspired stubbornness.

I don't, however, bring up the subject of hair color with him any more.

Happy "30th" Birthday!

Fran Johnson wins trap title

Johnson Steinhauer Molsted Kasprick Zak

Fran Johnson beat Al Steinhauer in a shoot-off Monday to win City Class Champion honors in the annual Thief River Falls Trap League city class championship shoot.

Champions were named in five classes, with the top-shooter picking up the City Class Champion title.

Johnson and Steinhauer both had a pair of perfect 25-target rounds during the regulation 50-bird shoot. Johnson then recorded a 24 and Steinhauer wound up with a 23 in a 25-target tie-breaking round.

Steinhauer was crowned Class AA champion. The other winners were Pat Molstad, Class A; Paul Kasprick, Class B; John Zak, Class C; and Marland Johnson, Class D.

Molstad and Howard Stowe both shot a 49 to tie atop the Class A standings, but Molstad won the shoot-off 22-18.

TRAP LEAGUE

Final night of regular season shooting in the Thief River Falls Trap League Monday netted post-season spots for the top four finishers in the Second Half point standings – Red Lake Falls, Eagles, Narverud Cleaners, and Johnson Quick-Set.

They will join the top four teams in the First Half point standings to form the city championship shoot Monday.

Northern State Bank, Old Guide Charters, Johnson Quick-Set, and Eagles were First Half qualifiers. Since the Eagles and Johnson Quick-Set were top-four finishers in both standings, the post-season field will be reduced from eight to six teams.

Girls open tennis season against Grand Rapids...

TRF looks for strong season

Thief River Falls swept the doubles matches and split in singles Wednesday en route to a 5-2 season-opening girls high school tennis win over visiting Grand Rapids.

It was the start to what coach Sylvia Sjoberg predicts will be a productive fall season for the Prowlers. "We look good," she said. "We have a strong line-up. The singles look strong this year, and we're always strong in doubles."

Freshman Heather Hanson and junior Jenny Kimball played a lot of tennis over the summer, pointed out Sjoberg, and start the season at No. 1 and No. 2 singles, respectively, for the Prowlers. Both opened with wins against the Thunderhawks, with Hanson taking a pair of tie-breakers in a 7-6, 7-6 victory and Kimball going three sets to win 7-5, 2-6, 7-5.

Wednesday's singles line-up also included junior Dede Dally, who lost two tie-breakers in a three-set defeat at No. 3, and freshman Beth Padilla at No. 4.

In doubles, the Prowlers return a veteran cast. Producing first-match wins were seniors Katie Harbott and Lesley Ihle at No. 1; juniors Jenni Gonsorowski and Rebecca Leach at No. 2, and seniors Toni LeMoine and Bridgette Stock at No. 3.

Others who could play varsity matches this fall include seniors Ann Gustafson and Andrea Olson, and junior Kara Skiple.

Sunny skies and warm temperatures greeted the Prowlers for the 1998 season opener Wednesday, but rain Thursday erased the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational that was to have included the Prowlers, Grand Rapids, East Grand Forks, Crookston, Bemidji, and Roseau.

The Prowlers are scheduled to join Crookston, Bemidji, Perham, East Grand Forks, Mahnomen, Park Rapids Area, Roseau, and Staple-Motley today (Saturday) for the Pirate Invitational in Crookston.

High school volleyball season starts Tuesday...

Prowlers expect good year

A veteran team will be on the floor Tuesday when Thief River Falls begins its 1998 high school volleyball season with a match at Crookston.

A ten-member varsity line-up listed by co-head coaches Amy Roche and Bruce Jean includes eight seniors, one junior and one sophomore.

Seniors Taya Hunt, Nicole Kopari, Laura Follett, and Lindsay Drury, along with junior Rachel Mathson, were either starters, or played extensively last fall as the Prowlers went 17-8-2. Senior Julie Martell is also a returning letter winner, while Rachel Greelis, Shelli Eriksen and Ruthie Balmer are seniors on the varsity for the first time.

"We've got a lot of experience," acknowledged Roche. "We hope to be as successful, if not more successful, than we were last year."

The Prowlers should be solid both offensively and defensively this fall, according to Roche. "We're a very hard-hitting team," she noted. "We've got good height and good power. We've got good players in the back row, too. Laura, Julie and Taya are all very good defensive players."

The large group of players in grades 10-12 out for volleyball this fall also includes juniors Katie Jorde, Kim Almquist, Keli Waterworth, Lisa Soneberg, Beth Carpenter, Brea Hammer, Reya Lamm, Ann Newton, Abby Austad, Heather Juhl, Amber Morkrid, Jamie Swanson, Melissa Hjelle, and Shanon Langlie, along with sophomores Ayla Donlin, Katy Hook, Teri Krogstad, Kylie Rogalla, Erin Rundell, Connie Morris, Carisa Larson, Leslie Kraft, Anna Stusynski, Kelsey Liden, Sara Jensen, Lisa Joppru, Jenny Koch, Melissa Adamson, Amy Christianson, Cassie Jones, Lindsey Nordhagen, Lindsey Cedergren, and Jessi Heieren.

Thief River Falls will make its home debut Thursday when the Prowlers host Stephen-Argyle.

"We're excited," said Roche. "We should be competitive."

TRF team heads to state

Tony Dorn-Fitness Center of Thief River Falls is in Shakopee this weekend to compete in the 1998 Minnesota Class C women's state slow pitch softball tournament.

The team, after a second place finish in regular season Thief River Falls league play and a runner-up finish in the city tournament, came up with a third place showing at the District 7 tournament Aug. 15-16 in Hoyt Lakes to earn a state meet spot.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Jennifer Olin earns honors

Jennifer Olin of Thief River Falls, a diver on the University of North Dakota women's swim team, was recently honored as an Academic All-America selection by the College Swim Coaches Association of America.

Olin, a junior elementary education major, earned a 3.60 grade point average for the 1998 spring semester.

TRF boys have strong team

■ Cross country season begins Tuesday

Individually and team-wise, Thief River Falls girls have enjoyed more high school cross country success than the boys in recent years. But that will change this fall. The boys will be the headline-producers in 1998, according to Prowlers head coach Terri Ueland.

"Our boys will be strong this year," she said. "If they work hard, they can have a good year. For the first time, they might have some success."

The girls, meanwhile, will fight a battle with low numbers. "We've always had good girls teams," noted Ueland. "We've never had to scrounge for runners before, but this year, we're low on numbers."

Juniors Seth Harlow and Brady Anderson lead the boys, with senior Matt Koehmstedt staying close to the front-runners. Harlow, pointed out Ueland, could be a consistent top-ten place finisher in most of the meets this year.

Senior Jill Panek and freshman Jacki Mooney will lead the Thief River Falls girls.

Rest of the boys reporting for early-season drills include junior Zach Bosh, sophomores Nick Nelson, Dewey Worker and Chad Borneman; freshmen Tyler Bosh, Andre' Thibodeau, and Chris Swanson; eighth graders Ben Worker and Jonathan Walrath, plus seventh graders Jesse Sich and Tanner Harlow.

Others running with the girls are senior Diana Hofstad, juniors Lisa McKercher and Emily Mugaas, along with freshmen Janae Harlow and Rebekah Solem.

Harlow and Zach Bosh serve as captains for the boys. Panek and Hofstad are captains of the girls.

Thief River Falls will open the 1998 season Tuesday in the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Invitational at Old Mill State Park.

TRF football...

Four players are named captains of football team

Wade Chiodo, Levi Kraft, Matt Myers, and Treavor Peterson have been named captains of Thief River Falls' 1998 high school football team, it was announced this week by head coach Jeff Mumm following a vote of team members.

Results of the Prowlers' annual Ironman Test conditioning drills that traditionally open the start of preseason drills for players in grades 10-12 were also announced. Top point-producers in the six-test competition for each grade include: Chiodo, senior back; Garrett Novak, senior lineman; Nick Drees, junior back; Tim Hruby, junior lineman; Brian Loe, sophomore back; Nathan Sorvig, sophomore lineman.

The Prowlers are playing host to the 26th annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Pigskin Preview today (Saturday). The scrimmage match-ups will feature varsity and junior varsity teams from Bemidji, East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls at 10 a.m., Badger/Greenbush-Middle River, Bagley, Fertile-Beltrami, Lake of the Woods, Red Lake Falls, Roseau, and Warren-Alvarado-Oslo at 1 p.m.

A meal – hamburgers, chips, ice cream, cookies, soft drink – will be part of of the Pigskin Preview package. Tickets are $4 for adults and $3 for students.

The Prowlers open the 1998 schedule Saturday, Sept. 5, with a 1 p.m. game at Washburn, WI. Their first home game will be Friday, Sept. 11, vs Detroit Lakes.

Women's volleyball league meeting planned Thursday

Thief River Falls Women's Volleyball League informational meeting will be held Thursday, Sept. 3, at 6:30 p.m. in the city auditorium basement. The season is scheduled to start Sept. 15.

Miller enlists in navy under delayed entry

Holly Miller, a senior at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls for the 1998-99 school term, recently qualified and enlisted in the United States Navy under the delayed entry program.

The daughter of LaVonne Miller of St. Hilaire and Dewayne Miller of Fertile, Holly will finish high school and then report to Great Lakes, IL, for active duty in July of 1999.

Following basic training, Miller will begin training to prepare for a job in the navy's advanced electronics computer field. This field offers extensive training in all aspects of electronics, including computer systems, radars, communications systems and weapons fire control systems such as the navy's advanced missile system, Aegis.

After successfully completing her advanced training, he may go on to additional schooling or be assigned to any one of the navy's duty stations around the world.

Swim season opens with Tuesday outing

Last year, the Thief River Falls girls had one senior on its high school swimming team. This fall, the number is zero.

However, the Prowlers still feature a veteran squad, featuring seven returning letter winners – juniors Julie Chrzanowski, Lindsay Ehrenstrom, Kristin Naplin, Andrea Olin, Andrea Sorvig, and Jennifer Sorvig; sophomore Ashley Hammer; and freshman Chelsea Haviland.

The Shon Thompson-coached Prowlers, 4-8 in dual meet competition a year ago, will open the 1998 season with a Tuesday dual vs. Fosston/Bagley at Fosston. They will host Fergus Falls Thursday.

Haviland is the Prowlers' most recognizable performer. She won the Section 8A diving title last year as an eighth grader and went on to place second in the Class A state meet. She's also enjoyed success on a national level during summer AAU competition.

Rest of the team members include sophomore Amy Rominski; freshmen Alicia Borneman, Amanda Bottem, Allisa Holmaas, Jenny Lindquist, Marguerite Nelson, and Lisa Peterson; eighth graders Brittany Haviland, Jennifer Heaton, Michelle Johnson, Ruchi Patel, and Tiffany Sorenson; seventh graders Carli Cota, Tami Dowers, Adrianne Erickson, Cami Hendrickson, Kendra Mooney, and Danielle Sorvig, along with sixth graders Jenna Dillon, Ashley Read and Alison Rominski.

Warroad receives grant to start up girls hockey

City of Warroad was one of the recipients as the Minnesota Amateur Sports Commission awarded 59 grants, totaling $384,050, as part of the Mighty Kids youth sport grant program at its Aug. 24 meeting. The grants were awarded to organizations that promote before school, after school, and non-school hours recreational youth sport activities. Warroad received $13,500 to form a girls hockey program.

The grants, up to a maximum of $20,000, were awarded to state agencies, counties, cities or school districts. Non-profit organizations were also allowed to apply, with the sponsorship of a local government unit. Grants of more than $2,500 require a match from non-state sources.

A total of 104 applications, totaling $1,168,869, were received.

This is the second and final round of Mighty Kids grant awards. The program was created through an $800,000 appropriation by the 1997 Minnesota Legislature. The first round of grants were awarded in January of 1998. The program plans to seek funding for a continuation of the Mighty Kids grant awards when the 1999 Legislature convenes.

Criteria used in awarding the grants include: 1) increasing the number of participating youth; 2) increasing the athletic skills of the participating youth; 3) making a positive impact on academic achievement and school attendance; 4) making a positive impact on the social skills of participants; 5) contributing to a reduction in juvenile crime; 6) encouraging partnerships within communities.

Some of the grants that were approved included:

■ Kids First drop-in site, cooperatively administered by the City of Owatonna and ISD 761.

■ New girls hockey programs in the cities of Luverne, Warroad and Windom.

■ Comprehensive youth sports program in Brooklyn Park that will include intramural sports, adaptive sports, and cultural arts.

■ St. Paul inner-city youth soccer program jointly operated with the Minnesota Thunder pro soccer team.

■ Sailing instructional program for inner-city youth, jointly administered by the YMCA, University of Minnesota, and the Wayzata Yacht Club.

■ City of Minnesota girls golf instructional program.

■ Expansion of a youth gymnastics program in Detroit Lakes.

■ Youth skate parks in Virginia and Ely.

Northland, Central Lakes square off today at 5 p.m.

A 5 p.m. kickoff is scheduled today (Saturday) at Prowler Field as the Northland Community and Technical College football team opens its 1998 season against Central Lakes.

The Pioneers were 2-6 a year ago, including a 2-2 finish in the Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division. Central Lakes was 5-3 last fall, 2-2 in the MCCC Southern Division. Both teams lost in the state playoff semifinals, with the Pioneers falling to Rochester 47-7 and the Raiders losing to Vermilion 33-27 in overtime. Rochester then beat Vermilion 49-10 in the title game.

Central Lakes returns eight starters and four MCCC All-Southern Division players from last year's team: tight end Travis Headley (McGregor), defensive backs Darwin McGrane (Verndale) and Chris Winkleman (Foley), and linebacker Jake Miller (Foley).

Dan Willoughby will be making his head coaching debut for the Pioneers after taking over the reigns from Gene Klinke.

Region I Dairy Princess becomes Princess Kay

Jenny Kinnunen of Menahga, who was crowned Northwest Dairy Princess in Thief River Falls on June 13, was crowned Princess Kay of the Milky Way Wednesday evening, August 26, at the Minnesota State Fairgrounds in St. Paul.

Jenny is the fifth Region I Dairy Princess to wear the state Princess Kay crown. Others were Diane Schroeder of Rindal, a Norman county contestant, in 1958; Kathleen Hjelle of Argyle, a Marshall county contestant, in 1962; Gayle Krogstad of Ada, a Norman county contestant, in 1970, and Stephanie Dickey of Leonard, a Clearwater county contestant in 1985.

Gayle Krogstad went on to become American Dairy Princess, the only Region I Princess to win national honors.

With Jenny's selection as Princess Kay, the Region I title will fall to Tricia Waggoner of Bagley, who was first runner-up in the regional contest held at the Best Western Inn June 13. Second runner-up Amanda Aakre of Hawley, who was second runner-up, is also expected to share in some of the public appearance duties on a regional level.

Jenny received her crown in St. Paul from Kari Skiba of North Branch, who was reigning Princess Kay and also participated in the regional contest in Thief River Falls. At age 18, Miss Kinnunen is one of the youngest winners in recent years, graduating from Menahga high school this spring.

She is the daughter of Melvin and Ruth Ann Kinnunen and has an older brother, Mike, 22 and younger sister, Kristine, 15. At the Wadena county dairy princess contest this year she was selected as first runner-up.

The Kinnunens milk 55 to 60 head of grade Holsteins on the farm where they live and where Jenny's father was raised. The herd has an average production of about 18,500 pounds of milk, 750 pounds of butterfat and 650 pounds of protein.

In her high school Jenny was involved in most activities, earning a State Farmer degree in the Future Farmers of America program and placing first in the state dairy placement proficiency competition. She also participated in the national FFA convention as a junior when she was chapter reporter.

She served as secretary, treasurer, vice president and president of the Pine Cone 4-H club where she was a member from the age of seven. She also served as Region 2 vice president of the FFA and Region 9 treasurer of Future Leaders of America as well as vice president and president of the Menahga chapter of the National Honor Society.

A few weeks following her Region I coronation, she returned to Thief River Falls to participate in Northwest Dairy Day as a part of An American Festival. She was introduced at the Miss Thief River Falls pageant and rode in the American Festival parade.

Following her coronation as Princess Kay she will be involved in many activities at the Minnesota State Fair. She will also be called upon throughout the year to represent the state's dairy industry at a number of public events.

Norma Hanson of Goodridge, who serves on the board of the American Dairy Association/Dairy Council of the Upper Midwest and was in charge of arrangements for the Region I princess contest this year, was in St. Paul for much of the contest Wednesday but had to leave before the coronation to make plane connections.

Mrs. Hanson said she is very pleased about Jenny's selection as Princess Kay and proud of her representation of Region I. "It helps to show that our industry is still alive and that we have quality dairy people in northwest Minnesota," she said. "I know that Jenny believes in dairying and will do a great job representing the region and state's dairy industry where ever she goes."

State's small grain harvest nearly ended

Minnesota's small grain harvest is nearing completion despite warm, humid weather last week which produced rainfall averaging 1.43 inches across the state—the highest weekly total in the past eight weeks.

Harvesting of all small grains is ahead of the five-year average. Spring wheat is 91 percent harvested, well ahead of the five-year average of 40 percent. An estimated 97 percent of the barley and oat crops has been harvested, compared to 73 percent for oats and 53 percent for barley on the five-year average.

The state's corn crop continues to develop about two weeks ahead of normal. An average of 95 percent of the corn crop has reached the dough stage or beyond, which the five-year average is only 38 percent. Corn has also started denting on 52 percent of the acres, compared with seven percent for the five-year average and six percent last year.

Soybeans are turning yellow on five percent of the acreage, compared with three percent for the five-year average. White mold is beginning to show up in the southern areas of the state, where more rainfall has been received, while soybeans have lost some pods due to the lack of rainfall in the drier areas across central Minnesota.

Farmers to get early payment by Sept. 30th

Agricultural Market Transition Act program payments totaling $218,080,697 will be issued to 63,712 participating Minnesota farmers by September 30, according to Wally Sparby, state executive director of the federal Farm Service Agency.

Minnesota farmers had received $173,140,628 in advance payments for a total of $391,221,325 for fiscal year 1998.

Final payment was $290,040,110 for corn, $84,954,298 for wheat, $14,820,763 for barley, $1,987,276 for oats and $18,878 for grain sorghum.

In 1996 farmers enrolled their farms in the Agricultural Market Transition Act program by signing a seven-year contract. Annual payments are guaranteed for each of the seven years with declining rates in each of the final four years. This is the third year of the seven annual payments, Sparby said.

Minnesota farmers received about $467 million in Agricultural Market Transition Act payments in fiscal year 1997. The estimated total payments for fiscal year 1999 are $364 million. Congressional action allows for the payment of fiscal year 1999 payments beginning Oct. 1, 1998.

Lake Region farm labor averages $7.01 per hour

Hired farm workers in the Lake Region which includes Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin totaled 72,000 during mid-July, worked an average of 37.3 hours and earned an average of $7.01 per hour, according to the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service.

Employment was up three percent (2,000 workers) from the same survey period last year. Fifty-five percent of the workers are expected to be employed for 150 days or more during 1998.

Average hours worked was up 2.2 hours from a year ago. Average wage was up from the $6.72 reported in July of 1997 but down from $8.06 reported in a survey this past April. Field workers averaged $6.95 this July and livestock workers averaged $6.41. During the same survey period last year, field workers averaged $6.56 and livestock workers averaged $6.10.

Economist would regulate commercial fertilizer on the same basis as manure

"Manure is regulated, so why isn't commercial fertilizer?" asks Dick Levins, economist with the University of Minnesota Extension Service. "Regulating commercial fertilizer could be more equitable for livestock producers, help improve water quality and make regulations more enforceable."

Levins said that current feedlot regulations have the undesirable effect of making plant nutrients from manure less attractive to farmers than those from commercial fertilizer. And regulations discourage livestock production, which is a major source of economic activity for rural areas.

Thousands of livestock farms of all types and sizes are required to submit manure land application plans for approval," Levins wrote in a recent article in the Minnesota Agricultural Economist. The principal requirement of the plans is that manure nutrients be spread at "agronomic rates," which match plant nutrient requirements and nutrient applications so that excess nutrients levels don't affect water quality.

Approved plans must show that there are enough acres available to spread manure at agronomic rates.

"Enforcement problems are one reason we might want to look at other ways to regulate land application of manure," Levins says. "It's one thing to require feedlot operators to submit a plan, but quite another to ensure the plans are followed.

"Fairness is an even bigger problem. Farmers without livestock have the option to apply manure, which is heavily regulated, or commercial fertilizer, which isn't. Commercial fertilizer is easier to handle than manure and is less likely to draw nuisance complaints from neighbors.

"Yet if we want to have both an expanding livestock industry and high quality water," Levins adds, "farmers without livestock must somehow be induced to use the growing supply of livestock manure."

Levins said you don't have to be around a lot of farmers to predict the answer to the question, "Would you rather use commercial fertilizer without regulations or use manure and have the MPCA and other agencies looking over your fence?"

"Yet this is exactly the policy environment in which we are trying to encourage proper land application of manure. The incentives are wrong," the economist says.

He says a system that regulates feedlots indirectly by limiting the use of commercial fertilizer looks promising. Following is his outline of how such a system might work.

"When a livestock facility permit is applied for, a land application plan of the type now used would be developed. The extra commercial fertilizer needed for all land to which manure is to be applied would be determined. Operators of that land would be given rights to buy only that amount of commercial fertilizer.

"Such an approach would work best if all commercial sales were regulated to cover only agronomic rates. Each farmer would initially be permitted to buy enough commercial fertilizer to cover all crops at agronomic rates. But these amounts would later be lowered when manure permits came into play. The farmers would trade their commercial fertilizer rights for nutrients from manure," Levins says.

"A system like this would level the playing field for livestock producers and is possibly more enforceable than current regulations," Levins adds.

He says there's another important reason to consider such a system.

"Some studies have shown that nitrogen leaching can be a serious problem even when agronomic rates are followed. Significant improvement in water quality may require nutrients applications rates that are lower. A comprehensive nutrient management system would then not only be desirable, it would be necessary," Levins said.

Levins can be reached at (612) 625-5238. He is a member of the faculty of the College of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Sciences.

Educator says dairying is changing, not dying

(Editor's Note: The following commentary is from Dave Kjome, southeast Minnesota dairy educator with the University of Minnesota Extension Service. Kjome grew up on a dairy farm and has a master of science degree in dairy farm management from Michigan State University. He has judged dairy cattle at several national shows and at international shows in Columbia, Brazil and Australia and has been involved in dairy education for 28 years with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.)

We often hear the statement around dairy circles that nobody is getting into dairying today. We all hear and read of the "aging" dairy farmer and losses of dairy farms in the upper Midwest.

The sense of mortality and gloom that often accompanies such statements contrasts with what I often see in travels and educational contacts. I see real excitement and activity in the dairy industry today in the younger generation—the individuals and couples ages 25 to 40. These are the people hungry for dairy information and wanting to meet the changes and challenges in the dairy industry. They are equipped, prepared and willing to grasp the opportunities that lie ahead for them in the 21st Century.

There have been many changes in agriculture and the dairy industry in the past three decades, fueled by computerization and technology innovations. Some changes have helped dairy producers, while others may not have been very beneficial.

However, time has a way of changing any industry and an industry cannot remain static if it is to stay viable and provide opportunity for those in it.

As we age, it is human nature for us to look back and reminisce about the good old days. Often it is said, "Oh, if we could just return to the good old days." When were the good old days? If we think seriously about it, were they really the good times?

Life on this earth is not designed for the past. The anticipation and excitement for all of us, especially the young, is in today and tomorrow, not yesterday. It is the younger dairy generation which makes life exciting for people such as me in my late career. The young keep me challenged and invigorated!

Yes, it takes moms and dads, capital, commitment and energy of the brain and body to be in the dairy industry today and tomorrow. However, it is refreshing and encouraging to see young people choosing dairying as the vocation for themselves and their families. The dairy industry is not dying—it is merely changing.

It's time that we in the seasoned generation come to meet this younger generation on their turf and begin to understand and appreciate their business and family goals. A pat on the back and a word of encouragement to these young dairy families is possibly the greatest gift we can offer them—and it won't cost any of us one red cent. I, for one, am most appreciative of what they have taught and offered me.

Johnston herd leads DHIA report for month of June

Dairy herd of Todd and Jay Johnston of Angus led the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Association for the month of June, according to Randy and Margaret Rasmussen, supervisors.

Eighty-eight percent of the Johnstons' 68 cow herd was in milk during the month and the herd averaged daily production of 73 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of butterfat and 2.3 pounds of protein.

In second place was the small cow herd of the University of Minnesota's Northwest Experiment Station at Crookston. The 54-cow herd, 91 percent of which was in milk, averaged 70 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of butterfat and 2.2 pounds of protein.

Tom and Diane Kolstoe had the third-place herd with 100 percent of the 42-cow herd in milk and averaging 69 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of butterfat and 2.1 pounds of protein.

Large cow herd at the Northwest Experiment Station was in fourth place with 90 percent of the 51-cow herd in milk and averaging 67 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of butterfat and 2.1 pounds of protein.

In fifth place was the Walter Bros. Farm at Plummer with 85 percent of the 239-cow herd in milk and averaging 64 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of butterfat and 2.0 pounds of protein.

Other herds in the top 15 in the association include the following with the name of the farm, number of cows in the herd, percentage in milk and pounds of milk, butterfat and protein listed respectively.

Wayne Vettleson (herd milked three times a day), 143, 84%, 62, 2.4 and 1.9; Steve Nelson, 59, 93%, 62, 2.4 and 1.9; Excel Dairy (herd milked three times a day), 1,108, 90%, 62, 2.1 and 1.9; Kevin and Beth Roppe, 47, 87%, 62, 2.0 and 1.8; and Warren Malwitz Dairy (herd milked three times a day) 98, 90%, 62, 1.6 and 1.9.

Also Tom Willett, 53, 87%, 60, 2.0 and 1.8, Wayne Nelson, 42, 83%, 58, 2.0 and 1.8; Lowell Smeby, 43, 93%, 57, 1.9 and 1.8; David Oslund, 247, 86%, 57, 1.8 and 1.8; and Weiss Farms, 42, 88%, 57, 1.7 and 1.7.

Because production is averaged over the entire herd, the number of dry cows will adversely affect the average. Averaging is done to give the dairy producer a record of the herd's earning power for the month.

15 factors contribute to low wheat prices

Today's low wheat market prices can be attributed to 15 causes, according to Chuck Merja, Montana wheat producer and past president of the National Association of Wheat Growers, as quoted in the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers Small Grains Update. He lists the causes as follows:

(1) Highest privately-held wheat carryout in history.

(2) About two million bushels of imports at the same time.

(3) European Union direct export subsidies going unanswered, thereby allowing EU to maintain its market share (highest cost producer of major exporters is increasing market share).

(4) Failure of Congress to adequately fund, and USDA to use, all the export tools agreed to in GATT and the 1996 farm bill, leaving wheat farmers to compete as individuals with other governments' treasuries.

(5) Lingering disease problems.

(6) CRP bids that attract highly productive land, instead of marginal land.

(7) Congress' unwillingness to provide a reasonable safety net to help farmers until the trade table is truly level.

(8) De facto and direct embargoes—USSR was our biggest customer prior to the 1980 embargo. Iraq was sixth when we embargoed them, Pakistan is third (and first in white wheat) as we embargo them. We aren't allowed to do business in 11 percent of the world's wheat market.

(9) Declining market share over 25 years—lowest market share in modern history;

(10) Major competitors all have some government or quasi-government selling equity.

(11) Strong U.S. dollar.

(12) Projections of nearly a billion bushel carryout for the 1998-99 crop year.

(13) Asian economic downturn.

(14) West coast loadings 40 percent of 1997.

(15) While world stocks for 1998-99 are projected to go down nearly two percent from last year, the 1997-98 carryout was 24 percent higher than the prior year.

Crop insurance changes may help area farmers

Several improvements to the federal crop insurance program announced recently by the U.S. Department of Agriculture will provide some help to producers in northwest Minnesota, according to Congressman Collin Peterson of Detroit Lakes.

Peterson said he was pleased that Secretary of Agriculture Glickman "has answered our call for help." He said the changes are a start, since farmers will have the option of buying additional protection. However, there are remaining issues that still need to be addressed, such as yield coverage protection during years of repeated disaster.

Peterson said the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) had approved three new initiatives at its meeting Tuesday, August 11. The new options designed to increase insurance protection are:

(1) Coverage levels increasing from 75 percent to 85 percent for spring wheat and barley in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota,

(2) Options to increase "yield floors" on spring wheat and barley from 80 percent up to 100 percent in the three states; and

(3) Authorizing an 85 percent spring wheat Income Protection pilot plan for all spring wheat only counties in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and a few counties in Montana. This pilot will allow FCIC to collect data and evaluate the program as a viable risk management tool.

"This is a good first step in making sure that farmers have real coverage," the congressman said. "I plan to continue to work with USDA to provide additional help wit the crop insurance program. Adequate risk protection is absolutely essential as we look for ways to address the current farm crisis in our area."

Peterson added that more detailed information should be available at local offices soon.

Cheapskate's Guide proves to be big hit with State Fairgoers

Best bargains, hidden deals and free stuff available at the 1998 Minnesota State Fair will be highlighted in Cheapskate's Guide to the Fair, available free at all State Fair information booths. The fair runs from August 27 through Labor Day, September 7.

This free publication, now in its third year, has proved to be a huge hit with fair visitors. For 1998, the guide will for the first time include food and beverage bargains including reduced prices, combination meal deals, sample portions and other specials.

The publication also lists where and when fair visitors can find free stuff from many of the State Fair's commercial exhibitors including shopping bags, calendars, drinking water, food samples, maps and recipes.

Also listed in the guide will be great deals available for a dollar or less. This category features a variety of bargains on food and beverages, tools and souvenirs.

Where to sign up for prize drawings will also be included in the guide. Among the scores of free prizes offered at the fair are a lawnmower, gas grill, rocking chair, one-hour massage, books, clothes and gift certificates for a variety of items from State Fair vendors.

The State Fair's bargain-hunting costumed character, Cheapskate the Chick, will appear daily at special events highlighting State Fair values. Cheapskate will also distribute prizes to lucky fair visitors, including coupons for free food and certificates for free officials State Fair merchandise.

Ross Dalzell has been promoted to manager of the SuperValu store in Thief River Falls. He is shown with store owner Pat Baxter of Roseau. The son of Rev. Floyd and the late Pearl Dalzell, formerly of Thief River Falls, Ross is a 1991 graduate of Lincoln high school, attended Northland Community and Technical College and Bemidji State University, and began his career in the grocery field as a carry-out worker at the downtown Hartz store. He had progressed at the Jubilee Foods and SuperValu store from midnight manager to grocery manager and assistant manager before being advanced to the manager position. Dalzell said the SuperValu store has 57 employees and is blessed with experienced and knowledgeable people as heads of all the departments. He said emphasis will be placed on customer service and the store will continue such things as its five percent senior discount on Tuesdays and free home delivery to those who are unable to shop on their own.

Also at 1:30 p.m. is the hole-in-one contest at the football field, sponsored by the Jaycees. Prizes are $100 for a hole-in-one or $50 for closest to the hole.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary will sponsor Bingo at 2 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Doug Nordhy will offer kiddie train rides at 2 p.m. and Grace Lutheran Church Sunday School and the Co-op Store will have games just north of the co-op.

A new event for the Fall Festival—motocross racing—will get underway at 4:30 p.m. at the course built south of the trailer court, about three blocks south of the Steak Knife III restaurant. Racers will register at 2:30 p.m. with hot laps starting at 3:30 p.m. The races are co-sponsored by the Fourtown Grygla Sportsman Club, Grygla Lions and the Grygla-Gatzke Jaycees.

Divisions include: Beginner micro-mini 50cc (ages 4-7); Advanced micro-mini 50cc (ages up to 10); 80cc Advanced, 80cc Beginner, 80cc Class C, 125cc Class A, 125cc Class B, 125cc Class C, 250cc Class A, 250cc Class B and 250cc Class C. Trophies will be awarded in each division with the concluding race a "Pro Dash for Cash."

"Pony Express" will provide music for the old-time dance from 6 to 9 p.m. at the community center. "Kid Hollywood and the Wild Coconuts" will play for a dance beginning at 9 p.m. at the arena while "Saddle Tramp" will be the featured band at Diamonds.

Lions club breakfast buffet will take place from 7 a.m. to 12 noon at the community center and a men's softball tournament will start at 9 a.m.

At 12 noon a horse show will begin at the Grygla arena north of the school, sponsored by the Jaycees. Entry fee will be $1 per event with a family fee of $30 for all members, all events, all day. Classes are offered for age eight years and younger; PeeWees, 9-12; Juniors, 13-17; Seniors, 18-30, and Over-The-Hill, 30 and older.

Twelve events include showmanship, western pleasure, western horsemanship, trail class, music in motion, egg and spoon, poles, surprise events, barrels, flag race, jumping figure eight and keyhole. Ribbon awards, high point trophies and participation ribbons will be given.

Rules are simple: Hats, boots and western attire required. Unruly horses and riders may be asked to leave. Riding outside of the area is in designated areas only. Have fun! If under 18 years, a parent's signature is required.

At 1:30 p.m., BMX bicycle racing will take place three blocks south of the Steak Knife III, on part of the motocross track, sponsored by the Jaycees.

Stumpf: Tobacco settlement should have health targets

"I agree with those who believe that since the tobacco lawsuit was brought for health reasons, the settlement money should be used to benefit the health of Minnesotans," states Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls.

Estimated at $6.1 billion in payments to the state over the next 25 years, the settlement is said to be the largest recovery in Minnesota history, the third largest in U.S. history and the highest state tobacco settlement thus far on a per capita basis.

"It includes a ban on marketing to children and an end to cigarette advertising on billboards, taxis, buses and bus stops," the senator said. "It will also end the sale in Minnesota of promotional merchandise that turns young people into walking cigarette ads and prohibits—nationwide—the payment of fees to movie makers in exchange for featuring cigarettes and smoking in films."

Stumpf points out that the decision on how the money will be used will be made by "the people of Minnesota, through our elected representatives." He said it is important to remember that the lawsuit was brought by the state to recover taxpayers' money.

"Taxpayer dollars have been spent over many years to provide health services to Minnesota's addicted smokers," he said. "These costs were borne in cases where Minnesotans with smoking-related health problems received benefits through Medical Assistance or MinnesotaCare, including cases where private insurance benefits had run out and the state stepped in to pay for ongoing medical care."

The legislature's goal should be the same as the stated goal of Blue Cross and Blue Shield in expending its settlement from the tobacco companies—"to save lives and improve health," the senator said.

"Current estimates indicate that smoking-related health problems kill over 6,000 Minnesotans per year," he said. "Thousands more develop smoking-related cancer, heart disease, asthma, bronchitis or emphysema. According to the Attorney General, cigarettes are responsible for over $513 million in health care costs per year in our state."

The settlement earmarks $102 million for a new smoking cessation fund to make one-stop smoking treatment available at no cost to every Minnesotan who wants to quit.

"It also calls for creation of an endowed non-profit foundation that will develop the world's largest and most comprehensive program to reduce teen smoking and fight the social and economic harm caused by cigarettes," Sen. Stumpf said. "Subject to legislative approval, the foundation would eventually oversee a trust fund of over $650 million to fund a counter-advertising campaign, classroom education, research and innovative prevention programs.

"In addition," he noted, "the tobacco industry will pay $10 million per year for the next 10 years into an account to fund research on how to prevent kids from starting to smoke and how to help smokers who want to kick the habit."

Stumpf went on to express some of his opinions on use of the tobacco settlement money:

"Given that these plans are already in place, we can afford to consider using part of the settlement proceeds for broader health-related purposes that may not be directly related to smoking. I don't believe the funds should be used for non-health care purposes like transportation or criminal justice needs, for example. But there are many ways beyond targeting smoking in which the settlement money could help make Minnesota a healthier state.

"Some ideas include making access to health insurance for all Minnesotans more affordable; improving the coverage available to working families who participate in MinnesotaCare; improving the rate of childhood immunizations; and providing more dollars for University of Minnesota medical research into a variety of diseases and conditions, like cardiovascular disease, birth defects, arthritis and cancer.

"On the tax side of the budget equation, we could consider cutting the existing tax on medical services, which funds the MinnesotaCare program. A portion of the tobacco settlement money could replace the funds from the MinnesotaCare tax. Although the legislature just cut the rate from two percent to 1.5 percent this last session, there is no reason the rate couldn't go even lower.

"Obviously, these health care proposals are not all smoking-related," Sen. Stumpf continued. "We need to help people who want to quit smoking and keep young people from starting in the first place. But we can and should also consider other ways in which we can improve the health of all Minnesotans, whether they smoke or not."

Stumpf encouraged Times readers to contact him with their opinions on how the tobacco settlement funds could best be used.

Entries in the contest must be no less than three minutes nor more than five minutes in length. Judging is done on the basis of the student's interpretation of the contest theme from an audio recording submitted by the student. A written essay script is needed in processing of the entry, but grammar, punctuation and spelling are not a part of the judging process. Point values are 20 points for delivery, 40 points for originality and 40 points for content.

Entrants are not to identify themselves within their written essay or their recorded audio cassette tape, but should clearly label these entries for identification. No sound other than the entrant's voice may be included on the tape and the entry must be the contestant's original work and a product of the contestant's own thinking.

In many instances, the Voice of Democracy contest is used as a classroom assignment in government, civics, history, English, debate or speech classes. Again this year the National Association of Secondary School Principals has placed the Voice of Democracy contest on its National Advisory List of Contests and Activities.

However, students are encouraged to enter on an individual basis if such classroom assignments are not issued. Students enrolled in a home study curriculum may participate. Not eligible are previous state winners, persons over the age of 19 and foreign exchange students.

"All state winners receive at least a $1,000 scholarship and a five-day trip to Washington, DC," says Vern Reierson, commander of Post 2793. "Additional benefits for student entrants, however, include increased self-confidence and poise, experience in polishing communication skills and the opportunity for self-expression."

Local contest deadline is November 1. For further information, contact VFW Post 2793 in Thief River Falls or call 681-1211.

Holmquist fund canisters to be turned in Sept. 4

Collection canisters for the Julie Holmquist family fund are to be turned in to local banks on Friday, September 4, according to Marilyn Nelson Brink, who has been coordinating the collection effort in Thief River Falls.

A fund-raiser for the family of the Hallock girl who disappeared July 29 while in-line skating and whose body was found near Lancaster August 20, will take place Sunday, September 6, at Borderview reson near Baudette. Public participation is encouraged.

Persons wishing to donate to the fund should make their donations prior to September 4. Business places where collection canisters are located are reminded to turn them in to their bank on September 4 so the funds collected can be included in the total at the September 6 benefit.

UMC professor is elected to board of Wildlife Society

Dan Svedarsky, Crookston, professor of Environmental and Natural Resources at the University of Minnesota, has been elected for a three-year term to represent Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Missouri on the national council of the Wildlife Society.

The society is the international organization of over 9,500 wildlife professionals comprised of university professors, agency heads, wildlife researchers and managers, personnel with private conservation organizations and private consultants. It meets quarterly and Svedarsky will attend the next meeting, which is the annual meeting, in September in Buffalo, New York.

In 1993 the society sponsored the first International Wildlife Congress in Costa Rica and is actively planning the second to be held in Godollo, Hungary, in 1999.

Svedarsky joined the Crookston campus of the University of Minnesota in 1969 and currently directs the environmental and natural resources program at the university campus. In 1997 he was the first Crookston campus recipient of the Horace T. Morse/Alumni Association Award for Undergraduate Education.

He has served as president and secretary of the North Central Section of the Wildlife Society, is a past president of the North American Wildlife Technology Association, past chair of the Prairie Grouse Technical Council, co-founder and past president of the Minnesota Prairie Chicken Society, and a former board member of the Minnesota Zoo.

Svedarsky has a joint appointment with the Northwest Experiment Station where he conducts research on wildlife and agriculture relationships. He has researched prairie chicken ecology and is currently studying the ecology of smaller tallgrass prairie birds in conjunction with the Northern Prairie Wildlife Research Center at Jamestown, ND, and the State University of New York at Syracuse.

He is also conducting a study with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and The Nature Conservancy on the use of fire and grazing in prairie restoration and management. With department colleague Phil Baird, he is evaluating propagation procedures for the native prairie plant Echinacea, which is currently one of the most popular herbal plants in America and in danger of being over-collected in the wild.

Svedarsky is also an adjunct professor at the University of North Dakota and North Dakota State University where he co-advises graduate students who usually work on his wildlife research projects in Minnesota.

Card of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to extend our thanks and appreciation for the expressions of thoughtfulness and kindness shown to us during the loss of our father, grandfather, great-grandfather and great-great grandfather Harland Lee Sr. Thanks to Pastor Roberta Johnson for her special message and all her visits during his illness. Thanks to OPNH for his care and to Dr. Lofgren. Thanks to the Grace Ladies Aid for serving that delicious lunch, and thanks to Joy and Marie for their beautiful music. A special thank you to Kristi for singing one of Grandpa's favorite gospel songs. Thanks to Green funeral home for being so kind and helpful.
The family of Harland P. Lee Sr.

THANK YOU
A special Thank You to everyone who made my 80th birthday party the success that it was; also many thanks for the cards and gifts. A special Thank You to the management and staff at Dee's Kitchen who made their facility available. A very special Thanks to those who worked and put the party together. I was touched.

Memorials

MEMORIAM
In memory of our mother, grandmother, great grandmother, Florence Borg who died August 30, 1997

Don't think of her as gone away her journeys just begun life holds so many facets this earth is only one
Just think of her as resting from the sorrows and the tears in a place of warmth and comfort where there are no days and years
Think how she must be wishing that we could know today how nothing but our sadness can really pass away.
And think of her as living in the hearts of those she touched for nothing loved is ever lost and she was loved so much.

Sadly missed by her family

CONDUCT ON SCHOOL BUSES AND CONSEQUENCES FOR MISBEHAVIOR

Riding the school bus is a privilege, not a right. Students are expected to follow the same behavioral standards while riding school buses as are expected on school property or at school activities, functions or events. All school rules are in effect while a student is riding the bus or at the bus stop. Consequences for school bus/bus stop misconduct will be imposed by the District Transportation Supervisor who will take the necessary disciplinary action. Parents and the building principal will be involved. All school bus/bus stop misconduct will initially be reported to the District's Transportation Safety Director and may be reported to local law enforcement.

A. School Bus And Bus Stop Rules. The School District school bus safety rules are to be posted on every bus. If those rules are broken, the School District's discipline procedures are to be followed. Consequences are progressive and may include suspension of bus privileges. It is the school bus driver's responsibility to report unacceptable behavior to the School District's Transportation Office.

B. Rules At The RURAL Bus Stops.
1. Get to your bus stop before your scheduled pick up time. The school bus driver will not wait for late students.
2. Respect the property of others while waiting at your bus stop.
3. Keep your arms, legs, and belongings to yourself.
4. Use appropriate language.
5. Stay away from the street, road or highway when waiting for the bus. Wait until the bus stops before approaching the bus.
6. After getting off the bus, move away from the bus.
7. If you must cross the roadway, always cross in front of the bus where the driver can see you. Wait for the driver's "all clear" signal before crossing the roadway.
8. No fighting, harassment, intimidation, or horseplay.
9. No use of alcohol, tobacco, or drugs.

C. Rules at the CITY Bus Stops.
1. Get to your bus stop during your scheduled pick up time. The school bus drive will not wait for late students.
2. Respect the property of others when waiting at your bus stop.
3. Keep your arms, legs, and belongings to yourself.
4. Use appropriate language.
5. Stay away from the street, road or highway when waiting for the bus. Wait until the bus stops before approaching the bus.
6. After getting off the bus, move away from the bus.
7. If you must cross the street/roadway you are to follow the instructions of the school bus driver or the crossing guard assigned to that bus stop.
8. No fighting, harassment, intimidation, or horseplay.
9. No use of alcohol, tobacco, or drugs.

D. Rules on the Bus.
1. Immediately follow the directions of the driver.
2. Sit in your seat facing forward.
3. Talk quietly and use appropriate language.
4. Keep all parts of your body inside the bus.
5. Keep your arms, legs, and belongings to yourself.
6. No fighting, harassment, intimidation, or horseplay.
7. Do not throw any objects.
8. It is prerogative of the bus driver whether or not eating food or drinking pop on the bus will be permitted.
9. Do not bring any weapon or dangerous object on the school bus.
10. Do not damage the school bus.
11. Bus Drivers may assign seats to students whenever they feel this will help maintain discipline and safety.
12. Do not save a seat for someone. An empty seat is for anyone who wants to sit down.

E. Consequences.
Consequences for school bus/bus stop misconduct will apply to all regular and late routes. Decisions regarding a student's ability to ride the bus in connection with co-curricular and extra-curricular events (for example, field trips or competitions) will be in the sole discretion of the School District. Parents or guardians will be notified of any suspension of bus privileges.
1. Elementary (K - 5)
1st offense — warning
2nd offense — 3 school day suspension from riding the bus
3rd offense — 5 school day suspension from riding the bus
4th offense — 10 school day suspension from riding the bus/meeting with parent.
Further offenses — individually considered. Students may be suspended for longer periods of time, including the remainder of the school year. NOTE: When a student goes 60 calendar days without a report the student's consequences may start over at the first offense.
2. Secondary (6-12).
1st offense — warning
2nd offense — 5 school day suspension from riding the bus
3rd offense — 10 school day suspension from riding the bus
4th offense — 20 school day suspension from riding the bus/meeting with parent
5th offense — suspended from riding the bus for the remainder of the school year
3. Other Discipline. Based on the severity of a student's conduct, more serious consequences may be imposed at any time. Depending on the nature of the offense, consequences such as suspension or expulsion from school may also result from school bus/bus stop misconduct.
4. Records. Records of school bus/bus stop misconduct will be forwarded to the individual school building and will be retained in the same manner as other student discipline records. Reports of serious misconduct will be provided to the Department of Public Safety. Records will also be maintained in the transportation office.
5. Vandalism/Bus Damage. Students damaging school buses will be responsible for the damages. Failure to pay such damages (or make arrangements to pay) within two weeks may result in the loss of bus privileges until damages are paid.
6. Notice. Students will be given a copy of school bus and bus stop rules during school bus safety training. Rules are to be posted on each bus and both rules and consequences will be periodically reviewed with students by the driver.
7. Criminal Conduct. In cases involving criminal conduct (for example assault, weapons, possession or vandalism), the Superintendent, local law enforcement officials and the Department of Public Safety will be informed.

PARENT AND GUARDIAN INVOLVEMENT

A. Parent/Guardian Responsibilities for Transportation Safety
1. Become familiar with District rules and policies, regulations and principles of school bus safety.
2. Assist students in understanding safety rules and encourage them to abide by them.
3. Recognize their responsibilities for the actions of their students.
4. Support safe riding practices and reasonable discipline efforts.
5. When appropriate, assist students in safely crossing local streets before boarding and after leaving the bus.
6. Support procedures for emergency evacuation, and procedures in emergencies as set up by the School District.
7. Respect the rights and privileges of others.
8. Communicate safety concerns to school administrators.
9. Monitor bus stops, if possible.
10. Support all efforts to improve school bus safety.
11. Notify the bus driver if you know your student will not be riding that night or the next morning.

B. Parent and Guardian Notification.
A copy of the School District school bus and bus stop rules will be provided to each family at the beginning of the school year or when a child enrolls, if this occurs during the school year. Parents and guardians are asked to review the rules with their students.

SPECIAL NOTE: The Transportation Office needs a signed "Child Care Transportation Request Form" prior to school starting, from parents of any child who needs transportation to or from a Day Care Center. The forms are available at the Transportation Office or any Elementary School.

Special Education and Afternoon Kindergarten students will be notified by phone of their pick up times.

McIntosh Memory Walk scheduled for Sat., October 3

McIntosh - Area residents will walk to raise awareness and money for Alzheimer's disease in McIntosh on Saturday, October 3.

The event is being held under the auspices of the Alzheimer's Association West Central Minnesota which has an office in Fergus Falls. Over 70,000 people in Minnesota have Alzheimer's disease. As the population ages, the association said more people will be diagnosed with the disease unless a cure or prevention is found. The Thirteen Towns

Housing prices in Alexandria up

Alexandria - Housing prices in the Alexandria area have taken a big jump in the past year with the average sale price up nearly $12,000.

As of June 1997 the average sale price of a residential home in the area was $67,600. Now the average is closer to $79,500, and houses are selling faster. Echo Press

Bottled water plant to be built at Red Lake

Redlake - Some day soon, the Red Lake Band of Chippewa may be known for something more than its walleye and wild rice.

Joining the ranks of the trendy who like bottled water, the Red Lake Nation hopes to market its crystal-clear water to the nation.

Work is slated to begin this month to build a water bottling and ice plant near the water tower in Redby, drawing upon the reservation's vast underground aquifer for water. The Pioneer

Flood wall to cost less than expected

East Grand Forks - Surprisingly, the invisible flood wall in downtown East Grand Forks will cost less than expected to build.

While city engineers expected the bids to be approximately $1.7 million. Instead, council members recently awarded the bid to Wanzek Construction for $1,216, 646.

The invisible wall, 880 feet in length, will protect downtown East Grand Forks against future flooding. It can be assembled if the river rises to high levels and removed when the river recedes. Once constructed, it will be the first of its kind in the United States. The Exponent

Crookston first in "Callin' It Quits"

Crookston - Crookston chalked up another first recently as ten local restaurants — the first in Minnesota — received the American Heart Association's "Callin' It Quits" awards for going smoke-free.

The ten establishments include the China Moon, Coffeetalk Expresso, Happy Joe's Pizza, Hardee's, McDonald's, Taco John's, The Sub Shop, Subway, Courthouse Cafe and Riverview Hospital's cafeteria.

Each restaurant received a framed certificate and window decal proclaiming the award. Crookston Daily Times

Leo Schmitz of Red Lake Falls pitched a bundle of oats into the threshing machine at the Lloyd Sorenson farm near Plummer. The 4th Annual Old Tyme Threshing Bee will be held at the Sorenson Farm beginning at noon on Saturday, September 12.

Sorensons show off the good old days

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

When it comes to telling his grandchildren about the "good old days", farmer Lloyd Sorenson of rural Plummer goes one step further. He shows them.

Several years ago Lloyd inherited his uncle's farm across the road from the farm he's lived on all of his life, and he decided that some of the old farm equipment that was still operational but had been sitting idle for many years should be put to use. Four years ago the Sorensons held a threshing bee.

The event was a success, and on Saturday, September 12 the 4th Annual Old Tyme Threshing Bee will be held at the Sorenson farm.

The threshing bee has grown every year and is like a "show and tell" event for a variety of area folks.

Last year's event drew around 300 people. Florence Tvedt organized musicians who played throughout the afternoon, including Johnnie Ruud and Alvin Anderson of Thief River Falls; Arlynn Tunheim of Newfolden; Elvin Erickson of Clearbrook; and Orlin Hanson, Vern Iverson and Edgar Miller of Goodridge.

Horses played an important role in early farming. While the first successful gasoline powered tractors were made in the United States in the early 1890's, they were not powerful enough for most farm work. Horses were used before and for many long after the first all-purpose tractors were introduced in the 1920's. Last year, Larry Schafer of Red Lake Falls and Leonard Johnson of Oklee brought horses and provided horse and buggy rides.

Linus Schmitz displayed the miniature farm equipment — a threshing machine and plow — he's made.

Folks came and set up flea market and craft tables. The women of Salem Lutheran Church served a lunch which included a number of Scandinavian foods and delicacies.

Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson's son, Karl, his wife, Rita, and their five children live on what was Lloyd's uncle's farm where the threshing bee is held. Except for 38 acres, the land is rented. Karl works at Hydra-Mac, and Rita is employed by Bridgeman/Land O'Lakes.

Lloyd and Wavell's daughters, Rebecca Willet and Sheila Gerardy, live nearby, and their other son, Russell, lives in Roseau. Ten grandchildren complete the family.

Rita and Wavell have been busy making calls and organizing the event. They expressed their appreciation to those who attended last year and hope everyone will return this year and that the threshing bee will continue to grow.

The oats that will be threshed at the event is tied in bundles, prepared several weeks ago by Karl. Every year, he has been helped by Leo Schmitz of Red Lake Falls and Rocky Jasperson of Plummer.

The old farm equipment used and displayed includes the 1928 1530 McCormick tractor that

NCTC homecoming is Saturday, September 12

Homecoming celebration for Northland Community and Technical College has been scheduled for Saturday, September 12, with an open house, volleyball and football games and a reunion social on the agenda.

Coronation of the homecoming king and queen will take place on Wednesday, September 9, at 2:45 p.m. in the theater at the college. The event is open to the public and all alumni and other interested area persons are encouraged to attend.

At 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, an open house will begin in Room D60 with Northland Ambassadors to conduct tours of the college. Highlights of the open house will be an explanation of the NCTC construction project and progress on the multi-events cultural center now under construction.

At 12 noon Saturday the Northland Pioneers volleyball team is hosting Concordia and Vermillion colleges in a triangular meet in the college gymnasium. Alumni are invited to attend and express their support for the Northland team.

At 1:30 p.m. the Northland Pioneers football team will play host to Ridgewater College at the Lincoln high school Prowler football field. Football team members and their parents will be recognized.

Alumni reunion social has been scheduled from 4 to 6:30 p.m. at the Hayloft section of Handy Farms Restaurant on Highway 59 SE. All former NCTC students are invited to the social to visit and reminisce with friends, faculty and staff.

King and Queen Candidates And Attendants

Candidates have been selected from the sophomore class for homecoming king and queen with four attendants named from the freshman class. Sophomore queen candidates include:

Amber Berg, daughter of Earl and Lynette Berg, is a Greenbush/Middle River high school graduate. She is president of the student senate, member of the basketball team, Ambassadors and intramurals, and a liberal arts major.

Jenny Johnson, daughter of Leon and Naomi Johnson, is a graduate of Goodridge high school and majoring in athletic training. She plays on the NCTC basketball team and is a student athletic trainer.

Malissa Lawrence, daughter of Jim and Judith Lawrence, is a graduate of Lincoln high school. She is vice president of the student senate, an Ambassador, serves on various NCTC committees and coaches the Thief River Falls Skating Club precision lines. She is majoring in architectural technology and design.

Stacy Narlock, daughter of Dale and Lori Narlock and a Licensed Practical Nursing major, is a graduate of Lincoln high school. She is a student senate member, plays intramural volleyball and serves on several NCTC committees.

Stephanie Wold is the daughter of Rick and Trudy Wold and a Lincoln high school graduate. She is majoring in dental hygiene and is a student Ambassador and student Senator.

Candidates for homecoming king include the following:

Eric Cameron, son of Dennis and Deb Cameron and a Warroad high school graduate, is a member of the Business Club and a student Ambassador. He is majoring in

Boy Scouts with corn on the cob roasted over fire; and Pat Gaffaney's Mobile Hobo Enterprises with flaming desserts.

Space remains available for more organizations or individuals wishing to offer special interest or ethnic foods for the first "Taste of Thief River Falls." Participation fee is $25. To reserve space call Julie at the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce office at 681-3720 by Wednesday, September 9.

Most area schools show declines in enrollment

Most area school districts show a decline in enrollment for opening day of the 1998-99 school year in comparison with opening day last year, according to a Northern Watch survey conducted Thursday, September 3. Exceptions are the Badger, Roseau and Warroad schools where there are modest increases.

Several of the smaller school districts in the area appear to be benefitting from open enrollment, mostly at the expense of the Thief River Falls district.

At Plummer, for instance, 39 of the 191 students enrolled this year are from other districts. Oklee has about 25 open enrollment students among its 230 total, Goodridge has 40 among its 231 and Marshall County Central schools at Viking and Newfolden have 28 open enrollment students among 393 total students.

There are also about 300 students attending four private schools in the area—St. Bernard's Catholic School and Our Saviour's Christian Academy in Thief River Falls, St. Joseph's Catholic school in Red Lake Falls and Heritage Christian School at Karlstad. A number of children are also being home-schooled.

An enrollment summary for the area schools includes the following:

Thief River Falls

Total enrollment at Thief River Falls public schools was 2,308, a drop of 10 students from 2,318 a year ago. Eight of the students in the decline were accounted for in decreased full time equivalency from 80 to 72 at the Area Learning Center. Lincoln high school had a drop of two students from 733 to 731. Challenger elementary school enrollment increased by 25 from 907 to 932 while Franklin middle school enrollment decreased from 598 to 573. A comprehensive report of Thief River Falls enrollment will be in the September 9 Thief River Falls Times.

Newfolden/Viking

Marshall County Central schools at Newfolden and Viking had opening day enrollment of 393, down a single student from 394 last year. All students in kindergarten through third grade in the district attend school in Viking where enrollment this year increased from 97 to 101. All students in grades four through six attend school in Newfolden where enrollment dropped to 90 from 94. Enrollment in grades seven through 12 dropped from 203 to 202.

Greenbush/Middle River

Greenbush/Middle River schools had opening day enrollment of 540 students, down 28 from a year ago. In the combined district, both Middle River and Greenbush schools have grades K-6. All seventh and eighth graders in the combined district attend classes in Middle River and all students in grades 9-12 attend classes in Greenbush.

At Middle River this year there are 12 students in kindergarten, 20 in grade one, 10 in grade two, 17 in grade three, 12 in grade four, 22 in grade five, 22 in grade six, 40 in grade seven and 45 in grade eight.

At Greenbush there are 22 in kindergarten, 27 in grade one, 19 in grade two, 22 in grade three, 19 in grade four, 17 in grade five, 23 in grade six, 38 in grade nine, 47 in grade 10, 50 in grade 11 and 56 in grade 12.

Grygla/Gatzke/Skime

In the Grygla/Gatzke/Skime district all the students attend school in Grygla where enrollment is down a couple from 219 last year to 217 this year. Enrollment on opening day includes 16 in kindergarten, 12 in grade one, 16 in grade two, 20 in grade three, 15 in grade four, 15 in grade five, 19 in grade six, 12 in grade seven, 18 in grade eight, 15 in grade nine, 16 in grade 10, 15 in grade 11 and 28 in grade 12.

"Penny and Pals" will be presented by Newfolden Head Start and Newfolden Early Childhood Family Education Saturday, September 12, from 11 a.m. to 12 noon at the bandshell across the street from the Newfolden Community Center. Those attending are encouraged to bring lawn chairs or blankets and take in the performance before the annual Newfolden Newfest parade. The group from Fargo, ND, treats its young audiences to playful, interactive songs and activities with its characters such as Bernie T. Bear and Rockin' Robot.

First of all, throw away the recipe for Dill Pickles in the August 29 issue of The Watch. There is something wrong with the proportion of water and vinegar and the pickles would probably be dangerous. If you've already made them, just throw them away. It isn't worth it. Sorry about that. I should have noticed that there was too much water, but I didn't.

Still thinking of after-school snacks, today I'm going to give you some of my very best favorite cookies, some of the ones I make over and over again and we never seem to tire of, and another good snack. I'm also including a final pickle recipe that I found in an old Grace Evangelical Church of Strathcona cookbook while looking for my favorite sugar cookies. I promise no more pickles until next year.

These are our favorite sugar cookies. I never chill them as long as it says and I just mix them in order without mixing the dry ingredients separately. I also mix them by hand, because I want to get them out of the oven as fast as possible:

SUGAR COOKIES
1 cup powdered sugar
1 cup white sugar
1 cup butter
1 cup oil
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
4 cups flour plus 4 heaping tablespoonfuls

Cream sugar, butter and oil until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, then vanilla (I also use almond extract - yum).

Sift dry ingredients and add to first mixture, mixing well. Refrigerate several hours or overnight.

Roll into balls (larger than a walnut) and place on ungreased cookie sheet. Press with glass dipped in sugar. Bake at 375 degrees for about 10 minutes, until golden. (I bake until lightly browned around edges, 8 1/2 to 9 minutes)

This is the Crisco recipe that was in magazines for a long time, but it is still the best chocolate chip recipe I've ever made. I never could make good chocolate chip cookies until I tried this one, and now they are great. Sometimes they turn out a little different and raise too much, but keep trying them. Sooner or later you'll get great chocolate chip cookies too. Be sure to use an ungreased sheet - it makes the cookies better for some reason:

ULTIMATE CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES
1 1/4 cups packed brown sugar
3/4 cups butter-flavor Crisco
2 tablespoons milk
1 tablespoon vanilla
1 egg
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon soda
2 cups flour
1 cup chocolate chips
1 cup walnuts, if desired

Cream Crisco and brown sugar. Add milk and vanilla and beat. Beat in egg and then salt and soda. Add flour and chips and nuts.

Drop by teaspoonfuls (or those neat little scooper things that you can buy for cookies) on ungreased sheet and bake at 375 degrees for about 9 minutes for chewy. Cookies will appear moist and let stand on sheet a minute if they are hard to remove from sheet.

Let these cookies chill a while, preferably overnight, because they will cut much easier if you do:

ICEBOX OATMEAL COOKIES
1 cup shortening
2 cup brown sugar
1 cup white sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cup flour
1 cup walnuts
3 cups oatmeal

Mix in order given and form into round rolls. Roll in waxed paper and chill.

When ready to bake, cut in 1/4 inch (or less for crispy) slices and place on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 until browned.

This is my favorite, simple white bread recipe - the kids would love it for an after-school treat - it is great toasted too:

WHITE BREAD
1 package dry yeast
1/4 cup warm water
1 cup milk
1 cup warm water
2 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
2 1/2 teaspoons salt
6 cups white flour

Mix yeast with warm water in a small bowl and add 1/4 teaspoon or so of sugar. Let stand for a few minutes while preparing other ingredients.

Scald milk - I use the microwave - heat until a skin forms on top. Meanwhile, place shortening, sugar and salt in large bowl. Pour hot milk over and stir to dissolve.

When yeast has foamed up and reached the top of the little bowl, add the water to the milk so the temperature is a little hotter than lukewarm. Add all of yeast mixture, scraping little bowl.

Add 3 cups of flour and mix really well with a wooden spoon, beating a lot. Let stand a minute or five, then slowly add remaining flour. When it gets too stiff to mix with spoon, turn out on table or board and knead in by hand. Knead in enough flour to make a dough that can be handled but is still moist and elastic.

Knead a while until your aggressions are out, 10-12 minutes. Form dough into cute little ball.

Rinse bowl that you made dough in and dry it. Grease well and drop dough ball in with the good side down. Lift it out and place it in bowl with good side up, cover with greased waxed paper and a dishtowel and put it in the oven with the light on inside (no heat though) or another warm, draft-free place. Let rise about an hour and one-half.

Take out dough, punch down well, then replace in bowl in same manner as before. Let rise another hour and a half.

Take dough out of bowl and punch down. Cut dough in half and then shape each into a round ball. Let rest about 5 minutes, then shape into loaves and place in two well-greased bread pans, covering with waxed paper and towel again. Let rise again for about an hour, checking after the half hour. Loaves should be about the same size you want them to be after they are baked.]

Take waxed paper and towel off of bread, turn on oven and bake for about 35 minutes at 375 degrees. Cool on rack and enjoy.

I found one more pickle recipe - this one says it is hamburger dills. I promise this is the last pickle recipe until next canning season:

HAMBURGER DILLS
1 quart vinegar
1 pint water
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup salt
Garlic
Dill
1/2 cup pickle spice or 1/2 teaspoon turmeric and some mustard seed
Cucumbers

Wash cucumbers well. Slice across and fill prepared jars half full. Add a slice of onion, a clove of garlic and dill. Finish filling jar with cucumber slices.

Boil vinegar, water, sugar, salt and spices and pour hot over pickles and seal.

378-4641 378-4585
Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum: the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two-man crew - saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

U.S. To Pay Russia For Coal-Burning Privilege?

Frustration of private businesses and individuals with the whims of government is exemplified in a situation which has been called to public attention by Western Fuels Association, Inc. WFA is a cooperative enterprise operating on a not-for-profit basis to provide coal for the generation of electricity by consumer-owned electric utilities. Its 23 member/owners are rural electric generation and transmission cooperatives, municipal utilities and other public power entities.

In a recent news release, the association points to an analysis of the latest White House estimate of the costs of complying with the Kyoto Protocol, prepared by Charles River Associates for the Global Climate Coalition. It assumes replacement of every coal-fired power plant in the U.S. with natural gas-fired generation by 2008 and U.S. ability to offset fossil fuel use by the purchase of carbon dioxide emission credits from other nations, such as Russia.

"Fundamentally," states Fred Palmer, WFA general manager and chief executive officer, "the Clinton Administration's intention appears to be for taxpayers, electric consumers and rural people to pay Russia for the right to burn U.S. coal in U.S. power plants.

"The economic penalty will be most dramatic among taxpayers and electric consumers who rely on coal-fired electricity— which is to say most Americans—because 56 percent of U.S. electricity, on average, is generated from coal. In rural areas, that reliance is over 80 percent on coal-fired electricity," Palmer adds.

Palmer points out that the coal-fired electricity is generally cheaper than electricity generated by other means. As a consequence, "dialing out of the coal option" means higher costs for electricity consumers. And to the degree the U.S. can not meet the Kyoto Protocol's directive for the U.S. to reduce carbon dioxide emissions to seven percent below 1990 levels by 2012, he explains, emissions offsets will have to be purchased—where available—abroad.

"At this juncture," Palmer said, "it appears Russia will be the most likely source of credits because Russian carbon dioxide emissions are dramatically below 1990 levels due to economic collapse there. U.S. taxpayers will end up picking up the tab, one way or another—and probably both."

Palmer also points out that another disturbing ramification of the Administration's policy to consider is its impact on rural electric consumers who invested tens of billions of dollars in coal-fired generation in good-faith response to federal policies over the last two decades.

"These coal-fired power plants are not the creation of greedy polluters," he said. "They represent the response of electric utilities to federal energy policies encouraging use of domestic coal and discouraging use of natural gas during the 1970s and 1980s. In rural America, that investment was made by local electric consumers through their cooperatives, not by investors living elsewhere."

According to Palmer, the economic health of rural America is directly dependent upon fossil fuel use.

"Fossil fuels are in the electricity powering the farms, ranches, Main Street businesses and homes," he said. "They're in the transportation of produce to markets, in the produce itself because of the farm machinery used and the petrochemical fertilizers which stimulated the Green Revolution. Fossil fuels are the key to the high productivity agriculture upon which American consumers rely."

The scenario portrayed by Palmer and the WFA must certainly be disturbing to those of us in this part of the nation where we are totally dependent for electricity on the coal-burning plants which have been built and modernized at great expense over the years. We never cease to wonder at the frequent short-sightedness of government and the apparent willingness of our federal leaders to "give away the farm."

Wildlife Damage Has No Simple Solutions

Most people in the United States have an appreciation for wildlife as part of our nation's heritage and as a resource that provides enjoyment and entertainment from hunting, fishing or just observing. But conflicts between wildlife and human interests exist across the United States with few areas being exempt from at least some type of problem.

Recently a summit conference on wildlife damage was held at the Utah State University campus at Logan, UT. The scope and diversity of such damage, as reviewed at the conference, is nothing short of amazing.

"We sent a questionnaire out to a random sample of farmers nationwide," noted Mike Conover, director of the Berryman Institute for Wildlife Damage Management at Utah State, "and over half the farmers reported they had experienced a problem with deer in the last year."

The average American wouldn't think of deer as predators if they were asked to make a list of common wildlife predators, nor would most people put beaver on the list. Yet in the state of Pennsylvania alone deer chewed up $30 million worth of crops in a single year and damage caused by beavers in the Southeast is placed at $100 million.

There are a million collisions between deer and vehicles every year with 200 people killed, thousands of people injured and a billion dollars in property damage. Mississippi catfish farmers lose $6 million worth of fingerlings to fish-eating birds. Western sheep ranchers typically lose 10 to 30 percent of their stock to predators, mostly coyotes, but also eagles and assorted other wildlife.

In this area we are well aware of crop losses that can occur in some areas from concentrations of birds from waterfowl to blackbirds and of livestock and other losses from timber wolves, coyotes, bears and even moose and elk.

Susan Hagood, wildlife specialist for The Humane Society of the United States, which opposes lethal control, admitted to the conference that "we're a long way from applying any kind of birth control on a free-ranging wildlife population." Until then, she said, "the answer has to lie in reducing the attractiveness of what's being damaged or in reducing the access that wildlife has to it."

There are things that can help in some situations. Depredation of crops by waterfowl in this area has been alleviated in recent years by straight combining and drying grain for storage, and use of larger equipment to shorten the harvest season. This has decreased the banquet table of swathed grain that ducks find irresistible.

But it is hard to equate the doe and fawn in a mountain meadow or the buck in a hunter's sights with the animal suddenly in your headlights on a rural road or even an urban freeway. And how does one reduce the attractiveness of catfish fingerlings to a merganser or kingfisher or a newborn lamb to a coyote or eagle?

As the conference determined, there aren't any easy answers.

Warning about phone scams issued in MN

Minnesota Police Chiefs Education Foundation is issuing a warning about a new "phone scam" being tried in Minnesota.

According to the warning, residents are receiving calls from individuals identifying themselves as telephone company service technicians. The person calling then states that they are conducting a test on telephone lines and that to complete the test they should touch (9), zero (0) and the pound sign (#) and then hang up.

Officials have contacted long distance companies, AT & T, UCB Telecom, GTE, and US West, and learned that by dialing 90# the resident gives the requesting individual full access to their telephone line, which allows them to place long distance telephone calls and bill it to the home phone number. Officials have also been informed that many of the calls have been originating from local jails and prisons.

Local and area residents are being advised not to, under any circumstances, dial 90# for anyone. It does allow them full access to your telephone.

B/G-MR has won back-to-back section football titles...

Expectations high for Gators

Back-to-back sectional titles raised the level of expectations for the high school football program at Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

The Gators won a Section 8C championship in 1996 and claimed a Section 8AA crown in 1997 when the Minnesota State High School League added an additional class to its post-season format.

There's reason to believe Badger/Greenbush-Middle River will be in position to challenge for another state playoff berth in 1998.

"The expectations are there," acknowledged Steve Willman, who is beginning his sixth year as Badger/Greenbush-Middle River head coach. Handling the pressure that goes along with being No. 1 will be one of the keys to the Gators' success, he explained. "It'll take a lot of hard work, but we hope to be there by the end of the year."

A number of veterans on hand give credence to the optimism. The backfield features hard-running 6-2, 235-pound senior fullback Richard Wockenfuss and junior quarterback David Truscinski. There's also senior Trevor Lorenson, who is being switched from tight end to runningback this fall, and versatile junior Kagen Waage, who played every position except center last year. He's listed as a fullback.

The offensive line returns 6-1, 210-pound Brian Wilhelmi and 6-0, 205 pound Derrick Olson, a pair of seniors.

Defensively, the Gators have experience with Wilhelmi at an end, Olson at tackle, Waage and Wockenfuss at linebacker, along with Truscinski and Lorenson in the secondary.

"We've got some really good, quality people," pointed out Willman.

Depth, however, is not one of the Gators' early-season strengths. "We're a little thin," admitted Willman. "We're a little worried about depth."

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River went 1-2 at the start of 1997 before winning eight straight, including a 28-0 Section 8AA championship game decision over Mahnomen and a 22-8 Class AA state quarterfinal round conquest of Deer River. The title run ended with a 45-24 state semifinal loss at the hands of Pelican Rapids in the Metrodome.

Blue Devils have new coach

John Wilebski, after serving as an assistant on the Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke staff the past four years, takes over as the Blue Devils' head coach for the 1998 high school football season.

Wilebski was named to succeed Darwin Hagen, who stepped down after a 22-year career as head coach, first at Grygla-Gatzke and then the Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke cooperative.

"We're keeping things pretty much the same," said Wilebski, "but we'll try to be a little more diversified at times."

Hagen-coached teams rarely put the ball in the air. Wilebski hinted the passing game might be a bigger part of the Blue Devils' offense.

Junior Alex Holte will take the snaps. He quarterbacked the team for one game last fall.

Senior Mark Haugen, who played in the line in 1997, will start at fullback. Junior Jacob Kennel and sophomore Marshall Tanner are penciled in at the halfback spots.

Most of the Blue Devils' experience rests in the line with senior Seth Veilleson, Steve Waling, Blair Saurdiff, and Bryan Bjerklie, along with junior Kylen Hagen.

"The interior line should be strong on both sides of the ball," noted Wilebski. "We've got some experience there."

Adding punch to the defense will be senior linebacker Luke Nordvick.

"It might take us a few games to get rolling," admitted Wilebski. "By the end of the year we should be all right."

Early-season adjustments also stem from eligibility situations that some of the players have to deal with due to grades and rules violations. "We'll be missing some key people at the start," noted Wilebski.

TRF cross country teams start year at Old Mill State Park

A run through Old Mill State Park Tuesday opened the 1998 high school cross country season for the Thief River Falls boys and girls who were competing in the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Invitational.

Thief River Falls coach Terri Ueland figured the Prowlers would field a solid boys team this fall, while lower-than-normal numbers would hamper the girls. Both had seventh place finishes in the opener. The boys' showing was hurt by the loss of Zach Bosh, who went down with an ankle injury suffered during the race. A switch in starting times rushed the girls' race preparations and affected their performance, according to Ueland.

"Our boys would have placed a lot higher if Zach hadn't hurt his ankle," explained Ueland. "Our girls didn't have much time to prepare for the race, so I think mentally, they weren't ready."

Prowlers sweep 7-0 tennis dual vs. EGF

A dominating performance by the Thief River Falls girls produced straight-set wins in every match Tuesday as the Prowlers shut out East Grand Forks 7-0 in high school tennis at Engelstad Park.

Heather Hanson, Jenny Kimball, Dede Oally, and Beth Padilla were winners in singles. Katie Harbott-Lesley Ihle, Jenni Gonsorowski-Becca Leach, and Toni LeMoine-Bridgette Stock completed the sweep in doubles.

It was the second win in as many dual meets for the Prowlers.

Crookston tops TRF in volleyball opener

Crookston emerged a 3-1 winner over Thief River Falls Tuesday in a season-opening match-up of two strong area high school volleyball teams.

The host Pirates won 15-7, 8-15, 15-11, 15-13.

"They're a tough team," noted Thief River Falls co-head coach Amy Roche. "I thought it went pretty well. We just didn't play well enough to win. It almost looked like we played not to lose instead of playing to win. We were very tentative."

Jenny Boll had a match-high 20 kills for the Pirates. "She was tough," pointed out Roche. "She's a very smart player. She does a nice job reading the defense."

Nicole Kopari led the Prowlers with 11 kills, while Lindsay Drury and Rachel Mathson both had 9.

Thief River Falls setter Taya Hunt was busy, collecting 40 assists.

Wolverines beat Nordics 3-0 in opener

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke swept Marshall County Central 15-6, 15-9, 15-8 Tuesday in high school volleyball at Newfolden. It was the 1998 season opener for both teams.

Nordics coach Mark Jacobson was disappointed in his team's debut. "We were flat-footed," he said. "We were slow to react. We set some goals, but I don't think we met any of them. I know we can play better than that."

Kristi Kilen had 14 ace kills for Marshall County Central, and led the Nordics' defense with her blocking, pointed out Jacobson.

TRF swimmers win first dual

Andrea Olin and Chelsea Haviland won two events each Tuesday as the Thief River Falls girls opened the 1998 high school swimming season with a 53-41 dual meet win over Fosston/Bagley at the Fosston pool.

Olin was a winner in the 200 and 500 freestyle. Haviland was the Class A state runner-up in diving last year, but diving was not part of Tuesday's meet. She did, however, win the 200 individual medley and 100 breaststroke.

Other Thief River Falls winners were Julie Chrzanowski in the 100 butterfly and Kristin Naplin in the 100 backstroke, along with the 400 freestyle relay team of Haviland, Chrzanowski, Lindsay Ehrenstrom, and Jenny Sorvig.

"The times weren't too bad for a first meet," said Thief River Falls coach Shon Thompson. "Some (times) were really good."

Chrzanowski, in particular, had an impressive 1998 debut with a 1:11.02 in the 100 butterfly was in the range of her best time at season's end in 1997.

"It's too early to tell how we'll do in the section, but they're working hard," said Thompson. The first-meet times were even more impressive, he noted, when you consider the fact that his team had been concentrating on conditioning in early drills – some 8,000 yards per day during the two-a-day workouts prior to the start of school.

"We've got some good kids," said Thompson. "The numbers are fantastic. We've got a lot of first-time swimmers."

RLCC opens 1998 volleyball season with a new line-up

Graduation took all six starters from last year's 25-4 Sub-Section 31A championship team, but Red Lake County Central coach Nancy Bray figures the program can restock the line-up with enough talent to make the Oklee/Plummer cooperative competitive during the 1998 high school volleyball season.

"We lost everybody from last year, but if the passing comes around, we should be okay," said Bray. "We've got the hitters."

Juniors Kelsey Lundeen and Sylvia Hilgeman, along with senior Erika Veilleson, are outside hitters. Juniors Heather Schiefert and Tracy Rosten, plus senior Sarah O'Neill, provide the inside attack.

Senior Tammy Berberich is the setter.

The Mustangs have won back-to-back Sub-Section 31A titles under Bray, who is in her fifth year as Red Lake County Central head coach.

Nordics will look to continue climb in victory column

Scott Parker would like to speed up the improvement process as Marshall County Central heads into the 1998 high school football season.

The Nordics were winless in 1995, went 2-5 in 1996 and finished 3-6 in 1997. Parker begins his first year as head coach looking to break the .500 barrier. He takes over a program headed the past six years by Kent Warne, who remains on the staff, along with Jim Pederson, as an assistant.

"I think we'll be competitive," said Parker. "We saw a lot of good things in the (Top of the State Jamboree) scrimmages. We've still got a lot of things to work on, but I think we'll be okay."

Parker is a Spring Lake Park High School and Mayville State graduate. He has been in the coaching profession the past four years, working at Mayville State and Jamestown High School.

The Nordics will build the offense around 5-9, 170-pound junior runningback Bjorn Halvorson, who rushed for over 1,000 yards last fall. "He's a nice package," noted Parker. "He can run inside, and he can turn the corner."

Jacob Elseth and Chris Moose, who are captains, along with Halvorson, lead a group of six seniors on the roster. Tyler Knutson, a 5-10, 290-pound junior, provides size at guard.

Junior David Wilcox and sophomore Zach Holthusen are vying for the quarterback job.

B/G-MR volleyball squad working on improving record

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River girls, after playing for three different head coaches in three years, had at last, a familiar face greet them when high school volleyball practice began in mid-August as Christine Adrian returned for her second season with the Gators.

They were 11-15 last fall, and Adrian is looking to improve upon that. "We hope to be better than last year," she said. "We should be competitive. Roseau and Lake of the Woods look really tough in the (North Border) conference, but the rest of us are pretty even."

Seniors Kelsey Foldesi and Merri Reese are returning starters for the Gators. Seniors Dezi Sovde and Missy Smith also figure to play key roles, and junior Kelly Everson takes over at setter, a job she held at the junior varsity level in 1997.

"Our serving and defense should be strong," offered Adrian. "We're looking for hitters."

Northland drops 3-0 match to Concordia

Concordia College junior varsity swept Northland Community and Technical 15-2, 15-1, 15-1 Wednesday in a volleyball match played at Moorhead.

It was the 1998 season opener and debut for first-year Northland coach Mike Zachow.

"The games were actually closer than the scores show," pointed out Zachow. "The girls had a good effort. We played pretty well."

Northland hitters had trouble at the start, explained Zachow, before Jamie Schwarz, a freshman from Silver Bay, stepped forward and got the attack going.

The Moorhead State University junior varsity was scheduled to be on hand to make it a triangular meet, but the Dragons were a no-show.

Growe discusses voter registration for MN Primary

Secretary of State Joan Growe has released information to the public for voter registration at the polling place for the September 15 state primary. "I urge all Minnesotans who have not already registered to vote to do so on election day at their polling place," Growe said.

Eligible voters may register to vote at the polling place for the precinct in which they reside. To be eligible to vote, a person must be a citizen of the United States, at least 18 years of age and a resident of Minnesota for at least 20 days.

Every person who registers to vote on election day must provide proof of residence. The following documents are the only forms of proof that will be accepted:

• A valid Minnesota driver's license, learner's permit or state identification card (or a receipt for any of these) that contains the voter's current address.

• A notice of late registration received from the county auditor or city clerk.

• A prior valid registration at another address in the same precinct.

• A bill for electric, natural gas, water, solid waste, telephone or cable television service with a due date within 30 days of election day that contains the voter's name and current address and one of the following that contains the voter's name and photograph, such as a Minnesota driver's license or Minnesota identification card, U.S. passport, U.S. military identification card, or identification card of a post-secondary educational institution in Minnesota.

• The oath of a registered voter in the same precinct who can vouch for the person's residence.

• College students may use one of the following documents: a student identification card, registration card or fee statement that contains the student's current address, a student photo identification card, if the educational institution has certified a list of students to the county auditor, a current student fee statement and a photo identification card.

Set Pioneer and Threshing Days at Crookston

Pioneer and Threshing Days at the Polk county museum at Crookston have been set for Saturday and Sunday, September 12 and 13, from 12 noon to 5 p.m.

In addition to threshing there will be music, spinning, soap making, knitting, country school, quilts, blacksmithing, rope making, baling and special events. Frybread, coffee and nectar will be sold. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Orientation for sixth grade band Tuesday evening

Franklin middle school instrumental music department will conduct the annual sixth grade beginning band orientation Tuesday, September 8, at 7 p.m. in the band room (Room 283) at Franklin.

According to John Vukmanich, instrumental music instructor, the orientation is for students and parents and will cover instrument choices and questions. Joe Kezar from Kezar Music will explain instrument rental and purchase procedures.

Local Guardsmen complete basic, advanced training

Minnesota Army National Guard members assigned to First Platoon, Company B, Second Battalion, 136th Infantry in Thief River Falls recently completed advanced or basic training at Ft. Benning, GA.

PV2 J. R. Fortmann and PV2 Justin Konickson received basic training instruction on drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and army history and traditions.

With the completion of basic training, Fortmann and Konickson are eligible for the Minnesota tuition reimbursement program to further their educational goals. PV2 Fortmann is the son of Lynn and Shirley Fortmann of Plummer and PV2 Konickson is the son of Neil and Virginia Konickson of Red Lake Falls.

PFC Billy Ferogen, son of George Feragen of Goodridge, has graduated from advanced training at Fort Benning. He received instruction on drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and army history and traditions and on operations and tactics of the Bradley Fighting Vehicle.

With the completion of his training, PFC Feragen is now eligible for the Montgomery GI Bill and the Minnesota tuition reimbursement program. He is assigned as an anti-armor specialist in the First Platoon.

WHAT THE HAIL?!

This is the story of the Three Little Minnesota Pigs. The first one built his home out of straw but, as we all know, the Big Bad Wolf huffed and puffed it to the ground with little effort.

The second Little Pig constructed his home out of sticks but, alas, like his brother, watched as a few well-placed exhalations took that structure to the ground, too.

Now the third Little Pig was much smarter than his siblings—he built his home out of brick and when the Big Bad Wolf showed up to blow his house down, it was obvious to pig and wolf alike that it was going to take a lot more than a few shots of even the worst morning breath to accomplish that.

The Big Bad Wolf, however, had lived in northern Minnesota all his life and had grown quite adept at predicting the curious weather patterns found there. He noticed the high-topped thunderhead approaching from the west and, recognizing its destructive potential, slunk off to the safety of his cave.

When the ensuing hail storm was over, the Big Bad Wolf returned to find the brick building leveled like a pancake and the Little Pig deader than dead. He added this pig to his menu and found he had put on so much weight that it was unnecessary for him to kill any domesticated animal that entire winter.

Where is all this leading, you wonder? Wolves or weather? To be politically correct, I'd choose wolf as it seems to be a hotbed of discussion lately, but I'm talking survival here. Until the scary possibility of huge chunks of life threatening ice falling from the sky is addressed, I'm willing to put the wolves on the back burner.

Needless to say, my house was dead center for the recent hail event. As a matter of fact, if I was of any stronger religious material, I might say my little corner of the world was targeted as either the Sodom or Gomorrah of the north country. After the storm, I actually checked to see if my two dogs has been turned into pillars of salt.

Yes, once again, I'm from the East Coast. And, yes, we get hail. But I always thought the Midwest reports of "golf ball sized" hail were exaggerated accounts akin to stories of Paul Bunyan or the actual eating of lutefisk—just not believable. I was impressed with the sheer volume of hail the other day, but when those inch and a half diameter ice pellets began thumping craters into my new deck, I had to get verification. With an old raincoat as a makeshift shield, I scurried out onto the lawn for a particularly large piece. Bending to retrieve it, I exposed my bare calf to an even larger "death chunk."

"Ouch!" I wailed, and being the good East Coaster that I am, instinctively turned to ascribe some blame for the source of my pain. Wham! Another shot to my now unprotected head. "Ooooohhh!"

Fortunately my wife was raised in the Midwest and knew just how to deal with such emergencies. "Get inside, you fool!" she deadpanned from our doorway.

A half hour later we pushed our way through ankle-deep deck ice to survey the damage. Our oak trees were nearly defoliated. The window boxes and ornamental shrubs had been flattened. The corn, tomatoes and squash that had come so close to fruition were ruined.

I took lots of pictures to show the skeptics. I gathered a dozen representative hail stones to store in my freezer so I'd have props as well as stories with which to bore my future grandchildren. I've got a lump on my head that is not my nose and a bruise that resembles Nixon's profile on the back of my leg. It was a memorable incident.

What's this got to do with fishing? Not much, although I've learned to give those big, black, late-summer clouds a wider berth than I would have before. Realistically, the only place you could expect to survive something like that if you were caught in an open boat would be in the water.

And if Chicken Little had encountered such large pieces of "falling sky," survival would have been out of the question, too. Like the Three Little Pigs, golf ball sized hail would have reduced that panicky cluck to simple carrion, as well, and yet another easy meal for some savvy northwoods carnivore. No wonder there's such a healthy wolf population in northern Minnesota. With weather like this, there must be plenty to eat out there.

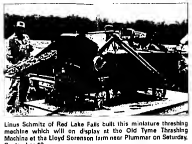
Lloyd's father Harry gave him as well as the threshing machine and binder. Other people bring and share an assortment of old-time equipment, tools and vehicles. There's lots to look at, and anyone who wants to is welcome to pitch a bundle or two into the threshing machine. A hayride is also planned.

There is no charge for the event, and if anyone wants to perform, bring their animals or old vehicles or equipment, they are encouraged to do so.



When Wavell was asked if Lloyd is retired, she only replied, "He should be!" The grain and dairy farmer who also drove school bus continues to stay involved in farming. For several years, he worked for nee farmers, and this year he is helping his nephew.

Farm work was a whole lot harder in the good old days. Still, life seemed much simpler as neighbors gathered to help one another — the men threshing in crews — women cooking and baking massive amounts of food — children helping out wherever they were needed.

From Plummer, the Sorenson farm is located six miles east on County Rd. 1, two miles north, and a half mile east. The roads will be marked to help you find your way. For more information, call Rita at 465-4026 or Wavell at 465-4376.

Everyone is welcome to attend the Sorenson's 4th Annual Old Tyme Threshing Bee on Saturday, September 12. The event will begin at noon.

It's an excellent opportunity to travel back in time and dredge up some old memories. Folks can show their children and grandchildren what life on the farm was like, making those tales about the "good old days" come to life.

Linus Schmitz of Red Lake Falls built this miniature threshing machine which will on display at the Old Tyme Threshing Machine at the Lloyd Sorenson farm near Plummer on Saturday, September 12.

Horse and buggy rides are popular with the children at the Old Tyme Threshing Bee at the Lloyd Sorenson Farm near Plummer. Last year, Leonard Johnson of Oklee and his horse, Domino, provided carriage rides. This year's event will be held on Saturday, September 12.

59 are registered to date for Everybody's Market Sept. 12

Pink ribbons breast cancer promotion

The top two risk factors for getting breast cancer are being a woman and getting older — and regular mammograms are the best way to detect the illness early.

That will be the message throughout October in Minnesota as thousands of people don pink ribbons in observance of National Breast Cancer Awareness Month. The event is being sponsored jointly by a broad coalition of health-related organizations, including the American Cancer Society (ACS), the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) and a number of public and private groups. Among the new partners joining efforts are the Minnesota Library Association and the Hispanic Health Network.

Getting routine mammograms is currently the most effective way to detect breast cancer, and it becomes more important as you grow older. The Pink Ribbon campaign encourages all women to take care of their health.

MDH offers free mammograms year-round for women who lack health coverage — and otherwise might not be reached by the health care system — through a network of nearly 300 local health care providers statewide. In addition, many health care facilities provide low-cost mammograms through a program offered by ACS. Eligibility information and referral services are available from ACS by calling 1-800-ACS-2345. The low-cost mammograms are available in some areas year-round.

"Women need to insist on mammograms," said Anne Barry, Commissioner of Health for the State of Minnesota.

"Other than skin cancer, breast cancer is the most common form of cancer in American women," said Barry. "However, if breast cancer is detected in its early stages, the five-year survival rate can be as high as 97 percent. Routine mammograms can be a woman's best bet to detect and treat this disease early."

The American Cancer Society recommends that women get yearly mammograms starting at age 40.

Filing deadline for school board offices nears

With the filing period for School District 564, Thief River Falls, board of education set to expire on Tuesday, September 8. As of Friday, September 4, Carl Clark, an incumbent, and Mike Spears have filed for two of the three openings on the board.

Darla Twomey and Cheryl Lee, the other two incumbents, have announced that they will not run for re-election.

Affidavits of candidacy must be filed in the school district personnel office and the $2 filing fee paid prior to 5 p.m. on September 8, 1998. A candidate for the office must be an eligible voter, must be 21 years of age or more on assuming office, must have been a resident of the school district from which the candidate seeks election for 30 days before the general election, and must have no other affidavit on file for any other office at the same general election.

DL police officer patrols schools

Detroit Lakes - For nine months of the year, Detroit Lakes police officer Chad Jutz walks an unusual beat — the hallways and driveways around the district's three grade schools, the middle school and the high school.

Equipped with a sidearm, radio and pager, Jutz patrols in and out of his squad car, talks to young people and investigates crimes. He is the first student liaison officer in Detroit Lakes. Detroit Lakes Tribune

Crookston flood project in limbo

Crookston - Differing opinions about flood control in California are holding up funding for the $10 million flood protection project endorsed for Crookston by the Corps of Engineers.

Before adjourning for the August recess, California Rep. John Doolittle convinced House Speaker Newt Gingrich to hold off voting on the $1.5 billion Water Resources Development Act because it currently does not authorize a new flood control dam in the American River Canyon in the Sacramento area.

The granting of Doolittle's request throws into limbo the approximately $6.5 million that the federal government was willing to put towards Crookston's project as well as almost $300 million in federal funds earmarked to help fund the dike project in Grand Forks and East Grand Forks. Crookston Daily Times

Wiskows to be honored at threshing bee

Strathcona - Melroy and Avis Wiskow will be honored at the 34th annual Northland Threshing Bee in Strathcona tomorrow (Sunday, September 13).

The Wiskows are charter members of Northland Steam Threshing Bee, Inc. and are tied to the event in a number of ways.

The steam tractor used to power the threshing machine was acquired by Melroy's family in 1912. His sons, Earl and John, are the fourth generation to own and run the steam machine.

At the threshing bee, Melroy will saw lumber on the sawmill and display a number of his collectible John Deere tractors as Avis weaves rugs in the Demonstration Building. The honored couple will also lead the parade at 11 a.m. The Tribune

Fertile-Beltrami superintendent to leave. . .eventually

Fertile - Last week Fertile-Beltrami School Superintendent Kristin Anderson's husband, Russ, was sworn in as a new Minnesota Supreme Court Justice in St. Paul. Currently, Judge Anderson is living in St. Paul during the week, and eventually, Kristin would like to join him.

However, Anderson plans to stay on as F-B superintendent through this school year and longer if necessary, making sure that the transition to new leadership is smooth. The Fertile Journal

Jenny Johnson and Eric Cameron were named Northland Community and Technical College Homecoming King and Queen Wednesday, September 9. Jenny is the daughter of Leon and Naomi Johnson of Goodridge. Eric is the son of Dennis and Deb Cameron of Warroad.

Goodridge homecoming week starts on Monday

Homecoming week at Goodridge high school starts Monday, September 14 with the first of five dress-up days. King and queen coronation is scheduled for Friday, September 18, at 1:15 p.m. in the school gym.

Theme for homecoming this year at Goodridge is "I Don't Want To Miss A Thing."

Athletic events for homecoming week include a Wolverine volleyball match against Roseau in the Goodridge gym beginning at 5 p.m. Thursday, September 17, and a Blue Devils football game against Kittson Central in Grygla on Friday, September 18, at 4 p.m.

Senior king and queen candidates include Kramer Hanson, Seth Vettleson, Grant Asp, Dana Wiseth, Wendy Kangas and Andrea Johnsrud.

Junior attendant is Mary Jensen and sophomore attendant is Kari Swanson. Junior ushers are Jake Kennel and Chancey Halvorson. First grade attendants are Heather Phelps, Tim Nelson, Sara Philipp and Merrit Olson.

Sharing duties as mistress of ceremonies for the coronation program will be Becky Brandt and Davina Brown. Public attendance at the coronation program is invited.

Themes for dress-up days include Pajama Day on Monday, September 14; Cartoon Day on Tuesday; Twin Day on Wednesday; Dress-Up Day on Thursday; and School Color Day on Friday.

Bids on minimum security facility exceed estimate

Bids on the proposed minimum security facility to be located in the American Legion building in Thief River Falls came in higher than the engineer's estimate. Tuesday, the county board reviewed the bids and the architect's summary and decided to hold all bids until its next meeting, which will be at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, September 16.

Pennington County Auditor Ken Olson explained that bids were opened on September 3 and sent to the architect. According to the summary of the bids, the second lowest bid came in at just over $100,000 higher than the architect's estimate. He explained that the original low bidder had asked to have its bid withdrawn because they had made some large and serious errors in its cost estimate. The four remaining bids ranged between $508,000 and $625,000. The second lowest bid, Olson said, appeared to be from Ram Building Systems at about $508,000.

The architect was asked to contact the low bidder and see if they couldn't re-organize the options and save the county some money.

Bonds for the project are ready to be sold. Olson indicated, however, that he didn't think it would support the cost of the project which would include the purchase of the building, architectural and engineering costs, the cost to sell the bonds, and renovation of the building. He indicated that the bond sale would leave the county with less than $500,000 to proceed with the renovation project. (The cost to purchase the building was $250,000.)

Olson said he believes the bid did include work by Sentence to Serve (STS) crews. He explained that the county will take over ownership of the building on September 15 and that the county intends to utilize prison labor (STS) as much as possible. He said they will be doing much of the demolition inside the building.

For now, bids on the project remain on hold. The county board did not make a decision on the awarding or rejecting of bids.

Fosston incinerator shut down by MPCA

Although results of recent tests are expected to show compliance with dioxin emission standards, the solid waste incinerator at Fosston has been ordered by the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency to shut down its operation September 5.

Operators of the Polk County Solid Waste Resource Recovery Plant notified the MPCA that stack tests conducted in early June and August showed that dioxin emissions exceeded permit limits. Dioxins are a family of chemicals that may cause cancer. They are a long-term threat and not an immediate one.

In 1997 MPCA established standards to minimize the amount of dioxins emitted by incinerators. The June test was the first test the company was required to perform to show it could meet the new limit.

Minnesota air quality rules require incinerators to return to compliance within 30 days of submitting a report on an initial stack test exceedance. Since the company informed MPCA that it was unable to demonstrate compliance within the 30-day window, the agency was required to order the shut-down.

Highway 89 project underway

Construction work on Highway 89 from Fourtown to seven miles west began on Tuesday, September 8, according to the Minnesota Department of Transportation office in Bemidji.

Project engineer J. T. Anderson said the work will consist of a bituminous overlay and aggregate shoulders with the project expected to be completed by September 15.

Motorists can expect some minor delays as traffic will be restricted to one lane with alternating use.

Sheriff races hold interest in county primary elections

Pennington and Red Lake counties will be holding Primary elections September 15 to determine candidates for the office of sheriff in the General Election.

In the wake of Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moo's retirement, Sheriff's Deputies Mike Hruby and Ray Kuznia, and Thief River Falls Police Officer Jim Hulteen filed for the office of County Sheriff.

In Red Lake County, Sheriff Allan Morken faces challenges from Randy Brekke and Steven Haugen.

The 1998 State Primary also allows voters to vote for candidates by party affiliation for U.S. representative, state representative, governor and lieutenant govern, secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer and attorney general. In addition, voters will be selecting nominees for associate justice of the supreme court. (Primary voters may vote in the primary of only one party, but are not required to make their party choice public.)

Eligibility. Eligible voters may register to vote at the polling place for the precinct in which they reside. To be eligible to vote, a person must be a citizen of the United States, at least 18 years of age and a resident of Minnesota for at least 20 days.

Every person who registers to vote on election day must provide proof of residence. The following documents are the only forms of proof that will be accepted:

- A valid Minnesota driver's license, learner's permit or state identification card (or a receipt for any of these) that contains the voter's current address.
- A notice of late registration received from the county auditor or city clerk.
- A prior valid registration at another address in the same precinct.
- A bill for electric, natural gas, water, solid waste, telephone or cable television service with a due date within 30 days of election day that contains the voter's name and current address and one of the following that contains the voter's name and photograph, such as a Minnesota driver's license or Minnesota identification card, U.S. passport, U.S. military identification card, or identification card of a post-secondary educational institution in Minnesota.
- The oath of a registered voter in the same precinct who can vouch for the person's residence.
- College students may use one of the following documents: a student identification card, registration card or fee statement that contains the student's current address, a student photo identification card, if the educational institution has certified a list of students to the county auditor, a current student fee statement and a photo identification card.

Polling Places

The polls in Pennington County will be open from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m., except at North and Rocksbury where the polls open at 7 a.m. Polling places are at the following: Black River at Steiger Farms, Bray at Bray town hall, Cloverleaf at Mavie town hall, Deer Park at the township hall, Goodridge at Goodridge Senior Center, Hickory at the township hall, Highlanding at the township hall, Kratka at the township hall, Mayfield at the township hall, Norden at the township hall, North at the township hall, Numedal at the township hall, Polk Centre at the township hall, Reiner at the township hall, River Falls at the St. Hilaire Senior Center, Rocksbury at Valhall, Sanders at the township hall, Silverton at the township hall, Smiley at the township hall, Star at the township hall, and Wyandotte at the township hall.

In Thief River Falls, the polling places are open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. at the following locations: First ward at the Heritage Community Center; Second ward at Zion Lutheran church; Third ward at the National Guard Armory, Fourth ward at Seventh-

Seven announce plans to run for S.D. 564 board

Seven individuals have officially filed for candidacy in the School District 564 board of education election.

Candidates to file before the deadline on Tuesday, September 8, were: Carl Clark, George Davis, Saml Haj, Ann Juhl, Barb Kalinoski, Jon Lindgren, and Mike Spears.

The candidates will be vying for three four-year terms on the board of education.

Newfest continues today and Sunday in Newfolden

Newfolden's annual Newfest celebration got underway yesterday (Friday, September 11) with a dinner and Billy Graham movie at the Evangelical Free Church, game night at the community center and a dance at the Hobo Haus.

Today's activities began at 7 a.m. with a cartoon kegger at the Hobo Haus and a pancake and sausage breakfast from 7 to 10 a.m. at the Newfolden elementary school. A 9-hole golf tournament began with registration from 8 to 8:30 a.m. and a shotgun start at 9 a.m. at the Karlstad golf course.

New Maine 4-H club sponsored the fun run which started at 9 a.m. in the Westaker Lutheran Church parking lot and Marshall County Central schools held a silent auction from 9 a.m. to noon in the bus garage. From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. there is a country market at the community center.

Kids program sponsored by ECFE and Head Start has been scheduled for 11 a.m. to noon at the bandshell across the street from the community center. Entrants in the Newfest parade were advised to begin lining up at 11:30 at the city park with the parade scheduled to be underway at 1 p.m.

Also on the schedule were relay races for preschool and elementary school age children at 2 p.m. behind the community center, a 3-on-3 basketball tournament and performance by the Morgan Ellingson band from 2 to 4 p.m. in the bandshell.

Firemen's fund-raising supper with ham and escalloped potatoes was planned for 4:30 to 7 p.m. at the community center and the Evangelical Free Church had scheduled an old fashioned tent meeting at 7 p.m. across from the community center.

At 9 p.m. teens were invited to dance to "Krome" and adults to dance to "Fire" at the Hobo Haus.

Tomorrow the Lions club is serving brunch at the community center from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and a coed softball tournament will get underway at 11 a.m. at the MCC softball field.

Concluding event on the schedule is a music fest sponsored by the Newfolden Lions in the community center at 2 p.m. with lunch served by the senior citizens organization.

Wallaces win top ribbons at Minnesota State Fair

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

How many farmers would look at a broken tractor manifold and consider its possibilities as a container for an arrangement of gladioli? Lew Wallace of Honker Flats Greenhouse & Dairy did just that, and his arrangement in the unusual container won a reserve grand champion ribbon at this year's Minnesota State Fair.

That ribbon was one of several ribbons won as Lew, his wife Tammy, and their six-year-old son, Marcus, competed at the state fair for the first time. Lew earned two other grand champion ribbons in section competition. Tammy also brought home a grand champion ribbon, and not to be outdone by his parents, Marcus was awarded two of the big purple ribbons.

While it was the Wallaces' first time at the state fair, they have been competing and winning with their glads at the Minnesota Gladiolus Society Show and the Winnipeg Gladiolus & Dahlia Society Show for the past three years. This year has been particularly successful, however, and the family has 21 grand champion ribbons to prove it.

Competing against much more experienced glad growers, the Wallaces began their pastime only four years ago. As with most hobbies, however, their interest and knowledge have grown, and Lew will passionately tell you just about anything you might want to know about the beautiful flower.

Also called the sword lily, gladiolus is the Latin word for little dagger. With tall slender stems like an iris, gladioli have long sword-shaped leaves. The tube-shaped flowers grow above one another in long clusters along one side of the stem. The lower blossoms open first. If a spike is cut when the lower flowers are the only ones in bloom, the buds above them will open one after another.

Learned botanists believe that the flower's history goes back to biblical times and that the "lilies of the field" referred to in chapter six of the book of St. Matthew were gladioli. While known to Europe and Asia for centuries, the first hybrids were imported into the United States in the mid-1800's.

The gladiolus grows from a corm, often incorrectly referred to as a bulb. Each fall the corms should be dug out of the garden and stored indoors.

Gladioli thrive in rich, soft soil, sunlight and plenty of water. The Wallaces planted 3,000 corms in their huge garden this year, and though the flowers like lots of moisture, they found themselves building tunnels over the long rows to protect the glads from the heavy rains in June and July.

With the gladiolus, cultivar, rather than variety, is the word used to distinguish clonal gladioli stock

Biker donates motorcycle

Baudette - While motorcycle 85-year-old Gaylord Gunderson donated to the permanent collection of the Lake of the Woods County Museum wasn't that old, the museum, nonetheless, gained a piece of area motorcycling history.

Gunderson donated his 1981 Honda, his third motorcycle in nearly 65 years of riding. It includes the windshield from the first motorcycle, a 1932 Harley Davidson, he bought in about 1934 and decals and stickers from all around the nation. Over the years, he's visited most of the states and five Canadian provinces on a motorcycle.

At 85, Gunderson figured it was about time to give up is cycling days. He did, however, cycle from Warroad to Baudette to donate the bike. The Baudette Region

Thieves take food

Williams - Workers had quite a surprise one morning last week when they arrived to prepare the noon meal at the Williams Senior Citizens Center.

During the night, a thief had been in the center and stolen about $1,000 worth of food from the storage locker and freezer. While the food for that day had been left, most of the supplies for the coming month's meals were gone. The Northern Light

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Fall is in the air and the gardens are giving up their bounty. Use some of that produce to make the following dishes.

Use fresh from the garden beans and peas in this recipe for a great side dish:

CREAMED BEANS AND POTATOES
4 medium red potatoes, cut into wedges
1 (10 ounce) package frozen beans or peas (or use fresh out of the garden)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk

Place potatoes in saucepan, cover with water and cook until tender. Cook beans according to package directions.

Melt butter in saucepan. Stir in flour, salt and pepper until smooth. Gradually add milk. Bring to boil and boil for 1 minute, stirring constantly.

Drain potatoes and beans and place in serving bowl. Add sauce and stir to coat.

Other fresh garden veggies can be substituted in this pretty, tasty dish - choose what you like:

PATCHWORK PIZZA
2 tubes (8 ounces each) refrigerated crescent rolls
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, softened
1/4 cup Italian salad dressing
1 cup chopped broccoli
1 cup chopped carrots
1 cup chopped cucumbers
1 cup chopped tomato

Unroll crescent dough and place on an ungreased baking sheet. Press seams together to form a 15x12 inch rectangle. Bake at 375 degrees for 11-13 minutes or until golden. Cool completely.

Combine cream cheese and salad dressing. Spread over crust to within 1 inch of edge. With knife, mark off 20 squares. Fill each square with one vegetable to make a patchwork design. Refrigerate or serve immediately.

What about a nutritious, delicious soup made from one of those fresh fall pumpkins:

CURRIED PUMPKIN SOUP
1 small onion, chopped
1 teaspoon oil
2 cups chicken broth
1 1/2 cups cooked or canned pumpkin
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1/2 cup half and half or evaporated milk
Chopped fresh parsley

In saucepan over medium heat, saute onion in oil until tender. Add broth, pumpkin, lemon juice, curry powder, sugar, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil.

Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 15 minutes. Stir in cream, heat through and garnish with parsley.

And here's a main dish to go with those the tasty veggie side dishes:

STUFFED CHICKEN BREASTS
1 1/2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms
1 1/3 cups uncooked instant rice
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped celery leaves
1/4 cup butter
1 1/2 cups water
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano
1/2 teaspoon rubbed sage
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/3 cup chopped pecans, toasted
6 bone-in chicken breast halves

In saucepan, saute mushrooms, rice, onion and celery leaves in butter until onion is tender. Add water and seasonings and bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 5-7 minutes or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Stir in pecans.

Stuff 1/2 cup of rice mixture under the skin of each chicken breast. Place in greased 9x13 inch baking dish. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 1 1/2 hours or until juices run clear.

Agassiz Refuge invites public to duck banding

Public participation in duck banding is being invited by Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge, located 11 miles east of Holt on County Road 7, for Tuesday, September 15. People of all ages are welcome to attend.

Individuals or groups of people interested in attending must notify the refuge that they plan to attend. They also must be at the refuge headquarters office by 5:30 p.m. Banding will be completed by dark.

Volunteers can assist with the banding procedure or visitors may simply observe the process. Rain gear or other appropriate clothing is recommended for those who opt to assist with banding ducks.

In case of rain or ground conditions that are too wet on Tuesday, the banding will be deferred to Thursday, September 17. If banding for both of these evenings is rained out, a third date of Tuesday, September 22, is on the schedule.

Participants will learn duck banding techniques including baiting, rocket and net set-up, caging, handling and sexing and aging of mallard ducks. Pintail, black duck, wood duck and blue-winged teal are occasionally caught, providing an opportunity to compare duck species.

"This is a hands-on experience for participants to learn about waterfowl and waterfowl banding," notes Gary Tischer of the Agassiz refuge staff.

It's Primary Election Time Again Already....

....and time for this editor to edge a little further out on the limb before reaching behind him for the chainsaw. Election prediction time is here—a time to forget about many past embarrassments in misreading the public and brazenly guessing what voters will do this time.

As always, we note that our guesses have no scientific basis and are not to be construed as an endorsement of any candidate. Any reasons given to rationalize our predictions are our own and it is not our intention to offend anyone. We respect anyone with the courage to run for public office and are grateful to those willing to take on the work of government in what are often thankless positions.

That said, let's take a look at the primary election ballot for Tuesday, September 15.

The state partisan primary ballot has some similarities and some major differences between party office situations. For instance, there is only one candidate in either party for the offices of State Representative in District 1B (the district including Thief River Falls) and U.S. Representative in Congress from the Seventh District. DFL incumbent Collin Peterson and Republican Aleta Edin are on the Seventh District ballot while Republican incumbent Tim Finseth and DFL candidate Lori Bergland Olson are on the House District 1B ballot.

For the offices of Governor and Lieutenant Governor, however, there is only token opposition on the Republican side for Norm Coleman and Gen Olson (in the form of Bill Dahn and James R. Kane Sr.) while the DFL side reads like a "Who's Who" list of DFL family names: Mark Dayton and Julie Jansen, Mike Freeman and Ruth Johnson, Hubert H. "Skip" Humphrey III and Roger D. Moe, Doug Johnson and Tom Foley, Ted Mondale and Deanna Wiener and Ole Savior and Ron Moseng.

Unless all but a few hundred Republicans in the state neglect to vote, Coleman and Olson are shoo-ins. On the DFL side, although Mike Freeman and Ruth Johnson won the party's endorsement, we're betting our whole 25 cents on the Humphrey-Moe pair. The DFL party leadership has been so far out of tune with the mainstream membership in the past few years that endorsement has little if any value. Humphrey solidified his position by forging a partnership with Moe—a partnership we can forsee as having Skip giving the speeches and Roger calling the shots. Don't bet on Moe being just another ribbon cutter as Lieutenant Governor.

We will not try to predict winners in the other state races where there are as many candidates on the ballot as there are informed voters in each county. Our predictions in these races will be deferred to the general election.

Of greatest interest locally is the three-way race for Pennington County Sheriff. This is a "good news, bad news" situation. The good news is that the voters can't really make a mistake on this one. The bad news is that only two of the three advance to the November general election and only one of those can be elected sheriff.

Since we know each of the three candidates on about an equal basis, we pored through the personal profiles each provided for this week's edition of The Times, hoping to find something that would sway a substantial number of voters. No luck there—all of the articles were well written with many strong points emphasized.

We sought the valued opinion of fellow staff members–then discounted the comment that "I'd bet on the two with the hair" as being adversely influenced by that person's professional association with the editor.

What to do?

We'll go with incumbent Sheriff Gerald Moe's endorsement and make Deputy Ray Kuznia our bet to get the most votes. And we'll give the nod for second place to Mike Hruby in a coin flip with Jim Hulteen. One of our "advisors" says a light voter turnout will benefit a "city" candidate over a "rural" candidate, which would favor Hulteen. That's an interesting observation. Our guess is that the voters will stay with candidates currently in the sheriff's department and opt for "youth movement" candidates.

Now we'll see how much crow is on the menu when the returns come in next Tuesday night.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I'm writing in regard to the recent farm crisis meetings held in northwest Minnesota. I appreciate politicians who will take the time to listen to the farming community on the issues that are facing our entire communities that are made up of local banks, school districts, elevators, hardware stores and other small businesses directly related to a farm economy.

It is very evident that some changes will have to occur as the current prices are plummeting and we have gone through at least three or four disaster years in the last six years. It was indeed discouraging to hear Congressman Collin Peterson talk about our trade agreements and how they affect our farm prices of today.

I believe it is important for our small farming communities to support the local farmers by writing to your state and federal representatives and giving them your views and support. They sometimes have a very hard time representing us among nonagricultural politicians and need all the help we can give them for support.

In the next few weeks they will be working on the "Farm Indemnity Program" in which they decide how to spend money to support the farmers. I would like to see the payments go through the FSA offices as the farmers have already certified their acres and I feel it would be the cheapest and most efficient way. I would suggest a dollar amount per acre as the fairest way to implement the program as we have all had disasters in yield, price and a combination of both in the last few years. Any other way seems to tie a lot of money up in administration costs, defeating some of the goals we set out to accomplish.

I feel the majority of farmers have been happy with the terms of the "Freedom to Farm" bill of 1996 except for the one important safety net of disaster payments. I believe farmers have no problem with getting less in farm payments as long as the price is there. Various yields are to be expected as a part of farming, but it is essential to have a price in place that can at least cover costs of production.

I would be for an insurance program where we can insure our product in a combined hail and disaster package at a dollar cost per acre and insuring for a set dollar per acre coverage as the hail insurance program is set at this time.

It is a great concern of mine that if the remaining farmers are not given extra help in these disastrous years, we will lose a generation of farmers that we can never retrieve. Who will teach another generation how to farm the land? How much would it cost to start a new farming operation in the future when we lose a generation of knowledge gained by on-the-job training? Do we want to lose citizens out of our schools, etc., to the big cities where there are many other problems? How much money will it cost to retrain these farmers in another occupation?

If it appears to non-farmers that we are getting a handout, please consider in what other occupations there are cost of living increases. I'm not against cost of living increases, but from a farmer's standpoint it has cost us a lot of money. Every time there is an increase, we pay more for our groceries, clothes, etc., as the general public does, however, the prices of our seed, fertilizer, fuel, chemicals and other business necessities also are affected, creating downward margins in the farming area. With lower grain and livestock prices there is no cost of living increases in the prices we receive—in fact, there have been far more decreases.

The farming community as we know it now can not keep on operating on price declines and never will be able to in the future. Until an end comes to this present crisis, we are all in need of your help to stand behind us as our representatives work to resolve the current situation. The cheapest food is being raised right now—can you tell it on your grocery bills? If not, it is another reason to get involved.

Respectfully,
Sharon Bring
Farm wife and Marshall County Commissioner
Strandquist, Minnesota

Mike Freeman has news conference in TR Falls today

DFL-endorsed candidate for Governor of Minnesota will make Thief River Falls one of his 40-city stops on a four-day campaign trip around Minnesota in a symbolic yellow school bus Thursday through Sunday.

Freeman has scheduled a press conference at Challenger elementary school today (Saturday, September 12) at 1 p.m. He informed the Northern Watch late last week that the school bus is to call attention to his emphasis on education in his campaign for governor. Other areas of priority, he said, are farm issues and prices and public safety, including crime prevention.

Freeman said his four-day tour will take him to all four corners of the state.

Northland Community and Technical College held its Homecoming Coronation Wednesday, September 9, at the college. Eric Cameron of Warroad, and Jenny Johnson of Goodridge were named King and Queen. Also introduced as Homecoming Royalty were: (front row, from left) Lori Hagen, freshman attendant from Gatzke, Malissa Lawrence, queen candidate from Thief River Falls, Amber Borg, queen candidate from Middle River, Kate Aamess, princess and daughter of Jeff and Janet Aarness, Forest Huset, prince and son of Sean and Nanette Huset, Stacy Narlock, queen candidate from Thief River Falls, Stephanie Wold, queen candidate from Thief River Falls, and Jami Schwartz, freshman attendant from Silver Bay; (back row) Matt Moen, freshman attendant from Fosston, Dwight Goodwin king candidate from Milwaukee, WI, Eric Reinbold, king candidate from Oklee, Jenny Johnson, queen, Goodridge, Eric Cameron, Warroad, king, Jesse Lunsetter, king candidate from Gatzke, Jed Efta, king candidate from Argyle, and Alex Anderson, freshman attendant from Grygla.

Appeal issued for Hoffard family in health situation

Friends of the Lowell and Janet Hoffard family are joining in making an appeal for funds to assist the family in its current health crisis.

A fund-raising event was held earlier this year in behalf of Janet Hoffard who had been diagnosed with cancer. Presently both Lowell and his wife are hospitalized at Grand Forks—he recovering from quadruple bypass surgery following a heart attack suffered three weeks ago and she with two brain aneurysms and yet undetermined treatment.

Friends are attempting to raise funds to meet the health insurance premiums necessary to keep their insurance in force. Checks for donations may be made out to the Hoffard Family Fund and mailed or delivered to First National Bank, P.O. Box 599, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Autumn Fest at Warren sponsored by history society

Marshall County Historical Society invites the public to attend its Autumn Fest 'n' Fair Sunday, September 13, at the Marshall county fairgrounds in Warren. The museum will be open from 1 to 5 p.m.

Activities offered range from eating tasty foods to viewing demonstrations of activities from years gone by. Two different machines will be used to thresh the oats remaining from demonstrations during the Marshall County Fair.

Special attention will be devoted this year to the story of the cattail baler—an operation developed and promoted by Olaf Ness in Holt. The cattail "fluff," which was identified as "typha," was used as a substitute for kapok in life preservers and other items during World War II. It was the only program of its type in the nation and should be of interest to many as a unique part of Marshall county history.

Space will be made available for a garden market and persons with a surplus of vegetables are welcome to check out the use of a stand. Anyone who would consider setting up for a flea market is also asked to call 218-745-4803.

Veterans Service Office to close

Pennington County Veterans Service Officer John Ellison's office will be closed Monday through Wednesday, September 12-14, while he attends the Minnesota Association of County Veterans Service Officers annual fall conference, and Monday and Tuesday, September 21 and 22, while he attends the MN/ND Department of Veterans Affairs training sessions.

from naturally occurring species. Gladioli can be found in virtually every color, except deep green and true blue, with ranges in shade markings and blends.

Stakes among the rows in the Wallace garden reveal the names of the many different gladioli — Skyline Whiskers, Chloe's Dream, Spiffy, Cool Whip and Devotion are among them. Fudge is a brown flower. Lew describes the Ebony Beauty as "like glistening black velvet." The word "wild" instantly comes to mind when viewing the vibrant, multi-colored Wild Thing.

Shapes of the florets also vary greatly and range from round to triangular to square. Some are plain petaled while others are ruffled. Sometimes the name hints at the flower's shape — Glittering Star and Ruffled Petticoat are examples.

Sizes of the florets range from the miniature to the giant gladiolus and are given number classifications between 100 and 500, the florets of the 100 are under 2 1/2-inches in diameter and the 500 are over 5 1/2-inches.

The texture of the florets also varies — some stiff and waxy and others soft and velvety.

The one thing all the glads have in common is their beauty. Few appreciate that beauty more than Lew and Tammy Wallace.

Lew points out that the flower's beauty is one of the reasons it is so commonly used in floral arrangements. Other favorable characteristics include its durability and long stem, allowing the florist to create large arrangements.

The corm of a newly developed gladiolus can cost between $4 and $7, but Lew explains that one can grow "beautiful and interesting glads" from corms that as little cost as 60 cents apiece. Many of the Wallace's glads are the creations of Carl Fisher. Fisher, now in his 90's, is a nursery owner from St. Charles, MN who has devoted much of his life to growing and developing gladioli. His business has combined forces with another Minnesota nursery, Blooming Prairie Gardens, to create the state's largest catalog of gladioli corms.

Lew and Tammy share the knowledge they've acquired from their experiences with their hobby with area garden club members and other interested gardeners.

While competing at shows they meet and enjoy others who share their passion for the gladiolus. Though the Wallaces are members of the Minnesota Gladiolus Society, the Winnipeg Dahlia and Gladiolus Society and the North American Gladiolus Council, Lew says that anyone can compete at the shows.

Because the flowers bloom about 60 to 100 days after planting, the competitions are held in August at the peak of the season.

Show schedules include the names or themes and criteria in the artistic category. "A Time to Relax," required an arrangement using candles. Another, with a Japanese theme, allowed the use of only one floret and one bud. The spike category is a specimen competition, and the decorative category involves the use of baskets, vases and large arrangements.

The props the Wallaces use in their arrangements are homemade or found around the farmyard, and many, like the tractor manifold, draw the attention of the judges, other exhibitors and spectators.

At the Minnesota State Fair exhibitors had the choice of either bringing their own flowers or using glads furnished for the fair by Blooming Prairie Gardens. With their vehicle loaded with props, Lew, Tammy and Marcus opted to use the furnished gladioli. With a commitment to a 60-plus cow dairy herd, just getting out of the yard is an accomplishment.

The Wallaces were up doing chores at 4:30 a.m. on Friday, August 28 and were on the road for the Twin Cities at 10:30. After encountering a traffic jam, they reached their destination at 6 p.m. From 8 p.m. that evening until 10:30 a.m. the following morning they designed floral arrangements for competition. While they didn't get to bed until 5 p.m. Saturday afternoon, the Wallaces were thrilled with their showing and Lew says, "refreshed on Sunday."

Not only is the couple competing against others in the advanced class but often, they vie against each other. The competition is friendly, however, with each asking the other for opinions, advice and encouragement. Marcus, a first grader, is up against other juniors, though his competitors are almost always more than twice his age.

Neither Tammy nor Lew has any type of formal training in floral arranging, with Lew saying that "experience is the best teacher."

Experience has obviously been his teacher for a long time. Hunker Flats Greenhouse will mark its 25th season next year. The business began as a 4-H project for Lew who grew up on the farm he now shares with his wife and son.

Evidence of the Wallaces' green thumbs can be found at Everybody's Market today in Thief River Falls and at the threshing bee in Strathcona tomorrow as well as future area fall festivals as the family offers peppers, watermelon, cantaloupe and ground cherries for sale.

When asked if the glads will ever be used commercially, Lew says that while they have provided flowers for a couple of family weddings, the glads are a hobby that he and Tammy intend to share with their son.

Raising feed, maintaining a dairy herd and greenhouse, transporting and selling produce on weekends must provide enough hard work for the ambitious young family.

The gladiolus is to be simply enjoyed for its glorious beauty and gives Lew, Tammy and Marcus the opportunity to express their creativity and share it with others.

An old tractor manifold was used by Lew Wallace to create this unique gladiolus arrangement.

Fosston incinerator shut down

"This facility has been well run and the operators have been very responsive in implementing controls to reduce dioxin emissions," said Lisa Thorvig, MPCA deputy commissioner. "The company recently added control equipment that injects powdered carbon into the incinerator ductwork. The carbon absorbs dioxins and in turn is later removed from the flue gases in the electrostatic precipitator."

Thorvig said the carbon injection system has been in continuous operation since August 24. Based on test results from other facilities using this dioxin control technology, MPCA expects the September test results to indicate compliance.

Minnesota rules allowed the company to continue to operate the facility for the purposes of compliance testing, provided that at least a 10-day notification period has been provided to the MPCA. The company did provide proper notification and conducted its compliance tests last week. The incinerator may be re-started once the company is notified by the MPCA that it has achieved compliance with emission standards. Preliminary test results should be available in the next few days.

Pancake breakfast at Embassy Center

Embassy Community Center in Fosston will host its annual Grandparents' Pancake Breakfast from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. on Sunday, September 13. The menu will include buttermilk pancakes, sausage and beverages. A free will offering will be taken with money raised going into the center's general fund.

Grandparents attending will receive a gift and be eligible for door prizes.

It's all about money!

Hay spoilage to a livestock producer is a matter of lost revenue. Just how much can you afford to lose?

A recent study found that unprotected round hay bales lose 40% of their feed value, a feed loss of $32.00 per ton. Why incur this loss?

A 50 ft. x 100 ft. Cover-All Truss Arch Shelter can protect over 500 bales of hay and provide ANNUAL FEED SPOILAGE SAVINGS IN EXCESS OF $17,000. It really is all about money!

Fertile hosts Flower City 50 Bike Race

Participants and spectators can get a sample of bicycle racing on Saturday, September 19, as cyclists ride in Fertile's 10th Anniversary "Flower City 50" Bike Ride/Race.

Registration for participants begins at 9 a.m. at the registration headquarters which will be at the Fertile Community Center. There is an entry fee of $15 to pre-register. Race day registration costs $20. Each entrant receives an official 1998 Flower City 50 t-shirt, and refreshments, plus an opportunity to win a variety of door prizes. Participants will compete for medallions for the top three male and female finishers in six different age categories.

The bike race begins at 10:30 a.m. For more information or to pre-register call Tim Driscoll at (701) 772-1222 or Wayne Gocken at (218) 574-2622.

The 50-mile course circles the Maple Lake and Union Lake area before returning to Fertile and finishing by the Fertile Fairgrounds at about 12:30 p.m.

The Flower City 50 was not held last year but it's back by popular demand. The Northern Star Cycling Club based in Grand Forks stepped in to help co-sponsor the event to keep this fall classic alive. Past participation levels have been around 75 with about half racing the course and half taking the 26 or 50-mile routes at a more leisurely touring pace.

Top finishers in the race average 25-miles per hour on the course and are often separated by seconds or fractions of seconds.

Both the start and finish of the race are great for spectators. Spectators at the start of the race will see racers at their best over sleek ultra-light bicycles, some weighing less than 20 pounds and costing between $2,000 to $3,000. Spectators at the finish will see riders jockeying for position, using up the last of their energy reserves to put on a final sprint to the finish.

Prowlers start strong in 3-1 win over RLCC

Come-from-behind efforts by Red Lake County Central kept the games close, but Thief River Falls' early success sparked the Prowlers past the Mustangs 15-11, 15-9, 9-15, 15-13 Tuesday in high school volleyball.

Thief River Falls started the night on the attack and had an 11-1 first game lead before Red Lake County Central rallied. A kill by Heather Schiefert pulled the Mustangs within 13-11, but an error at the service line sabotaged the comeback. The Prowlers followed with a spike by Lindsay Drury that was tipped out of bounds by the visitors and a point by Taya Hunt on a tie-up at the net that ended it.

It was more of the same in Game 2 when the Prowlers raced to a 7-0 headstart following back-to-back hits by Drury and Laura Follett that went through Red Lake County Central blockers.

The Mustangs again came back, but after pulling within 9-8, they missed two serves. The Prowlers' Becky Bray served consecutive aces, and Drury added one to reopen a 13-8 spread. It ended on a Red Lake County Central hit that sailed out of bounds.

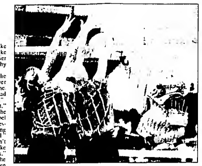
Red Lake County Central led from start to finish in Game 3. A 7-2 advantage was chopped to 8-7, but a kill by Erika Vettleson, an ace by Kelsey Lundeen and a well-placed point-producing shot by Vettleson against a suddenly reeling Thief River Falls defense reopened an 11-7 spread. Two Thief River Falls errors at the end provided Red Lake County Central with the final points of the game.

The Prowlers wrapped it up, but not without a struggle, in Game 4. Ahead just 10-8, Thief River Falls took charge when Julie Martell came off the bench to serve four straight points.

With both sides having trouble maintaining service, Red Lake County Central did manage to make it a 14-13 game before Thief River Falls wrapped it up on an ace by Drury.

"We were very happy with the performance," said Thief River Falls co-head coach Amy Roche. "We came out and got a big lead right away in the first two games."

"We dominated at the start," added Bruce Jean, who owns the other part of the co-head coach label for the Prowlers. "We were aggressive. We were blocking and putting the ball away every chance we had."



However, the Mustangs wouldn't go away, noted Roche. "Red Lake County Central kept coming back," she said. "I was pleased with the way our girls held them off when they did rally."

It was an error-filled night for the Mustangs, according to Red Lake County Central coach Nancy Bray. "We had trouble serving," she noted. "We fought back, but we were always falling behind. The communication was bad. They (Prowlers) killed us at the net."

Red Lake County Central leaders were Kelsey Lundeen with 24 kills, Heather Schiefert and Erika Vettleson 19 each and Sylvia Hilgeman 17. Tammy Berberich was credited with 43 assists. Thief River Falls was led by Becky Bray and Nicole Kopari with 15 and 14 kills, respectively. Drury and Kopari both finished with seven blocks, while Hunt had 25 assists and five ace serves.

It was the second win in three starts for the Prowlers and the first loss in two outings for the Mustangs.

Thief River Falls wound up with a clean sweep for the night with a 15-10, 15-11 junior varsity win and a 15-13, 7-15, 15-12 victory in the C squad match.

Northland 3-2 volleyball winner in MCCC opener

Kristin Halvorson had 11 kills and 4 blocks Tuesday to lead Northland past Itasca 3-2 in a Minnesota Community College Conference volleyball match played at Grand Rapids.

It was the 1998 MCCC Northern Division opener for the Pioneers, who are 2-3 overall. They won 15-2, 12-15, 17-15, 8-15, 15-5.

"We started out really well, then I think we got a little overconfident," reported Northland coach Mike Zachow, who watched the Pioneers lose a Game 2 lead and squander a Game 3 advantage before pulling an extended-point victory.

Itasca tied the game at 2-2, but Northland carried play in Game 5 for the win in front of a large crowd that showed up to watch a college-high school doubleheader.

"We had a quick start in the fifth game and took the crowd out of it," noted Zachow.

Halvorson's name appeared atop the statistical charts, but Zachow said the rest of the players all did their jobs, too. "It was a team effort," he explained. "We looked much improved."

Nordics edge Storm 3-2

Marshall County Central won its second straight match and went to 2-1 for the year Tuesday with a 3-2 high school volleyball decision over Stephen-Argyle.

The visiting Nordics prevailed 12-15, 15-7, 15-13, 9-15, 15-6.

"It was a roller coaster match," said Marshall County Central coach Mark Jorgenson. "It was up and down quite a bit. They (Storm) were really improved from when we saw them in the jamboree. They were very aggressive. They kept us on the defensive most of the night."

It was the Nordics' play off the bench that helped turn the tide, according to Jorgenson. "We didn't have any individual standouts," he said, "but the people off the bench did a nice job coming in and playing their roles. That was the difference in the match."

Cross country teams part of Roseau races

Warroad boys and Langdon, ND girls won team titles Tuesday at the Roseau Invitational high school cross country meet.

Thief River Falls boys placed fifth in a field of eight complete teams, while the Thief River Falls girls wound up fifth in a field of six.

While the place finishes weren't high, Thief River Falls coach Terri Ueland said the Prowlers nevertheless turned in solid performances. "The team ran really well," she said. "Our boys continue to improve and work hard. The girls also worked hard."

Individually, Ueland cited the efforts of top Thief River Falls place finishers Seth Harlow and Jacki Mooney. "They are both great leaders," she said.

Thief River Falls was a winner in the boys junior varsity portion of the meet with 37 points.

Parents being asked to supervise their children during athletic events

School District 564 officials are asking parents to please supervise their young children who are attending Thief River Falls athletic events during the 1998-99 school year.

Children are not allowed on the fields, gyms, courts or ice. Running and playing in the hallways, on or under the bleachers is not permitted.

"Your cooperation with supervision of your children is needed and will be greatly appreciated by school district event staff and the fans in attendance," said Jim Sims, the Director of Student Activities for School District 564.

MCC makes adjustments

Scott Parker saw some things that needed changing Friday (Sept. 4) when the first-year Marshall County Central head high school football coach watched his team lose a 46-7 season-opening decision to Norman County West in Newfolden.

Changes, he said, were in store for Game 2 Friday (Sept. 11) at Kittson Central.

"We'll be making some changes offensively and defensively to make better use of our talent," said Parker before taking on the Wolfpack. "You'll see a new team out there."

Fourteen fumbles created the biggest problem for the Nordics in Game 1. "We moved the ball pretty well, then we'd fumble," noted Parker. The fumbles stymied the offense and also presented Norman County West with field position. "It's hard to fault the defense when the other team only has to go 15 yards," offered Parker.

Norman County West led 18-0 at the end of the first quarter, and had a 40-0 halftime cushion.

Bjorn Halvorson reached the end zone and managed to gain 128 yards on 17 carries for the Nordics. Defensively, nose guard Tyler Knutson earned Player of the Game honors for an effort that included two unassisted tackles, an assisted stop, a tackle for a loss and a fumble recovery.

Blue Devils have odd schedule

A scheduling quirk left Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke without a high school football game this weekend and set the Blue Devils up with an unusual early-season Tuesday-Friday game combination next week.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke lost to Ulen-Hitterdal 28-14 in the Friday (Sept. 4) season opener at Ulen. The Blue Devils were idle this weekend, but will face Kittson County North Tuesday and will play Kittson Central Friday. Both games will be played at Grygla, with the Blue Devils meeting the Cougars at 3:30 p.m. and the Wolfpack at 4 p.m.

A 14-6 Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke halftime lead turned into a two-touchdown loss in the second half against Ulen-Hitterdal.

"The first half went really well," said John Wilebski, who was making his debut as the Blue Devils' head coach. "The second half was just the opposite. I really don't know what happened."

With Alex Holte, scheduled to be the starting quarterback, going down with a broken ankle suffered in practice just before the opener, the Blue Devils' offense had trouble in Game 1. Jacob Kennel was the top ground-gainer with 53 yards on 18 carries. The passing game netted just 11 yards on a 1-for-6 afternoon.

Stepping in for Holte, a junior, was sophomore Dustin Marquis.

Marquis, in addition to his suddenly-inherited quarterback duties, also played in the defensive backfield, and he played well in the secondary, pointed out Wilebski.

The Spartans' attack featured Aaron Seykora, who rushed for 112 yards and Lou Ihry, who had 102. Both scored twice. Mark Haugen scored the two Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke touchdowns.

TRF swims at Detroit Lakes

Detroit Lakes emerged a winner Tuesday in a quadrangular girls high school swim meet hosted by the Lakers.

Scoring totals showed Detroit Lakes with 405 points, Crookston 340, Thief River Falls 326, and Perham 108.

The Prowlers' Chelsea Haviland met sectional qualifying time while winning the 500 freestyle in 5:57.47.

Haviland also won the 100 breaststroke, Kristin Naplin took the 100 backstroke and Haviland, Lindsay Ehrenstrom, Julie Chrzanowski, and Andi Sorvig finished first in the 400 freestyle relay.

Those efforts, along with times turned in by Ehrenstrom in the 200 individual medley, Chrzanowski in the 100 butterfly and Sorvig in the 100 freestyle were Thief River Falls highlights, according to Prowlers coach Shon Thompson. "We had some good times, but had some trouble. We missed a lot of turns. I don't think they were mentally ready for the meet."

Gators lose 3-0 at Roseau

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River challenged favored Roseau for two games, but couldn't overtake the Rams and wound up losing ground at the end in a 15-10, 15-12, 15-4 high school volleyball loss Tuesday.

"The first two games we played as well as we've played so far," reported Gators coach Christine Adrian, whose team fell to 1-3 for the year. "We did a real good job blocking and played well defensively in the first two games. We had trouble with our serve reception and passing in the third game."

Kelsey Foldesi had six kills and Missy Smith had five for the Gators. Kelly Everson and Tara Severts wound up with 19 assists each for the visitors.

Wolverines win 3-2 match vs. Warroad

Goodridge/Grygla/Gatzke squeezed one-sided wins in Games 1, 3 and 5 around second and third game losses Tuesday for a 3-2 victory over host Warroad in high school volleyball.

It wasn't their best performance of the still-young 1998 season, according to Goodridge/Grygla/Gatzke coach Jean Schulz, but the Wolverines nevertheless won their their third straight match on the road 15-4, 14-16, 15-1, 8-15, 15-4.

"We were pretty flat," said Schulz. "We weren't moving."

DaNae Wiseth had 8 aces among her 28 hits to lead the Wolverines' statistics, with Mandy Sjulestad and Kathryn Stanley both picking up 4 aces on 19 and 15 hits respectively.

Dana Wiseth led with team with 16 service points, including five aces, while Abby Schuler had 13 points and two aces at the line. Schuler also had 17 aces on 70 set attempts.

SPORTS BRIEFS

NCTC player honored

Alex Anderson, a Northland Community and Technical College freshman runningback from Grygla, was selected as the Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division Offensive Player of the Week for his efforts in the Pioneers' 20-12 football loss to Fergus Falls Sept. 5.

Anderson carried 17 times for 92 yards and caught six passes for 37 yards against the Spartans.

The Pioneers, who lost to Central Lakes 39-6 in the 1998 season opener a week earlier, will host Ridgewater today (Saturday) in a 1:30 p.m. homecoming game at Prowler Field.

Ridgewater is 2-0.

TRF sophomore team defeats EGF by 28-16

Brian Loe scored on runs of 19, 19 and 50 yards Tuesday as the Thief River Falls sophomores beat East Grand Forks 28-16 in high school football.

John Sylvester opened the Thief River Falls scoring with an 8-yard first quarter touchdown that was followed by a Loe conversion run.

The 8-0 first quarter lead turned into a 22-0 halftime cushion on two Loe touchdowns and a conversion run by Paul Leister. It was 22-8 through three quarters.

Thief River Falls sophomores are 1-1.

Other Area Counties

For the most part, many incumbents in northwestern Minnesota will not face any opposition in the November General Election, or if they do, a primary election run-off was not required. The following should serve as a reminder to voters of the candidates who have filed for office.

In Kittson County, the following have filed for office: Joe Bouvette for County Commissioner District 3; Randy Nelson and Betty Younggren are vying for the County Commissioner District 5 position; Marilyn Gustafson for County auditor; Bob Laude for County Treasurer; Janice Klein for County Recorder; Ray Hunt for County Sheriff; and Roger Malm and Bruce Neilsen are vying for the County Attorney position. Soil and Water Conservation District offices include Ron Baldwin for District 1; and Joe Wilebski for District 5.

In Marshall County, the following have filed for office: Delray Larson for County Commissioner District 5; Terry Potucek and Calvin Melgard are vying for the County Commissioner District 1 position, Ben Kleinwachter for County Commissioner District 3, Marion Halvorson for County Recorder, Roy Swanson for County Auditor and Treasurer, Herbert Manstal and Greg Winskowski are vying for the County Sheriff office, and Michael Williams for County Attorney.

In Pennington County, the following have filed for office: Ray Kuznia, Jim Hulteen and Mike Hruby for the County Sheriff's office; Vickie Bjorgaard and Kim Carlson for the County Treasurer office, Ken Olson for County Auditor, Dave Olin for County Attorney, Ken Schmalz for County Recorder, Bob Carlson for County Commissioner District 2, Arden "Bud" Comstock for County Commissioner District 4, Richard Heinrichs, M.D., for County Coroner. In the Soil and Water conservation District race, Owen J. Stenvik and Raymond S. Olson filed for the District 1 supervisor office; Darrow Lundeen for District 5; and Linda Hanson for District 4.

In Red Lake County, the following have filed for office: Allan Morken, Randy Brekke and Steven Haugen for the County Sheriff office, Fern Brevik and Joyce Paquin for the County Recorder position, Lee Nielson and Keith Demarais for the County Commissioner District 5 office, Edward Larson for the County Commissioner District 3 office, Nancy Haglund for the County Commissioner District 1 office, Robert Schmitz for County Auditor, Jay Guillemette for County Treasurer; and Dan Geller for County Attorney. For the Soil and Water Conservation District Supervisor race, the following have filed: Leslie Hofstad for District 3; and David Bachand for District 5.

In Roseau County, the following have filed for office: Doran E. Homer and Alan Johnston have filed for the County Commissioner District 1 office; Orris A. Rasmussen and Daryl Mickelson have filed for the County Commissioner District 3 office; Mark Foldesi for the County Commissioner District 5 office; Anne Granitz for the County Auditor office; Diane Gregerson for the County Treasurer office; Bessie Fugleberg for the County Recorder office; Curt Hauger for the County Sheriff office; and Bryan Vandewege, MD, for the County Coroner office. Filing for the Soil and Water Conservation District offices was Larry Olson for District 5. No one filed for the District 2 office.

Fitting In

It's official: I'm a local. The time and place of my transformation are not exact—kind of like the move past puberty—but the evidence is incontrovertible. I used to believe that such indoctrination would be signified by the proper beer being placed, unrequested, in front of my favorite stool upon arrival at the local tavern each night. I guess "Lite" and "Shirley Temple" are easily confused.

Or I figured that my entrance into the "North of Highway 2" fraternity would be marked by the roadside breakdown of my pick-up when, instead of banging my head against the wheel and sobbing convulsively 'til help arrived, I would get out, lift the hood and instinctively rebuild the engine on my own with just a screwdriver and a vice-grip.

No, I still have the foam padding on the steering wheel, but I know I'm a part of the crowd here now, anyway. You see, I seem to have developed a permanent distrust of government.

A "sting" took place in northwest Ontario last month. Two of the biggest resorts on the Canadian side of Lake of the Woods were shut down, at least temporarily, in response to myriad allegations. Charges ran the gamut, from the sale of narcotics and the illegal transportation of alcohol to over-limits of walleye, the sale of black bear gall bladders, and the taking of fish from the protected confines of Shoal Lake.

Accounts of as many as 100 agents involved, some working at the lodges, and of scuba divers being employed to retrieve fish carcasses hidden in the depths of the lake, were common. Sound familiar?

Initially, I've got two hot-headed responses to the situation. First, isn't this the same resort community that illegally threw our environmentally depraved American butts off of "their" lake? There's got to be some appropriate "pot and kettle" response, doesn't there?

And second, where is the press on this one? When a "bust" of similar size and style came down this pike seven years ago, Grand Forks, Minneapolis, Duluth and Peking journalists had a field day with it. I think the Pope's visit to Blackduck was actually shunted to the second page for want of reproachful space. How many of you are even aware of this most recent incident?

Now, I take a step back and observe from a cooler perspective. Maybe there's more to this Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources propaganda than meets the eye. If they're willing to police their own people so fervently, perhaps it legitimizes the claims about pushing Americans out based on resource rather than economic concerns. Yeah, and the check is in the mail. Whew, I'm glad that level of understanding was a fleeting one!

No, it might take a few rational seconds to arrive here, but I'm a local now and that unctuous trust of big government has been shed. I watched the U.S. "sting" take place. I saw frivolous charges leveled at anyone silly enough to stick their noses out of an open window to comment on what was happening. I saw DNR higher-ups hang their heads apologetically in response to "party-fishing" charges as federal cowboys ran roughshod over a defenseless community. I saw local groups come together in the wake of the fiasco to establish local, historic use guidelines through which federal authority could not step.

And now that some federal body is looming over the shoulders of the very Ontario resorts that have changed my fishing existence so dramatically, I can't find it in my heart to jump on any fast-moving, vindictive bandwagon.

As a matter of fact, I'm doubtful about the credibility of the entire operation. I'm going to have to feel the money with my own hands and taste the gall bladder with my own tongue before even beginning to believe.

Separating truth from fiction in this instance will probably take a while. But to patiently wait for "official" government releases to clarify our questions is only step first, not step last. Rather than accepting the whole, as I might have done a decade ago, and assuming guilt 'til proven otherwise, I'm inclined to accept zero and work up from there, in spite of my unhappiness with the Ontario resort community.

I am, you see, a local now and well on the way to acquiring a small part of the independent nature of northern Minnesotans. Government can only work if I keep a good close eye on it.

By the way, that white truck you pass on 172 each day is mine, and if any of you are so inclined, maybe you should take a look at it. I think the whatzit is misaligned with the doodad.

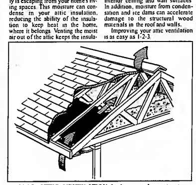
This Winter, Give Your Attic a Breath of Fresh Air

While people know it's important to seal drafts in the living area of their home for winter comfort, many don't know it's just as important to keep their attic breathing freely to keep the home warm. A poorly ventilated attic can create numerous wintertime problems that can reduce the effectiveness of insulation, cause roof damage, and create rotting in roof trusses and other timbers. Good attic ventilation is as important as enough insulation.

Although winter may seem cold and dry, unseen moisture constantly is escaping from your home's living spaces. This moisture can condense in your attic insulation, reducing the ability of the insulation to keep heat in the home, where it belongs. Venting the moist air out of the attic keeps the insulation dry and the home warm.

If an attic is not properly vented, heat escaping from the home is trapped and can increase the air temperature in the attic to begin melting snow on the roof. This melting snow will refreeze again when it reaches the eaves, causing ice dams. These ice dams, if severe enough, may cause this melting snow to back up under the shingles. Many times, so much water backs up that it drips through the roof deck into the attic insulation. Enough moisture buildup in the insulation eventually will damage interior ceiling and wall surfaces. In addition, moisture from condensation and ice dams can accelerate damage to the structural wood materials in the roof and walls.



Improving your attic ventilation is as easy as 1-2-3.

1. Install continuous ridge venting along the roof peak. This is where the hot air is exhausted from the attic. The ridge vent should be durable and weather-resistant. If it's impractical to install ridge vents, several traditional roof vents (roof louvers) should be installed as near to the ridge as possible.

2. Install continuous soffit-ventilation strips under the eaves. These soffit vents allow fresh, cooler air to enter the attic. Because air will be drawn into the vents, make sure they have a fine mesh screen to prevent insects from entering. Soffit vents should be made of aluminum or plastic to prevent rusting.

3. From inside the attic, install attic-ventilation channels between the rafters to maintain an unobstructed air channel over the insulation. Without these ventilation channels, a good flow of air up and out the ridge vent won't occur. These vents also prevent wind-blown insulation from plugging or blocking the airflow from the soffits. Ventilation channels traditionally have been made of cardboard or foam, but are being replaced by more durable and easily installed rigid plastic products. Made from black recycled plastic, ProVents, from ADO Products in Minn., cost less than $2 each.

Improving a home's attic-ventilation system, particularly in homes older than 10 years, is one of the simplest and most important tasks a homeowner can do to optimize energy efficiency of the home and prevent long-term moisture problems. Ask your local building-material retailer for more information on ventilation and insulation products. For information on ProVents from ADO Products, call 1-800-666-8191. FH986854

PROPER ATTIC VENTILATION is just as important as enough insulation in keeping your home comfortable during winter.

Perfect renovations are easy with visualization software that lets you virtually remodel your home before work begins. The easy-to-use Imagine Your Exterior

Remodeling program helps you plan remodeling, landscaping and decorating projects with confidence.

Fall Weather Is Perfect for Home-Remodeling Projects

Worried that summer heat and storms have damaged the exterior of your home? If summer heat has faded or blistered your exterior paint or siding, storms have damaged shingles, or rain has rotted the wood in eaves or window casements, you still have time to complete a fall remodeling job before the winter weather sets in.

Visualization software from Visual Applications, Inc. is a new tool that can save time, money and frustration on remodeling projects. It lets you virtually remodel your home on your PC computer, and even allows you to select the materials, colors and styles you want before the remodeling projects ever begin.

To start, simply input a photograph of your home into your PC. Then, click on the database of brand-name remodeling products to select any product you wish. Imagine Your Exterior Remodeling contains a library of hundreds of photos of windows, roofing shingles, siding, doors, exterior paint colors and more.

See your home painted in any of hundreds of colors, or with new siding installed. Virtually reroof your home with any of dozens of popular shingle styles, colors or textures. Try remodeling with new exterior windows, or a new porch, patio or entryway. Just click on any product you select, then drag and drop the images onto the area you've outlined on the screen.

This easy-to-use visualization tool even includes a helpful AutoScale feature that automatically keeps each design element in scale and perspective, regardless of the angle, height or width of the photograph. And, once you've selected the ideal new look for your home, it's easy to print a copy of your design and show it to the remodeling contractor of your choice.

To see for yourself how this imaginative software program can help you complete a perfect remodeling job, visit the Visual Applications Web site at http://www.visapp.com. You can order the software directly from Visual Applications, Inc at 1-888-374-6963, over the Internet or by visiting any major software retail outlet nationwide.

Quick Tips to Keep Wood Floors Looking Like New

Stop dirt at the door – Grit, gravel and dirt are enemies of a floor finish. Keep a proper doormat at all outside entrances and a walk-off mat inside each entry to eliminate dirt and grime. Vacuum or shake out these mats regularly.

Vacuum with a vengeance – Vacuum regularly with a vacuum sweeper. Do not use a beater-bar head or attachments intended for carpet. Avoid household dust treatments: these may make your floor slick or dull the finish. For a more thorough cleaning, use the cleaner or refresher recommended by your manufacturer. Never use water or oil soap-type products on your hardwood floor.

Wipe up spills before they spot – Urethane finishes are easy-care, not no-care. Use a damp cloth or paper towel to wipe up spills before they dry. Follow the manufacturer's recommendations to remove sticky spots or heel marks.

Get furniture off the floor – Round-headed chair glides and narrow wheels on furniture legs can scratch or dent your hardwood floor. For furniture that sits on the floor directly, use commercially made felt protectors or furniture coasters under all table and chair legs. Extremely heavy items like pianos should have weight disbursed at each leg by using weight cups.

Vinyl Siding: A Strong Defense Against High Winds and Weather

The vinyl siding on this house is CertainTeed's MonogramTM RigidFormTM 180 — engineered to withstand wind loads of up to 180 mph, surpassing wind-load standards in every state. A range of styles and colors complement any architecture.

It's true. Everyone talks about the weather, and most of us think there's nothing we can do about it. But as it turns out, there is.

Whether you live in tornado alley, in a coastal area susceptible to hurricanes, or anywhere subject to the El Niño-effect, there is a product that can protect your home against the high winds that accompany the harsh weather patterns sweeping the country. It's vinyl siding. But not just any siding. It's a series of products from CertainTeed Corporation that use RigidFormTM technology.

A TRUE TWISTER STORY

If this surprises you, just ask Keith Sandborg, a home builder in Minne-sota. Just months after completion of his home, a tornado packing winds of up to 220 mph plowed through Sandborg's community, resulting in millions of dollars worth of damage to homes and businesses.

Though not in the direct path of the tornado, Sandborg's neighborhood, just blocks away, suffered substantial damage primarily as a result of high winds. Sandborg's home, however, withstood the storm's fury with his siding completely intact. His neighbors, including his brother, were not as lucky — one lost all his siding, and his brother lost both siding and windows.

Sandborg credits the RigidForm technology with protecting his home and has since installed it on a number of homes in the area, including that of his brother.

THE TECHNDLDGY BEHIND THE PERFDRMANCE

Depending upon the product, RigidForm technology incorporates a number of engineered design features that account for the excellent performance in high-wind situations. RigidForm products have a special rolled-over nail hem that holds up to high winds — nails don't tear through the easy way that they do in ordinary designs. This feature also adds rigidity and helps to provide a straighter on-the-wall installation.

There are three products in the RigidForm series, giving various levels of protection. So, depending upon your needs, there is a product that will help protect your home in the most severe weather conditions.

180 MILES PER HDUR

The product Sandborg used on his home, MonogramTM RigidForm 180 siding, is CertainTeed's premium product using the technology. It incorporates a double-thick .088-inch nail hem, enabling the siding to withstand wind-load pressures of up to 180 mph, the highest wind-load resistance of all the company's vinyl siding products.

In addition, Monogram uses the exclusive CertiLockTM post-formed positive lock system, which has self-aligning multiple bends that snap together for a consistent application from panel to panel. A true .044-inch thickness lends added strength and durability, and a 3/4-inch panel projection creates exceptional rigidity for straighter on-the-wall performance.

By withstanding wind loads of up to 180 mph, Monogram far surpasses the wind-load standard of 150 mph recommended in hurricane-prone areas like the Florida and Texas coastlines. Even better, homeowners who choose Monogram do not have to sacrifice color and styling for performance.

The product is available in the industry's widest array of colors including unique and darker hues as well as natural wood-tone blends. Decorative trim in coordinating colors includes wide corner posts, window and door trim, crown molding, and even corner blocks with rosettes. Monogram is offered in four classic styles: Double 4-inch Rough Cedar Clapboard; Double 4-inch Smooth Brushed Clapboard; Double 5-inch Rough Cedar Clapboard; and Double 5-inch Rough Cedar Shiplap.

160 MILES PER HDUR

Featuring a rolled-over nail-hem design that provides wind-load resistance of up to 160 mph, MainStreetTM RigidForm 160 siding exceeds wind-load standards in every state, making it an excellent value at a mid-range price point.

Eight classic styles and finishes are available in the MainStreet line: Triple 3-inch Smooth Brushed Clapboard, Double 4-inch Smooth Brushed Clapboard, Double 4-inch Woodgrain Clapboard, Double 5-inch Woodgrain Clapboard; Double 4-inch Woodgrain Shiplap; Double 5-inch Woodgrain Shiplap; Single 8-inch Woodgrain Clapboard, and Single 6 1/2-inch Smooth Brushed Beaded. There are 14 Main-Street colors available and a variety of matching and contrasting trim.

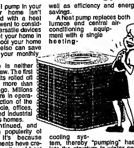
135 MILES PER HOUR

For high performance at a more economical price, Hamilton Park® RigidFormTM 135 resists winds of up to 135 mph, giving homeowners a good hedge against the occasional high winds they might experience during the year.

The siding is available in four popular styles, each in a low-gloss woodgrain look, including: Double 4-inch or 5-inch Clapboard, Double 4 1/2-inch Shiplap; and Triple 3-inch Clapboard. There are 10 colors and a range of matching and contrasting trims from which to choose.

In addition, RigidForm products offer a number of standard CertainTeed features. They carry a lifetime limited warranty, clear-through color so scratches won't show, and never need painting or sealing. Regular washing is all that's needed to keep the siding looking like freshly painted wood.

These products also carry the Vinyl Siding Institute's Certification, verifying that they meet or exceed the industry standard for vinyl siding.



For more information on RigidForm technology or any of CertainTeed's building products, visit the company online at http://www.certainteed.com or call 1-800-782-8777.

Heat, Cool and Save Energy With a Heat Pump

Is there a heat pump in your future? If your home isn't already equipped with a heat pump, you may want to consider one of these versatile devices that not only heat your home in the winter and cool your home in summer, but also can save you money on your monthly energy bills.

A heat pump is neither miraculous nor new. The first factory-made units rolled off production lines more than three decades ago. Millions of heat pumps are in operation in every section of the country — schools, offices, hotels, stores and industrial plants, as well as homes.

Why the continued, and even increasing popularity of heat pumps? It's because design improvements have created a new generation of heat pumps that offer reliability, as well as efficiency and energy savings.

A heat pump replaces both furnace and central air-conditioning equipment with a single heating-cooling system, thereby "pumping" heat into the structure in winter and into the outdoors in summer. In summer, an air-to-air pump operates as a standard air conditioner, collecting heat from the air in your home and expelling it outside. In winter, the process is reversed so that the heat pump collects heat from outdoor air to warm the air inside your home.

If you would like to learn more about how a heat pump can fit into your life — warming, cooling, conserving energy and saving money — write to the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute, 4301 North Fairfax Drive (No. 425), D-HT98, Arlington, Va. 22203, for a free brochure, "Heat, Cool, Save Energy With a Heat Pump." You can find out more information about air-conditioning and refrigeration issues on the Internet at ARI's home page: http://www.ari.org.

Faux Designs Bring Fashion to Your Home

The beauty of faux design is that you can get great looks without the cost and upkeep of the real thing. The authentic design of this resilient flooring from the Mannington Naturele collection is hard to tell from actual stone, due to a patent-pending texturing process. It's a beautiful, comfortable, easy-care choice for this garden-themed decor with its lattice-work wood molding, wrought-iron furniture and botanical prints.

Today, some of the best home furnishings, fabrics, floorings and decorative finishes come in a beautiful array of faux patterns. Whether you're interested in creating realism, evoking nostalgia, personalizing your home or are sensitive to conserving the earth's natural resources, faux design can evoke mood, style and richness just as well as the real thing.

According to Stuart Beattie, vice president of styling and design for flooring manufacturer Mannington, faux styling puts the look of world-wide resources in reach. "Faux finishing has a distinguished history and provides a rich, even extravagant look for those of us who can't go to Italy to select the finest marble, or those among us who never would dream of using real animal skins. And, faux materials usually are more affordable than the real thing," he says.

Here's a look at some of your best options.

Home furnishings — Perhaps you love priceless antiques or the look of rich leather or suede upholstery, but can't get past the cost and upkeep factors. Then, a faux rendition is a better choice for you. As Beattie recommends, "Faux finishes replicate the aging of natural materials, the warm patina our grandparents had in their furniture. In today's hurried world, you can select furnishings that create the atmosphere you want without needing the original materials or all the time for aging."

Some furniture makers are printing the look of expensive wood onto a less pricey wood for an upscale look. Such techniques stem, in part, from conservation efforts to help preserve rare or rain-forest timber like mahogany, teak and rosewood. Furniture makers also recognize that many homeowners have good taste and the desire to create a fashionable look, but are looking for options at a reasonable cost.

Flooring — From a style and utilitarian point of view, faux finishes make great sense for flooring. As with furniture, selecting a faux-wood option means capturing the rich, warm look of the real thing, without the upkeep hassles and costs. Laminate flooring replicates the look of exotic, extinct and old growth woods — providing all the splendid character and none of the guilt. Likewise, choosing a marble, slate or granite resilient flooring look-alike is a good idea for highly used areas in the home — kitchens, dining areas, bathrooms — since the porousness of real stone makes them difficult to keep stain-free. Mannington's patent-pending NatureFormTM wearlayer technology adds the texture of the real wood, stone, ceramic tile and brick to its resilient flooring, for incredible depth and design authenticity. Laminate and vinyl floors are durable and easy to maintain, since you don't have to worry about periodic resealing or resurfacing.

Fabrics, wall coverings and textiles — Faux finishes for wall decoration go back hundreds of years. They widely were used in castles, palaces and cathedrals when marble and other costly or hard to get materials were replicated on wood, reports Beattie. "Faux finishes have even greater versatility as a decorating tool now, with a huge selection of wallpaper, painting kits and fabrics available that tie in well with today's eclectic design trends from Neo-Classical to Ethnic Tribal." Designs include faux animal skins (leopard, tiger, polar bear, etc.), woods (like bamboo), textile weaves (imitating basket patterns and weaves of exotic grasses), leather, and cork. Some paints can be applied to simulate the look of suede. Fabric and wall-covering designers and manufacturers also are creating decorative touches that you won't necessarily find in a "real" version, like the very textured looks and effects of crushed paper or scrunched up raw silk. Textures are being duplicated for a more three-dimensional look with high-tech embossing.

Even metal looks are making a big splash in wall coverings, upholstery, furnishing finishes and fabrics. The look of brass, steel, silver, copper, iron, gold, bronze or aluminum — shiny new or pleasantly patinated — provide a look that can be both soft and hard, cool and warm, ancient and modern. Metal looks are being used to create ambience, provide eye-catching home accents, and add a unique layer of design interest. Faux looks include warm metal finishes for furniture, burnished paints for ceramic pieces, and metallic yarns and threads that add texture and shimmer to fabrics.

A decorating item for the home can be meaningful because it's an heirloom, or because you picked it up traveling. Likewise, a faux look can create a good feeling because it reminds you of family, history, places you've been or want to go. It creates a connection beyond the day-to-day. Fooling the eye with faux design has found its place in the home, and it looks fabulous. For more information about faux-flooring options, visit the Mannington Web site at http://www.mannington.com or call 1-800-443-5667.

Plug Into Extension Cord Safety

Do you have several electrical appliances plugged into an adapter in a single outlet? Do your extension cords run underneath rugs? Have you ever stuck a fork into the toaster?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, you have created a potential electrical hazard.

Many of the thousands of electrical fires that cause hundreds of deaths and injuries each year could be avoided if people were better educated about electrical power, according to Woods Industries, a leading manufacturer of electrical extension cords.

As a maker of extension cords and other electrical products, Woods Industries offers several suggestions for keeping your household safe throughout the year.

Extension Cords

• Only use extension cords that have been listed by a recognized certification organization.

• Check that the amperage ratings for extension cords are higher than the electrical products they are used with. To find this information, check owner's manuals and electrical labels.

• Do not plug one extension cord into another.

• Check that the cord is not wrapped around itself or another object.

• Keep cords out of your path or work area. When using electrical equipment outside, use only weather-resistant, heavy-gauge extension cords marked for outdoor use.

Unplugging Your Products

• Keep all electrical products and cords, like radios, hair dryers or curling irons, away from water while plugged in.

• Never use a knife or fork to remove a stuck slice of bread or bagel while the toaster or toaster oven is still plugged in.

• Never reach into water to retrieve an appliance that has fallen in without first unplugging the appliance.

Prairie restoration — Chosen with care, contemporary colors and easy-care vinyl siding and aluminum soffit systems enhance the character of older houses, like this sturdy Midwestern classic. (Photo: Rollex Corp.)

Restore Classic Looks With Contemporary Colors

Homeowners Don and Diane Schmidt wanted to brighten up the exterior of their sturdy, classic Midwestern house and restore its original character, but they didn't want to saddle themselves with the classic problems of wood siding: perpetual upkeep and expense.

Previous owners had sided the 1904 prairie-style house near Chicago with dark brown asphalt shingles that were cracking and crumbling. The plain, dark exterior obscured attractive architectural details, and the house seemed lost in its own shadows.

"We wanted the look of restoration," says Don, but without the hassles of periodic repainting.

They chose a complementary color scheme of siding-system products manufactured by Rollex Corp. — vinyl siding and shutters for resistance to dents and scratches, and aluminum soffit, fascias, gutters and downspouts for durability and cleanly tailored lines.

In choosing a color scheme, the Schmidts first decided on a light color scheme versus a dark one. Light colors make a house look larger, more prominent and closer to the curb. Dark ones create more of a private, secluded aura.

They familiarized themselves with color possibilities by reviewing combinations suggested by professional designers. They also stood outside the house and examined actual color samples in daylight.

They sought out a siding color that looked good with the existing roof and fit in with the neighborhood. Next, they picked a color for elements that visually frame the house: soffit, fascias, rainware and trim. For these, they chose a lighter, subtly contrasting color. Lastly, they chose an accent color for shutters and other details.

"It's like having a whole new house," Diane says. "People driving by stop to look at it."

For more information or help on choosing exterior colors, write to Rollex Corp., Dept. CV-2, 2001 Lunt Ave., Elk Grove Village, IL 60007, or visit the company's Internet site at http://www.rollex.com.

The Four Fix-It-Ups for Fall

Pruning and other fall chores can be made easier if you have the right tools.

Ol' Man Winter is coming — quickly. We hear the call-to-action every fall, but rarely do we prepare enough for the damaging (and expensive) effects of winter. However, you can save yourself a lot of work and money come springtime by completing these tasks before the holidays.

IN THE GUTTER

Waiting until spring to work on your gutters is an expensive mistake, so you need to roll up your sleeves now. Start by cleaning your gutters of all leaves, twigs and other debris. Gutters trap runoff that freezes, risking ice buildup and severe damage to your gutters and even the roof. For a stubborn gutter that constantly clogs, buy a downspout guard. This wire basket prevents leaves and pinecones from accumulating.

A clean gutter doesn't mean you can't have water damage. Many homeowners ignore where their gutters empty. Make sure to keep flowing water clear of your foundation, driveways and sidewalks. Otherwise, you may have water seepage problems in your basement as well as water-damaged siding and trim.

You can avoid water damage by adding gutter extensions or reshaping those already there. Just cut the gutter or downspout to size, then crimp the edges for easy joining of the sections.

SEIZE THE "MOW"MENT

Preparing your mower and other lawn equipment for winter is essential, especially if they spend time in a chilly garage or shed. Begin by draining the old oil from the crank case, and fill it with fresh oil. If you can't drain the gasoline before winter, fill the tank with new gasoline and add stabilizer according to your mower's instructions. Failure to do this can result in a cracked gas tank or a damaged motor next spring.

But don't stop there. Thoroughly clean the underside, including the blades. Avoid the spring rush, and have them sharpened now. And, make sure you empty the grass clippings. Despite sturdy construction, many cloth lawn mower bags will begin to disintegrate after a few months of being full. Your mower takes a beating during the summer, and these tips will save your lawn from choppy cuts the following spring.

GIVE YOUR TREES A TRIM

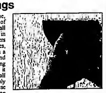
Although it's easier said than done, pruning is essential for your trees. Pruning not only removes dead and diseased branches, but stimulates growth as well. Unfortunately, there is no perfect time to cut unsightly or unhealthy branches. However, it is best to prune trees when they are dormant — a time that is difficult to gauge since all plants are different. Keep in mind that cold weather brings on dormancy, making fall the ideal time to prune away. A full view of the shape of the branches also helps when it comes to identifying trouble spots.

Removing diseased branches lengthens a tree's life and helps healthy parts of the tree flourish, even during harsh winter months. If you're not sure what to prune, begin by looking for dead branches. Also, broken branches always should be pruned in order to spurt new growth and keep the tree healthy.

When working on trees and plants, you will need a pair of shears and a pruning saw. For plants and small branches, hand and lopping shears easily will remove both easy- and hard-to-reach branches. When working with large and heavy branches — usually anything more than 1-inch thick — a pruning saw with a curved-blade saw will keep your work safe and cause less strain on the hand and arm. Remember to cut upward from the bottom of the branch to prevent the limb from cracking and peeling bark from the tree.

STRIP AND SAVE

Weather-strip (that is), and you'll save a bundle of cash in the process. Weather-stripping helps keep heat in and cold out, while saving you up to 35 percent on your heating bill. Weather stripping can be installed on the door and window frames, as well as door bases. Because many weather-stripping kits don't stick well in the cold, postpone that barbecue and insulate your home before the nasty weather hits.



Weather-stripping a door can be done by just about any do-it-yourselfer. Installed on the door frame, interlocking metal channels offer a tight seal. With the aid of a hacksaw, tape measure and hammer, the hinges won't let the cold past the porch.

Installing sweeps to your door base is an effective answer to your air-leakage problems. Useful for flat thresholds, they can be found in almost any color to blend with your home decor. To install, you will need a screwdriver, tape measure and a small handsaw which cuts through both wood and metal.

When you're inspecting your doors, don't forget about the leakiest door in your house — your garage door. It is easy to install weather stripping between the door and foundation, and will prevent dirt, cold air and even small rodents from entering your home to escape the big chill.

By crossing these simple tasks off your fall checklist, you will save both time and money in the long haul to spring. Remember, what you don't do can cost you.

Texture Paints Hide Imperfections and Add Interest To Plain-Looking Walls and Ceilings

Give a great look to walls and ceilings with Texture Paint which masks cracks, nail holes, drywall joints and other imperfections. Here, a Spanish look is created by applying the paint with a loop texture roller and drawing a broad knife over the surface. Other creative looks can be achieved with brushes, combs and sponges.

If you own an older home, you've probably noticed signs of settling over the years — small cracks and crevices appearing in walls and ceilings, or at the corners of doors and windows. Sometimes, these flaws can be repaired with a little spackling compound and paint. In other cases where settling has caused greater unevenness, it might seem necessary to install new drywall or paneling, or apply new plaster or wallpaper. In these instances, texture paints are an affordable, but often overlooked alternative for hiding flaws and bringing new life to rooms.

Texture paints give walls and ceilings a great look. They mask cracks, nail holes, seams, drywall joints and other unsightly imperfections. They also add depth, dimension and individuality to a room's decor. Just as homeowners today are painting rooms with sponged- and ragged-faux finishes to add texture, tone and interest, texture paints are another way to achieve this look, allowing you to create your own unique patterns and designs.

A leading manufacturer of texture paints, Bondex International makes two premium-quality finishes, Smooth Texture Paint and Rough Texture Paint, which are easy, convenient and fun to use. Both are ready-mixed and can be applied with a roller or brush. There's no mixing, no mess and no need for special spray equipment. You can create a variety of patterns using brushes, rollers, or simple tools like a trowel, putty knife, sponge, comb or whisk broom. Applying the paint with a roller, for example, gives the wall a stippled look. Brushes, sponges and combs, among other things, can be brushed across the wet paint to create swirl patterns. Application is practically "goof-proof." You can experiment with different techniques by applying the paint on a piece of scrap wallboard or cardboard. If you make a mistake, simply re-roll and begin again. The designs only are limited by your imagination.

With their resin-rich formulas, Bondex Texture Paints have excellent adhesion to a variety of interior surfaces like drywall, plaster, cement block, poured concrete, metal and wood. They are crack-resistant, and can be topcoated with a high-quality water-based or oil-based finish paint to match any decor.

The paints can be found at most stores carrying paint and decorating products. For more information call (800) 225-7522 or visit the company's Web site at http://www.bondex.com.

With Three Homes Broken Into Every Minute — Burglaries Are an Epidemic

The typical home burglar rarely knows his victims. He or she chooses a target based on relative ease of entering the house, apartment or condominium. And, according to the most recent FBI crime statistics, people still are making it too easy for burglars to strike their residences.

More than a quarter of all residential burglaries happen without forced entry, and more than half occur in broad daylight. In fact, in the nation's cities, home burglaries that aren't break-ins are the only type of burglaries on the increase, up about 2.7 percent in 1996 from the previous year.

"What these statistics tell us is that too often burglars are entering homes through unlocked doors or windows, and people are not using easily obtainable devices to prevent burglaries," says Michael Bruening, executive director of the Burglary Prevention Council, a national nonprofit organization dedicated to the prevention of residential burglaries. "The vast majority of these types of burglaries can be prevented with attention to the simplest of security measures and stepped-up alertness."

Statistics Are Only Part of the Story

Statistics confirm that the number of burglaries nationwide continues to decline. The volume dropped 4 percent in 1996 from the previous year and 5 percent during the first six months of 1997. Plus, burglaries are down 23 percent since 1987. However, according to Bruening, people should not be led into a false sense of security. Although incidents are down, fallout still is huge. Average dollar loss per burglary is on the rise. And, the chances of becoming a victim still are astronomical. One in about every 2[?] people was a victim of some type of property crime in 1996, with home burglary being the most prevalent of those crimes. Residential burglaries in 1996 totaled 1,241,856, or 103,488 a month, 24,872 each week, 3,696 per day, 154 each hour and almost three every minute.

"Burglary remains more than just a crime statistic and a simple offense," Bruening says. "It is a serious invasion of person and privacy that can lead to more destructive offenses like robbery, arson, assault, rape or even murder. For that reason, in the unfortunate event of a break-in, one should never confront a burglar. Stay out of the way, allow him or her out and then call the police."

There's No Place Like Home — For a Burglar

A burglar is twice as likely to rob a home than a place of business, and the more inviting a home is, the better chance he or she will choose it as a target. Unlocked doors are the ultimate welcoming gesture, Bruening points out. Prolonged darkness, excessively shady trees and bushes, and piled up newspapers, mail or flyers also are sure to catch a burglar's attention.

The Burglary Prevention Council recommends that homeowners first perform security evaluations of their homes to determine weaknesses, and then address those trouble spots. "In many cases it takes only a little time, effort and sometimes no money at all to institute reliable security measures that will convince a burglar that your home is not the easiest target nor worth the time," Bruening says.

When it comes to safety and the security of loved ones, homeowners can't afford to take any chances.

For more information or tips on how to better home security, write to the Burglary Prevention Council, 221 North LaSalle St., Suite 3500, Chicago, Ill 60601-1520.

Pipeline break causes Plummer evacuation

Voluntary move was precaution due to strong odor from crude oil spill

On September 16 at about 8:30 p.m. a crude oil leak on a 26-inch diameter pipeline owned by Lakehead Pipe Line Co. occurred just south of the company's Plummer Station. Because of the obnoxious, although relatively harmless odor, and the fact that crude oil is flammable, the community of Plummer was evacuated. On Thursday, officials were keeping everyone, including news media, a safe distance from the site of the spill.

by David Hill
Associate Editor

A voluntary evacuation of Plummer (pop. 279) was conducted Wednesday night, September 16, following a crude oil break in a Lakehead Pipe Line pipe near Plummer.

Red Lake County Sheriff's department received a report from Lakehead Pipe Line at about 8:47 p.m. that they were shutting down the pipeline because of a pressure drop. Almost simultaneously, officials began receiving complaints of obnoxious fumes.

John Hayes, district manager for Lakehead, said Lakehead Pipe Line control center had picked up a pressure drop in the line and started receiving odor complaints shortly thereafter. The pipeline was shut down and an individual was then sent in to determine the location and verify a break in the line.

The break occurred near the intersection of Highway 59 and Red Lake County 1 south and east of Plummer near a Lakehead Pipe Line station.

Hayes said in a letter to residents of Plummer, that "A decision was made to evacuate the surrounding area as a precaution. The odor of the crude oil was strong, although normally there are no health hazards for residents or others outside the spill area. As well, crude oil can be flammable. For these two reasons, a joint decision was made to err on the side of caution and initiate an evacuation."

Estimates are that 3,500 barrels of crude oil spilled from the break. (A standard barrel in U.S. measure contains 42 gallons.) Hayes said they are still investigating the cause of the break. He characterized it as a "fair sized leak". Although any leak, he said, is serious, it did not pose an environmental risk. He added that there was no threat to the community's water supply.

Hayes said the odor is stronger at first and as time passes it diminishes. It does not pose a serious health risk.

The Red Lake County Sheriff's department said a few people were taken to Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls. Those people most affected by the fumes were said to be more susceptible to respiratory problems.

As of Thursday morning, the residents of Plummer were free to return to their homes and school was in session.

Red Lake County Sheriff's department, however, was advising no traffic on Red Lake County 1 east from Plummer toward Oklee. The public is asked to stay away from the area to allow clean-up crews room to complete their work.

Hayes said the evacuation was voluntary. He thanked the residents of Plummer for their cooperation and patience and said Lakehead Pipe Line would pay for costs associated directly from this incident, including room and board of residents who evacuated their homes.

Hayes said three clean-up crews had been dispatched to the site. (A crew generally consists of seven individuals.) Two crews were on the site most of the night and a third was on its way. In addition he had contacted numerous contractors who are on retainer to assist in Ray Kuznia and Michael Hruby will face each other for Pennington County Sheriff in the general election on November 3. Kuznia and Hruby finished close enough for the votes received by James Hulteen, the third candidate for county sheriff, to seem very important for the general election.

Turnout for the primary election in Pennington County was relatively good. As of 7 a.m. on election day there were 7,055 individuals registered to vote in Pennington county. A total of 3,004 voted on Tuesday. In 1994, there were 7,300 voters registered and 1900 voted (one local race that year). In 1996, there were 7,336 voters registered and 678 voted. There weren't any local races that year.

The nearly 50 percent turnout in Pennington county this year was very good.

According to the county auditor's office, 333 people registered to vote on election day, which is a comparatively large number of people to register on an election day. Election day results also show that 53 absentee votes were cast.

Election results show that Ray Kuznia received 1,408 votes, Michael Hruby 1,218, and James Hulteen 308.

Upon examining the results a little more closely, they show that Kuznia carried 21 of the 34 precincts. Hruby carried 12 while Hulteen carried only one of the 34 precincts. Kuznia carried eight of the 10 precincts in Thief River Falls, and the City of Goodridge, but not the City of St. Hilaire. Hruby carried the City of St. Hilaire. Kuznia also carried 12 of the 22 remaining rural precincts.

In the partisan primary, which allows voters to cast votes only in one party, the county auditor's office noted that a relatively large number of ballots had to be invalidated because voters crossed party lines casting votes in each party.

In the primary election for U.S. Representative District 1, Pennington County voters cast 1,713 votes for the DFL candidate, Collin C. Peterson, and 470 votes for the Republican candidate, Aleta Edin.

In the primary election for State Representative, District 1B, in Pennington County, 1,451 votes were cast for the DFL candidate, Lori Bergland-Olson, and 581 for the Republican candidate, Tim Finseth.

In District 1B with 100 percent of precincts reporting, the DFL candidate, Lori Bergland Olson received 2,618 votes or 72.9 percent of votes cast, and the Republican candidate, Tim Finseth, received 973 votes or 27.1 percent of votes cast.

In the primary election for Governor and Lieutenant Governor, Pennington County DFL voters cast 104 votes for Dayton and Jansen, 124 for Freeman and Johnson, 905 for Humphrey and Moe, 613 for Johnson and Foley, 116 for Mondale and Wiener, and 8 for Savior and Moseng.

In the primary election for Governor and Lieutenant Governor, Republican voters in Pennington County cast 479 votes for Coleman and Olson, and 74 for Dahn and Kane Sr.

The candidates of Ventura and Schunk, representatives of the Reform Party, received 29 votes in Pennington County.

New Flyer officials study expansion

Crookston - Officials from New Flyer of America are currently conducting a feasibility study regarding the possibility of expanding the company's final assembly plant in Crookston by as much as 70 percent.

New Flyer is swamped with orders with the Crookston plant, at one point, carrying a 90-week backlog of orders. Even though the company recently expanded its massive Winnipeg plant, the "Buy America" law requires manufacturers to produce a certain amount of their products in the continental United States meaning that more must be done at the Crookston plant. Crookston Daily Times

Paradis Mail Service, Inc. receives award

Brooks - Paradis Mail Service, Inc. of Brooks has received, for the second year in a row, a most prestigious award from the United States Postal Service-National Mail Transportation Purchasing. The company was awarded the Eagle Spirit Award in recognition of exemplary service provided to the Postal Service.

The company is an independent mail transportation contractor owned by four Paradis brothers: Arnie, Roger, Bryan and Lonnie. They have 32 trucks and 40 employees. The McIntosh Times

Open enrollment factor in Indus student count

Indus - Open enrollment is again a major factor in holding the student count up at the Indus School.

School officials reported 169 students on hand for the opening of the school year. Of those 169 students, only 88 actually live in the Indus attendance area of School Dist. 363.

Most of the out-of-area students come from International Falls with a few from Lake of the Woods and Littlefork. The Baudette Region

Final mass said at St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church

Plummer - After 86 years, St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church closed officially after a final Mass was said there on August 30.

A shortage of priests and the fact that the priests currently serving this area are being stretched too far are the reasons cited for the closing.

Most of the church's members will most likely join St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Brooks. Following the final service, members gathered at the front of the church for a photograph and enjoyed a picnic at the park. The Oklee Herald

Senior golfer shoots 38 at Win-E-Mac

Erskine - A few days after his 80th birthday, Roy Schleicher shot the best round of his golfing career — a 38 on the Win-E-Mac golf course.

According to his partners, he made about five putts between eight and 12 feet long and one putted the six holes he parred. Schleicher and his buddies golf two or three times a week. The McIntosh Times

Win-E-Mac residents build school playground

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

While Rome wasn't built in a day, Fort Win-E-Mac was. The fort is part of the wonderful new playground at the recently completed Win-E-Mac School. After months of planning, about 200 volunteers gathered last Saturday to build the massive structure, constructed mostly of wood and tires.

Planning began in January. As the new Win-E-Mac School was being built, a special projects committee formed. Various projects were categorized, and a number of smaller groups formed. One of those groups was a playground committee.

The playground committee studied catalogs offering various playground equipment. One of its members, Jeff Nornes, was disappointed with what he saw. Most of the available equipment was plastic and costly.

Jeff was more interested in a wooden play structure, and he was aware that there were a number of community-built playgrounds of this type around the state in communities that included Grand Rapids, Remer, Blackduck and Monticello.

Jeff is the father of two elementary school age sons and an infant daughter, and he and his family visited playgrounds in those communities. "My kids really perked up and enjoyed themselves at the playgrounds," he says. "They really piqued my interest."

Jeff was so interested, in fact, that he talked to the principals at the schools where the playgrounds were found and the chairs of the committees who had organized construction. He discovered that those who had participated in such projects were really excited about what they had accomplished.

With information and photographs of the playgrounds he had visited, Jeff went back to the Win-E-Mac committee and told the other committee members about what he

As of last Saturday, children at the newly constructed Win-E-Mac School also have a new playground. After months of planning and fund-raising activities, about 200 volunteers from the Wingar, Erskine and McIntosh communities gathered on September 12 to build the 33 structures within the playground. Work began around 7:30 a.m., and by 5:30 p.m. the playground was complete.

Dry run provides needed experience for new jail staff

Bagley - The Clearwater County Jail was like Grand Central Station recently as suspects were brought in, booked and locked in cells.

While some surrendered voluntarily, others were picked up by sheriff's deputies and brought in handcuffed. The suspects were, however, released after only a few hours.

The suspects were actually volunteers from all walks of life who played an important role in a "dress rehearsal" for jail staff. The dry run was required to give jail staff an opportunity to gain experience booking inmates into Clearwater county's new facility. Farmers Independent

Minor injury reported after train accident

Theodore Curfman of rural Thief River Falls sustained an injury only to his left leg after his truck collided with two CP Rail train engines at the junction of State Aid three and the railroad crossing near Hazel.

His truck was considered a total loss, but Curfman and his horse, which was in a trailer being pulled by the truck, suffered relatively light injuries. According to the Pennington County Sheriff's department, Curfman was driving a truck east on State Aid 3 and did not see the red signal flashers at the intersection because of bright sunlight in his eyes. When he realized there was a train in front of him it was too late. Curfman's truck was a total loss. He was wearing his seat belt at the time. His truck was pulling a trailer with a horse in it. The horse had cuts to its face, but according to the sheriff's department, appeared to be okay.

There was some damage to the tanks of the two CP Rail train engines.

Semi and car collision reported near Trail

Marey Grover, 25, Bagley, was treated and released at Fosston hospital following a head-on collision with a semi pulling a tanker early Friday morning.

Minnesota State Patrol received a report of the accident at 3:02 a.m. It happened on Highway 92 five miles west of Trail. According to the accident report, Gover was driving a 1989 Pontiac Grand Am east on Highway 92 when the car crossed the centerline and collided head-on with a Semi trailer. The semi, driven by Stephen Christianson, 49, Bagley, was pulling a tanker trailer and traveling west on Highway 92. Grover was taken to Fosston hospital where she was treated and released. She was wearing her seat-belt at the time of the accident. Christianson complained of a sore knee. There was extensive damage to the vehicle driven by Grover, and minor damage to the semi.

The accident remains under investigation.

Sportsman club fall picnic Saturday at Grande Corner

Annual fall picnic of the Fourtown/Grygla Sportsman club will take place Saturday, September 19, at the Grand Corner three miles west of Fourtown.

Potluck meal will be served at 4 p.m. with meat and beverage provided by the club. All members and guests are welcome to participate.

Kittson Memorial Healthcare Center to begin construction

Ground breaking ceremony for a nearly $2 million hospital renovation and construction project in Hallock is planned for Monday, September 28, at 1 p.m. Public participation is invited.

Among participants at the ceremony will be Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls and Rep. Jim Tunheim of Kennedy. The project is being funded primarily by a $1.5 million Minnesota Rural Hospital Capital Improvement Grant and a $400,000 low interest direct loan from USDA Rural Development. It is expected to be completed by August of 1999.

The Hallock hospital was built in 1959 as a 36-bed facility. A 40-bed skilled nursing home was added in 1981 and an additional 55 beds were added to the home in 1981. The hospital has reduced its number of beds to 20 but has not been able to afford any substantial renovations or updates since its 1959 construction.

With the state grant and federal loan, the hospital will reduce its bed capacity, create handicapped accessible patient rooms and facility bathrooms and entrances, develop an unused hospital inpatient space into a new enlarged emergency room and laboratory, update the general decor and add a new outpatient service center. The medical facility is served by three practitioners.

Record judging for 4-H projects slated next week

Judging of records for 4-H club members in Pennington county will take place Tuesday and Wednesday, September 22 and 23, at the courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls. All records were due in the county extension office this past Wednesday, September 16.

Each club is responsible for finding adults to help with the county record judging, according to Van Swanson, county extension educator. No previous experience is necessary and the judging is "a very educational and helpful experience," Swanson said.

Judging sessions each day will be from 12:45 to 4 p.m. and 6:45 to 10 p.m. Six adults are needed from each 4-H club in the county.

The annual Pennington County 4-H awards banquet has been scheduled for Sunday, November 1, at the Eagles club rooms in Thief River Falls. A meal will be served from 12 noon to 1 p.m. with the awards presentation to immediately follow.

Grand opening of DFL headquarters will be October 1

Grand opening and open house fund raiser will take place Thursday, October 1, from 5 to 9 p.m. at DFL headquarters in the former Hall's Floral building on Third Street East in Thief River Falls, according to Rick Nelson, Pennington county DFL chair. More details will be announced later, Nelson said.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere – email: [illegible]

Fall is really on its way. We can tell by the snap in the air in the mornings and evenings, and the few little leaves that are winding their way to the ground. It's a good time for some soup, especially when we can use those fresh home-grown veggies to make it.

This is a delicate soup, great for a light lunch or appetizer:

BUTTERNUT SQUASH SOUP
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 medium onion, minced
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
4 cups chicken stock (bouillon is fine)
1 butternut squash, peeled and chopped
1 1/2 cups milk or half and half
Salt to taste
1 teaspoon cumin
Dash thyme
1 teaspoon curry powder
1/4 teaspoon hot sauce
1/4 teaspoon cilantro
Chopped green onion
Chopped parsley

Sauté garlic and onion until lightly wilted. Make roux of butter, flour and chicken stock in same pan with butter and garlic and onion.

Peel squash and chop and add to above.

Cumin, thyme, curry powder, hot sauce and cilantro may be added as desired for additional flavor.

Cook until squash is soft and then pass through food processor to puree. Add milk or half and half. Garnish with chopped green onion or parsley.

Here's a more hearty soup, one that would be great as a main dish meal - serve with a salad and fresh biscuits or bread:

CHICKEN CORN CHOWDER
2 chicken breast halves
2 cups water
1 cup celery, diced
1 bay leaf
2 cups milk
1/2 cup diced onions
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups potatoes, peeled and cut into 1/2 inch cubes
1 (14 ounce) can cream style corn
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
Chives
Parsley

Combine chicken, water, celery and bay leaf. Bring to boil and simmer, covered, until chicken is tender, about 25 minutes.

Remove chicken from broth, cool, dice and set aside. Strain broth and add milk and set aside.

Sauté onions and celery in butter until soft (3-4 minutes). Blend flour into pan and mix well with butter. Gradually add milk mixture and then add potatoes and simmer until potatoes are tender, 15-30 minutes. Stir in chicken, corn, salt and pepper. Heat through.

Garnish bowls with chives and/or parsley.

Here's a tasty cold soup that would be great as a luncheon dish, and really nutritious, too:

COLD DILLED BEET SOUP
1 medium onion, chopped
1 teaspoon olive oil
1/2 pound potatoes, diced
4 medium beets, cooked and chopped
5 cups water
1 teaspoon fresh dill weed, finely chopped
Grated rind of 1/2 lemon
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Fresh yogurt or sour cream

Sauté onion but do not brown. Add water, beets and potatoes and simmer until potatoes are cooked. Puree.

Add dill, lemon juice and rind and salt and pepper to taste. Chill well.

Garnish with whole dill sprigs and yogurt or sour cream.

Here's a really quick soup you can put together in minutes and cook in the microwave, and you can use other vegetables to make a different soup:

CREAMY BROCCOLI CARROT SOUP
2 cups fresh broccoli, finely chopped (or 12 ounce package of chopped frozen broccoli, partly thawed)
1/2 cup shredded carrots
1 small onion, chopped
1 1/2 cups water
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1 1/2 cups half and half or milk
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
3 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon tarragon

Combine broccoli, carrots, water and bouillon cubes in microwaveable casserole.

Microwave on high 8-9 minutes until broccoli is tender.

Blend milk, flour, salt and pepper until smooth and stir into vegetable mixture. Add butter.

Microwave 5-6 minutes until mixture boils and thickens, stirring twice. Stir in lemon juice and tarragon.

(Asparagus, cauliflower or zucchini may be used in place of broccoli.)

This soup sounds really good - and a hearty one too. Bet you won't be hungry a couple of hours after eating this one:

VERMONT MINESTRONE
1 medium onion, chopped
2 carrots, sliced
1 cup cabbage or kale, chopped
Garlic to taste
2 cups water
2 cups cooked Italian beans (with cooking liquid)
28 ounce can crushed tomatoes (or 4 or 5 of your own or your neighbor's, peeled and crushed)
3 bay leaves
1/2 teaspoon oregano
Salt to taste
1 cup pasta, cooked (or 1 1/2 cups cooked rice)
Parmesan, Romano or Fontina cheese, grated
Parsley

Simmer vegetables and water in covered pot for about 15 minutes, until vegetables are almost done. Add beans, tomatoes and seasonings and simmer 15 minutes more, stirring occasionally to get beans off bottom of pot.

Add pasta, stir well and serve with a topping of cheese and parsley.

USFWS determines Henslow's sparrow is not threatened

Henslow's sparrow, a small, prairie bird that nests in grasslands from Oklahoma and Kansas eastward into New York, does not need the protection of the Endangered Species Act, according to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Biodiversity Legal Foundation had petitioned for threatened status under the act, contending the species population was declining and the trend could be reversed only if protected under the act. The petition, however, offered no substantial new information indicating that listing may be warranted.

An exhaustive review of the species by USFWS in 1995 through 1997 found populations of the bird appear to be rebounding in some areas and that several areas in Indiana and Ohio now host large nesting populations unknown two years ago. Twenty states have breeding populations of the sparrow, including Minnesota.

Primary Election Sets Stage For November

Voter turn-out for the primary election on Tuesday was about what many had expected—a light vote on a state-wide basis but reasonable numbers turning out where there were local races to be decided. Our limited primary predictions turned out to be accurate in selecting winners but not entirely in anticipating numbers.

We predicted that in the Pennington county sheriff's race that Ray Kuznia would received the most votes with Michael Hruby second in a coin flip with Jim Hulteen. Kuznia did indeed get the most votes (1,408) but Hruby was a close second (1,218) and Hulteen trailed well behind with 308. These results set up an interesting contest between Kuznia and Hruby in the general election in November. As we noted in last Saturday's editorial, the good news is that the county can expect to be well-served regardless of the outcome.

Our other primary predictions involved the governor's races, where it was easy to pick the endorsed Coleman-Olson ticket over the Dahn-Kane pairing on the Republican ballot. With 96.4 percent of the state's 4,055 precincts reporting on Thursday, the endorsed candidates had 120,939 votes to 11,745 for the challengers.

On the DFL side of the ballot, we bet our quarter on Skip Humphrey-Roger Moe over Mike Freeman-Ruth Johnson, although the latter had the party's endorsement. Humphrey-Moe received 173,126 votes with 96.4 percent of the precincts reporting—28.1 percent of the state-wide total cast for all candidates in both parties.

Not only did Freeman-Johnson lose to Skip and Roger, they also appeared to be losing to Doug Johnson-Tom Foley. The vote totals with 96.4 percent of the precincts reporting showed Johnson-Foley with 88,181 votes and Freeman-Johnson with 88,039 votes. Johnson-Foley undoubtedly benefitted from a certain amount of Republican cross-over voting, although they certainly had enough total votes to indicate substantial support from the DFL community.

We can expect nearly two months of fairly full-scale political warfare between the Coleman and Humphrey camps prior to the general election November 3. Despite the assertions of both candidates that they want to keep the campaign positive, don't expect any "Mister Nice Guy" elements to control the tone of the campaign. This will be an attack-counter attack battle right down to the 11th hour and the opening guns have already been fired.

Other Primary Election observations:

Judging by the number of votes received by all candidates in many of the other state office races, it appears much of the voting public wasn't too well in tune with the political parties. As an example, endorsed Republican candidate for Secretary of State Mary Kiffmeyer defeated Don Koenig by only 13,500 votes while Jen Mattson, a DFL filer who is a recent college graduate with no experience and limited qualifications, was the second highest vote-getter for the office with 21.1 percent of the total state vote for that office.

Pennington county DFL voters showed no respect for the selection for governor made by the party delegates—Freeman-Johnson received only 124 votes in Pennington county. Humphrey-Moe received 905 votes and Doug Johnson-Tom Foley drew 613 votes. If almost half of the latter were cross-over votes, Johnson still bested Freeman by nearly three-to-one.

So, bring on the campaigns and get down to the business of electing office holders for the next terms. The winnowing has been done, the chaff is blown aside and only the kernels remain. A couple of months from now we will know which ones fill the bin.

September 26 Is National Hunting And Fishing Day

There are national days and weeks proclaimed and adopted for everything from apples to zucchini, most of which are intended solely for product promotion. National Hunting and Fishing Day on September 26 is promotional as well, but its emphasis is much more far-reaching than any single interest area. There are widely diverse traditions, ideals and practices involved with these outdoor pursuits.

Many families in Minnesota have highly treasured memories of fishing and hunting outings with parents, children, brothers, sisters and longtime friends whose mutual interest is in the pursuit of fish and game. In many cases it is the tradition and camaraderie rather than the filling of limits that makes the experiences enjoyable and worthy of repeating on future occasions.

Sen. Rod Grams sums up his views this way:

"....Through hunting and fishing, families find a common bond and a shared hobby. They come to learn that no matter the difficulties of life or the hectic pace of the week, there's still a place where our history is sustained and our traditions flourish. They discover the glory of our natural resources and further their understanding of the natural world.

"As I travel the state and talk with Minnesotans, one theme remains constant no matter party affiliation or geographical location: they hold close their time away from work and their time with their families. Minnesotans cherish their trips to the lake and their walks in the woods and they tell me they'll do so as long as they live. Few activities in which we participate can last a lifetime and span generations as hunting and fishing do. And that's exactly why we should celebrate this day and all it represents, and ensure that the rights of Minnesotans to hunt and fish are forever protected."

Sen. Grams refers to his own Sportsmen's Bill of Rights Act that he is co-sponsoring in the U.S. Senate and the statewide amendment to the Minnesota Constitution which will be on the ballot in the November 3 general election. In regard to Sen. Bob Lessard's state amendment bill, Sen. Grams says: "Senator Lessard's amendment deserves the support of all Minnesotans and should pass overwhelmingly because it goes to the core of what our state represents."

Taxpayers can resolve own IRS tax debt

The IRS is willing to help taxpayers out of their debt through IRS "fresh start" programs. Until now, taxpayers with past due federal tax debt were at the mercy of the IRS, as well as high-priced attorneys, CPAs and tax advisors. A revolutionary new workbook, written by tax professionals, has been developed that will guide taxpayers, step by step, along the path to freedom from federal tax debt.

"Taxing Solutions" is a book that is easy to use and understand. It cuts through all of the confusing lingo and paperwork associated with obtaining IRS tax relief, such as stopping a levy, garnishment or seizure, submitting an offer in compromise, setting up an affordable payment plan and removing penalties. This book not only shows the taxpayer how to file for relief, but, most importantly, how to get their petition accepted.

Most taxpayers don't understand or know the "ins and outs" of how to obtain relief and can't afford the fees of an attorney or tax advisor and, therefore, continue undergoing significant financial hardship. Financial hardship, that, in most cases, can be removed with a little persistence and by filing the appropriate forms. "Taxing Solutions" is simple and direct in its description of every type of relief available and how to achieve that relief without spending hundreds or thousands of dollars on professional tax services.

For more information or to order this "must have" informational workbook taxpayers can write to CTR, Inc. "Taxing Solutions" at 203 Bellevue Way N.E. Suite 187 Bellevue, WA 98004-5721 or call toll free 1-800-260-1080 ext. 11. The cost of the workbook is $34.95 plus $4.95 shipping and handling, a total of $39.90.

Dr. Randall Bolar presents session for women Oct. 13

had learned. Convinced that this type of playground would offer much more for a lot less money, the others were enthusiastic about the concept of a community-built playground, but Jeff Nornes would chair the project.

There are two companies in the United States who work with schools on projects of this type. The Win-E-Mac group contacted Learning Structures, Inc. (LSI) of New Hampshire.

A representative of LSI visited the school. The children were asked to draw pictures of what they wanted their playground to look like. "There were a lot of pictures!" Jeff says. A lyceum was held for kindergarten through sixth grade students. A slide presentation was made, and the company representative talked to the students about their ideas.

That evening a special meeting was held for parents, teachers and other interested adults, giving the LSI rep an idea of what the adults wanted for their children and explaining what the project would entail.

With information gathered from students and parents, the company rep returned to New Hampshire where a special playground was designed specifically for Win-E-Mac.

The committee began fund-raising. Cookbooks were sold. The Alumni Association contributed to the project, and numerous private donations from within and outside the school district were received, some quite large.

When the committee received and looked over the design from LSI, it was time to make a decision. Excited about what they saw, the group decided to go with the project and selected September 12 as the construction date.

The playground plan included 33 separate structures, and team captains were recruited for each structure. Each team captain needed four volunteers, 14 years old or older. The volunteers were rated, four being a master carpenter and one being "someone who's fun to be with."

In the weeks that preceded September 12, committee updates were given and pleas were made for volunteers, equipment and tools through local press releases. Materials were purchased locally.

On Wednesday, September 9, two representatives from LSI arrived in Erskine. The materials were delivered, and workers began some of the preliminary work — drilling holes, etc.

On Thursday a meeting was held for team captains. Safety procedures and expectations were explained, and the actual blueprints were distributed. Between Thursday and Friday everything was set up so that things would be ready to roll on Saturday morning.

Jeff's wife, Chris, was the volunteer coordinator, and though starting time was set for between 7:30 and 8 a.m., people were already lined up to help when she arrived at the school at 7 a.m. "It sure gave you a good feeling," Jeff says.

Those good feelings continued throughout the day as around 200 people from the Winger, Erskine and McIntosh communities worked together to build the playground.

Local contractors and carpenters came as did those with payloaders, backhoes and other heavy equipment. "Those guys just showed up," Jeff says.

Others provided food for the hungry workers and day care for those with small children.

Mel Stone and a camera crew from KVLY-TV spent about three hours at the site.

Jeff and the reps from LSI spent the day overseeing the project. "It was amazing — the community spirit and comradeship taking place all around us," Jeff says. By 5:30 p.m. on September 12 the project was complete.

Learning Structures, Inc. is paid for the plan, the materials list and the instructions. Total cost of the project was estimated to be $35,000. "We came in under budget with a lot of lumber left over," Jeff says.

To go along with their beautiful new state-of-the-art school, the students of Win-E-Mac have a wonderful playground, and anyone who visits it who isn't a kid will wish he was.

In addition to the regular swings, there is a 10 tire Bouncer, Space Trolley, Wibbly Walk, Musical Chimes, Pixel Board, Monster Truck, Tic-Tac-Toe game, Tarzan Vines and a number of other fun activities. Two stairways lead to the platform of the "Patriot Theater," surrounded by benches. Fort Win-E-Mac features two slides, a fire pole, Tire Tunnels, a Talk Tube and more.

In addition to encouraging the development of gross motor skills, socialization is promoted through the benches and tables that are found throughout the area.

The playground was designed with the fact that Win-E-Mac is a K-12 facility, and Jeff was pleased that the senior class chose to pose for its class picture in the Patriot Theater this week.

When it came to naming those who had contributed to the project, Jeff couldn't begin to name names for fear that he would leave someone out. He's so thankful, appreciative and proud of the community, and surely, the community is grateful for his leadership.

Win-E-Mac School is located on Highway 59 near the intersection of Hwy 59 and U.S. Hwy 2. Jeff pointed out that the playground is a public facility and those driving by are welcome to stop. He also said that he would be happy to speak with others interested in a community-built playground.

Sturdily constructed by the hands of people who truly care, the playground at Win-E-Mac School will provide entertainment for children of all ages for years to come. And it's a wonderful example of what a community can accomplish in a single day.

LHS to hold homecoming festivities

Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls will celebrate Homecoming this week with a number of activities. Among homecoming events, a significant change this year is the time of the coronation. Coronation for this year's king and queen will be held at 8:35 a.m. Tuesday, September 22 in the school auditorium.

Queen candidates this year include: Lesley Ihle, daughter of Paul and Carol Ihle, Andrea Olson, daughter of Ross and Glenda Olson, and Jill Panek, daughter of Steve and Kathy Panek. King candidates include Darin Bjerknes, son of Ron and Pat Bjerknes, Eric Bjornstad, son of Brenda Bjornstad, and Wade Haviland, son of James and Alecia Haviland.

The 1998 Homecoming attendants include freshmen attendants Heather Hanson, daughter of Gerald and Karin Hanson, Abbie Houske, daughter of John and Tammy Houske, Matt Dimich, son of Dr. Tom and Judy Dimich, and Philip Hermanson, son of Kurt and Lenay Hermanson; Sophomore representatives Rebekah Bray, daughter of Dr. Bryce and Ruth Bray, Kelsey Liden, daughter of Randy and Crystal Liden, Luke Erickson, son of Kathryn Erickson, and Ben Myers, son of Jerry and Toby Myers; and Junior class representatives Abby Austad, daughter of Kim Fanfulik and Ron Austad, Rachel Mathson, daughter of Bruce and Shelly Mathson, Brad Bulger, son of Greg and Diane Bulger, and Tim Hruby, son of Richard and Joan Hruby.

The Homecoming Pep Fest will be held at 2:45 p.m. on Friday, September 25, in the old gym.

The Prowlers will face the Virginia football team in the homecoming football game, which begins at 6 p.m. on Friday. Following the Homecoming Football game, the Homecoming Dance will be held in the new gym from 9 to 12 on Friday, September 25. This year will feature Music in Motion. Tickets are $5 per person. Doors will close at 10:30 p.m.

Special activities have been chosen to take place each day of the week. Monday will be Dress Up day. Tuesday will be Pajama Day. Wednesday will be Camouflage Day. Thursday will be Twin Day (students will be expected to come dressed exactly like someone else). Friday is Spirit Day.

The Error Of Our Fall Ways

We're into fall, and whether you're fishing the north end or south end of Lake of the woods, you'll be jigging pretty soon. Water is cooling down and fish are moving more slowly, not chasing a bait like they did a month ago. Your presentation becomes a painstakingly vertical one as you explore the edges of current for lethargically inactive fish. You're probably thinking about something like Fireline.

Don't.

Fireline is but one of a number of recently-developed fusion lines that provide a non-stretching, small-diameter, ultra-sensitive approach to this fall style of fishing. The advantages on paper are pretty apparent. The non-stretchability makes for a quicker, stronger hook set in the deeper holes you'll soon be fishing. The thinness cuts the water better, allowing for use with lighter jigs that a soft-biting walleye will hang onto longer. And the sensitivity is a tremendous advantage in the fall when a bite in 30 feet of water registers little more than a fly-flick of pressure. The logic is certainly there.

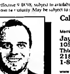
My advice? If you've got some of this stuff on your reel, strip it off before it's too late. You want to catch fish this fall, don't you?

First, you have to understand that the guys who are promoting (and hopefully using) these newer lines are really good fishermen. Whether through God-given talent or incessant practice, they've arrived at a level of expertise that you and I will only think about. As much as I might bad-mouth tournament walleye fishermen in public, I privately acknowledge, having actually seen them in action, that they are better at catching fish than I am. The Fireline that is so effective in experienced hands, however, is actually a liability to those of us with more median abilities.

When a walleye bites, it is not necessarily time to set the hook. Go fish northerns or muskies if you want to play that unrefined game. With walleyes, every tap on the terminal end of your line demands a judgment call. Is it time to set the hook or are a few more patient tenths of a second required before critical mass is established? It's this fine line that separates the sheep from the goats in the walleye world.

Error is a necessary part of the jigging process. Even if you're adept enough to recognize bites on the drop of the jig (and I've encountered a few who truly are), you still have to gingerly tighten line and feel for the proper moment. Too much pressure will pull the jig away from an interested party, while a suddenly slackened line will clunk a quarter ounce of betraying lead into the mouth of a suspicious fish. And this sensitive moment must transpire in the middle of bouncing two-foot waves, while pouring your fishing buddy a cup of coffee, under the nagging distraction of a full bladder.

Good luck.



The error is overcome through soft hands, a softer pose tip and, most importantly, good ol' line stretch. As you confidently lift your jig for the 439th time of the morning, you feel resistance. Not all that stands between you and another 500 or so unproductive wrist twitches are those hands (lots and lots of practice), that soft tip (floppy is not soft; we can denigrate Ugly-Stix at a later date) and the 30% stretch of wet monofilament (that means you've got about six feet to play with when you're in 20 feet of water).

I've watched as even very good fishermen have struggled with Fireline to the point of angry frustration. Yes, undoubtedly you can feel every little tic down there. But, as a buddy of mine pointed out, the fish can feel everything up here, too. If the boat rocks six inches, so does your jig. Like we said earlier, those fish are not in a chasing mood. One chance in October is generally all you get.

And the hook-set, too, becomes a random adventure. Sure, in a perfect world, where the sharp point of every jig centers itself neatly through the hard upper palate of every walleye's mouth, you might find use for a non-stretch line. But how about the usual patterns, where the hook is delicately imbedded in soft tissue or fragile mandible interlacings? A rugged, overly muscular yank (or an over-tightened drag) with your inflexible line leaves you fishless each time.

I've witnessed many gut-wrenching confrontations as stubborn fishermen, even stubborn guides (yes, stubborn guides actually exist), struggled with the non-stretch stuff, unwilling to admit that they had just spent fifteen too many dollars on equipment that will have to wait for use when the ice comes or the trolling and casting times of spring roll around again. I can count myself among their numbers.

Understand the error needed in your jig-fishing and don't make one. Stick to the monofilament this fall when you're jigging. Newer doesn't always mean better.

24th annual Miss Middle River Pageant Sept. 26

Miss Middle River 1998 will be selected from nine candidates at the 24th annual scholarship pageant to be presented Saturday, September 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium in Middle River.

The winner will succeed Kara Jean Super in that position and reign over the 1998 Middle River Goose Festival as well as represent the community in the 1999 Miss Marshall County Pageant. Winner of the county competition will compete in the Miss Minnesota contest.

Candidates, their ages, parents' names and talent area in which they will compete include (in order of appearance in the pageant) Melissa Smith, 18, daughter of Miles and Lyla Smith, piano solo; Stacie Chaplinski, 16, daughter of Wally and Glenda Chaplinski, humorous dialogue; Trudy Klegstad, 16, daughter of Dean and Bev Klegstad, original vocal solo; and Nikki Holmestad, 16, daughter of Diane Peterson and Tim Holmestad, flute solo.

Also Katherine Beito, 17, daughter of Jack and Karen Beito, vocal solo; Larissa Holm, 16, daughter of Steve and Bobbi Holm, clarinet solo; Alison Holmes, 16, daughter of Steve and Gail Holmes, piano solo; Leslie Fast, 18, daughter of Laurie and Mark Stromsodt, vocal solo; and Tara Severts, 16, daughter of Darell and Karen Severts, dance.

Theme for the pageant this year is "All The World's a Stage" and the opening number will be The Battle Hymn of the Republic, a piano solo by Kara Super, 1997 Miss Middle River. Kara also choreographed the opening show number which will be performed by the candidates to the Phantom of the Opera Overture.

Emcee will be Mark Allen Stromsodt and entertainment will be presented by Deland Elseth, Jed Geer and T. J. Super and the cast of the community theatre production Nunsense II. Contestants will compete in swimsuit, talent, evening gown/on-stage personality and personal interview divisions. Division winners will be announced immediately following the coronation.

In addition to her sponsorship in the Miss Marshall County Pageant, the new Miss Middle River will receive crown, plaque and $250 scholarship from the sponsoring Middle River Community Club, $250 toward expenses of her reign from the Middle River Jaycees and a $150 scholarship from American Legion Post 444. First runner-up will receive a plaque and $150 scholarship from the Community Club and $50 scholarship from the American Legion and second runner-up will receive a plaque and $75 scholarship from the Community Club.

All of the above winners—plus division winners and Miss Congeniality—will receive a number of merchandise or service prizes and all contestants will receive several merchandise certificates.

Members of the pageant committee are Nanette Huset, Paula Peterson, Heather Anderson, Janu Klegstad, Lois Anderson and KayDell Super. Ticket sellers are Izzy Hanson, Sue Lieberg and JoAnn Anderson and the judges' dinner will be prepared and served by Donna Nelson and Arlette Pearson.

A brief summary of each of the candidates follows.

Melissa Smith has been active in band, jazz band, choir, student council, Target team, Spanish club, Future Leaders of America, Future Farmers of America and National Honor Society at Greenbush/Middle River high school. She was junior class president last year and plays volleyball and basketball.

She works at SuperValu in Thief River Falls, enjoys her extra curricular activities at school and playing the piano. She intends to attend Moorhead State University and later teach history and geography as well as coach.

Stacie Chaplinski has been a varsity football and basketball cheerleader for three years, chapter officer in FLA where she competed on the regional and state levels, member of the newspaper and yearbook staff, Spanish club, band and choir.

A member of the Waterway 4-H club for 10 years, she has been a club officer four years and won seven trips to the state fair. She is in her church youth group, enjoys water sports, loves animals and likes drawing and gardening. Her plans are to attend college in California in the field of architecture and computer-aided drafting.

Trudy Klegstad is an honor roll student who participates in cross country, basketball, track, speech, one-act play, school play and musical and plays in the band and pep band. She has volunteered at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge and been a state parks worker as well as participating in her church youth group.

Trudy's hobbies and interests include reading, camping, painting, cross country skiing, listening to music, playing instruments, biking, backpacking and writing journals. She would like to travel to Australia after high school, attend a four-year university for an environmental science degree, work more with the Minnesota Conservation Corps and possibly join the Peace Corps or National Guard.

Nicole Holmestad participates in band and pep band and has been a varsity cheerleader for boys basketball. She is a member of her church youth group and enjoys playing the flute, listening to music, babysitting and in-line skating.

Following graduation she plans to enroll at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls to obtain a degree in nursing.

Katherine Beito has been active in FLA and FFA, speech, the school newspaper and yearbook, Students With A Motivational Purpose (SWAMP) club and works at the Greenbush Tribune. A Girl's State participant, she is involved in several church activities, community theater and helped with the St. Jude's Bike-A-Thon.

She enjoys babysitting, reading, bike riding and collecting mythical creatures such as unicorns. After two years at NCTC in Thief River Falls, she would like to complete a four-year degree in English and write children's books or work in advertising.

Larissa Holm participates in volleyball, basketball, band, choir and Future Leaders of America at Greenbush/Middle River high school. She is a member of Girl Scouts, her church youth group and community theater.

Larissa's hobbies and pastimes include volleyball, basketball, in-line skating, traveling, shopping and being with friends. She would like to major in business at a four-year college or university.

Alison Holmes participates in track, cross country, basketball, band and pep hand in high school and is involved in her church youth group, Girl Scouts and community theater.

Her hobbies include reading, swimming, writing, running, traveling and being with friends. After her high school graduation she would like to attend a four-year college and may enlist in the U.S. Air Force.

Leslie Fast has soloed in high school vocal competitions for four years, sung in choir and pops choir, been on the school newspaper and yearbook staffs and participated in drama and art. For the past 10 years she has been involved in various areas of the Middle River summer theatre and was student director for Alice in Wonderland. She studied Tae Kwon Do karate, ballet, tap and jazz dance for a year and was in Girl Scouts five years.

Her hobbies and pastimes involve singing, playing the piano, working with computers, in-line skating, dancing, writing and reading. She intends to major in music and minor in psychology and social work at the University of North Dakota.
